PEASANTS ARE SUPPRESSED BY ROYAL ARMIES

The Whole of Bulgaria is Calm Today, With All Communications Re-established.

PEACEFUL POLICY

(By Professor H. Zankof, Acting Premier and Foreign Minister of Bulgaria.)

SOFIA, June 14.—3.20 p.m. (Special by wireless.)— Our army has easily suppressed the feeble, isolated resistance of Premier Stamboulisky's partisans.

The country everywhere is clam. Communications by railway, telegraph and telephone everywhere has been re-established. The army is now bein gused only to maintain order and prevent outbreaks by Stamboulisky's followers. Theer is no connection between the so-called Macedonian movement and that which resulted in the fall of Stamboulisky.

The change of government was the result of discontent and oppression. The new government's foreign policy is peaceful. We will maintain the best of relations with neighboring countries and especially with the great Powers.

Fulfill Obligations.

Bulgaria will continue to fulfill her international obligations, particularly the Treaty of Neuilly, and will avoid disturbing the peace of the Balkans.

In view of conflicting reports regarding conditions in Bulgaria, the United Press wirelessed Prof. Zankof, head of the new revolutionary government, asking for a statement regarding the exact state of affairs.

LONDON, June 15 (Canadian Press). — A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph asserts that former Premier Stambouisky tried to force King Boris to abdicate in his favour so that he could become the King of Bulgaria himself.

Quoting Bulgarian newspaper accounts of the alleged plot of the ex-Premier to dethrone King Boris, the correspondent says Stambouisky planned to be crowned in Alexandernevski Cathedral in Sofia, as King Alexander II. of Slavovitzka, on 12th September of this year.

Strike of Miners Was Called Off At Noon Today

SYDNEY, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—All strikers, existing and pending were declared "off" at noon to-day following a conference between Aelx. McNeill, superintendent of the British Empire Steel Corporation and the Executive of District 26. United Mine Workers.

One result of the conference was that an agreement was reached by which all those men whose dismissal had caused the trouble should be re-instated.

SEND PEOPLE TO RACE TRACK

That is What Reformers Are After, Commented Senator Fowler in Senate Committee.

OTTAWA, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Amendment to the criminal code to prohibit publication of racing information except at a race meeting was discussed at a Senate Committee on a bill to amend the criminal code this morning, but it was finally not disposed of as Senator Belcourt, president of the Connaught Park Jockey Club had asked to be heard.

Sir James Lougheed raised the point that it was unfair to prohibit Canadian papers from publishing such information, so long as American papers were permitted to bring it in. He stated that two hundred papers came in daily.

Senator Pardee who presided, said that publication of racing information was a serious evil in Ontario in connection with book making. He said he would prohibit the circulation of papers which supplied nothing but racing information, but would not in interfere with bona fide newspapers The effect of the bill would make those desirous of betting go to the race track.

LENIN NOW ALLOWED TO READ NEWSPAPERS

MOSCOW, June 15. — (United Press.)—Premier Lenin, recovering slightly from his illness, is now permitted to read newspapers. His condition is still dangerous, however.

DOCTORS HEAR NEW CASES AT A CONFERENCE

The Unusual is Being Brought to the Surface for the Benefit of Science.

YEAST EATERS

MONTREAL, June 15.—A group of medical men, representing various sections of the country and displaying all the reserve and dignity traditional with their profession, stood quietly around a huge apparatus, twice the height of an average man, composed of coils, tubes and bulbs, and joined on one side by a narrow pipe with a small safe. The lights were turned off and all that was visible in the room was a faint blueish substance which filled several long glass tubes that ran along the centre of the apparatus. The gas-like substance became more and more pronounced and moved slowly under the compression into a tiny test-tube. Here it was corked and put aside. When the lights were turned on again, the test-tube might have been filled with air from its appearance. The doctor in charge explained that the same amount might be condensed into much less than the space occupied by a toothpick. The group of men chatted glibly as they examined the tube, asked and answered each other's questions and laughed when one of the crowd asked a question no one could answer.

The gas-like substance was radium, the greatest discovery of the past quarter century, in the emanation form. The demonstration of the emanation apparatus and the methods of standardization, as well as clinical illustrations on available cases was the morning's programme arranged for the Canadian Radiological Society, in its fourth annual meeting, being held in conjunction with the fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association. In the safe at the side of the apparatus, the actual radium is kept, valued at more than a thousand dollars and used each day by the Radium Institute of the University of Montreal in the process of emanation. This gas lasts for thirty days, each day losing a small portion about 16 and 2-3 of its strength. The process is continued each day and at the end of a century the original supply of radium has decreased less than four per cent.

Dr. Leo Pariseau delivered the opening address of the morning session of the Radiological Society on "Theory and Physical Experiments." The demonstration of radium emanation followed under the direction of Dr. Gendreau. Among the out-of-town specialists in the study of the uses of radium at the meeting are: Dr. A. E. Walkey of Hamilton, Dr. W. H. Dixon of Toronto, Dr. Byron Darling of New York and Dr. L. K. Ponytz of Victoria. Both scientific and commercial exhibits both of radiological and X-ray interest are being shown at the Mount Royal Hotel.

Ordinary diseases like diphtheria and small-pox were out of luck at the pathological conference at the General Hospital, which was perhaps the outstanding feature of the morning clinics of the Canadian Medical Association. Only rare and unusual ailments like tumors of the brain or unique attacks of sleeping sickness were discussed. In order to make the conference even more effective, sections of the human body which had been removed after the death of the patient were shown and particular symptoms of certain diseases were pointed out. In some instances, when a really original individual had succeeded in passing away from some baffling disease which none of the doctors in his town ever saw or heard of, the con-

Two Cars Liquor Not Broken Open In Freight Wreck

ST. CATHARINES, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)—A broken wheel flange is believed to have been the cause of a freight train wreck within a few hundred feet of St. Catharines station on the Canadian National Railway, early this morning, in which seven laoded freight cars were piled up and several hundred yards of rails and roadbed torn up.

Two of the cars were loaded with liquor, but these were not broken open.

The wreck occurred when one half of a heavy through freight train, bound for the American border, failed to take a switch.

DISASTER AND LOSS OF LIFE

Flood, Fire and Destructive Storms in Many Parts of World Follow Late Spring.

The weather man is really the most important of the invisible influences that have lasting effects in the conduct of human affairs. Just let this gentleman start acting in a temperamental manner, and look at all the trouble that ensues. For instance a late spring. We had a late spring this year and from near and far come reports of its consequences. Rivers in flood, breaking their boundaries and inundating cities and towns, destroying property and life. Tornadoes and cloudbursts, with appalling results. Forest fires and their consequences. Starving Newfoundlanders isolated in barren communities without food supplies, locked in by ice fields that reach out and trap the supply ships with frozen, steely fingers. Ships running foul of ice floes and treacherous currents. Electrical storms of intense violence. Backward crops, and water-covered fields. A lingering chilly atmosphere that helps the 'flu along, with a corresponding increase in the death rate and the numbers of still-born infants; that keep the mosquitoes just long enough in cold storage to give them a more venomous, hungry bite than usual; that lets people wear their winter clothes right on past the spring season, with a consequent satisfied feeling to said wearers' pockets and a gloomy outlook to the haberdashers and general merchants who have stocked up with unsolicited spring wear. In short, a late spring that gives just the tardy and backward atmosphere to the year that a late uprising gives to a day.

From near at hand, comes a wail that has its beginning is the late spring. From Otonabee and the two Monaghans come sighs of woe as farmers contemplate their inundated fields They say that just as soon as they are getting ready to seed some of their river-bounded land, up goes the Otonabee, and soil for miles along the river bank has the appearance of the paddy fields that the Jap farmer cultivates with an under-water plow. They also say that the rairing and lowering of the levels is done in a manner uncalculated to advance the best interests of the farming community whose property adjoins the river.

And the fish have a word to say on the subject or at least it is said for them. Just at the spawning season, the water is suddenly depressed and the fish spawn finds a barren anchorage on dry land. "What's the of employing fish and game inspectors when the fish don't get any protection right at the start?" remarks an irate North Monaghan farmer.

MRS. BULA CROCKER GOT A FAVORABLE VERDICT

DUBLIN, June 15. Canadian Press. —A verdict in favor of Mrs. Bula Croker was handed down by the Jury in the contest over the will of the late Richard Croker, this afternoon.

She and a daughter of the one-time Tammany Hall leader, in contesting the will, which favored Mrs. Croker, contended that she was a married woman when she became the wife of their father.

STAMBOULISKY SLAIN WHILE UNDER ESCORT

Former Premier of Bulgaria Shot During Fusillade After Armed Peasants Attacked Car.

TRIED TO LYNCH HIM

SOFIA, June 15, (Special.) — A Bulgarian semi-official agency here this afternoon announced the death of former Premier Stambouisky and added that he was killed during a fusillade after a party of armed peasants had attacked the car in which he was passing through the village of Slavovitza.

The statement says that Stambouisky was captured at seven o'clock on Thursday morning, at the village of Golfk, by a party of troops.

Stamboulisky addressed the commander of the troops, saying he desired to surrender.

He was taken in a motor car to Tatar Bazardjik, where the crowd hooted him and tried to lynch him.

In order to avoid trouble the ex-premier was again moved, and while passing through Slavovitza a party of peasants attacked his car.

Orders were then given for his arrest and transfer to Sofia under a strong escort. In the course of pursuit a fusillade occurred and Stamboulisky was killed.

"The government deeply regrets what has happened and has given orders for searching inquiry into the incident," concludes the statement.

UNITY IN IRELAND IS THE WATCHWORD

NEW YORK, June 15—(Canadian Press.)—Irish Americans, Free States and Republican sympathizers and both Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths, organized last night American Fraternity of Sons of Erin and pledged themselves to do all they could to wipe out factionalism in this country.

"Unity for Ireland, whatever she may decide upon and mind our own business," was keynote of meeting, sounded by Judge Cornelius F. Collins. "We cannot attempt to unite Ireland and Irish sympathizers by anathema, or abuse for those who have taken sides," he said. The hour has arrived to get together and unite men and women of our blood, irrespective of party and religion, to take advantage of grand opportunity offered to Ireland."

THE WEATHER.

Although this is the middle of June there was a close approach to frost last night and this morning. The thermometer reached 38 deg. as the low point. In the early days, June frosts were a too common occurrence in this section, and occasionally they were so severe as to practically destroy the early settlers' hopes of a harvest. Since the country became more cultivated this fear of late frost has vanished to a large extent. But the possibility is still present. The observer at Apsley, who has standard instruments, reports a temperature of 29 degrees last night, and thin ice formed. Corn, beans and other plants suffered.—W. P.

KIWANIS CLUB LOST ANOTHER MEMBER TODAY

TODAY'S ADDRESS

"A good Kiwanian and a real citizen" was President J. A. McKone's tribute to Kiwanian J. W. Worth at to-day's meeting of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club. Kiwanian Worth is leaving the city for California, and the foregoing eulogy followed the presentation of a club bag to Mr. Worth. Kiwanian J. I. Allen made the presentation, and among other things said that Mr. Worth was a charter member of the Club and had only missed one meeting since its inception here. Mr. Worth made a suitable reply, and assured the members that he would try and do as much for Kiwanis in his new home as he had endeavored to do here.

To-day's speaker was Rev. W. C. Rose, D.D., pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, and the subject of his remarks was the Maritime Provinces, politically, industrially and educationally. This quarter of the globe has contributed three Premiers to Canada, namely, Sir John Thompson, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Robert Borden, and also one to Great Britain in the person of Bonar Law. The Maritime Provinces are still discussing maritime union with other parts of Canada. One of the greatest drawbacks to this part of the country is the excessive freight rates and the long haul to the Ontario and other markets. This has brought about a critical condition, followed by a gradual depopulation of the towns and country of the three provinces. Cheaper rates for transportation and chean power is the remedy for this condition.

Speaking of the fishing industry of Canada, which in 1920 represented a value of forty-nine million dollars, the speaker said that in the same year Nova Scotia produced over thirteen million dollars of this amount. The mining industry of the province is equally good and productive. Everything that is required is there with the exception of power and transportation. The Maritime Provinces are also noted for the educational facilities and the number of successful scholars that have been turned out by the colleges. A proposal to consolidate the six colleges of the province at Halifax and participate in a three million dollar fund provided by the Carnegie Foundation, has been turned down by three of the colleges. Two of the colleges to enter the union will be the Presbyterian and Methodist colleges which the speaker characterized as a logical thing to do in view of the union of churches consummated at Port Arthur recently.

Walter Byers appeared at to-day's luncheon in the role of a new member and was formally introduced by Kiwanian J. W. Worth. The visitors included Kiwanian Mason, of Lindsay, and Mr. Victor Cote, of Quebec. A parody on Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen, which worked in a number of Kiwanians, was given by Kiwanians Verne Morphet and Alec Dick. It was a clever piece of work.

TWO SMALL VILLAGES DESTROYED BY FIRE

TORONTO, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—The Toronto Star to-day has a special despatch from Quebec that two small villages were destroyed and some lives probably lost in a forest fires in Temicouta County. The Quebec Government is enforcing its decree that no sportsmen or campers may enter the woods until the fires now raging have been extinguished.

A Killing Frost In North Country, Some Crops Ruined

APSLEY, June 15. (Special.)—A killing frost occurred last night. The lowest temperature registered was 29 degrees, with ice of an appreciable thickness.

Corn and beans suffered.

Settlers' say this morning they will have to sow their corn again. Some were fortunate in having sown only this week, but the earlier sowings, with corn four inches high, are ruined.

DRAGOONS ARE IN CAMP HERE

Two Squadron's 3rd Prince of Wales Regiment Under Canvas at Exhibition Grounds.

Camp has opened with auspiciously fine weather for the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, who went under canvas at the Exhibition Grounds yesterday. The tents have been pitched on the ground vacated by the circus in the east end, and training in horsemanship was proceeding behind the Manufacturers' Building this morning. Major T. D. Johnston is in command with a staff of officers and N.C.O.'s who are almost all overseas service men.

The usual military camp routine is being carried out, as follows: Reveille, 6 a.m.; stables, 6.15; breakfast, 7.30; squadron parade, 8.30; regimental parade, 8.45; training, 9 to 11; stables, 11.15; dinner, 12.30 p.m.; training, 1.45 to 4; stables, 4.15, and supper, 5.15.

Training today consisted of saddling, bridling and equitation in the forenoon and musketry in the afternoon.

This will be varied from day to day, Saturday being given up to firing on the ranges. A concert is being arranged for next week, and recreation will form a big part of the camp curriculum.

Two Squadrons Here.

Only two squadrons are in camp here this year—"B" squadron from Pontypool and "C" squadron from headquarters staff from Peterborough. "A" squadron from Bowmanville will not join the camp.

The following are on the headquarters staff; Major T. D Johnston, O.C.; Major W. T. Rogers, veterinary officer; Capt. F. Hills, Capt. E. H. Wood, medical officer; Capt. James Abraham, quartermaster; Lieut. M. Sloan, paymaster; Q.M.S. T. M. Williamson, Sergt. Saddler A. Rose, Orderly Room Sergt. P G. Stinson, Sergt. Cook D. Gunn, Medical Sergt H. G. Pretty, F. Green, Sergt. paymaster; W. A. Layfield, Sergt. trumpeter; Corporal S. Perrington, storeman. Other ranks attached to headquarters staff are: John Beebee A. Finney, J. Gibbons, W. Mahulume and R. Sedgewick.

WILL APPEAL TO COUNTY COUNCIL FOR ASSISTANCE

Exhibition Board Making Extensions for Accomodation They Find Necessary—Funds Required

CHILDREN'S DAY

Children's Day at Peterborough's Exhibition this year will extend to the children of the city and rural schools the same privileges as last year, the directors decided last night. It is likely that admission tickets will be distributed through the schools so that none of the children will be overlooked.

Some of the directors felt that the children would prefer one of the other days to Wednesday. They contended that Thursday or Friday should be set apart for the young folks, and it was suggested afterwards that the choice might be left to the children themselves by taking a vote on the question. If they would rather have Wednesday they not only get into the grounds free, but also into the grand stand, and the programme is designed specially for them after the manner in which Mr Webber Turner arranged it last year. All the grand stand attractions will be just the same as on the other afternoons, and the only missing feature is the prize-winning exhibits. The work of the judges has not been completed on the first day.

If the children would rather have Thursday, they may enter the grounds free, but not the grand stand, and the same freedom of the entire premises cannot be assured to them.

At present the Board's decision is for Wednesday afternoon, but it is possible that a vote of the children may be taken.

A deputation will wait on the County Council next Wednesday afternoon to solicit a grant at least equal to that which the city contributed to the Exhibition.

It will be emphasised that the Peterborough Fair is also the County Fair, and further that the grant is specially required for extending the accommodation for cattle. Both the city and country directors who have assumed the liability incurred in enlarging and improving the Exhibition plant feel that this work and obligaton a for the benefit of the general public throughout ths dstrct, and certainly not etaon shrdlu cmfwy tion plant feel that this work and obligation is for the benefit of the general public throughout this district, and certainly not in any way for their own personal advantage. For that reason they contend that both the City and County Councils should assist the Board during the stage of development.

TWO AMERICAN TOWNS TIRE OF WOMEN'S REIGN

Woman Has Dropped the Sceptre of Municipal Reign and Returned to Her Pots and Pans — Mere Man in Demand.

JEWETT, Tex., June 15.—Mere man has come into his own again.

Woman has dropped the sceptre of municipal reign and returned to her pots and pans.

Feminine rule in Jewett and her sister town, Thayer, Kas., is over.

Husbands wouldn't tend to the homes, so the wives rebelled at looking after the official business.

For two years, the fair sex controlled the destinies of Jewett and Thayer. Its administrations were replete with civic improvements, beautifying programs, movie censorship and wars on bottleggers and tax dodgers.

The male citizenry unanimously agreed the "petticoat brigades" handled affairs far more efficiently than their predecessors had ever done. And the ladies admitted it.

But taking care of husbands, washing children's faces, tidying up the living rooms and keeping towns cared for, was way too much responsibility. So the women refused to run again when their terms expired.

They're through with politics, they proclaim to all the world. In fact, say they, the men put one over on them in the first place—by electing them.

Jewett boasts it was the first municipality in the country to try the experiment. Then Thayer copied.

Mrs. J. T. Adkisson was mayoress of Jewett. Her councilwomen were Mrs. R. H. Evans, Mrs. W. R. Dotson, Mrs Coakley Evans and Mrs. F. P. Harrison.

Over in Thayer, Mrs. Abby H. Forest, club woman, mother of three children and eight times a grandmother, held forth in the mayor's office. Her council consisted of Mrs. Eunice Rash, Miss Alice Lamberton, Mrs. Iva Cross and Mrs. Daisy Savage. Mrs. Hattie Brewster was police judge.

Collecting taxes was the biggest job in Thayer. Texas taxation laws are lenient. Tax evasions were numerous, 'tis said. Lots of folks looked on paying.

A man was appointed town marshal. During the two years, he didn't have occasion to make a single arrest. The hoosegow had but one occupant.

That was a bootlegger who dared show his face in town. And, oh, wha the women did to him! He hasn't been seen in Jewett since he got out of jail.

"But we showed them how," the women declare. "Now let them go to it. We proved women could govern and govern well.

"A woman's place really is in the legerdemain of politics. The men shirked their civic responsibilities and shoved them off on us They didn't do a thing but vote.

CHINESE GIRL TO EDUCATE SISTERS.

CHICAGO, June 15.— Enthused by the progress of women in the occident, a young Chinese woman pioneer in her field, is planning to lead her sisters through a similar development in her home land.

The girl is Miss Eva C. Chang, pretty, petite and just 22, who has completed two years of study at Oberlin and the University of Missouri and is now engaged in newspaper work in Chicago. She is the first Chinese newspaperwoman in the world, she believes.

Her plan for the awakening of her sisters in the orient includes the introduction of American methods into Chinese journalism, emphasizing especially the part woman plays in newspaperdom. Not only does she expect to make a stir in China when she breaks into the field as the first newspaperwoman there, but she is preparing for fireworks when she publishes the first women' section to be seen in a Chinese newspaper.

First in Field

"We have no newspaperwomen in China," Miss Chang explains 'and no wonderful women's sections in our newspapers. It is my hope to acquire American methods in journalism and introduce them in China."

Thus for the first time will a Chinese newspaper devote space for the benefit for women only she, adds

Miss Chang, who was born in Shanghai, was awarded a Boxer indemnity scholarship by the Chinese government two years ago and came to this country with a group of honor students. Her brother, who is in the diplomatic service in Washington, and a cousin are her only relatives in America.

Hard to Leave

"It was hard work to persuade my mother to let me come here," said the little Chinese maid, "for I have only the one brother and our father is dead. But I coaxed and coaxed and finally she consented.

"I was lonely at school sometimes for I was the only Chinese student in the college, and I missed my own girl friends and my mother."

Miss Chang attended St. Mary's Episcopal school in Shanghai. There she studied English and French.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND LINGO

BUENOS AIRES, June 15— (By mail to United Press).—Election of an Arab who cannot speak a word of Spanish or any language except Arabic to the city council of Mendoza has served to call attention to an unusual influx of foreigners who have been crowding the steerages of trans-Atlantic liners at the rate of more than 15,000 a month to take advantage of the ease with which citizenship papers can be secured here.

Immigration has been particularly heavy recently from Central European countries, while the Germans have held third position, Italians coming first and Spaniards second. Large numbers of Russians, chiefly agitators also have been landing here during the last few months, and have shown an inclination to immediately mix in political affairs.

One of the difficulties of the Arab's position is the fact that no other city official is able to understand a word of Arabic, which did not however prevent new councilman from making what is said to have been a brilliant speech upon his induction into office.

REFUSED SUITOR SHOOTS FAMILY OF SWEETHEART

HONOLULU, June 15.—(Canadian Press)—Angered because mother of his fourteen year old sweetheart refused to permit her to marry him, Pomno Crosco Filipine, 35 years, yesterday shot, and killed girl and her mother seriously wounded the girl's father and her twelve-year old brother, then killed himself.

MEDICAL MEN URGED TO FIGHT LOW STANDARD

Hon. J. D. McLean, M.D., Advocated House-Cleaning to Get Rid of Men Who Are Not Up to Qualifications.

MANY CULTS.

MONTREAL, June 15. — Canadian Press. — Men not measuring up to the qualifications of a medical doctor, are presuming to practice medicine in the west and this usurpation of privileges is spreading to the East, to the general lowering of the standards of the profession. This was the statement of Hon. J. D. McLean, M. D., provincial secretary of British Columbia, with the portfolio of Education and Railways, when speaking before the Canadian Medical Association in session here yesterday.

Dr. McLean urges strenuous fighting to eliminate this scourge of the profession. The speaker was formerly engaged in the practice of medicine and is now following a political career.

"One difficulty we have in our province that you will have in the eastern provinces in times to come," he said, "are the many cults that practice medicine, enrolled under the banner of chiropractice. Judging by my observation there is one thing the medical profession must do —there must be to some extent a house-cleaning."

The same question was taken up by Dr. R. W. Rowell of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Medical Protective Association, who referred to actions taken by his association for malpractice, negligence or want of skill.

A resolution was passed unanimously calling upon the executives of the Medical Association and the protective association to confer for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of membership in the former association carrying with it the protection afforded by the latter.

Canadian-Armenian Told of Atrocities.

MONTREAL, June 15—(Canadian Press).—Evidence heard yesterday afternroon before the Reparations Commission here, presided over by Hon. Lr. Wm. Lugsley, turned on Turkish atrocities against the Armenians. The case was that of A. Mossoian, a naturalized Canadian subject, who is asking for $25,000 for the loss of his family and $13,000 for damage to property in Armenia during the Turkish massacre.

He stated that his wife had been murdered, a son and daughter starved to death and a second daughter taken away, while he was only able to escape after months of travelling under the protection of darkness, until he could reach neutral territory.

Several insurance companies and the Y.M.C.A., the latter for war risk insurance, the former for claims paid due to loss of life in the war, were heard at the morning session.

BULGARIA GOVT. STOPPED LAWS OF AGRARIANS

Changes Made in National Spelling and New Officials Are Appointed Throughout the Country

MINISTER ESCAPED.

SOFIA, June 15.— (Canadian Press.)—One of the first acts of the new agrarian government has been to suspend those laws passed by the agrarians which are regarded as infringing upon the constitution. The standard Bulgarian orthography, which was modified by the previous government dropping several letters, has been established and all the newspapers, including those suppressed by the former regime, appeared yesterday in the long-accepted orthography.

The property of the former Cabinet members will be sequestered it is announced, the administration staffs throughout the country have been dismissed, and new prefects, who for the most part, are reserve officers, have been appointed. The reason given by the government for this is that the officer class suffered most during the war and the government now desires to render compensation for their services.

Dimitri Stanciof, the present Bulgarian Minister in London, probably will be dismissed, it is stated.

Ivan Guessofen, a former premier who has been in exile in Switzerland, will head a special diplomatic mission in London.

A nation-wide appeal has been made to the business men, workers and others to contribute toward lowering the cost of the necessaries of life. The Cabinet has decided to grant 50,000 leva to all families who lost relatives under the Stamboulisky regime.

M. Oboff, former Minister of Agriculture, is the only member of the cabinet to succeed in escaping arrest. He escaped to Roumania.

LONDON, June 15.— (Canadian Press.) —A despatch to the Times from Sofia dated Wednesday says advices received in the Bulgarian Capital from a point near Slavoritza, are to the effect that M. Stamboulisky's brother had surrendered. He is quoted as having said the former Premier still is hiding in the woods, being in fear that he will be maltreated if he should surrender.

France Brings More Pressure on Germany.

LONDON, June 15 (Canadian Press). — A despatch to The Times from Cologne says it is reported from Coblenz that a new ordinance has been passed which appears to indicate the beginning of the increased pressure on Germany threatened at the recent Brussels conference.

The ordinance imposes duties on imports from unoccupied to occupied territory, which hitherto had been free of duty, on the basis of the German customs tariff, and requires import licenses from the Franco-Belgian authorities.

The despatch adds that the ordinance marks a further stage in the process of separating the Rhineland from the rest of Germany.

President of China Has Telegraphed Resignation

PEKING, June 15. — (Canadian Press.) — Li Yuan-Hung yesterday telegraphed from Tien-Tsin his resignation as president of China and turned over his authority to those members of the Cabinet now in the capital. Simultaneously Madame Li, who had taken the seals of the presidential office with her to the French hospital in the Legation Quarter, delivered them to representatievs of the Cabinet, when she had been assured of her husband's safe arrival at Tien-Tsin.

Li's resignation had set at rest the rumors that he intended to establish the seat of Government at Tien-Tsin. Superficially there is no indication in Peking of Wednesday's coup, which began with ultimatum of the militarists that Li resign, and ended with the executive's hurried flight to Tien-Tsin.

LOSS OF 35,000,000 TREES.

The enormous drain on our forest resources caused by the annual export of thiry-five million trees can be entirely eliminated by our government any moment by an act of parliament while our forest fires can ofttimes be prevented through an act of God. If we will not lift a hand to help ourselves in the one case how can we ask or expect help in the other.

FOURTH COURT OF SEASON

LONDON, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—At the fourth court of the season held last night in Buckingham Palace the State rooms presented a beautiful scene. There was a wonderful display of summer flowers. Most of the ladies carried beautiful bouquets. A majority of the large number of débutantes wore gowns of pale pastel shades.

Prospects Are Bright For a Big Wheat Crop

WINNIPEG, June 15.—(Canadian Press).— Should there be no serious impairment between now and harvest, the west looks like astonishing the world with 500,000,000 bushel wheat crop, declared J. R. Craig, President of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, who returned to the city yesterday after a three weeks' motor trip through central and northern Saskatchewan and Alberta. He reports crop conditions excellent everywhere.

Anaesthetists Have Elected Officers.

MONTREAL, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Declared to be the bitterest struggle in the historical evolution of medicine in relation to public welfare, the battle waged to render child birth painless was reviewed here yesterday by delegates to the convention of the Canadian Society of Anaesthetists. The claim was made that complete relief from pain was obtainable by the use of nitrous-oxide-oxygen. It is also harmless in operation.

Election of officers resulted yesterday as follows: Walter L. Muir, Halifax, president; J. J. Buettner, Syracuse, vice-president; H. J. Shields, Toronto; secretary-treasurer executive officer for the United States F. H. McMechan, Avon Lake, Ohio; executive officer for Great Britain; H. E. C. Boyle, London, Eng; executive committee: Ernest E. Convery, Quebec; David D. Freee, Vancouver; J. E. Racicot Montreal, and George C. Van Wart Fredericton.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT POOL

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 51.— (Canadian Press Cable)—It is understood that the Commonwealth government has agreed to guarantee the voluntary wheat pool next season when thre shillings per bushels were advanced to the farmers at the railway sidings.

CONSCRIPTION FOR SERVANTS NOW PROPOSED

Several Suggestions Advanced to Relieve the Domestic Servant Problem in England.

6 MONTHS' TRAINING.

LONDON, June 15. Canadian Press Cable. — Conscription for servants, is the latest suggestion made in connection with the much discussed domestic service enquiry which is being conducted by the ministry of labor's investigation committee.

Jessie Stephen, who is a councillor of Bermondsey, besides being secretary of the Domestic Hotel Workers' Union, Wednesday suggested to the committee the establishment of a corps of mother's helps, attached to the municipalities, entitled to pensions, and to be hired by employers at 50 shillings a week, the living-in system to be dispensed with. Miss Stephen was a former domestic servant. She denounced the fetish of evenin gdinner as unnecessary and suggested that the mistresses combine to permit their servants to meet as a club in one of their kitchens. There were scores of musical maids, she said, and some of them were practised musicians.

Mrs. Witt, superintendent of the domestic training servants centre in Lorrain and Leeds said that some duties were not popular with the humbler classes, who copied the manners and the habits of the less humble, while the mistresses who did not play golf or tennis wanted to meddle in local affairs, and they developed the committee habit. Therefore the witness advocated conscription for domestic training. Every woman should be compelled to take six months' training at a domestic training centre established in every town, Mrs. Witt said. The men could help the service if they made rythe domestic girls popular by marrying them.

Captain Abbot, secretary of the National Citizens' Union, who headed a deputation which appeared before the committee, said that it was deplorable that teachers, who were the servants of the state, deliberately discouraged children from entering domestic service.

STAMBOULISKY IS A FUGITIVE IN HIS OWN LAND

His Followers Are Reported Dispersed and He Has Escaped Alone in Disguise.

TO BE TAKEN ALIVE.

SOFIA, June 15. — (Canadian Press.)— Isolated from all his followers, Alexander Stamboulisky, the once mighty premier, to-day is a fugitive, pursued by troops beyond Pirdop City, twenty miles from Elishintza, where he withdrew after an engagement in which there were casualties.

Stamboulisky started for Elishintza in an automobile, disguised as an army chaffeur. He had shaved off his moustache .When he and his party arrived at Pirdop, his four remaining followers were captured or killed by the troops and the automobile in which they were travelling was seized. During the fighting Stambouliskp escaped and plunged into the forest .He knows perfectly the country where the troops are pursuing him.

Ivan Rousseff, the new Minister of the Interior, has issued an order for the capture of Stamboulisky. He is to be taken alive, if possible, when the courts will settle his fate.

A sensation has been created by the discovery in the archives of the National Bank that Stamboulisky last March cashed a check for 120,000,000 levas, the sum having been authorized at a secret meeting of three members of the Cabinet. The purpose of the expenditure was not designated, beyond the statement that it was for the security of the State. The moral character of Stamboulisky is being attacked by the press.

Among the consequences of the fall of Stamboulisky is the reversion of Sofia's theological seminary, which was seized for the purposes of the Astronomical Institute, to the priesthood. Other seizure of church property include the large pine for-

$50 and a New Suit For 30 Days in Jail

MONTREAL, June 15.—(Canadian Press) — Charged with getting the man-of-all-work at the "political club" to impersonate him and serve thirty days imprisonment in Bordeaux jail Alexandre Lemay manager of club was arrested here yesterday afternoon and will appear today in court to answer the charge.

The club was raided some six weeks ago by Quebec Liquor Commission inspectors and Lemay was convicted of selling liquor illegally and sentenced to a fine of $1,000 or one month in jail According to the high constable's account, Alexandre Bellefleur, who is a sort of general utility man about the club agreed to the manager's suggestion to act as his double in jail for a remuneration of $50 and a new suit of clothes.

Bellefleur yesterday pleaded not guilty of the charge of having passed himself off as Alexandre Lemay, manager of the club. He was remanded without bail until June 21.

CRISIS REACHED IN PARLIAMENT OVER LANGUAGE

Both Cabinet and Parliament of Belgium Divided on Question of Language at University of Ghent.

CABINET RESIGNS.

BRUSSELS, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)— The political crisis arising from the conflict in Parliament over the proposition to substitute the Flemish language for French in the University of Ghent, came to a climax yesterday afternoon when, after the Senate had rejected a resolution introduced by Baron Charles B. Broqueville for the use of the Flemish language alongside of French, the Cabinet decided to resign. The King accepted the Cabinet's resignation.

The resignation of the Belgian Cabinet is the culmination of a heated controversy over the project to make Ghent University a Flemish language institution. The Chamber of Deputies last year voted in favor of the step, but the bill was rejected by the Senate in March.

Not only was the parliament split on the question, the Chamber approving the Flemish language and the Senate being opposed to it, but there was a split in the Cabinet itself, influential members such as M. Van De Vyvere favoring the preponderance of Flemish, though a majority of the Cabinet members opposed it.

In view of the impossibility of the Cabinet reaching a unanimous conclusion as to its attitude on the subject, its resignation became inevitable.

MR. TOOMS' SPONSORS.

One feature of the nomination proceedings yesterday was the almost complete absence of the names of farmers from Mr. Tooms' nomination papers.

That does not necessarily mean anything.

It is one of the bits of red tape considered necessary in connection with election proceedings that candidates should have at least one hundred names of electors on their papers.

Usually the endeavour is made to have the names as representative as possible.

For some reason or other Mr. Tooms, however, was content to have his name sponsored by residents of the city.

That is his own business, of course, but it leaves the way open to his opponent to argue that the fact that very few farmers have signed Mr. Tooms' papers confirms the accusation that the rural voters are not behind him in spite of the official endorsation accorded him by the Premier.

In other words the failure to secure farmer signatures will be regarded as rather poor campaign strategy in spite of what has already been pointed out, there may be no real significance in the absence of such names.

The acid test comes on polling day—not in the nomination proceedings.

WHY NOT PAVE THE BRIDGE?

It is a mystery to a great many people, particularly to residents of East City, why, when the paving of Hunter Street East is to be undertaken, the City Council should not go ahead with the paving of the Hunter Street Bridge at the same time.

This is a very necessary piece of work and it would be good business on the party of the City to have it completed when the portion of Hunter, east of the bridge, is being given a permanent surface.

In its present condition the roadway over the bridge is a continued souce of annoyance to those who have to cross the expensive structure.

In dry weather they are smothered in clouds of dust; when it is wet they are splattered with mud thrown up by passing motor cars.

To leave the road as it is present, is about the same thing as wearing a battered straw hat of ancient vintage in conjunction with a new Palm Beach suit.

The whole effect of the splendid bridge is spoiled by the unfinished roadway and it is safe to say that the residents of East City had much more comfort in crossing the old iron bridge than they are experiencing now in their daily pilgrimage over the costly structure now in commission.

With the paving to be done immediately east of the bridge the council should take advantage of the opportunity to have this most important piece of construction completed.

A SERMON FOR THE DRIVER.

A writer in the Kodak Magazine has a story that every car driver in the country should read. In part he relates his experience as follows:

"The other evening, while going home from work, I was driving easy (of course they all say that, but I really was), when, without even a toot of the horn, a car whizzed by. The next moment I heard the grind of brakes, sounds of breaking glass and a loud scream. I saw the car skid as it attempted to stop instantaneously. (Right there I proved the assertion I made of driving 'easy' for if I hadn't my car would be lying in the ditch—and I, in all probability, would have completed a double funeral.)

"Upon alighting, I found a small boy—one of those chubby, freckled-faced youngsters—lying in the road—just about conscious and that's all—with blood streaming from an ugly gash on his head, and with a broken arm to say nothing of a twisted ankle and various bruises. A bent mass of framework and spokes told mutely of the remains of a good 'bike.' The little fellow, who had just as much right on the highway as any motor car, had evidently been riding absolutely within the law on his right side of the road. But the 'speed-hound' who dashed past my bus didn't reckon with that, and the consequence was a head-on collision.

"Oh, the pity of it! The folly of always trying to pass the car ahead! Had the driver sounded his horn he might have avoided maining someone's precious boy, a buckled car, a big bill—somebody has to pay for damages—and, most important of all, severe pain and a mother's sorrow."

SELFISHNESS OR THOUGHTLESSNESS

Hundreds of woman and children stood along the curb on both sides of George street on Wednesday morning waiting for the circus parade.

Many of them were there for hours in the hot sun—because they did not know until they had reached George street that the parade would be late and once at a point of vantage they thought it best to wait.

Hours passed and then suddenly the blaze of music and the glint of sunlight upon gay banners and painted wagons.

And then just as the first riders arrived, all along the street motor cars pulled into the curb and blocked the view of the tired women and the excited children, who after hours of weary waiting, found themselves cut off by the thoughtlessness of motorists who should have known better.

Surely there was some point along the route where these cars could have been stopped without interfering with the enjoyment of hundreds of little folks to whom the parade was the biggest event of the year.

There was no need for those car owners to have crowded into the business section and if they had had any consideration for others at all they would have parked their automobiles on the side streets and lined up with the crowd.

A PRECIOUS HERITAGE.

Press despatches state that France is alarmed over the marked increase in the illiteracy of the youth of that country. Calling of young men for military service has resulted in the disturbing revelation that a large percentage of them can neither read nor write.

The situation is attributed to the fact that truancy was common among the boys and girls of school age in France in the absence of their fathers during the war. It is estimated that 14,000 are wholly lacking in even rudimentary education, a large proportion being barely able to sign their names and to count small sums.

This condition is one of the deplorable results of war; but, unfortunately, a similar condition is to be found frequently in communities in which the educational scheme has not been disrupted by the marshalling of troops and the boom of cannon. Cases of illiteracy are encountered in shocking numbers in the most orderly and advanced communities.

All civilized countries have devised statutes providing in some degree for compulsory education. The effectiveness of such statutes is measured by the efficiency of the enforcement officers. They, however, cannot invoke the full power of the law without the co-operation of the parents and the judiciary. One of the chief requisites of public office should be keen appreciation of the value of education. Parents, especially those who were deprived of educational advantages, are sometimes inclined to discount the importance of "schooling" in the equipment of their children for the battles of life. The task of counteracting improper home influences and preserving the birthright of the nation's children, devolves then upon public officials. Those to whom is entrusted the supervision of the educational system should be especially fitted for this work.

The time-worn axiom, "the school-house is the bulwark of civilization," is a profound truism. Advancement of society and improvement in educational standards are coeval movements. Individuals deprived of educational opportunities are seriously handicapped and the average person's success in life is commensurate with the degree of education acquired.

Illiterate or improperly educated children are classed as liabilities of society, actual or potential, while those properly educated and trained are recognized as assets. It is the former class that produces the majority of the world's criminals and indigent persons. A nation lacking in educational facilities is a nation doomed. Its spawn will be a race of men and women cursed with a cancer of vicious and defective mentality that will eventually destroy society.

Parents who do not appreciate the value of education should be made acquainted with its advantages. If they refuse to co-operate in the education of their children, forceful measures should be adopted, since the nation's future welfare depends upon the training received by the children of today—the men and women of tomorrow.

Will they be properly fitted to cope with the problems that will confront them; will the percentage of criminals and paupers be materially reduced, or will there be introduced in society a few years hence an increased number of "liabilities"?

These questions must be answered by the parents, educators and Government officials to today. Material assistance can be furnished by the various civic and welfare organizations interested in the advancement of society, who can have no higher goal of accomplishment than the guaranteeing of proper educational opportunities to the boys and girls of their day.

Canada is by no means a laggard in educational matters. Belleville is particularly well equipped to secure the heritage of its children. But, because of those who are delinquent in these matters, it is imperativ that this heritage be zealously guarded.—Belleville Intelligencer.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

That Toronto aspirant, who calls himself a Toronto First candidate, should have styled himself a "Hogtowner."

The general campaign may be a quiet one but there should be enough fireworks when Hon. G. H. Ferguson and Hon. W. E. Raney get together next Thursday.

A contemporary very pertinently points out that it is not to be expected that plasterers' wages and tall buildings can both continue to go up.

A provincial traffic officer was injured east of Cobourg while travelling at 70 miles an hour in trying to catch a speeding motorist. It is too bad the latter got away for any individual who drive a car along a public highway at that speed should be locked up and have his car confiscated.

A woman voter writes to the London Advertiser to say that the question of sessional indemnities should be an issue in the campaign. She is right but the politicians on all sides have reason to fight shy of the matter.

A cynical voter says that Ontario might get more efficiency in its Government if people tried to keep out bone-heads rather than to insist on voting for bone-drys.

A June election is enough of a burden without having to risk brain-fever figuring out the proportional representation system.

Annual Convention Entertained By School.

SMITH, June 15.—The Lily Lake Sabbath school entertained the annual convention of the Smith township and Village of Lakefield Sabbath School Association at Gilmour Memorial church. The chair was occupied by the president, Wm. Paul and devotional service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Edgar. There was a fair attendance, but several schools failed to send delegates, which was rather disappointing.

Rev. J. A. Reddick of Lakefield gave a thoughtful address on the task of the Sabbath school, to present God before the child in such a way as to ensure the proper relation between the two, that the child might assume the proper attitude toward God. Mr. Reddick's words were earnest and timely.

There was present, Miss Bertha Laine the enthusiastic leader in children's work so well known throughout the province. She addressed both sessions and also led the round table conference, stressing particularly the great aim of the teacher to make Bible truths so simple and so attractive that little children will want, not only to know them, but to live them out.

In the evening Mr. C. E. Moore led the devotional service followed by two addresses. Rev. W. S. Edgar spoke on the ideal teacher in and interesting and forceful way. Miss Laine had the pleasure of addressing a larger audience than in the afternoon on children's work. Music was furnished by Rev. T. L. White of Lakefield and by the Gilmour choir.

On behalf of Lily Lake S.S. a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Gilmour Memorial church by Mr. J. A. Middleton in acknowledgement of the use of their building and equipment to entertain the convention.

The officers for the ensuing year are: President, Mr. W. Paul; vice-persident, Mr. Wilbert Bell; secretary, Mr. Fred Ball. The heads of the departments, the pastors and superintendents form with these the executive committee.

Syrup Pepsin Loved By Hosts of Babies

Half a teaspoonful will make a fretful youngster happy and playful

THE mother has her choice of many remedies for her baby's minor ills, but she should be careful which remedy she selects lest she do the child harm. What might be safe for herself may do injury to an infant. You will find that if the little one cries and doesn't want to play that its bowels are constipated. First look carefully to the diet and give the child one-half teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin. You will then see results in a few hours. You will not have to force it on babies or children: they actually ask for it, it is so pleasant-tasting and free from griping.

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The ingredients are stated on the package. It is a mild, gentle vegetable laxative that everyone finds effective and pleasant. It is better for you and yours than purgatives, coal-tar drugs, or salt waters and powders, which may concentrate the blood and dry up the skin; or mercurial calomel, which may salivate and loosen the teeth.

Use a safe laxative like Syrup Pepsin, and especially for the children, for invalids, growing girls, nursing mothers, elderly people, and persons recently operated upon who need bowel action with the least strain. Mrs. H. Lefever of Medicine Hat, Alberta, always gives her little girl Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. May Stephen Sharpe of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., is never without it in her home. Your druggist will supply you, and it costs only a cent a dose. Try it in constipation, colic, biliousness, flatulency, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

NEWS OF APSLEY AND THE DISTRICT

An Aged Pioneer Passes Away — Test in Knowledge of Wild Flowers.

APSLEY, June 15.—There passed away on Sunday evening very suddenly an aged and highly respected resident in the person of Mrs. Margaret Buchanan. Born in Ireland and coming to Canada while young, the deceased was one of the few old pioneers now remaining in this district. Her husband, George Buchanan, a veteran of the American Civil War, died eighteen years ago, and she had since lived on the homestead with her son, John. Besides her son there are left to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. Mary Graham of Peterboro and Mrs. Bert Micks of Cordova. The deceased had attained the ripe old age of nearly eighty-five years. The funeral which was very largely attended took place on Tuesday afternoon at St. George's church, the Rev. C. A. G. Spence officiating, interment being made in the family plot in the church yard.

A.Y.P.A. Competition.

The A.Y.P.A. branches at Chandos and Loon Lake last week held a competition in the knowledge of the Wild Flowers of Canada, prizes being offered by the Rev. C. Spence at each centre for the greatest number of correctly named varieties. Great interest was taken by the young people, the prize winner at Chandos being Hazel Campbell with eighteen correct, and at Loon Lake, Edith Tanner with thirty.

One of the features of the annual picnic of St. George's church at Apsley on June 21, will be a competition for the most tastefully arranged bouquet of wild flowers, which no doubt will bring a large number of entries.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Lakefield Business Men Held Annual Outing.

LAKEFIELD, June 15. — In spite of the cool weather the annual business men's association outing was held yesterday and was a decided success. The outing took the form of an excursion to Stoney Lake, leaving Lakefield about two o'clock on the steamer Stoney Lake. Sports were held at Sandy Point and dinner was served in the evening at McCracken's Landing.

The annual excursion of the United Sunday Schools will be held tomorrow. The picnicers will take the Steamer Stoney Lake to Buckhorn, where sports and games will be held.

GEN. HAIG DEVOTES HIS TIME TO EX-SOLDIERS

LONDON, June 15. — (United Press).—Field Marshal Earl Haig, commander-in-chief of the British armies in France, celebrates his 62nd birthday today and is receiving congratulations, especially from his wartime soldiers whose battle he is still fighting. When the Army of Occupation on the Rhine was turned over to a junior general, Haig was appointed to the sinecure post of 'Commander-in-Chief in Britain,' but he soon resigned this to be free to take up the cudgels on behalf of the men he led to victory, but whose claims the politicians were in danger of forgetting. Haig, in season and out of season, is steadily fighting pension and other claims on behalf of his battlefield comrades. In doing so, he has sacrificed all chance of well-paid official jobs.

"GRAND TO HAVE YOUR HEALTH"

says Mrs. Jenny Evans, of Detroit, Mich. "Few of us appreciate our health until we lose it. Mrs. Evans worked in a factory, but owing to a weakness, and pains in her back she was forced to give up work. She says: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me well. It is grand to have your health, to feel well all the time and to go around like other women without that awful torture of female troubles." Women who are suffering from such troubles should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the tried and true medicine, now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for female ills.

OBITUARY

ROBERT COURTNEY.

OMEMEE, June 15.—The death occurred in Lindsay on Tuesday evening of another old and respected resident of Omemee, in the person of Mr. Robert Courtney. About two weeks ago, the deceased suffered a slight stroke while visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. Riley, of Lindsay, and when about to be removed to his home, took a second stroke, which proved fatal.

The late Mr. Courtney lived all his life in Emily Township, where he was married to Miss Annie Killaby, of Ops, who predeceased him over ten years ago. In his younger days he was a farmer, but of late years has resided in town.

He leaves to mourn his loss a son and a daughter, Bert, of Omemee, and Mrs. David Magee, of Gull Lake, Sask., also two brothers and four sisters: William, of South Milfort, Sask.; Tom, of Prince Albert; Mrs. Sweeney, of Rochester; Mrs. Riley, of Lindsay; Mrs. R. Killaby, of Saskatchewan, and Mrs. George Kennedy, of Lindsay.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon from the home of his son, Mr. B. Courtney, of Omemee, to North Emily Cemetery. Rev. R. F. Stillman, of the Methodist Church, will conduct the service.

WINNIPEG, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—In connection with the statement credited to the Edmonton Journal Wednesday that the Canadian Pacific Railway planned to construct a line as an outlet for the Peace River district, D. Coleman, vice-president in charge of Western lines, stated yesterday that because it was often found necessary in the business of railroading to make preliminary and explanatory surveys, such activities could not, of themselves, be considered an indication that any particular line would be constructed or work undertaken.

Mr. Coleman had no further comment to make on the rumor that the company was contemplating the building of a direct outlet for the Peace River Country at a cost of approximately $50,000,000. He said it was often the case that where construction programmes had to be planned several years ahead, various sections of the country had to have their possibilities guaged by surveys which might lead to nothing in the end.

ASSASSIN REPORTED KILLED.

BERLIN, June 15. — (Canadian Press.)—It is reported that the assassin of the two French officers in Dortmund last Saturday has been identified as a former policeman who has been employed recently as a watchman of a building.

It is said the man was killed on Monday night when a French patrol shot into a crowd in the streets of Dortmund after the curfew hour.

The new Minister of Finance, M. Theodoroff, has informed the bankers that they must pay a larger share of the taxes. He has assured them, however, that the peasants will bear their share. Orders have been issued by the Ministry of the Interior dissolving peasant political clubs created by Stamboulisky in order to avoid the possible danger of excesses similar to those in Russia against the ruling classes.

CRISIS REACHED

The retiring Cabinet was formed with George Theunis as Premier, in December, 1921, to succeed the ministry headed by Carton De Wiart. M. Theunis has been a leading figure in the various conferences dealing with the reparations question, in which he made marked efforts to conciliate the British and French viewpoints. The question upon which he is retiring, however, is apparently a purely domestic one.

Worst Landslide in Railroad History.

CALGARY, June 15— (Canadian Press).—One of the worst land slides ever known on the Canadian Pacific Railway but unattended by loss of life occurred on Wednesday afternoon between Cathedral and Field, B.C., when some hundreds of thousands of tons of mud, rock and other debris, loosened by the recent heavy rains and melted snow, rolled down the mountainside. In all there were actually six slides, which according to a railroad official here, ran from 50 to 150 long and from six to 15 feet deep. Immediately the slides became known gangs of men were rushed to the spot, and it is expected the main line would be opened for traffic this evening.

295 NOMINEES FILED PAPERS

All Previous Records in Province Broken—Conservatives Lead Field in Numbers, Liberals Next

TORONTO, June 15.—(Canadian Press.)—All prevoius records for the number of candidates seeking admittance to Legislature at a Provincial election were broken yesterday, when 295 nominees filed their papers with returning officers of Ontario in 111 constituencies. There were but two acclamations, one to Government and the other to the Conservatives—Peter Heenan, former U. F.O.-Labor member for Kenora was returned unopposed, as was also W. F. Nickle, K.C., former Conservative member for Kingston.

In the race for political lures, the Conservatives lead the field in point of numbers, 103 followers of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson having qualified. So far as official nominees are concerned, the Liberals come next with 77. The U.F.O. is represented by 76 official candidates, but to this total must be added 12 or 14 Laborites, who profess allegiance to the U.F.O.-Labor group. Labor candidates number 21 and Independents 18.

Until yesterday the 1919 record of 291 candidates was the largest at any previous contest. There are at least two straight beer and wine candidates an one settlers' candidate, R. F. Seymour of Cochrane.

Speaking generally, nominations passed off quietly. There were several last minute withdrawals, but few dark horses."

Four Women.

Where the 1919 contest saw but two women in the field, this year finds four. Two of these, Mrs. A. E. Becker, in Northeast Toronto, seat "B," and Mrs. W. E. Groves, in Northwest Toronto, seat "B," are supporting the government as "Progressives." The other two women are Liberals, Mrs. B. N Allen at Fort William and Miss Isobel Armstrong at London.

The number of three-cornered fights is greater than contests between two opposing parties. Forty-eight ridings will be asked to choose between two aspirants to office, while 50 constituencies have a third alternative. Even more striking is the fact that nine constituencies have four candidates. Port Arthur and Ottawa West have found distinction all their own by having nominated five and six candidates, respectively.

Drury's Fight.

Of the three leaders, Premier Drury's fight seems likely to be the most strenuous. He has a three-cornered struggle on his hands in Halton .Both Wellington Hay, Liberal leader and J. H. Ferguson, Conservative leader, face one opponent.

It is worth noting, too, that all of the membersof Dr. Drury's cabinet are being opposed by one or more candidates.

CONSCIENCE MONEY

TORONTO, June 15.— (Canadian Press).—Chief Accountant of the customs and excise branch at at Ottawa writes announcing the receipt of three postal notes, amounting to $15 sent anonymotsly to the receiver general Ottawa in an envelope post marked Toronto, "For customs account" being presumably "Consience money."

FATE OF HUNGARY IN ALLIES' HANDS

Need Arrangement For at Least An Indefinite Postponement of Reparations

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS.

BUDAPEST, June 15.—The peace of Europe as well as the fate of Hungary will depend very largely on the treatment the Allies deal out to this country.

This became very clear during a lengthy interview given me by Count Stephen Bethlen, Prime Minister of the Hungarian monarchy, in his offices opposite the Royal Palace in Buda.

What he said was never, in any way, to be taken in the sense of a threat. He merely outlined to me the situation in his country, dispassionately but with obvious sincerity, and when he was through there could remain no possible doubt that Hungary's plight is desperately in need of international attention.

"Hungary's first and most immediate difficulty," the Count said, "arises out of the reparations problem.

"Like the sword of Damocles, the question continues to hang over our head. The amount has not been fixed, nor the time nor manner of payment.

Demand Means Ruin.

"In fact, we do not know if we are able to pay anything more—for, you know, we have already paid, by turning over state property to Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Yugoslavia, some 10,000,000,000 gold crowns, which is more, per capita, than the 132,000,000,000 marks the Allies demanded of the Germans.

"To demand more of us now, whether money or materials, would mean our ruin. For we have neither.

"So the immediate necessity for us is to secure a postponement, at least, of the reparations matter until some indeterminate time in the future—as was done in the case of Austria.

"We need money. We have a 40,500,000,000 crown deficit in our budget. To get that money we must go into the foreign money markets. But until reparations are out of the way we will not be able to raise a loan. We would have to give guarantees, of course, and at present all possible guarantees are potentially mortgaged to pay reparations.

Need Big Loan.

"We will need about $100,000,000 on a long-time loan, the money to be turned over to us over a period of five years—about $20,000,000 a year.

"First then, we need an arrangement with the Allied powers for at least an indefinite postponement of the reparations question. Second we need the loan—and we will have no difficulty obtaining the loan once reparations cease to press.

"Our next biggest worry is that of our minorities. We have 3,500,000 of our nationals in Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Yugoslavia. We have a population inside of Hungary of about 7,000,000. One-third of our people, therefore, are living under foreign regimes.

Live in Cars.

"We have from 400,000 to 500,000 of such people right now living in box-cars on sidings and being taken care of by us as best we can. We, like everybody else, were short of houses at the end of the war because building had come to a standstill. Before the war what is now present Hungary had six million population. We will soon have eight million as these 'refugees' come to us from our neighbors who are driving them out.

"This question of minorities, then, must be settled before there can be any real peace in Europe.

There was unrest in Europe before the war, but it was never like this. The League of Nations was to look after minorities, but it is just now beginning to take notice after four years.

"There will be no end to European unrest until this question is settled."

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—King Albert had consultations to-day with potential Prime Ministers, following the resignation of the Theunis Government over the question of whether the Flemish or the French should be the official language of Ghent University. Foreign Minister Jaspar, who is more inclined to the English than to the French viewpoint regarding the Ruhr, may be asked to form a Cabinet.

MELBOURNE PROPERTY VALUES.

MELBOURNE (By mail to United Press).—Something of the value of city property in Melbourne is indicated by the fact that a building on Collins street with a small lot was sold for $1,400,000. The site in 1836 had been sold for about $160. In other parts of Collins street property has been selling for $10,000 a foot. The entire city of Melbourne was originally sold to a settler named John Batman in 1835 for a quantity of good worth probably less than a thousand dollars, but for various reasons the grant never passed into his hands. Later the site of Melbourne, now having a population of 800,000 was divided up into half-acre blocks that sold for $175 per block.

EAST DURHAM NOMINATIONS

Just Two Candidates in the Field, A. J. Fallis, Conservative, and S. S. Staples, U.F.O.—Nominees Speak.

MILLBROOK, June 15. — A well-attended meeting held in the Town Hall on Wednesday for nomination of candidates for the riding of East Durham, resulted in the two named at the recent Liberal-Conservative and U.F.O. conventions, A. J. Fallis, Conservative, and S. S. Staples, U.F.O., respectiely, being definitely placed before the electors as the representatives of their parties in the present election campaign.

Mr. J. Greenaway, of Port Hope, returning officer, presided, and at 2 p.m. the meeting was called to order and S. S. Staples introduced as the first speaker.

After referring briefly to the changes during the past four years since the last election campaign, and to the fact that the prominent question now is, who shall hold the reins of office after the 25th of June? Mr. Staples made reference to his strong personal respect and friendship for his opposing candidate, Mr. Fallis. They had been comrades in Institute work on many occasions, and both desired that the campaign should be clean and gentlemanly, the best interests of the Province being the objective which each had in view.

The speaker proceeded to define the situation of the late Government along the line of expenditures, quoting figures from the public accounts as published in 1923. A misunderstanding exists in many minds as to how the Provincial revenue is made up, and sources of revenue were definitely explained and figures contrasted for 1919 and 1923. The increase in the Provincial debt of $140,000,000 in the past four years the speaker preferred to call the increase in our Provincial investments, mentioning the fact that the total revenue in 1923 was $38,507,000 against $19,000,000 for 1919. The commission appointed to investigate the timber resources of the Province had recovered about one and one-half million dollars from agreements entered into by their predecessors in office which had been cancelled by the Drury Government, and new agreements entered into and carried on. The speaker referred to the criticism sometimes heard that "the Drury Government is the women's and children's Government," and said he was proud to belong to a party which, when in power, did all it could to protect the interests of the weaker ones of the land. (Applause.)

An outline of the human welfare work of the late Government followed, including the Workmen's Compensation Act, the minimum wage for women and girls, the Mothers' Allowance Act, the Parents' Maintenance Act, the Medical Act by which the drugless healers were given a standing satisfactory to themselves and the profession generally, the Act for the legal adoption of children being among those mentioned.

The air patrol of forests for fire protection, the reforestration of waste areas, the assistance given to fire-devastated areas in Northern Ontario, aid to the pulp and paper industry, better marketing of farm produce, removal of the cattle embargo, rural credit system, savings banks, selective immigration, encouragement for building of community halls, improvement to highways, improved educational facilities, the blue sky law, for protection of investors, amendments to the O. T.A in important particulars, re-organization of provincial police force, 83 p.c. being now returned men, the hotel improvement commission aiming at increased tourist trade in Ontario, appointment of the first woman magistrate, were among the many points placed to the credit of the Drury government. The fact that proportional representation and the transferable vote were defeated by the obstruction tactics of the Conservative party was also commented upon, the speaker closing with a further reference to the firm stand taken by the U.F.O. in connection with the enforcement of the O.T.A., this question having been made an issue in the present campaign.

The chairman then called upon Mr. A. J. Fallis, the latter stating that as he is a new man, he believed any discussion by him of the political situation would be out of place; he did, however, think that an increase in the public debt from $97,000,000 in 1919 to $240,000,000 in 1923 was a very big one to take place in four years. Duplicity, he believed to be a fault in connection with politics, and that candidates should be held to promises made during the election campaign. The speaker was firmly of the conviction that all expenses not absolutely necessary should be cut out, all losses eliminated, and no new committments entered into. Instead of this, the late Government had been the most extravagant ever holding office in Queen's Park, and had hardly lived up to the pre-election promises made to the people. He was not personally opposed to good roads, but was persuaded that the expenditure upon this item had been higher than the Province could afford. He would like to see more money spent improving the roads on the side lines where the farmers had to travel regularly. Radial lines were being established and the competition with publicly-owned railways was surely not wise nor profitable.

The O.T.A. came in for special reference, the speaker saying that a recent statement upon a public platform, "Vote for Fallis and you vote for whisky," was both unkind and untrue. He had been a temperance man all his life and would favor the enforcement of the O.T.A. until the people themselves demanded a change. (Applause). Sir William Hearst had used his power to the limit for temperance and had been sacrificed on this very question. Mr. Fallis said he did not feel compelled to follow his leader, or any other, if he thought they were wrong in policy; he was rather an independent Conservative, and if elected would endeavor to represent the people as a whole, but possibly the agricultural electors in a special sense. He did not think it wise to have all members of any one party, a voice from the audience interrupting, "You would have a majority belonging to the Conservatives, wouldn't you?" the reply being, "We're going to, sir, we going to, too." All legislative bodies should feel compelled to economize because of post-war conditions, the latter, of course, not being the fault of the Government. There are too many sections and classes each looking for benefits to themselves, whereas the first object should be to think nationally, not sectionally.

The importance of encouraging the agricultural interests was emphasized, since the barometer of trade is found in the agricultural report, and the shrewd business man keeps his finger on the pulse of agriculture. But for successful legislation, every class should be represented in the Government. In conclusion, Mr. Fallis said he had three things he wanted: 1st, the friendship of the electors; 2nd, the goodwill; 3rd (and most important) their votes.

Mr. Staples was given an opportunity of replying to Mr. Fallis' address, and the chairman also allowed the latter to make some statements in reference to the removal of the cattle embargo which his opponent has specially emphasized, Mr. Fallis claiming that this belonged entirely to the Dominion Government.

OFFICIAL NOMINATIONS IN EAST PETERBOROUGH

Two Candidates in the Field for Legislative Honor.

NORWOOD, June 15. — The official nomination of candidates to contest the East Riding of Peterborough in the coming Provincial election was held in the Town Hall here on Thursday afternoon.

Returning Officer W. J. Puffer called for nominations, and as there were none except the Government candidate, Ernest Nicol McDonald, and the Liberal-Conservative candidate, Major T. Dalton Johnston, it was moved by E. C. Pakenham, and seconded by W. J. Barrie, that Reeve W. H. Montgomery should occupy the chair.

After a few preliminary remarks, the chairman told the audience that it had been agreed that Major Johnston would have 30 minutes in which to speak, J. F. Strickland of Peterborough 30 minutes, E. N. McDonald 40 minutes, I. A. Humphries of Campbellford 30 minutes, and the Government candidate, E. N. McDonald, 10 minutes to reply

Major Johnston spoke on roads, the Shevlin-Clarke deal, and the O.T.A.

Mr. Strickland discussed taxation, alleged extravagance, and the O.T.A.

Mr. McDonald spoke on the issues of the day, saying he would leave Mr. Humphries to give a history of the life of the U.F.O. This Mr. Humphries did, dealing with their platform generally.

Mr. McDonald replied, and after three cheers for each of the candidates, the meeting dispersed

The young people did unusually well an showed great talent. Miss Fowler is to be congratulated on the results of her instruction. Miss Irene Breckenridge assisted with several amusing recitation. Among those taking part were Ellen Kincaid, Robert Sisson, Winifred Stewart Walter Bigelow, Marjorie Werry, Morgan Bigelow, Margaret Jackson, Hazel Swanson, Frances Fallis, Doris Driver, Frank Hamilton, Jean Thorndyke, Winifred Dawe Violet Jackson, Myrtle Fallis and Helen Byers. The programme ended with the National Anthem accompanied by Miss Fowler.

Among visitors from a distance there were Mr. and Mrs. Leander Werry and Mrs. Victor Grandy of Fleetwood, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Staples of Lifford Miss Elsie Ball of Franklin, Miss M. Staples of Lifford; Mr. and Mr.. Harold Kincaid and children of Ida and others.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

W. F. Nickle, K.C., of Kingston, to Address Conservative Rally Tonight—News Notes of Interest.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 15. — The illustrated lecture on the Passion Play was given in Cole's Opera House last night to an audience that was disappointingly small, but the address and the pictures formed an enlightening story of the life and passion of Christ. Every scene shown, every incident illustrated, was clearly explained by the lecturer. Those who failed to witness this presentation last night certainly missed one of the best and most instructive entertainments of the season.

Conservative Meeting To-night.

The date of the Conservative rally, originally given out as 18th June, has been changed, and the gathering will be held in Cole's Opera House to-night.

The chief speaker will be W. F. Nickle, ex-M.L.A., of Kingston.

Addresses will also be made by Major Belford, the Party candidate, and others.

Progressive Meetings.

Wesley Montgomery, ex-M.L.A., the Progressive standard-bearer, will hold a meeting to-night at Menie, and on Tuesday night will be at Trent Bridge. It is likely that Mr. Montgomery will have another meeting in Campbellford before election day.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held to-night, according to an announcement made at the last regular session, to confer with Surveyor D. D. James, of Toronto, on the question of preparing a new plan for the town.

News Notes.

F. H. Dawson and Rev. R. B. Grobb, of Peterborough, motored through town last night, and while here attended the presentation of the Passion Play at the Opera House.

The work of oiling the streets is well under way, and the dust nuisance, it is hoped, will be abated for the rest of the season.

Mr. I. A. Humphries went to Norwood yesterday to attend the official nomination, and to speak on behalf of Major Johnston, the Conservative candidate in East Peterborough.

A large number of local citizens motored to Warkworth yesterday to attend the nomination

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church realised over $300.00 from their garden party on Tuesday night.

R. H. Cole has received from the fish hatchery of Brantford 40,000 speckled trout, and these have been distributed in the streams in this district.

A stumbling block is a stepping stone you tripped over.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE AT KING'S WHARF

Frame Barn, Hay, Machinery and Calf Were Burned.

KING'S WHARF, June 15.—Fire this morning from an unknown cause destroyed a frame barn on the farm of Richard Murtha.

Some hay, machinery, and a calf were destroyed.

Mr. Murtha is employed on road construction in Omemee, and was away at the time.

The building and contents were partly insured.

EX-PREMIER STILL CONTINUES FLIGHT

VIENNA, June 15.—(Special.) — Seventy thousand peasants loyal to ex-Premier Stamboulisky, now are engaging Zankof troops in Northern Bulgaria, according to Sofia despatches. The latter are greatly outnumbered.

Ex-Premier Stamboulisky still is free and in flight, an Exchange Telegraph message direct from Sofia, and dated Thursday, states. The newspapers in the Bulgarian capital now under the Zankof regime, publish details of an alleged plot by Stamboulisky to force King Boris to abdicate and for the Premier himself to be crowned on Sept. 12th.

Partisans of ex-Premier Stamboulisky are at the gates of Sofia, prepared for a determined effort to take the city, according to an Exchange Telegraph message from Paris, which quotes advices received by the new Bulgarian Legation there.

We don't know where winter goes, but we hope the last one went where it is hot.

W.F. NICKLE, K.C. IS ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

TIME FOR CHANGE.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 15. Canadian Press. — Addressing the electors after he had been declared elected by acclamation, W. F. Nickle, K.C., Conservative member elect for Kingston, dealt with the many questions that have been brought up in the campaign, saying that as he had gone into different sections of the province he had found different issues predominating. In some places it was the O.T.A., in others it was the Hydro, but in his estimation the real issue throughout the whole province was the record of the Drury government.

"The people seem to feel," he continued, "that the time has come to get away from class government and get down to a government that will be really representative of the people. I find thousands of Liberals who are going to vote the Conservative ticket this time, not because they have lost any regard for the Liberal party, but because they realize that the day of the Liberals has not yet arrived in Ontario, and they prefer to see the Conservative Party represent all the people of the province rather than submit to this class government."

Mr. Nickle said he was confident the Conservative party would have the largest group in the next Legislature but he was not prepared to say that it would have a clear majority over all for there was no telling to what coalition Mr. Drury might resort when he saw the Conservative returns. It was just possible however that the Conservatives might have a clear majority over all.

THE FRENCH RIVER

The term is new to many, but as summer season follows summer season, the words spread and their meaning is passed along. Two hundred and fifteen miles north of Toronto, on the Canadian Pacific main line to Sudbury, the mighty French River rushes on its way to Georgian Bay, there to lose itself amongst the Thirty Thousand Islands that dot the bay. From Lake Nipissing and adjoining waters, it takes its course for sixty miles through one of the most beautiful camping and sporting countries to be found in Ontario.

The country appeals to all those looking for the big, open places. There is wonderful fishing to be had—bass, maskinange, pike and pickerel. In season, there is the finest of deer hunting, some bear, and good bags may be obtained of the smaller animals and game birds. Boats, canoes, all equipment and guides, can be obtained for excursions to the head waters of the river and Lawe Nipissing.

This year, the Canadian Pacific Railway is building a Bungalow Camp, convenient to the Railway, which will be conducted along similar lines to the Bungalow Camps which the Company has been operating for some years in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. The descriptive folder 'Bungalow Camps in Ontario' contains full information. There are also other camps, conveniently located, privately owned, with accommodations for large or small parties—all camps are well conducted. Accessibility to the Railway provides the camps with fresh food.

"The French" should receive your careful attention when planning your own, or your family's vacation. Any Canadian Pacific Agent will be pleased to quote you fares and assist you in making arrangements. A concise, descriptive folder on the French River District, quoting rates at camps, and hotels in the town, will be gladly mailed on request. Write W. Fulton, District Passenger Agent Canadian Pacific Railway, Toronto.

CONSERVATIVES AT OMEMEE VILLAGE

Hear Addresses in the Interests of Candidate Patterson.

OMEMEE, June 15.—A very enthusiastic meeting was held in Coronation hall on Wednesday evening, in the interests of the Conservative candidate, R. J. Patterson. Final arrangements for the meeting were not made in time to have it well advertised and many were deprived of the privilege of attending; but, as it was, the ground floor of the hall was fairly well filled.

Mr. Harry Lamb acted as chairman.

Mr. W. W. Staples, of Lindsay, spoke chiefly on "Temperance," Mr. T. Stinson on "The Clarion Call of Economy," while Mrs. Windrim of Lindsay, Mr. Charles Jenkins of Oakwood and Mr. Wilford of Lindsay also addressed the gathering.

Mr. Patterson, the candidate, was given a hearty welcome and in a short speech chiefly confined his remarks to the good road system, and said if elected he would do everything possible to promote the welfare of the people, having taken as his slogan R. J. P., which not only represent his initials but Right, Justice, Prosperity.

Mesars Hutchison and Hart, of Lindsay, contributed a violin duet, also a recitation by Miss Groves of Lindsay, provided a change on the evening's full programme, which continued until midnight.

SWEDISH CIGARETTES TO CARRY SLOGAN OF SAFETY

STOCKHOLM, June 15.—(Associated Press).—The "Two Million Dollar Cigarette" is one of the main arguments advanced in the present nation-wide drive in Sweden to prevent fires through the careless throwing away of cigarettes, undertaken by the Fire Prevention Society.

Some time ago a lighted cigarette, thrown carelessly down by a youth in a saw mill, started a fire which was not extinguished until nearly $2,000,000 worth of property had been destroyed. Other large fires have been started in the same way. The Fire Prevention Society, desiring to enlist all possible forces in its campaign, suggested to the Swedish Tobacco Monopoly, which controls the output of cigarettes in Sweden, to print the warning, "Kill your cigarette when you are through with it," upon every package. The executives of the monopoly immediately agreed to co-operate by adopting the suggestion.

The first packages bearing the warning in question will appear in June and, according to estimates of manufacture and sale, the slogan will be printed on nearly 100,000,000 wrappers within a year

TWO DEAD, 3 INJURED ON A GRADE CROSSING

BUFFALO, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Two persons were killed and three so badly injured they are expected to die in a grade crossing accident at Athol Springs, fifteen miles west of Buffalo last night.

One of the dead is Fire Chief Richardson of Woodlawn Beach, and the other is a woman about forty years of age, not yet identified.

The injured were brought to the hospital here at midnight. The accident, occurred when an automobile crashed through the guard gates into the path of a fast freight on the Lake Shore Railroad.

WHEAT CROP IN WEST WILL ASTONISH WORLD

WINNIPEG, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—Should there be no serious impairment between now and harvest, the West looks like astonishing the world with a million bushel wheat crop declared J. R. Craig, president of Winnipeg Grain Exchange who returned to the city yesterday after a three week's motor trip through Central and Northern Saskatchewan and Alberta. He reports crop conditions excellent every where.

Coumons Will Devote Further Consideration to Proposed Amendments.

OTTAWA, June 15. Canadian Press—The Budget resolutions, amended in some particulars. and with the exception of the sales tax amendments, which were left for further consideration, were adopted by the Commons last night.

The amendments included a change in the British preference reduction, provisions allowing transshipment at British possession, when under direct bills of lading; change in reciprocity offer conditions, and changes in the stamp taxes resolutions.

A number of amendments were submitted by private members during the debate and all were rejected.

The new offer of reciprocity with the United States was passed with an amendment. As the reciprocity resolution was originally submitted, where the president of the United States reduced duties, the Dominion government was empowered to act similarly. Under the amendment it is made clear that the items on which Canada grants reductions must be the same as those on which duties are reduced by the United States.

In discussion, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Opposition leader, charged that the items cited in the reciprocity resolution showed "the hollowness of the offer." Hon. W. S. Fielding said that if we had the opportunity to get the 1911 agreement again, three quarters of the country would be rejoiced to have it.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF MANUFACTURERS

Hon. Graham Advocated a Middle Course Between Protectives and Free Traders.

TORONTO, June 15. — (Canadian Press).—With some four hundred members and their wives present, the annual banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association was held here last night. It was expected that Sir George Fuller, Premier of New South Wales, and Hon. H. S. W. Lawson, Premier of Victoria, Australia, would speak, but they had to leave the city earlier in the day.

In addresses, the question of tariff came to the front, and Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, attempted to demonstrate that what the Government had to do was to steer a middle course between the Protectives and the Free Traders. This view was criticized by the retiring president, J. R. Shaw. Mr. Graham, he said, could not evolve a policy to suit all classes. It was impossible. A policy must be framed on ecomonic lines.

"We have had too much of this balancing of interests," said Mr. Shaw. "What we want is a real leader. This policy of Laissez Faire will not do. We are getting to a point where we cannot pay."

Lieutenant - Governor Cockshutt said there was one thing on which they were all agreed, and that was, the taxes, both direct and indirect, were far too high. He urged his hearers to clear decks for bigger business between the Dominions and the homeland.

"The strategic portion of our Dominions and the Motherland has only to be looked at to enable us to realize that we have an almost impregnable position for the development of our trade and commerce."

QUIZ CORNER

PER CAPITA DEBTS.

Q—What are the per capita debts of Canada and other countries?

A—The per capita debt of Canada is approximately $165, as compared with $230 for the United States, $750 for Great Britain, $850 for France and $880 for Australia. The population of Australia is less than two thirds than that of Canada, yet its national debt is about the same as that of the Dominion. Great Britain with a population nine times that of Canada, has a national debt nearly ewenty-five times that of ours.

LA-TOUR-CHARNISAY.

Q—What was the La-Tour-Charnisay feud?

A—The feud that existed between La-Tour and Charnisay, two of the French founders of Acadia (New Novel Scotia), led to one of the famous tragedies of history. On April 13, 1645, during La-Tour's absence from his fort, St. John, (on the site of St. John, N.B.) was attacked by his enemy, and so heroically defended by Madame La-Tour that is was only captured by treachery. Madame LaTour died three weeks later of a broken heart, it is said.

MAJOR J.F.B. BELFORD ARRAIGNS U. F. O. FOR RECKLESS SPENDING

Conservative and Government Candidates Officially Nominated For East Northumberland—Stirring Campaign Speeches.

PUBLIC MEETING

WARKWORTH, June 15.—Wesley Montgomery, ex-M.L.A., of Brighton, Progressive, and Major J. F. B. Belford ,of Codrington, Conservative, are now the official candidates for the Legislature in Northumberland East. The Liberals have finally decided to let the election go by default so far as they are concerned.

At the nomination here yesterday George Huff, of Brighton, returning officer for the riding, who was assisted in work by Cecil Feddick, of Brighton as clerk, announced the candidates as above. Mr. Montgomer's agent is W. S. Strong, gentleman, of Brighton, while R. J. Allan, insurance agent of Campbellford, stands in the same relation to Major Belford Both candidates filed nomination papers that were numerously signed.

The Public Meeting.

Following the official nomination, a public meeting was held in the town hall, which was too small to accommodate the crowd that sought admission. Mr. Huff presided as chairman and the audience, a model of good order throughout the proceedings, heard the issues of the day discussed in a fair and good natured manner by the candidates and other speakers. Major Belford was assisted by W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville, while Prof. C. B. Sisson, of Victoria College, championed the cause of Mr. Montgomery.

Mr Montgomery led of in the oratery. He was followed by Major Belford, Prof. Sisson and Mr. Mikel, each of the speakers being placed under a time limit, and in conclusion Prof. Sisson was given 30 minutes to answer Mr. Mikel.

Mr. Nelson Chips In.

There was one little riffle in the harmony. Major Belford, in criticizing the road policy of the government, referred to the improved highway that passes through this district, criticizing the cost and the style of construction. Prof. Sisson in reply said the highway in question was a country road.

"It is a provincial county road," volunteered Mr. Nelson in stentorian tone from the rear of the hall.

"That being the case," returned the professor, "while the Provincial government pays part of the cost, it is your own county council that is responsible for the style of construction"

Whereupon the audience laughed and Mr. Nelson subsided.

So far as could be judged from the cheering, and there was plenty of it, the audience was nearly equally divided in the allegiance to the respective candidates.

Mr. Montgomery's Address

In his address Mr. Montgomery dealt with the charges of extravagance made against the Drury government. It was necessary to carry on. public works to find work for men after the war, and who otherwise would have become public charges. He enumerated the millions that have been spent on Hydro, on the extension of the New Ontario Railway, on northern development and education. In comparison with their predecessors the present administration had not been extravagant. The late government had increased the ordinary expenditure from $12,000,000 to $25,000,000, or 100 per cent. The Drury government had raised it to $38,000,000, or about 50 per cent. The members of the opposition had never objected to any expenditure when the House was in session, and that was the proper place to criticize; now they are doing all their criticizing on the platform. Mr. Montgomery praised the work of Hon. Manning Doherty, as Minister of Agriculture, especially for his success in securing the removal of the cattle embargo, and after a brief reference to his own record during the past four years, asked for the support of the voters on election day.

Major Belford Heard.

Major Belford said that the U.F.O. members had been elected to spend less money, and they had spent more. He complained that a campaign of insinuations were being carried on against himself, unknown, he believed, to Mr. Montgomery, for whom he had the highest respect. Some people were saying that he was going about the country with a Bible in one pocket and a bottle in the other, and that if he is elected whiskey will be put back in its old place in two years. He was told just before he entered the hall that some of his political opponents were planning to search his home for liquor.

The Provincial Debt.

The Drury Government found a provincial debt of $97,000,000, accumulated by the two old parties in 50 years, and in four years had raised it to $240,000,000. He accused the administration of building speedways for the idle rich and predicted disaster for Ontario if the Drury government is given another four year term. They have burdened the province with a debt that will take years to pay. It is time for a change and Major Belford is satisfied that there will be a change on June 25th.

The Outside Speakers.

After Prof. Sisson had spoken for twenty minutes Mr. Nickel took his turn. He reiterated the charges of extravagance with which the public are familiar and went into the details of the famous Backus deal, claiming that by that bargain the province makes $108,000 a year and Backus a profit of $2,000,000 in the same length of time. His authority for these figures was an editorial in a Toronto morning paper.

Prof. Sisson in Rebuttal.

In his speech in rebuttal, Prof. Sisson threw a new light on the Backus affair when he said that in the days when Hon. Howard Ferguson had been at the head of a department the limit which has been the cause of so much controversy was offered for sale at 40c a cord for the pulpwood, and that there had been no takers. Premier Drury for the same limit had received a bonus of $50,000, and 80 cents a cord for the pulpwood.

NOTICED CHANGE IN WIFE

Mrs. Johnson was in badly run down condition—two bottles of Dreco have produced a big change, says Mr. Johnson.

There is nothing more debilitating to the whole system than faulty action of the digestive organs—a lazy stomach, or a sluggish liver may cause years of endless misery. Such was the case with Mrs. Johnson, of 13 Smith Ave., Hamilton, Ont., until she heard about Dreco and decided to try its effects on her long standing ailments. The result was typical of this splendid, herbal remedy, as Mr. Johnson will tell you.

"My wife suffered stomach and liver trouble. Things she ate would not agree with her and would sour in her stomach, causing distress after meals, in belching and bloating. In fact, she hardly knew what it was to eat a good meal without suffering afterwards. She was billious, spots floated before her eyes and at time she had terrible dizzy spells, especially when stooping over. She always had to be taking something for her bowels. We tried almost everything without result, until we heard of Dreco. She has taken only two bottles and feels much better. I can see a big change in her. Her bowels are regular, she eats better and is growing stronger. We praise Dreco highly."

The symptoms from which Mrs. Johnson suffered are common to men and women of all ages and in every station of life. They come from the gasses and poisonous acids that poorly functioning organs throw off—until restored to their proper action by Dreco. This wonderful health builder tones and regulates these organs as Nature intended. It contains corrective juices of Nature's own herbs, roots, bark and leaves, compounded with scientific exactness. If your digestive system is right, Dreco will keep it right. If it is ailing, Dreco will quickly restore it.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Dawn of New Day Is Seen in Church Union.

WINNIPEG, June 15.—(Canadian Press).—The belief that a new day had dawned for the Church in Canada and that the United Church of the Dominion, when actually consummated, would be something unique in the history of Christendom, was expressed at the Manitoba conference here yesterday by Rev. J. A. Cromie, superintendent of Presbyterian missions in Manitoba, in conveying greetings from the Presbyterian to the General Assembly.

Rev. Dr. D. D. Miller, Moderator of the Manitoba Presbyterian Synod, said he appreciated the patient spirit in which Methodism had waited for the resolution which had just been adopted at Port Arthur in favor of organic union with the Methodists and Congregationalists. It meant a new outlook, he said, for many ministers who would work for the early consummation of union. In spirit nothing divided them and he trusted that all minor differences would be speedily eliminated.

Rev. Samuel Watkins, president, assured the delegates that their remarks were heard very sympathetically by the conference, and expressed the warmth and feeling for the Presbyterian Church.

Deadlock Continues at Peace Conference.

LAUSANNE, June 15— (Canadian Press.)—The deadlock between the Turks and the Allies at the Near East Peace Conference still continues. Turkey objects to the idea of a moratorium for the payment of interest on the Turkish debt as implying bankruptcy and therefore a national indignity, and she has persisted in her demand to pay in French paper francs. The Turkish delegation was told yesterday that the franc was impossible as the basis for payment owing to the legal right of the bondholders. M. Venizelos, head of the Greek delegation, injected somewhat of a sensational note into the conference yesterday by demanding to know where the conference stood. He said the protracted negotiations, in which Greece was not interested, threatened to culminate in an adjournment of the conference, that the slowness of the conference was alarming the Greeks, who wanted to demobilize their army, which was eating up the funds of the Greek treasury. M. Venizelos suggested the signing of peace preliminaries between Greece and Turkey in case the conference had to be adjourned.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

QUESTION OF FOOD.

Mrs. L: The problem you have put up to me to answer is entirely out of my line, and much as I would like to help you my distance from you makes it impossible for me to be of very much assistance. I feel sure if you call the Associated Charities of your city they will be able to tell you how you can get rid of the baby foods at an advantage to you.

Personally I do not see why you could not make use of them for your two year old child. She is none too old to have any one of the foods you mentioned made into a gruel and put with her milk. It is wise to have barley flour in the house in case of sickness, especially in diarrhoea it is usually the only thing a child can keep down. You would make so little on them at the price you are selling them for that you had better make use of them for the other baby.

Answer to Mrs. J. H. H.:

"Marasmus" is a disease of nutrition. A baby with this disease seemingly cannot digest and make use of any kind of food. If the baby does not succumb to starvation sometimes the cure comes when the baby is old enough to digest solid foods: that is thick gruels and such. One can only experiment carefully until the right thing is found. It is always a serious problem and requires the skill and knowledge of a trained baby feeding expert.

The babies with this disease are characterized by extreme thinness, the natural paddings of fat being almost entirely absent. They are bright looking babies often, but whiny, sleep poorly, take a long time to eat a small amount and are usually constipated. They look like what they really are, poor starved little birds

Terrible Headaches And Dizziness

Mrs. S. Raphael, 237 Kenilworth Ave. N., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I used to suffer from terrible headaches and dizziness. Last Summer, while I was walking up a side street, I got a dizzy spell and fell in the middle of the road. An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and tol dme to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way to keep well is to keep the liver active and performing its proper functions by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

Health of Lenine is Greatly Improved.

MOSCOW, June 15.— (Canadian Press.)—According to labor circles in Moscow, Nikolai Lenine, the Premier, is so much improved in health that he is now permitted to read the newspapers. It is said that this fact, however, does not mean that the danger is past.

It is understood that a few days ago the improvement in the condition of Lenine was so marked that he requested a report on the Government situation, but that his doctors declined to let him have it.

Since Lenine moved to his villa his speech and ability to move his arm and leg have noticeably improved. In order to prevent an attempt at a too early return to work by Lenine, his associates perhaps may have him moved from the temptations of the political centre of Moscow to a more quiet spot in the Crimea. There is a report in circulation that the present visit to Moscow of Dr. Semashko of the Crimea has as its purpose the arranging for the removal of Lenine to that region.

VIENNA SUPPORTS 73,000 DOGS

VIENNA, June 15 (Associated Press). —From a census which has just been taken in Vienna it appears that the city has 73,000 dogs, or twice as many as in peace time. At first it would seem remarkable that so many people in this povery stricken city should be keeping dogs.

One of the principle reasons is the increase in the number of burglaries and thefts, which has led many households to keep dogs for protection. Watchmen with police dogs are employed to guard the great Central Cemetary from which a number of bodies have been stolen.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

WANT AD BUSINESSES FOR BOYS.

This is written for parents as well as boys. The father of the youngster who has shown commendable enterprise in developing a little business—some of the successful businesses boys are conducting will be mentioned—can help his boy by proposing Wants Ads, offering to pay for them, and, at first, writing the messages.

Advertising is one of the greatest of modern forces. It is the perennial miracle performer for men in widely diversified trades and industries. A boy with a business bent cannot begin to use advertising too soon. Early experience and familiarity with it may shape the youngster's whole life.

The Want Ad columns will serve the boy's business with absolute efficiency, building it at an outlay which, besides the sums many big businesses pay to obtain sales, will be a very low percentage.

The following are boy enterprises which may be called, "Want Ad businesses", for the reason that Want Ads will skillfully handle the selling problem to a great extent.

1. Poultry and pet stock businesses. Many boys have their own flocks of chickens. Others have bantams, pigeons, rabbits, etc.

2. Subscription businesses. The boys serves as representative of one, perhaps several, publications.

3. "Chore" businesses. The boy mows lawns, takes care of gardens, tend furnaces, etc. In communities here and there are youngsters who dig and sell fishworms to fishermen, having regular customers, secured through Want Ads.

4. Retail salesmen business. The boy goes from house to house, selling any one of many articles.

Hundreds of successful little businesses are covered by these classifications. The enterprising youngster keen to make money usually can find a way. And Want Ads will help him.

FLOWING GOLD

By REX BEACH

COPYRIGHT 1923 BY REX BEACH

THE BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He introduces himself to the hotel manager, to the president of the largest bank and to the mayor. For a friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas, Gray undertakes a journey to Ranger to sell valuable diamonds to Gus Briskow. He meets Ma Briskow, Alleghany, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Having made friends with the family and a good sale Gray starts home in the same machine hired for the trip to Ranger and with the same driver.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

For a second time the driver flashed a glance at his companion. It was a peculiar remark and voiced in a queer tone. "Yes? Why?"

"Because—" Gray shifted his position, there was a movement of his right hand—the one farthest away from the man at the wheel—and simultaneously his left arm slipped from the back of the seat and tightly encircled the latter's waist. He finished in a wholly unfamiliar voice, "Because, my good man, you are now held up for the third time, and it would distress me to have to kill you."

The driver uttered a loud grunt, for something sharp and hard had been thrust deeply into that soft, sensitive region overlying his liver, and now it was held there. It was unnecessary for Gray to order the car stopped; its brakes squealed, it ceased its progress as abruptly as if its front wheels had fetched up against a stone wall.

Gray was grim, mocking; some vibrant, evil quality to his voice suggested extreme malignity at full cock, like that unseen weapon the muzzle of which was batted beneath the driver's short ribs. "Ah! You go armed, I see. A shoulder holster, as I suspected. I knew you had nothing on this side." Seizing his victim's outstretched right hand with his own left, he gave it a sudden fierce wrench that all but snapped the wrist, and at the same instant he reached across and snatched the concealed weapon from its resting place. He flung the chauffeur's body away from him; there was a sharp click as he swiftly jammed the barrel of the automatic back and let it fly into place.

The entire maneuver had been deftly executed, even yet the object of the assault was speechless.

"Now then"—the passenger faced about in his seat and showed his teeth in a smile—"it is customary to permit the condemned to enjoy the last word. What have you to say for yourself?"

"If you think it's funny to jab a gun in a man's belly when he ain't lookin'—"

"A gun! My simple friend, you have—or had—the only gun in this party, and you may thank whatever gods you worship that you didn't try to use it, for—I would have been rough with you. This is the 'gun' I used to stick you up." With a rigidly outthrust thumb Gray prodded the driver in the side. "Simple, isn't it? And no chance for accidents." The speaker's shoulders were shaking.

"Well, I'll be damned!"

"Not a doubt of it!" chuckled the other. "Especially if you follow in the course you have chosen. And a similar fate will overtake your pal, Mallow. It might save you several miles of bad walking to tell me where Mallow is waiting to highjack me. . . . No?"

"Go to hell!"

"Very well. Obliges me now by getting out. . . . And make it snappy!"

The driver did as directed. Gray pocketed the automatic, slipped in behind the steering wheel, and drove away into the night, followed by loud and earnest objurgations.

AN UNSEEN HAND APPEARED TO STRIKE THEM BOTH DOWN.

He was still smiling cheerfully when, a mile farther on, he brought the car to a stop and clambered out. Passing forward into the illumination of the headlights, he busied himself there for several moments before resuming his journey.

There was no mistaking the road, but Gray did not bother to stick to the main-traveled course when detours or short cuts promised better going, for he knew full well that Mallow would be waiting, if at all, in some place he was bound to pass.

At last he beheld some distance ahead the white glare of two stationary lights. The road was narrow and sandy here, and shut in by banks of undergrowth; as he drew nearer a figure stepped out and stood in silhouette until his own lights picked it up. The figure waved its arms, and called attention to the car behind—evidently broken down. Here, then, the drama was to be played.

Gray brought his machine on at such a pace and so close to the man in the road that the latter was forced to step aside, then he swung it far to the right, brought it back with a quick twist of the steering wheel, and killed his motor. He was now in the ditch and outside the blinding glare of the opposing headlights; the stalled machine was in the full illumination of his own lamps.

Contrary to Gray's expectations, the car in the road was empty and the man who had hailed him was a stranger. As the latter approached, he inquired:

"What's wrong?"

"Out of gas, I guess. Anyhow—I—" The speaker noted that there was but one new arrival, where he had expected two, and the discovery appeared to nonplus him momentarily. He stammered, involuntarily he turned his head.

Gray looked in the same direction, but without changing his position, and out of the corner of his eye he glimpsed a new figure emerging from the shadows behind him. Very clever! But, at least, his unexpected maneuver with his own car had made it necessary for both men to approach him from the same side.

While the first stranger continued to mumble, Gray sat motionless, keenly conscious, meanwhile, of that other presence closing in upon him from the rear. He simulated a violent start when a second voice cried:

"Don't move. I've got you covered."

"Why! It's—it's Mr. Mallow!" Gray hitched himself farther around in his seat and leaned forward in justifiable amazement.

"Shut up!" Mallow snapped. "Frisk him, Tony, and—"

The command was cut short by a startled, throaty cry—a hoarse sound of astonishment and rage—and simultaneously a strange, a phenomenal thing occurred. An unseen hand appeared to strike down both Mallow and his accomplice where they stood, and it smote them, moreover, with appalling force and terrifying effect.

The men understood vaguely what had afflicted them, for they had seen Gray lift one hand from the wheel, and out of that hand they had seen a stream of liquid, or a jet of aqueous vapor, leap.

Gray squeezed again the rubber bulb that he had carried in his hand these last several miles, ejecting from it the last few drops of its contents, then he opened the car door, stepped out of it and stood over his strangling victims.

Gray fell to work promptly. The bottle of cream he had begged from Ma Briskow he now put to use. With this soothing liquid he first washed out their eyes, the membranes of which were raw and spongy, and exceptionally sensitive to light, then he bandaged them as best he could with compresses, wet in it.

"You'll breathe easier as time goes on," he announced. "You'll cough a good deal for a few days, but where you are going that won't disturb anybody. Your eyes will get well, too, if you take care of them as I direct. But, meanwhile, let me warn you against lifting those bandages. Advise me as they dry out and I'll wet them again."

A blessed relief stole over the unfortunate pair; they were still sick and weak, but in a short time the acuteness of their suffering had diminished sufficiently for Gray to help them into the back seat of his car and resume his journey.

Within a few minutes of Gray's arrival at Ranger, the town was noisy with the story, for he drove down the brightly lighted main street and stopped in front of the most populous cafe. There he called loudly for a policeman, and when the latter elbowed his way through the crowd, Gray told him, in plain hearing of all, enough of his experience to electrify everybody.

Nothing like this had occurred during the brief, busy life of the town. It was a dramatic incident, but the manner in which this capable stranger had handled it and the discomfiture he had brought upon his assailants appealed more to the risibilities than to the anger of Ranger. Admiration for him displaced indignation at the highjackers; cries for vengeance upon them were drowned in noisy appreciation of their captor.

CHAPTER VII

Miss Good Plays Angel

GOVERLY was at the station when Gray's train arrived at Dallas the next morning. He was suffering intense excitement, and he deluged his friend with a flood of questions, meanwhile flourishing the morning papers, all of which appeared to have devoted much space to the Ranger episode. He hugged Gray, and he pumped his hand; he laughed and he chattered; he fretted upon hearing the whole story without delay. On their way uptown, the returning hero gave it to him, together with Gus Briskow's check.

"Speaking of your commissions, how am I going to pay you—not the sale you made, although I wouldn't have done as well, but for the loss you saved the firm and for the risk you ran?"

"You may give me anything you see fit," Gray declared. "and I shan't embarrass you by refusing. On the contrary, go as strongly as you possibly can."

Coverly actually appeared to be relieved at this statement, but he inquired, curiously: "What have you got up your sleeve? You don't need money."

"Obviously not. But I know a needy object of charity; a worthy case, I assure you. I can scarcely call him a friend, but I used to admire him greatly, and he is still an agreeable companion—a man at once capable, extravagant, entertaining, dissipated. Your money shall go to him, and with every dollar of it that he squanders, there shall arise an earnest orison to you."

To the Electors of East Peterborough

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—

Having been chosen by a convention of the Liberal-Conservative Party to contest the Riding of East Peterboro at the coming election on June 25th, I would most respectfully, but very earnestly, solicit your support.

Believing as I do, that the present administration has incurred obligations and made expenditures far in excess of our needs or our ability to carry, I will if elected, do my utmost to bring about a more economical administration of the business of the Province.

I can see no reason for believing that the industries of this Province—Agricultural, Manufacturing or Mercantile—will enjoy any greater prosperity in the future than they have in the past, and for that reason do not consider it either fair or honest to pile up a huge debt that future generations may not be able to bear.

I am in favor, so far as the revenue will permit, of assisting the people financially with the many problems confronting them, but all such grants to be made without inducements or coercion to undertake expenditures that are not wise or in the best interests of the already over-burdened taxpayer.

It is my intention to meet as many as possible of the Electors before election day and shall try to place my views before you at the various public meetings I may be able to arrange in the short space of time available.

In seeking your support and influence in this campaign, I pledge myself, if elected as your representative, to do everything in my power to advance the interests of East Peterboro, recognizing as a farmer, the outstanding importance of our agricultural pursuits, upon which in fact, the prosperity of the Province so largely depends.

If elected, I shall submit and discuss with the electors all those measures which affect them and which I may be able to help put into effect in the Legislature, because I firmly believe that such a plan fulfills real democracy and is a duty that every member owes his constituents.

Trusting for your support and influence, I am

Sincerely and faithfully yours,

T. D. JOHNSTON

Evening Gowns

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 15.—(United Press).—Formal evening gowns are again being beaded and studded with jewels, in spite of predictions for the simpler effects. Pastel shades of chiffon and georgette are beaded in crystal beads and in dull gold and silver beads.

At present one sees no special color as a summer favorite for evening wear, but orchid, shell pink, yellow, lanvin green, and orange tones are vying with one another for prestige. White, of course, will be as popular as it was last summer, leading all other shades. Very few real brilliant colors are seen.

Necklines are leaving the batteau shapes for the lower decollatage which is rounding. The shoulder-strap effect, however, is seen only on older women. Skirts for evening wear are about seven inches from the floor, except for the very full dance frock, which is about ten inches.

For restaurant wear, chiffon draped turbans are popular with the semi-evening gown Large hats are seldom seen where there is dancing.

Though the beaded dresses are popular for evening wear, the beaded frock is no longer considered smart for street wear. Embroidery, however, is used in place of beadwork and one sees numerous dark gowns embroidered in vivd colors.

Long necklaces of colored beads wrap once about the neck and extend in long chain with a tassel end.

Bright colored shoes are worn only for sport wear or for evening wear by smartly gowned women. They are not a street shoe.

Colored ribbon stitched on material before it is accordeon pleated looks as though it were embroidered into the material. It makes a lovely trimming for the skirt of a dressy frock.

Sandal wood is one of the newest colors for the evening frock and is especially beautiful when beaded in bronze beads and worn over an orange slip.

THE EAST MAY YET MEET WEST

But Only When Men Settle Own Differences Will Women Agree on Dress.

By MARIAN HALE.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Did you ever wonder why women of the east and west never have got together on the matter of clothes? Why Paris, supposed center of the world's fashion has never been able to spread its influence to the orient?

Well, it's something over which women have no control, if you'd take the word of Achmed Abdullah, son of the Near East, novelist and short story writer.

Women, he says, never can settle their differences in clothes until the men of the east and the west settle their own difference in ideals. For—and here's the only similarity the world over—women after all dress for the men.

But, explains Abdullah—

"Women of the occident and the orient dress for different types of men. The Islamic woman shrouds herself in veils to please her type, while the American and Parisian flappers expose their shoulder blades and knee caps to please theirs.

All For Man.

"The oriental woman keeps her beauty veiled in public so she may never be conspicious—that would displease the men of her family. The more high class she is the more she veils.

"The occidental woman flaunts her loveliness so it may arouse admiration from many men, knowing this will enhance her value in the eyes of the man she loves.

"Advertisements of pretty girls in various states of negligee, displaying hosiery, corsets and the intimate details of a woman's dress, would shock the oriental and ruin his illusions. The occidental man apparently is unmoved by them

Thoughts Differ.

"The oriental woman's veil is symbolic of her life and is an evidence of her understanding of men. It has nothing to do with her feminism or her lack of it."

These differences in dress merely reflect the differences you find in the mental attitude of the easterner and the westerner, the author thinks.

"The oriental keeps his emotions and thoughts carefully concealed, just as the woman does her body. In their books and art you find no psychological dissertations or sentimental revelations. Self-analysis has never thrived there. The intimate journal is unknown. Reticence everywhere shuts out the prying outsider.

"In the west the mind and the spirit are bared quite as freely as the body These fundamental differences of viewpoint keep the east and the west apart."

TRIUMPHED OVER DRAMATIC FEARS.

Story of a Play Within a Play That Concerned Jane Cowl.

By JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, June 14.—This week marks the close of Jane Cowl's six-months' run in "Romeo and Juliet". And here for the first time is told the story of a play within a play, a drama beyond the stage that concerned Miss Cowl.

It was a secret carefully guarded, but Jane Cowl had made up her mind that if she failed as Juliet she would never set foot on the stage again!

Doubtless the strain of preparation for this role—the final test and ambition of every actress—had something to do with this mental attitude at the time. But Miss Cowl confesses to a fear complex that has all but made a career in the theater impossible for her.

To play Juliet had been the dream of a lifetime, but it took years for her to "screw her courage to the sticking point." Then, when all was in readiness, came the intruding doubts and fears, not perhaps as to how she would acquit herself, but how she would be received. It was then that Jane Cowl resolved that as far as her professional career was concerned it was "do or die."

What followed is now part of theatrical history. Her "Juliet" has been acclaimed the length and breadth of the land, by dramatic critics, by writers in books and magazines which ordinarily do not treat of the theater, by visiting artists from England, Russia, France and Germany.

Juliet is the test role of great acting for women, just as Hamlet is for men. And as Juliet, Jane Cowl has enjoyed the longest consecutive run that has ever been recorded of any Shakespearean role in the history of drama in this or any other country.

Miss Cowl will make a brief tour to the Pacific coast in "Romeo and Juliet." Next season she will be seen as Cleopatra on the New York stage. She will also do one of the Shakespeare comedies and in the spring will go to London. In the meantime she will begin the building of a classical repertory.

That opening night in "Romeo and Juliet" might have been a Waterloo of all her hopes, but an audience—and many more after it—acclaimed her with a silence almost sacred, with tears and at the end with wild tumult that bespoke the depths to which it had been stirred.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS COURT IS IN SESSION

(By HENRY WOOD)

THE HAGUE, June 15. — The League of Nation's new permanent court of International Justice, which President Harding proposes the United States shall join, convened to-day for its third regular session.

Three cases were on the docket, all of considerable international importance and all tending to establish the wide scope of work which is steadily coming under the jurisdiction of the new court.

The court convened to-day with the full panel of judges present except the late Judge Ruy Barbosa of Brazil, whose place will be filled by election of all the state, adhering to the court during the September Assembly of the League of Nations.

The panel at present constituted consists of: Judge James Bassett Moore, America; Judge Altamira, Spain, Judge Anzilotti, Italy; Judge Bustamente, Cuba; Judge Viscount Finlay England; Judge Huber, Switzerland; Judge Loder, Holland; Judge Nyholm, Denmark; Judge Oda Japan and Judge Weiss, France.

They represent not only all of the leading countries of the world but all of the leading races and all of the principal legal systems of the world.

The Kiel Canal Case

The most important case which the court has on the docket for the present session is that relative to the refusal of Germany to permit the English ship Wimbledon to pass through the Kiel canal, a right established by the Versailles treaty.

The case is vitally interesting from the point of view that it constitutes the first time that one nation has been haled before the new tribunal by other nations England, France, Italy and Japan, as signatories of the Versailles treaty, all joined in summoning Germany before the court for the alleged violation of the treaty.

It was in March 1921, that Germany refused to let the Wimbledon, which was laden with war material for Poland, pass through the canal. Germany bases her refusal on the ground that a state of war at that time existed between Poland and Russie and that to have permitted the allied ship laden with war material for Poland to Pass through the Kiel canal would have constituted a violation of Germany's neutrality as regards the Russian-Polish conflict.

Germany Has a Judge

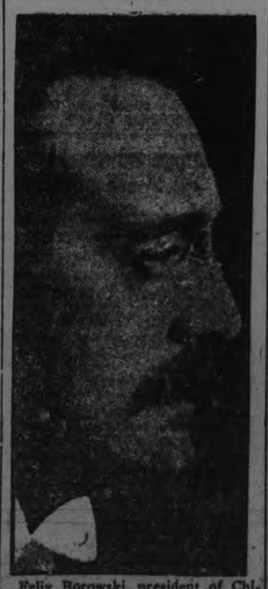
Although Germany is not a member of the court she has been given the same right as all members, name ly to have a judge of her own sit in on the court's panel during the hearing of the cases . Professor Walter Schucking has been designated by the German government for this pur pose.

The second case on the court's docket also interests Germany, as it has to do with the German minorities in Poland.

Even more important and interesting, however is the third case on the docket, for it involves Soviet Russia which is likewise not a member of the court. Similarly it constitutes the first time that outside nations have endeavored to summon the Soviet Republic before the international court of justice.

The case in question involves the treatment which Soviet Russia is now meeting out to the inhabitants of Eastern Carelia.

"Youth"



Felix Borowski, president of Chicago Musical College, won a $1000 prize for his orchestral composition "Youth," in a competition at the North Shore Musical Festival, Chicago. Fifty-seven other composers competed. Borrowski was born in England of Polish parents, but has lived in Chicago for 25 years.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 15 (Special to The Examiner). — Despite the appearance of general heaviness in the market of the previous afternoon the industrial averages closed at a loss of only one-third of a point while the railroad completion was scarcely off 1-4 encouragement was derived from this resistance to the bearish pressure was supplemented the showing of the weekly federal reserve statement nothing a reserve ratio of 77 per cent compared with 77.4 per cent. a year ago despite the tremendous expansion in industrial activity since that time Stocks showed a steadier tone in the early dealings. California Petroleum, which led Thursday's break in the oil shares, recovered more than a point on the initial transaction, while corn products, American Can., and other industrial leaders scored fractionally.

A number of representative issues scored gains at the opening under the leadership of N. Y. Central, which at 102 5-8 was up 1-8, California Pet. a weak spot in the previous session registered an initial gain of 1 1-8 at 24. Other opening prices: Studebaker 108 3-8 up 1-8, Pan-American B 65 1-2 up 1-4, Southern Ry. 37 off 1-4, Sinclair 25 1-4 off 3-8, and 97 1-2, Corn Products 14 1-2 up 1-2, Gen. Motors 14 5-8 up 1-8, U. S. Steel 94 1-2, American Telephone and Telegraphs 134 1-4 off 1-4, Union Pacific 125 1-4 off 1-4.

Selling movements were directed against various sections of the list in the first hour, resulting in a heavy tone throughout the market.

Motors were given special attention by the bearish contingent because of persistent talk of overproduction which is not taken seriously in well informed circles. In answer to reports that cars are piling up at the agencies, trade authorities point out that the Packard Company, which sells directly to the user, is having a struggle to keep pace with the demand.

MR. WEARING SPOKE AT MEETING IN BELLEVILLE

BELLEVILLE. June 15 — Mr. Joseph Wearing attended a joint meeting yesterday at Belleville of the candidates for West Hastings, Wm. Ireland, Conservative and Col. E. D. O'Flynn Liberal. After the somination both candidates made a statement followed by Mr. Wm. Hutchins of Brampton who speaking on behalf of Mr. Ireland tried to show that the Drury Government was really a Liberal Government. Mr Wearing on behalf of Col. O'Flynn made such a strong attack on Howard Ferguson's record that the chairmon had difficulty to keep the Conservatives present, under restraint

HUN CEMETERIES MAY YET POSSESS DRINKING ROOMS

The Suggestion Put Forward as a Means of Raising Revenue For General Purposes.

COFFIN PRICES LOWER

BERLIN, June 15. — Frequent mention of coffins is a feature of the German press now. The Deutsche Allgeimeine Zeitung, the leading organ of Germany, publishes the following article under the somewhat sensational heading of "Prices reduced at the verge of the grave," and goes on to say: "The enormous increase of funeral expenses has forced the local authorities to take steps to reduce them. The reduction is to apply to coffins, mourning-coaches, and cemetery fees."

"In future coffins are to be reduced to the maximum height of 50 centimetres, i.e., the South German and English measurements of coffins is to be introduced, and thus the distinction between the height of the coffins of the rich and poor abolished. A special tax will be levied on any coffin exceeding the regulation size.' (The richer the deceased in Germany the higher his coffin.The ordinary German coffin is the most horrible and ugly sight imaginable. The coffins of the poor are euphemistically called "nose crushers!" This expression is considered to be a very choice bit of Teuton wit.) "The depth of the graves will be reduced from two metres to 1.20 c.m. Coffin wood from the state forests will hencforth be supplied at a low cost, and thus the standard coffin will be reduced to 50 per cent. of the present cost."

Four in Hearse.

"The municipal auto-hearse will convey coffins to the cemeteries in batches of four, and only charge a nominal fee for the petrol consumed. Those who desire to be buried in coffins higher than 50 centimetres, will be obliged to hire the auto-hearse for their exclusive transport and pay fifty fold the usual charge."

"Cemetery fees are to be reduced by no longer throwing up mounds over graves but leaving them flat, and only marked by a slight elevation at the edges. The cost of watering and care of the plants and shrubs will be reduced to half the present price. Refreshment rooms will be erected near the cemetery gates and it is hoped that by charging a high fee for food and beverages and food (including alcoholic drinks) that considerable sums will be earned which can be devoted to further proper care of the cemeteries."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung expresses some doubt as to the advisability of opening refreshment rooms and draws a lurid picture of drunken mourners lurching out of the cemetery with top hats all askew.

Many Opportunities.

But as the somewhat cynical Berliner Tageblatt wrote when commenting on its contemporary's article:

"If the mourners want to get drunk theer are plenty of opportunities outside the cemetery gates, and it is better that the graveyard upkeep should be met by supplying pure drinks. Besides many will prefer a cup of tea or coffee and it is to be presumed that if an opportunity is offered to take a "little something" on the cemetery premises the funerals will be better attended, and thus the funds for the upkeep of the gardens and grounds will be considerably increased." The Rote Fahne, a communist newspaper, goes a little further and proposes that the crematoria should have a grill room attached!

DOCTORS HEAR

ference turned to a discussion of what the doctors thought it was and what the patient's death proved it wasn't.

Peculiar heart diseases were minutely discussed and special indications that the palpitating organ had shown were pointed out. The conference was lead by Dr. Rhea, of the General Hospital staff and certain of his assistants. Dr. Boyd, who has made a special study of the peculiarities of sleeping sickness, spoke when the discussion turned to this disease.

Dr. I. M. Rabinowitch, also of the General Hospital staff, who has advanced the use of Insulin according to the Banting theory here, addressed the meeting, giving several possible new methods of measuring the capacity of the heart.

Yeast Eaters.

Yeast eaters were given the whys and wherefores of the recent fad at the morning clinic at Hotel Dieu, where the study of vitamines took place. Experiments on animals, some of which were begun some time before the clinic, were presented, and Dr. Asselin explained with types of cases which needed a larger supply of vitamines. Rickets and other food diseases, which were the result of improper feeding, were discussed and suggestions for adjustments in the diet given.

The out-of-the-hospital patient, the one who comes in each morning for treatment, was the main actor in the demonstrations at Hotel Dieu, under the auspices of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat section of the Canadian Medical Association. Minor and further developed troubles of the eye, some of which might develop into really serious ailments, were shown and corrections made and suggested.

LIBERAL WORKERS HAD BUSY EVENING

(Contributed.)

Supporters of Alderman J. W. Meyers filled the Liberal committee room last night for the work of laying out the details of the organization. All the tables were crowded by men going over the lists for each ward, and the enthusiasm with which these voluntary helpers threw themselves into the work was most gratifying to the executive Mr. Frank Kerr remained for a while and in a "peppy" speech said that it was most gratifying to all Liberals to observe the enthusiasm which the party as a whole was working behind their candidate. It augured victory at the polls, especially if the effort was maintained right up to the last minute on election day. Liberals who had swung away to another candidate in the last election had found that their political ideas were best represented in the Liberal fold and their return to the Liberal ranks was one of the most gratifying features of the campaign. In the city and country alike, Mr. Kerr said, the Liberal candidate, Ald. Meyers, was most cordially received. His fine record as a citizen and a business man of integrity, together with the four-square character of Wellington Hay, gave the Liberal ideals one of the strongest appeals they have ever put forward to the electors of this riding.

After ten o'clock Mr. Whitehouse thanked the workers on behalf of the Liberal executive and Alderman Meyers for their splendid turnout and the evening's performance. Reports from all quarters were most assuring, he stated, and with the loyal co-operation of all Liberals there would be no doubt of the result in West Peterborough.

UNIFORMED PAGE STEPS INTO STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORY, N. Y., June 15. — (Canadian Press.)—James A. Sheridan, resident of the Bronx, for years one of the uniformed pages on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, and more recently a telephone clerk for stock exchange house, became a member of the Exchange to-day. He paid $91,000 for the seat of Charles F. Miller, doffed his uniform and stepped out on the floor as trader on his own account.

CONSERVATIVES IN RALLY AT SELWYN

Nominee W. H. Bradburn and Lieutenants Receive a Hearty Welcome

B. Fitzgerald presided at Mr. Bradburn's Selwyn rally. The candidate received a hearty welcome. "I am a business man," he said, "and I think it is time some more business men got into the legislature." The present government surely cannot pretend to have been an economical government and yet everybody knows that the whole foundation of the U.F.O. movement in this province was to stop all unnecessary expenditure and consequent taxes. The new real estate tax, by which everybody has to pay on the transfer by deed, etc., of property, is a very severe and wholly unnecessary tax invented and applied by Drury. "I am in favour of good roads," said the speaker, "but the enormous amount now being spent will burden this province and it is being extravagantly spent. The share of the county of Elgin, for example was, for 1922, $115,000 for good roads, and you can imagine their feelings. They protested, but that is useless. At this election they will see, so far as they can, that no more such madness as that is imposed upon them."

One man on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway got 2000.00 for work on that road. Such men are in favour of Drury. They say, "Oh! It's all right, the money is going back to the people. But what people? Not the people who have to pay it. There have been over 6,000,000 in deficits during the Drury administration and that is where all these extra taxes are going. The debt of this province has increased by 38,000,000 outside Hydro altogether, under Drury and chiefly due to unnecessary expenditures. "Take a look at your extra taxes under Drury. That's all that is necessary to convince you. Regarding the O.T.A., I stand pledged to its support and enforcement until the people themselves change it." (Applause.)

V. J. McElderry.

"On April 23rd," said the speaker, "the House voted 35,000,000, then 6,000,000, then 70,000,000. Or in all 111,00,000. Surely this is stupendous. The increase of our debt is enormous." The fault the speaker had to find with Mr. Hay was that during the session he supported Mr. Drury and only found out his mistake after the damage was done. Andrew Hicks and Mr. Casselman, both the U.F.O.'s, left Drury. They could stand his policy no longer. Mr. Casselman censured the failure of Drury to do anything for agriculture and Mr. Casselman has received his renomination by the U.F.O. without any opposition. "Patronage," said the speaker, "has become a scandal and the granting of contracts without tender excited the astonishment of the people."

Individual Rights.

Mr. Burnham began by saying that for at least twenty-five years he had made a study of property in all its phases. The first phase is that of ownership. Has a man (and woman) a right to that which he earns, and if so then what he earns and lays by is known as his wealth and so much of that wealth as can be used at any time by him in carrying on his business is called his capital.

But Mr. Tooms says that Capitalism has broken down. These are his words: "The financial system which the capitalists have laboured to build up is trembling like a house of cards. The war has shaken the institutions of the world . . ." and again . . . "the machinery (of our civilization) seems to be breaking down." So that the use of a man's property by himself, according to the present system, is a system that has broken down, he says. Now what is the alternative, the system he proposes?

It is the abolition of the individual capital or property owner and the substitution of the State as universal owner (public ownership). Under public (or State) ownership there is to be no more ownership in the hands of individuals or companies of any of the means of production. The ownership of farms, of mills, of all machinery, of all implements, of all cattle—in fact of everything that is used in production of any kind—will become the property of the State just as the railways lately have done, with, however, this difference, which is, that Sir Henry Thornton demands the right of private management which, as a matter of fact, utterly negatives the very principle upon which public ownership is founded. He's the boss and must not be interfered with or he will chuck his job. There is nothing whatever in such public ownership but the name. The real public ownership, as opposed to capitalist or private ownership of money and of what will produce money, is where the State owns and manages all property used in production or that can be so used. So that Mr. Tooms contemplates the time when all will be wage-earners at the beck and call of the Government. Farmers and others will own nothing and have the overhead management of nothing. The capitalist system, that is, the private ownership system, of the present time, with some owners and many wage-earners, has broken down, Mr. Tooms says. Public ownership, the other scheme (or to speak correctly, State ownership) makes the State the sole and only owner and chief manager. At present we see it has the ownership and management of Crown lands, water-powers, fishing rights, public health, through highways, etc., etc. Just extend that to everything else and you have what Mr. Tooms wants. Not a man with a hoe or an axe will be able to call that hoe or that axe his own. Not a man with a little house and garden, or a hundred dollars saved, will be able to call them his own or dispose of them. The State will own and manage everything. The home will be abolished, as we understand it at present. Why? Because the abolition of capital means the abolition of private ownership and the introduction of State or public ownership which is Socialism. When people put the private rights of the house in the hands of the State, as they did in one respect in Ontario lately, they introduced just so much Socialism or State control of the individual in his private capacity. What I have to say to you then is this: If you believe that capitalism or private ownership has broken down, and if you want to give up all that you have to the State (and get no pay for it, mind you) then elect Mr. Tooms. That's his plan. You see how dangerous it is to fool with important matters. We must stop and not encourage it. As for Liberals, if any of them vote Progressive then they are backing up Forke, not King, and those who talk of a possible alliance between the two surely ought to realize that it is a struggle to the death between Liberalism and Progressivism, not a possible alliance. If it were not for Progressivism at Ottawa King would have a working majority, and how could it possibly help him to further reduce his influence in Ontario and give it to the party that is at war with him? No man can be a friend of either of the old parties and their principles and at the same time support their self-confessed enemy. But Progressivism and the U.F.O. are two different things. The U.F.O. wants not a new party but a new part of an old party, a new body in the House to check up when necessary the old parties, and that is, of course, entirely at their option and is no doubt wise enough. That is, however, as J. J. Morrison pointed out, an entirely different thing from quitting that plan and "broadening out" into a new political party striving for general control.

LIBERAL LEADER WINS CONFIDENCE

Ability and Personality of Wellington Hay Held Up to the Electors of Back Townships.

(Contributed.)

Large and enthusiastic audiences welcomed Mr. J. W. Meyers, the Liberal candidate, in his tour through Harvey and Galway.

On Wednesday afternoon a meeting was held at Nogey's Creek, at which Miss Rundell was chairman. A meeting in the C. N. B. A. Hall, Swamp Lake, where Mr. Warren filled the chair, and last night Mr. Ross Heard presided at a meeting in the Union Creek school house.

At Bobcaygeon last night at a large meeting in the interest of L. V .O'Connor ,the Liberal candidate for South Victoria, Capt. John Dewart spoke in the interest of Mr. Meyers. Ex-Mayor J. J. Duffus, Mr. William Scollard, and Mr. Dewart accompanied Mr. Meyers and spoke at the various meetings.

The issues of the campaign were frankly and comprehensively discussed and it was conclusively shown that the Drury government had broken their election pledges of 1919, had failed to economize in public expenditure and had added $144,000,000 to the Provincial debt during their four years in office.

Mr. Ferguson, the Conservative leader, was strongly criticized for his incompetent management of the department of Lands and Forests during the time that he was Minister of the Crown.

It was pointed out that a man whose public record had been one of extravagance and incompetence was not the kind to whom the people of Ontario could turn for guidance at this critical time in the history of the province.

In contrasting Mr. Wellington Hay ,the Liberal leader, is a man above reproach, whose private and public life had been a success and who possessed the confidence of all classes of people in Ontario. The electors were strongly urged to get behind Mr. Meyers, who had been a farmer and had also made a success of his business in the city of Peterborough. He was the type of man who would make a success in handling the affairs of the riding of West Peterborough, and assist Mr. Wellington Hay in bringing about a better condition in the financial affairs of the province.

The meetings were enthusiastic throughout, and it was plainly evident that a very strong Liberal sentiment prevails throughout the rural parts of the riding.

CO-WORKERS CLASS HAD PLEASANT GARDEN PARTY

The Co-Workers Bible Class of George street Methodist church held a very enjoyable and successful garden party yesterday afternoon and evening, at the residence of Mrs. A Allison, 877 Water street. Flowers and Chinese lanterns decorated the pretty lawns, where ice cream and cake, tea and sandwiches were dispensed by members of the Class. Community singing was a feature of the evening, with instrumental music in piano and violin duets, by Miss Maisie Cunningham and Arnold Spencer. Mrs. Wm. Cunningham is convenor of the social committee of the Bible Class. The president is Mrs. W. J. Copp.

NO SUCCESS ATTENDS EFFORTS RECOVER BODY

Although a corps of willing volunteer workers have been energetically striving ever since Sunday last to recover from the river which swallowed it up, the body of Orville Crowe, victim of a drowning accident last Sunday morning at Stoney Lake, no success has attended their efforts to date. To give fresh impetus to the work, Ald. Joseph Crowe has now offered a reward of fifty dollars to anyone who recovers the body. Dynamite has been resorted to, so far without avail.

BRITISH GOLFERS IN LEAD AT TROON

Whitcombe and Havers Completed the First 36 Holes in 146 — Finals Will Be Played To-Day.

TROON, Scotland, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Two British golfers, C. A. Whitcombe and Arthur L. Havers, last night were leaders in the struggle for the British open golf championship. They took 146 strokes for the first 36 holes played yesterday. Another 36 holes will be played to-day to decide the championship.

Next to the two leaders stands Walter Hagen, present titleholder, just one stroke behind. If Hagen should win to-day, the championship trophy would be carried to the United States for the fourth successive year.

If past performances are any indication the two Britishers in the lead will be hard to shake off.

Whitcomb was the second British player to finish in the open championship in 1922, his score of 303 being just three strokes above Hagen's winning count.

Havers was the first British professional near the head of the list the previous year when Jock Hutchison won at St. Andrew's.

Yesterday morning Whitcombe steered his shots so well that he established a new course record of 70.

Gordon Lockhart, with 149 strokes, and Robert Scott, with 150, came third and fourth in yseterday's play, and Joe Kirkwood, the Australian champion, came next with 151.

In the morning round Hagen slipped below the standard expected of him, and was lucky to get 76. When the afternoon round began he was six behind Whitcombe, but he gained all but one back. In doing so, Hagen went down the fairways like a streak, sending his approaches straight to the flag and shoving his putts against the back of the tins with such skill that he equalled the former course record of 71.

Most of hte high ranking British professionals were up and doing, but they were not doing so well. Sorrows of one sort or another sought each of them in turn, so that last night such names as Mitchell, Duncan, Ray, Mackenzie, usually found nearer the top of the list, are bunched under the stroke heading of 154, with twelve names ahead of them.

Thousands tramped the turf of Troon to watch the stars of golfdom play yesterday. For the most part a bright sun beamed upon them, and the north-west breeze was, after 11 o'clock, not so cold as to be uncomfortable.

The remaining 36 holes will be played to-day.

Football

The game on Saturday afternoon between the Quakers and Thistles will be played at the Oval at 5.30.

The Thistles team for Saturday will be: J. Stott, goal; J. Rae and R. Ralston, backs; Jackson, Hoggarth and Richmond, half backs; Summer, Hutton, McMillan, Williams and Burgess, forwards. Reserves, McAlpine and Anderson.

Warsaw was well represented in local football last evening. Jurry, Lonsberry, Wasson and Crowe were among the players.

The following team will represent the Peterboro United in the junior soccer game to be played Saturday afternoon with the C.P.C.: E. Borget, goal; H. Slaughter and H. Bradley, backs; A. Busby, J. Sweeting and O'Connors, halves; W. Cordory, J. Cooper, T. Montgomery, A. Vinette and J. Johnston, forwards.

SHUTOUT GAME FOR WHITEHOUSE AGAINST ADANACS LAST NIGHT

SCORE WAS 4 TO 0.

The opening battle between the Lakeviews and Adanacs which was expected to be one of the best games of the season lived up to all expectations and the fans who turned out last evening were treated to an exhibition of baseball that will be hard to beat.

Frank Whitehouse, the southpaw hurler for Lou LeBarr's Lakeviews was the hero of the game turning in a no-run, no-hit record in more than masterly style. The Adanacs were not dangerous at any stage of the game for only three of their runners reached first and none got as far as the second sack. Two of the three to get on did so on errors and the other man got a complimentary in the opening inning.

Jeff Hardill did the mound work for the Adanacs and for the first three innings held the Lakeviews hitless. In the fourth frame two hits and a stolen base sent the first run home. He tightened up again in the fifth and though he allowed one safety the runner was stranded at first. Things got lively again in the sixth when the Lakeviews collected three hits, and an infield out and an error for three runs.

In the other innings Hardill held the Lakeviews well in hand and sent nine of them to the bench on strikes. Whitehouse had a slight edge in the matter of strike outs with eleven to his credit. Both pitchers walked one man.

J. Hall, the Adanac left fielder pulled off the star fielding stunts of the game with two difficult catches to his credit. Whitlow was the only batter to garner more than one hit. He had two in three time to bat. On the first occasion he batted in the first run and on the second scored himself when Whitehouse followed him with another single.

VETS WALLOPED PACKERS' TEAM

One - Sided Soccer Game Ended With the Score 5 to 0 For the G.W.V.A.

The Vets were the guest of the C.P.C. last evening at King Edward Park in a league fixture and outplayed the Packers to the score of 5 to 0.

Packers won the toss and started a man short. J. Wade immediately opening the scoring from a cross by Sharman. Vets continued to press and Wade headed in a beautiful effort that Curtis cleared easily. Wasson sent down the field for W. Hotston to force a fruitless corner. Packers' backs retaliated well until A. Wade tricked the ball over to Monks who headed through the second goal giving Curtis no chance to save. Gatfield arrived 15 minutes late A Sharman to A. Wade combination play added goal number three. The play ran from end to end with Gatfield making an effort to score and Hotston brothers being held closely by Vets backs. W. Hotston crossed over to the left wing which resulted in Bradburry shooting over the bar. Griffin and Bishop collided in trying to clear and the Packers left wing forced a fruitless corner. Brilliant saving by Curtis held the Vets at bay and repeatedly saved the situation. Vets added the fourth goal just before the interval.

On resuming Curtis saved a beautiful shot from A. Wade. At the other end Gatfield bewildered the Vets' defence to test Griffin with a low ground shot. Packers forced the issue to give Charlie Griffin some work in clearing his goal then Vets transferred the play to the other end forcing Curtis to come out of his goal to save. Mann cleared at the opportune time. The Vets came back again and peppered the Packers goal from every angle. Curtis responded to the occasion in masterly fashion. Before the close Mann fouled Monks inside the penalty area and was ordered off the field. A. Wade gave Curtis no chance to save with the penalty kick awarded for the offence. Full time sounded immediately with the Vets five goals to the good.

The teams were:

C.P.C.—Curtis, goal; Mann and Wasson, backs; Juby, W. Hotston and Lonsberry, half backs; Gatfield, Bradbury, Jack Shaw, H. Hotson and T. Hotston, forwards.

G.W.V.A.—Griffin, goal; Crowe and Bishop, backs; Burrows, Dyer and Hurle, half backs; P. E. Wade, E. Monks, J. Wade, A. E. Wade, J. Sharman, forwards.

Referee—Frank McKinley.

JAHREN WILL PITCH FOR COBOURG TO-MORROW

Manager Turpin Sending His Ace in to Snatch Game Away From Petes —Heckman Will Work For Locals.

Cobourg players have their minds set upon winning tomorrow's game with the Petes at Riverside Park and the word from the Lakeshore town is that Jahren who has won his last three starts trimming Belleville, Kingston and Peterboro in a row is to be shot back against the locals tomorrow. The Petes found considerable difficulty in solving his delivery until the ninth inning and Manager Turpin feels confident that the right-hander from Saskatchewan can make his record four straight.

The Petes, however, need the game to keep from taking a drop in the League race and they will be in there fighting all the way. Heckman is billed to do the gunning and if the Solomon crew play ball behind him the Jahren winning streak should be checked. At all events it will be a real ball game and promises to attract a huge crowd of fans. Many Cobourg enthusiasts are expected to follow their team to Peterboro and the first local appearance of the Lakeshore crew is looked upon as one of the big events of the ball season.

The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp.

SACRED HEART NINE DOWN HILLCRESTS

Walloped Two Pitchers For a Score of 23 to 2 at King Edward School Last Evening.

Sacred Heart walloped two Hillcrest pitchers in a Juvenile series contest at King Edward school grounds last evening and won the game by the score of 23 to 2.

Hillcrests looked the worse for lack of practice and games, and did not play up the form displayed in previous battles with the Maple Leafs and I ock Works. To add to their misfortunes,, Walsh who was getting up steam on the hurling heap, was struck on the face with a ball thrown from the crowd and had to retire from the game.

Ferd, Sheehy twirled in fine style for Sacred Heart whiffing thirteen basemen. His pitching and the heavy hitting of his teammates was a combination that was too much for Hillcrests.

The scoring summary:

GIANTS WENT DOWN AGAIN TO THE REDS

Second Victory For Cincinnati Over the Champions--Pittsburgh Nosed Out in Listless Game.

CINCINNATI, O., June 15 (Canadian Press). — The Reds pulled the champion Giants back again yesterday by winning the second game of the series 6 to 5. Bentley was hit hard in the first five innings and retired at the end of the sixth. Rixey held the champions to two runs until the eighth, when the Giants tied up the game. The winning run was scored off Nehf in the last. Score:

Cincinnati	2	0	1	0	2	0	0	0	1	—			6	12	0

Philadelphia 2, Pittsburgh 1.

PITTSBURGH, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh yesterday, 2 to 1, in a listless ball game. Although only six hits were issued by Meadows, his lack of control helped the lowly Phillies, while the Pirates, clamouring to oust New York from the League leadership, failed in their usual offensive strength. Score:

PHILADELPHIA NOW CLOSE TO THE TOP

Victory Yesterday Put Them Within Two Games of the League Leaders — St. Louis Downed New York.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15 (Canadian Press). — "Rube" Walberg was the hero of another Philadelphia victory yesterday when he beat Cleveland, 4 to 3. The victory with the defeat of New York by St. Louis, put the Athletics within two full games of the American League leaders. Walberg went into the game in the second, and held the Indians to one run during the remainder of the contest. Score:

St. Louis 3, New York 1.

NEW YORK, June 15 (Canadian Press). — St. Louis won its first game of the season yesterday from the New York Yankees, 3 to 1. Hub. Pruett was wild, but held the American League champions in check while Waite Hoyt weakened in the eighth when the Browns scored all their runs.

A pass to Babe Ruth with the bases full in the third gave the Yanks their only run. Score:

St. Louis	0	0	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	—			3	5	1

Chicago 7, Washington 3.

WASHINGTON, June 15 (Canadian Press). — Erratic fielding and loose pitching enabled Chicago to take the first game of the series with Washington here yesterday, 7 to 3. The White Sox were credited with six stolen bases, Mostil accounting for three. Score:

Chicago	2	1	0	2	0	0	2	0	0	—			7	9	0
Washington	1	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	—			3	9	4

With the race in the two major leagues about one-fourth spent several surprises have already taken place. The dope pot has been upset in both directions.

* * * * *

When Connie Mack made the statement that the experimental days were over, that his team had arrived, few fans took him seriously. Knowing that Connie is an optimist in all things, fandom thought he was trying to feel that way about it.

* * * * *

So far Mack's team has been the outstanding sensation of the two major league races. Instead of having a cellar position firmly cinched Connie's club has been holding down a fairly prominent position in the first division. Getting good pitching, his club has made the most of the possibilities.

* * * * *

The Brooklyn club of the National League has been almost as big a surprise as the Athletics. A great many of the critics seemed to think that Brooklyn would have a merry battle with Philadelphia for the tail-end honors in the organization presided over by President John Heydler.

* * * * *

When I made a tour of the training camps in the spring I spent a couple of days at Clearwater, Fla., looking over the Brooklyn club. As I watched the men in action it certainly didn't look as if Manager Wilbert Robinson had a very pleasant season ahead of him. Brooklyn had the pitching, but the rest of the club looked weak. This in a measure was due to the failure of Zach Wheat, star outfielder; Jack Fournier, hard-hitting first baseman and Infielder High to report.

* * * * *

I watched Brooklyn play as exhibition game against the Boston Braves. The Dodgers' infield was made up of Schliebner at first, the exception of Jimmy Johnston, it at short and Mullen at third. With the exception of Jimmy Johnstos, it as an infield made up of minor leaguers with Johnston playing out of position. Certainly no team could expect to make much headway with a patched up infield of that sort.

* * * * *

One evening, while I was talking the situation over with him Manager Robinson remarked: "My ball cub as made up at present isn't a good minor league team. Failure of number of my veteran players to report has already raised havoc with my plans. I have good pitching, but pitchers must be supported in the field and at the bat. With my present line-up we are not going to be any where. However, if things can be fixed up with the players who are holding out for more money, I will have a pretty good ball club. I don't figure it will nose out New York for the pennant, but it will be a hard team to beat."

* * * * *

Play during the first quarter certainly bears out Robinson's dope. With his veteran players back in the line-up, the Brooklyn club, after a poor start, due to the absence of these players in the early games, has been playing as good ball as any club in the league. A reconstructed infield in which Jimmy Johnston alone remains, plus the punch of a great outfielder like Wheat tells the story

* * * * *

The other form reversal in the majors has been pulled by the Chicago White Sox. Kid Gleason has a far better ball club than its position makes it seem. Any number of reasons have gotten the Sox off badly. The team will show its class before the close of the race.

LEVINSKY MADE A QUICK COMEBACK

Soon Picked Up the Knockout Trick—Wins Decision.

SHELBY, Mont., June 15.—When the match was made with Battling Levinsky it was to be for the light heavyweight title.

But Minnesota's law didn't permit a decision. The only way Gibbons could win was to knock "Bat" out.

Tommy wasn't as good at punching then as he is now or he wouldn't have been worried.

Kane went to Dan Morgan, Levinsky's manager. Morgan agreed that the newspaper decisions would stand official with him and that the title would be the stake.

It was an easy fight for Tommy—easier than he had figured.

Wins Newspaper Decision.

Levinsky didn't open up. Gibbons had to take the fight to him. The newspapers gave Tommy the decision.

Gibbons weighed 161½. Levinsky scaled 176½.

That's how Gibbons claimed the light heavyweight title. St. Paul fans gave him a wrist watch with this inscription on the back: "Tommy Gibbons, light heavyweight champion." Tommy still wears the watch. It's a good ticker, he says.

So Tommy does not see how Georges Carpentier won the light heavyweight title when he knocked out Levinsky.

"I stripped 'Bat' of it back in 1917," he tells us.

Does Bit For Uncle.

Cleverness and speed was what Tommy strove for. He tried to use his right like Mike did. But he couldn't get any steam behind the punch. His arms aren't formed like Mike's. His bones and muscles lay differently.

Then Mike and Tommy went into the military service. They were commissioned boxing instructors.

Tommy went to Camp Meade, Md. He taught boxing, bayonet fighting and hand-to-hand encounters. Then he was shipped to the officers' training camp at Camp Gordon, Ga.

He was recommended for a first lieutenancy. But the armistice came along, so he resigned, for he wanted to get back to fighting.

Then he spent a short time at Princeton in charge of a class of college coaches and trainers.

Sick, But Wins.

He boxed Mick King at Calgary, March 27, 1919. Mick was a tough customer. But Tommy closed both of his eyes.

Tommy next journeyed to Seattle where he fought Jimmy Darcy. Then he fought Boy McCormick at Milwaukie, Ore.

Gibbons was sick. Kane didn't want him to go ahead with the match. But Tommy hated to disappoint the fans and the promoter. So he went through with it.

"I always will remember what one darkie fan did for me," he declares. "All during the fight—and it was tough going because I hadn't eaten anything all day—this darkie kept hollering: 'Dat's it, boy, go on in and get killed.'

"His chatter kept me laughing and I almost forgot being sick.

"I won. The old darkie helped me do it.

"Sometimes fans don't realize the condition of a fighter. They think we never get sick. But we're human."

BRITTON WON BOUT

NEW YORK, June 15—Jack Britton former world's champion welter weight, won decision last night over Soldier Bartfield in ten round bout. He put Bartfield to floor with right to jaw in second round.

ONE PLAYER OFTEN MAKES A BALL CLUB

Hustle Has Made Connie Mack's Club—Recruit Supplies Dope.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—One player very often makes a ball club. In a sense that is true of the Philadelphia Athletics of 1923, sensation of the early stages of the American League race.

Wid Matthews, playing centre field for Mack, is the athlete who has made the Philadelphia club. Matthews is far from a star. He is playing his first year in the majors. He has a very weak arm. So weak in fact, that many managers other than Mack would have passed him up because of that one fault.

Hustle has made the Philadelphia club of this year, and Matthews has supplied that feature to the play of the Athletics.

When Matthews reported in the spring he was hardly given consideration as a regular. His style of always trying soon won over Mack, and long before the season opened the tall leader of the Athletics announced that Matthews would play centre field. There was much speculation when it became known that Matthews had crowded the hard-hitting Tilly Walker out of the Athletics' line-up. Some of the experts shook their heads rather dubiously.

Matthews won a place in the Athletics' line-up because he hustled. And don't think that Mack didn't tell the rest of his boys about it. The spirit of Matthews soon permeated the entire club. If a rather ordinary player could win a regular berth because hustle was his chief asset, why wouldn't the same spirit improve the play of every other member of the team?

The club took the question to heart and decided in the affirmative. As a result there is plenty of hustle and color to the Athletics of 1923. Matthews supplied that winning asset.

TRAPSHOOTING.

The Peterborough Gun Club trap shooters held their weekly session last evening at the traps, and some good scores were turned in.

Stan Coon was high gun with 45 out of 50, closely followed by E. Eldridge with 44.

The Gun Club Trophy for the highest average for the season was displayed at the club house, and the boys are all on edge, each trying to be the winner.

The club is making arrangements to get a shield for competition between Lakefield and Peterborough, with shoots at both places during the season.

None of th Lakefield boys were down last night because the weather looked rather doubtful.

Following are the scores:

	Broken.	Shot at.
J. S. Coon	45	50
E. Eldridge	44	50
C. Graham	44	50
Roy Hutchison	43	50
Tom Curvin	43	50
Geo. Edwards	38	50
James Fowler	31	50

STARS GET A SLUGGER.

SYRACUSE, June 15 (Canadian Press). — The Syracuse Stars of the International League yesterday announced the purchase of Second Baseman Gislason from the Little Rock team of the Southern League. He made 200 hits with Omaha in the Western League last season.

SHELBY PROMOTERS LAY DOWN ON JOB

GREAT FALLS, Mont. June 15.—(Canadian Press).—With terrific right hook to chin Jack Dempsey yesterday, knocked out Jack Burket Pittsburg heavyweight making his second second knockout victim in two days since resumed boxing after a rest. As Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager was leaving for Shelby last night, to collect second hundred thousand dollar instalment from promoters he was met by Mayor Johnson of Shelby and bankers of Great Falls, who prevailed upon him to meet them here to-day when money would be paid. Shelby promoters were unable to met obligations.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions

ONE—Is there a limitation as to the length of the baseball bat?

TWO—What is the weight of the official major league ball?

THREE—If the batter hit a ball into fair ground in front of the plate, and before he moves out of his box, the ball rebounds and hits him is it a fair or foul?

FOUR—If a pitcher delivers a badly discolored ball to the batter, what is the penalty?

FIVE—Is there a restriction on the size of the gloves that can be worn by the players in the field?

Answers

ONE—The bat cannot be more than 42 inches in length. At the thickest part, it cannot be over two and three-fourths inches in diameter.

TWO—The official ball must weigh not less than five nor more than five and one-quarter ounces.

THREE—The batsman invariably stands in foul territorty when at the bat, therefore a ball that hits fair, and bounds back and hits the batsman before he leaves the box is always regarded as foul.

FOUR—The pitcher shall be automatically suspended for such an offense for a period of 10 days.

FIVE—The catcher or first baseman may wear any size, shape or weight glove. The other players cannot wear a glove weighing more than 10 ounces, or measuring over 14 inches around the palm.

"Battling" Siki Is Again in Trouble.

PARIS, June 15 (Canadian Press)—Battling Siki, before entering the ring again in an effort to regain the light heavyweight title, will have a round with a police court judge who has summoned him to appear on 19th June to answer charges of carrying concealed weapons and of violence.

The charges grew out of an incident in a cafe a few weeks ago when the Senegalese fired a revolver shot into the floor.

KEARNS AFTER MONEY.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 15 (Canadian Press). — The second $100,000 of the $300,000 guaranteed Jack Dempsey for his match with Tommy Gibbons on 4th July, positively will be paid to-day, Jack Kearns, manager of the heavyweight champion, was advised yesterday.

Kearns will leave for Shelby today to receive the money.

GIRLS' GAMES.

The Woollens defeated the DeLavals by a score of 20 to 6 in a fast Girls Soft Ball League game played at Central Park last evening.

The game this evening is scheduled between the Tigers and the Quakers and will start promptly at 6.30.

REPORT BONAR LAW AS SERIOUSLY ILL

Believed That Former Premier Has Grown Worse Last Few Days.

LONDON, June 15. — (Canadian Press).—The condition of Andrew Bonar Law, which seemed to have improved after his resignation from the Premiership, does not continue so favorable, according to reports circulated among his friends in Parliament. It is believed that Mr. Bonar Law has grown worse during the last few days, and that he is now seriously ill.

A contributor to the Liverpool Post, whose information regarding London affairs always seemed authoritative, writes regarding the ex-Premier: "It is with deep regret I hear that before long an operation may be performed on the throat of Mr. Bonar Law. He is now back in London, very cheerful, very peaceful and apparently reconciled to the existence he is compelled to lead—one of life's quiet heroes. He follows all political developments with keen interest. He sees only his closest friends, but he plays many rubbers of bridge."

If business men talked as they spell nobody would understand what they said

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

NEW SUCCESS FOR CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN "THE PRIMITIVE LOVER"

They said that when Constance Talmadge made "Polly of the Follies" she exhausted all the humor that could be put into a motion picture; but the statement has been definitely disproved by "The Primitive Lover", her latest First National attraction which opened a run yesterday at the Royal Theatre.

"The Primitive Lover," in addition to its comedy appeal, has a strong plot and something of a lesson for romantically inclined girls beneath the veneer of humor. Phyliss Tomley, new married, finds domestic life with a practical husband boring and dreams of romance that she imbibes from trashy novels. Along comes Wade, a rejected suitor, to embody these ideals in real life.

Both Wade and the husband are mild fakers. Wade was reported to have died during a South American exploration trip; but the report was greatly exaggerated having been a publicity hoax to stimulate the sale of his novels. The husband knew it and used the knowledge of Wales' enforced absence to win his wife's hand. When the dual chicanery is exposed the wife seeks for a divorce and the problem of the debutante arrives again for both men are once more suitors for her hand. The difference is that while one adopts caveman methods the other adheres to the conventional twentieth century form of wooing.

Constance Talmadge does some of the best mimicry of her career and her work in this production must go a long way towards establishing her as the screen's foremost comedienne, if, indeed, there has ever been any doubt upon the subject.

Harrison Ford and Kenneth Harlan are excellent foils for each other as the two rivals. In fact, the whole production stands superior to anything that has been presented for a long while.

Epic Entertainment

There was a good audience last evening at the Capitol Theatre for the popular star Thomas Meighen, in "The Ne'er-do-Well," adapted from one of Rex Beach's stories. A tale of the Panama Canal, screened in scenes of tropical beauty, it is one of those pictures which seem to be favorites of this actor; the type which shows him getting into trouble through his genial good nature and fondness for the fair sex. A discontented married woman, with a devoted husband and beautiful home, is the central figure in his career this time. When his father tires of his wild ways and has him doped and sent to Panama, to make his own way in the world, the cheerful hero wakes to realization of an existence which has for assets a couple of empty pockets and a dress shirt front emblazoned with addresses and tele phone numbers of New York actresses, souvenir of a last wild night party However the lady in the case, Edith Cortlandt, played in fine style by Gertrude Astor, influences her husband to find work for the young man and his promotion is rapid and complete. He meets the only girl in the world under a greenwood tree. This is "Chitquita" Gertrudis Caravel, daughter of a prominent politician, a Spanish damsel enacted by Lila Lee, who plays the part of the demure maiden, convent-bred and hedged about by Spanish conventions, guarded by a duenna, to perfection. With characteristic impetuosity, the hero Kirk Anthony, spirits her away for a short half hour from a dance and marries her, returning later with innocent deameanor to a wrathful father and rival suitor.

Here the mirthful action changes to tragedy. Mrs. Cortlandt's husband Kirk's benefactor, has cultivated a secret jealousy that bursts into life with a public exposure of the two, and then commits suicide in Kirk's rooms, laying the onus of murder on the young man. Just how he extricates himself or rather, is extricated, from such a perilious position is one of the most interesting situations in a movie drama that is slightly different in atmosphere from the general run of pictures, resembling the spoken play in the fashion in which the suspense of each situation is prolonged sufficiently to keep the audience on its toes throughout. Thomas Meighen has lost none of his charm. He is still a clever and versatile actor, but alas! he is getting fat.

The new series of the "Leather Pushers" has a fresh angle, showing Kid Roberts trying to come back after a period of soft and luxurious ease. He gets pounded handsomely by a big bruiser with a crooked referee, and finds that he has been 'framed' by his wife who wants him to get licked sufficiently to give up the fighting game altogether. Just what is going to happen to the handsome fighter in this series will be interesting to watch.

SASKATOON, Sask., June 15. — (Canadian Press).—The most severe electrical, wind and rain storm in the history of Goose Lake Country struck the village of Flaxcombe at 4.45 Wednesday and lasted until after 9 p.m. Districts immediately east and south escaped with only a wetting, but the town itself was inundated when rain fell literally in sheets.

Basements were flooded to a depth of from four to ten feet, and the Canadian National Railway station is an island in a deep lake. A mile east of Flaxcombe the Canadian National Railway roadbed was washed out for a distance of 75 feet, and fifteen feet of roadbed in the Flaxcombe railway yards were swept away.

The big Saskatchewan Co-operative elevator sank on one side, as the earth was washed away from the base, and yesterday was listing to one side at a steep angle. A barn owned by Mrs. C. Cretzlor was struck by lightning and was burned to the ground. Flaxcombe people were unable to arrive at any estimate of the monetary loss entailed.

WON GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

TROON, June 15. — (Canadian Press).—A. G. Havers, representing Great Britain to-day won British open gold championship by finally defeating Walter Hagen, of United States, last year's champion.

A PRESENTATION

After the regular practice of St. Andrew's choir last evening, a pleasant half hour was spent in welcoming a new member, the bride of James H. Johnston, who recently went to England to be married. Mr. Dunbar, in the name of the choir, formally welcomed Mrs. Johnston, and a presentation from the choir of a handsome cut-glass berry bowl was made by Mrs. Ford Turner. The whole assembly then adjourned by motor for refreshments to the Downeyflake Tea Room, where Mr. John Crane kept the ball of fun rolling.

Society

The Knights Templar were hosts last evening in a jolly motor drive to the children of the Shelter, who were taken to Lakefield, Young's Point and Chemong, and then treated to ice cream, candy and fruit. The Knights Templar were dissappointed in their intention of including the children of St. Vincent's Orphanage in the drive. Arrangements were made some time ago to take the little boys who live at the Orphanage but so many of the children have been sent out to rural homes for the summer, as is the practise at the Orphanage, that it was decided to hold another drive at some future time when all the children from both institutions will be free for the evening's outing which they enjoy so much.

SCHOONER MYSTERY

NEW YORK, June 15. Canadian Press. — The port authorities are still trying to unravel the mystery of the two-masted schooner, Mary Beatrice, which was picked up on Wednesday at the entrance to New York Harbor, after the Chinese passengers had slain her crew in battle, which according to some accounts, started when the crew tried to collect a big bonus from the Chinese for attempting to get them into an American port. Scraps of women's clothing were found on the schooner to-day.

MOTOR CARS OPEN REMOTE SECTIONS OF THE NEAR EAST

BEIRUT, Syria, June 15. (Associated Press).—American automobiles threaten to supplant railroads in many parts of the Near East Throughout Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia and in certain parts of Transjordania and Arabia, fleets of American motor cars now link up remote cities and towns and afford the traveler a cheaper and more comfortable journey than by rail.

In some of the sparsely settled and scattered regions of the Mediterranean and interior countries, Yankee motor cars have blazed the way to places which heretofore were accessible only by long and tiresome journeys on donkeys and camels. In Syria and Palestine 90 per cent. of all automobiles in use are of American make.

American tourists to the Holy Land are now able to make the trip from Beirut to Jerusalem by automobile over excellent roads. Before the advent of the American car the 200 mile trip from Beirut to the Holy City occupied nearly a week; today it can be done in ten hours.

American at home who think of Palestine as it is depicted in the Bible, a pastoral land untouched by modern life would perhaps be surprised to find the whole region covered by a great arterial network of splendid roads and fast-moving motor cars. The wooden plough, the hand scythe, and the other primitive implements, which for thousands of years were used to make this land fertile and productive, have given way to modern American agricultiral machinery. In the larger productive areas the camel and the ox-cart have been supplanted by the time-saving power tractors.

In the old days before the wart it took four days to journey from Jerusalem to Nazareth. Today it can be done in four hours. Along the old tracks the camel, heavily laden, still wends his way, never so much as turning his head at the hoot of the caravan of automobiles.

The long-cherished idea of a quick land route from the Mediterranean to Bagdad and India also has been brought within the realm of practical experience by the development of a motor car service between Beirut and Haifa and Haifa and Damascus. This route brings Bagdad within sixty-hours' land journey of the Mediterranean. The course takes one through Damascus, then across the Syrian desert to Ramadje and on to Bagdad, a distance of 590 miles, with only one stop halfway between Damascus and Damadjie at Rutba Wells, the only available water source throughout the stretch of desert.

CONVICTS NOT WANTED

LISBON, Portugal, June 15 (Associated Press).—Portugal today sends its convicts to the pental colony at Loanda, on the west coast of Africa, but the presence of these undesirables is resented by the Portugese and foreigners resident there, who have petitioned the government to remove the convicts to one of the islands of the Cape Verde archipaelago.

Loanda is prospering these days, and its people declare the presence of the convicts hampers their development.

SAY COLLEGES DO NOT TRAIN MEN TO THINK

JUDGED BY RESULTS

NEW YORK, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—Although denying that he opposes colleges, Thos. Edison declares that he is convinced there is something wrong with the college system, in a statement to-day to the New York Tribune, in which he discusses the recent graduation of his youngest son, Theodore, from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He said he got some of the best men in his plant at West Orange, N.J., from colleges, but admitted that sixty in his employ had been culled out of 2,000. "There is something wrong with the college system," he said in explanation. "I don't know what the trouble is, that's not my line. I can only judge by results. But one thing is certain, the present system of education in colleges does not train men to think. University presidents, in criticizing my questionnaires, said that the college doesn't try to fill students' minds with a lot of information, but teaches him where to find it. Yet, when we tried my questionnaire at one college students could not pass it because they didn't know where to find what they wanted."

Mr. Edison said that his son would not have to answer his father's questionnaire before he took a position in the Edison plant. He said pridefully that the youth had made 70 per cent. on one of them, and expressed confidence that he would answer the last one with a much higher percentage of accuracy.

Cannot Register Ships Sold Under Conditions.

OTTAWA, June 16.—(Canadian Press)—A bill passed all stages, exceptional reading, in the House of Commons yesterday which provides that no register shall register any ship purchased from a foreign subject or corporation where the bill of sale imputes "any measure of contin ued control by the government of a foreign country."

The bill is understood to have reference to sales of vessels, by the United States Shipping Board, with a condition attached.

Wreckers Use a Bomb on Railuay

FRANKFORT - ON - THE-MAINE, June 15. — (Canadian Press).—The partial derailment of the Mayence - Paris express yesterday by the explosion of a bomb placed on the tracks caused the death of one French soldier, in addition to the injury of several passengers, it was learned to-day. According to German reports, the outrage was carried out in exactly the same manner as those recently perpetrated in Palatinate, leading to the assumption that various attempts are directed by definite organizations and under one leadership.

BANDITS LOOT WAS $85,000

Chinese Brigands Made a Big Haul From Captives —The Government Pays the Piper.

PEKING, June 16. — (United Press). — The total loot of the Chinese bandits, including ransom and valuables stolen from prisoners, amounts to $85,000. The Cabinet to-day appropriated $85,000 (Mexican) to pay the outlaws as ransom for the foreign prisoners who have been released, and this, with the loot obtained and the ransoms of individual Chinese captives, brings the total to $150,000 (Mexican money) or $75,000 in American money.

Roy Anderson, who represented the Government in the negotiations, has signed an agreement in which he promises to see to it that the Government's pledges are observed.

CRUISER ON WAY.

Despite the high water which is holding up shipping locally, at least one cruiser is on its way from New York State, determined to make the trip through the Trent Waterway.

J. C. Curtis, president of the Citizens' National Bank, left Albion, New York, on Friday in his cruiser "Luanne," and expects to reach here next week. Mr. Curtis was won to this visit by the talk given by Leon Frazer at the Rochester Yacht Club a few weeks ago.

ARMED BANDITS ROBBED A TORONTO DRUG STORE.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16. — (Canadian Press.)— Armed bandits held up Earl Wills, clerk in Tamblyn's drug store, Danforth avenue, last night, and robbed the till of $47. They made their escape in a Sedan automobile.

STAMBOULISKY WAS BETRAYED BY PEASANTS

Former Bulgarian Premier Accidentally Riddled by Bullets From Rifles of Own Followers.

PATHETIC STORY

LONDON, June 16 (United Press). — "You betray me the same as Judas betrayed Jesus."

With these words Alexander Stamboulisky, the fugitive Premier of Bulgaria, surrenderd to a force of peasants he had regarded as his friends.

A few hours later he was lying dead, riddled with bullets from the rifles of his own followers, who were trying to rescue him.

It is reported that Stamboulisky aspired to be King of Bulgaria in place of Boris, and that this was one of the reasons why that monarch sided with those who overthrew him. After the coup against Stamboulisky in which the Bulgarian Army lined up with his enemies, the Premier fled with a small bodyguard. He attempted to raise recruits in the villages through which they marched in the hope of getting together a sufficient force to be able to march upon Sofia, the capital.

However, he was unsuccessful in this, and at last was driven to go into concealment. Emerging from his hiding-place disguised as a wool merchant, he entered the village of Golak.

The mayor, whom he considered a friend, recognised him, and summoned peasant guards, whom Stamboulisky also had reckoned as his allies.

"You are to consider yourself under arrest," the mayor said to the Premier.

It was then that Stamboulisky made his bitter exclamation, "You have betrayed me."

Asked for Car.

He desired to give himself up to higher authorities than the mayor of the village, and therefore he asked and secured permission to telegraph Prof. Zankof, the Foreign Minister, and Acting Premier of the Government, offering to surrender. He also telegraphed the commander of the Zankof troops, who were near the village, asking that a car be sent.

When the soldiers arrived, Stamboulisky requested to be allowed to return for an hour to his native village of Slavoltza, which was only a few miles away. He wanted to get what baggage he had.

A Moment's Joy.

En route to the town, there was a rattle of rifle fire, and a party of peasants attacked the troops guarding the prisoner. The troops fled, and Stamboulisky was liberated.

But his joy lasted only a moment. The troops, taking a short cut, ambushed him, and discharge da volley Stamboulisky fell dead.

He died only a short distance from his native village, where he played as a boy.

The troops then disposed of the peasants, and proceeded into the town, where they searched his house.

A Secret Treaty.

MR. T. TOOMS RECEIVES EIGHTY COLUMNS FREE SPACE FROM EXAMINER

Yet the Ex-Member for West Peterboro Publicly and Privately Declares That the Examiner Has Not Given Him a Square Deal—The Publicity Gate Was Wide Open for Mr. Tooms.

Examiner Has on Record a Lone Letter Of Thanks From Defeated Candidate

Publicly and privately Mr. T. Tooms has stated that the Examiner has not given him a square deal.

As long as his complaint was made in private conversation no particular attention was paid to it, although it was related to the Examiner by a number of persons to whom Mr. Tooms uttered it. But when he declared it from a public platform, as he did a few weeks ago at a meeting of the People's Progressive Party of West Peterborough, then the Examiner is fully justified in denying and refuting Mr. Tooms' statement.

First there is the testimony of public opinion. Men who materially supported Mr. Tooms in his candidature in 1919 have affirmed that the Examiner has been most fair to Mr. Tooms as the representative of West Peterborough in the Legislature. These views were obtained from men who have followed the political career of Mr. Tooms from its very inception, men who have personal knowledge of certain events which might have been exploited adversely to Mr. Tooms and his personal interests had the Examiner been animated by any spirit of unfriendliness toward him, or had there been any desire or purpose to harass him. Various motives prompted a considerate treatment of these matters in their reporting. They need not be disclosed now, the motives, but quite evidently they were not sensed, or realized or appreciated by Mr. Tooms.

Secondly, there is the evidence of the Examiner itself. In the four years that Mr. Tooms has been a member of the Legislature he has been given every encouragement and facility by the Examiner to broadcast through its columns reports to his constituents of affairs that might be of interest to them and to himself. Mr. Tooms was repeatedly told to telephone or telegraph while in Toronto, at the Examiner's expense, any such reports which he deemed worth while sending. Admittedly such matters were news, but on the other hand the writing and transmitting of them were left to Mr. Tooms himself, who in such a position was virtually a staff correspondent.

To come down to the actual publicity Mr. Tooms received through the Examiner the total space devoted to him and his communications from his nomination in the Fall of 1919 until the end of last April, stretches out into a string of more than 1,600 inches, or EIGHTY COLUMNS.

The Yard Stick Tells the Story.

There is no doubt about this measurement, for the yard stick was applied to it, and it does not include events in which Mr. Tooms was more or less indirectly concerned, such as the Biggs' banquet and trip to Burleigh, or the banquet to Premier Drury in the G.W.V.A. Hall. These EIGHTY COLUMNS of space comprise for the most part addresses and letters by Mr. Tooms and interviews with him. There are also included most of the editorials that referred to him.

A summary of the measurement of the Tooms' articles follows: 1919 (from September) 395 inches; 1920 there were 548 inches; in 1921 slightly more than 301 inches; 1922 some 264 inches, and this year, up to the first of May, contributed the rest.

Some of these reports may be recalled. In 1919 for instance —September 9th Mr. R. N. Scott's letter in which he suggested that Labour and the U.F.O. should get together, and therein made the suggestion of the fusion that carried Mr. Tooms into the Ontario Legislature. On the 11th Mr. Tooms replied in a four inch letter. On Oct. 4th the Tooms nomination took up 49 inches. On Oct. 15th Mr. Tooms wrote in a letter, "Ask Mr. Soden to act up to the moral standard of his opponents, if possible."

On October 18th, 18 inches G.W.V.A. meeting, and on the

EARLY FISHERS GET GOOD HAUL LOCAL WATERS

Americans on Way Early This Morning—Pickerel Bass and 'Lunge Are Biting Well.

PIONEER CRUISER

This year's fishing season promises to be the most successful in the history of the district from the standpoint of visiting Americans. Citizens who were out early this morning were surprised to see cars with United States markers already on the way to the lakes, and Mr. Leon Frazer, of the Chamber of Commerce, reported meeting several.

Mr. Frazer said there are as many Americans here to-day than on any day last year, and prospects look well for a bigger influx.

Some of the fishermen seen this morning come from Florida, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York States, and they are having varying luck at Rice Lake, Sandy Lake and other haunts. Several strings of pickerel, bass and 'lunge had been caught before noon, and the fish were reported to be biting well. Local fishermen took a good haul from Little Lake.

SUGAR DOWN IN WEST TORONTO PRICE FIRM.

TORONTO, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—While sugar has taken another slump in British Columbia, and is now selling, wholesale, at nearly a dollar less than in Toronto, local dealers are not anticipating a drop here. The price dropped 15 cents in Vancouver yesterday to $10.15 a hundred; here it is selling for $11.04. Yet British Columbia draws its raw material from the same sources as Eastern refineries. Toronto brokers were at a loss to ascertain for the situation at the coast when questioned last night. One man said that the threat of importations or actual importations from Hong-Kong had brought about the reduction. Normally, British Columbia gets its product from Cuba, but when the price reaches a certain figure it is possible for Hong-Kong to compete.

HAMILTON REQUEST WAS SHELVED BY GOVERNMENT

TORONTO, Ont., June 16. — (Canadian Press.)—Ontario government has definitely shelved, until after the election, consideration of the request of the city of Hamilton that it receive back from the Hydro Commission six million dollars' worth of bonds which it had pledged in connection with Port Credit-Niagara Radial.

Canadian Woollens Get Big Contract

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., returned from Ottawa this morning, and stated that the Canadian Woollens, Limited, for the Auburn plant, had received the contract from the Department of National Defence for something between thirty and forty thousand dollars. Mr. Gordon said that this was for material for the Militia, and that the Minister of Militia had authorized the contract to be given to the Canadian Woollens, Limited. This will keep the plant running full blast for about three weeks on this one Government order.

DAIRY PRODUCTS WERE PLENTIFUL

There was plenty of basekt produce on the farmers' market this morning, with a smaller ount of stuff in the carts on the open section. Butter opened at 35c a pound, and decreased in price gradually to 30c. Eggs were 26c and 25c a dozen.

Fowl in fairly plentiful quantities was 25c a pound for chickens and ducks. This is the season for butter wrappings of huge green leaves and adornments of chunks of ice. An eye for tasty trimming was evidenced in one small chicken, trussed up neatly and garnished with parsley and yellow irises.

Downstairs there was plenty of rhubarb and onions and lettuce, the latter at three bunches for 10c. Potatoes are $1 a bag, and cooking apples 45c a peck. The fish vendor had bass and speckled trout, with a rival dealer wrapping up "Lake Ontario mudcats" at 2 for a quarter. Asparagus was 15c a bunch. A single load of hay was selling for $14.

Homeless people wandering in London streets on one night last February numbered 137, as compared with 104 last year.

BALDWIN GOVT. EVOLVES PLANS OF SETTLEMENT

Would Call International Conference, Including All Leading Nations Involved in Reparations.

THE RUHR PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(Special).—The Baldwin Government of Great Britain is reported on good authority here to have evolved two plans for bringing the reparations discussion to a "brass tack basis." One of these plans contemplates the inclusion of the United States; under the other plan this Government would not be called on.

The Plans.

1. Summoning of an international conference, including all the leading nations in any way involved, either as creditors of Germany or as sufferers from the economic instability, to discuss the question.

2. Submission of the reparations dispute to the League of Nations.

Bradburn Says:

"I unhesitatingly endorse Hydro, because the Province owns, directs and serves its people free from either departmental or private control."

That is the safe and sane position to take for Hydro. And we must work for White Coal to get free of the American monopoly in our fuel service. In fuel for power, especially.

"GALLAGHERS"

Another Testimonial

Pembroke, Ont.,
April 16th, 1923.
"Gallagher Remedy Co. Ltd.,
Peterboro Ont.
Dear Sirs,—
I take great pleasure in recommending your Golden Drops, as my baby was given up by the Doctors. She had Bronchitis and Pneumonia, when your agent, Mr. R. G. Briscoe, sold me a bottle of Golden Drops and told me to follow the directions by putting a plaster on the back and on the chest.
That night was the first night's rest we had in two weeks and the third day she was playing in her carriage
So thanks to the Gallagher Remedy Co. and your Pembrooke agent.
Yours truly,
MRS. E. GRIESE."

Our Golden Drops is the most wonderful preparation we put up. By it's use a prominent businessman of Toronto was saved the amputation of his leg. Poison had so infected it that the Doctors advised it's amputation. He used the Golden Drops to heal it up and last fall was able to go back on a deer hunt.
The price of this is only 50c per bottle.

ICE PIERCED THROAT WHEN STRUCK BY BAT.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16. — (Canadian Press.)— Struck on the neck by a flying baseball while in the act of swallowing a piece of ice, Joseph Tromba, aged ten, of New Toronto, was so severely injured that he died an hour later in hospital. The bat slipped out of another lad's fingers, and Tromba when hit ran towards the umpire as though in protest. He fell to the ground and it was seen that he was bleeding profusely. The ice has pierced his windpipe.

BEST SAND FOR CONCRETE

CHICAGO, June 7 — (Associated Press).—Row after row of little glass bottles, filled with sand and carefully filed away in glass-covered cabinets is a part of the technical "library" at the Structural Materials Research Laboratory at Lewis Institute in Chicago. It is probably the only collection of its kind in existence, and the information contained on the labels of the bottles gives an interesting insight into the part that science is playing in modern industrial undertakings.

This "sand library" was started ten years ago, and specimens have been added from time to time until there are more than 2,800 different bottles of sand in the collection. The specimens come from every state in the union and from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and other foreign countries.

Each sample has been carefully tested, and the results of the test are kept in the files. They include the source of the specimen, the grading, silt content and the results of the colorimetric test for organic impurities. In most instances mortar and concrete tests also have been made. The reasons for the tests were to ascertain the suitability of the various sands for concrete and mortar work.

The experiments with the various sands were undertaken at the laboratory as a part of the work of ascertaining methods that will assist the concrete user in obtaining the best results in the use of the material.

WAR WITH JAPS

LONDON, June 7. — (Associated Press).—Unless some of the western nations are awakened to their mistaken attitude toward the eastern nations, the struggle between east and west will involve the whole of humanity in the most disastrous war the world has ever seen.

These frank words were spoken by Professor Hishinhuma, a Japanese, at a recent dinner in London of the Japanese Society. The limited area of Japan, the professor explained, was a cause of great anxiety to her statesmen. With only 16 per cent. of her territory available for agriculture, and a population of 360 to the square mile, Japan looked with longing eyes to North and South America, Canada, Siberia and Australia where there is so much land available for development. She wants to send her surplus population to these empty acres.

INHERITS GREAT WEALTH

WARSAW, June 7. — (Associated Press).—All the lucky Poles with rich relatives in the United States seem to live in Chenstohova. During recent years several citizens of this town have inherited large sums of money from American Poles, but it appears that the biggest fortune of all has just fallen to the members of a family of the name of Holich, in moderate circumstances, who are reported to have inherited $30,000,000 from Frank Holich, of Buffalo, N.Y.

PLEASURE BOAT TAKES SIX HUNDRED ON TRIP.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 16. —(Canadian Press.)— The steamer United States leaves New York this evening for Port Arthur with six hundred persons on board, on a pleasure cruise. The trip will be along the Atlantic Seaboard to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to Montreal, through the Thousand Islands, Lakes Ontario, Erie, Huron and Superior. The trip will cover 16 days. ENGLAND HAS CHEAP GAS

LONDON, June 7 — (Associated Press).—British chemists have evolved a household gas so harmless that would-be suicides can get no more than a headache from it.

The new gas, which is now in use at Newark-on-Trent, can be produced at about a third of the cost of ordinary gas. It contains only 1.4 per cent. of carbon monoxide, which is the poisonous element in household gas. American gas contains more than 4 per cent. of this ingredient.

The new gas gives off a pungent, penetrating odor of such power that it can be detected immediately. In this lies its protective feature.

CURZON WILL SIGN TREATY WITH TURKEY

GREEK ATTITUDE.

LAUSANNE, June 16.— (Canadian Press.) — Foreign Secretary Curzon of Great Britain is expected to come to Lausanne to sign the peace treaty with the Turks which, despite the complications over the question of the Ottoman debt, the delegates persistently believe will be negotiated.

Great Britain is taking the lead in opposing any adjournment of the Conference. The French are no less eager for a definite settlement of the Near Eastern problem, but feel that they cannot yield to the Turkish demands in regard to interest payments on the Ottoman debt involving the loss of 500,000 francs a day to French bondholders.

M. Venizelos has assured the Allies that Greece has no intention of abandoning the conference. His recent suggestion for the signing of peace preliminaries between Greece and Turkey, he said, was actuated by Greece's desire to demobilize her expensive army and concentrate her efforts on internal reconstruction.

PLENTY OF GASOLINE, BUT PRICE STAYS UP

While the price of gasoline is going up in many states, refiners of the country are wondering what to do with the huge surplus they have accumulated!

This is the anomalous situation presented to interested automobile owners by recent reports of the oil industry. According to L .C. Nicholas, president of the National Petroleum Marketers' Association, restocked with gasoline.

To relieve them, Nicholas proposes that each jobber take a carload of gasoline more than his immediate requirement. Thus, between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline would be removed at once from the market.

Although this would not increase the consumption of motor fuel to any degree, it would shift the burden of carrying the oversupply of fuel from the refiner to the consumer. As a result, the refiner would refrain from lowering prices in order to get rid of his surplus stock and the jobber, assured against declining prices, would feel secure in keeping his extra supply until the whole situation of overproduction is relieved.

Taken all in all, the automobile driver—the gasoline consumer—goes on paying higher fuel prices, despite the law of supply and demand.

STAMBOULISKY WAS SHOT BY PEASANT BAND

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 16. Canadian Press, — Alex. Stamboulisky, Premier of Bulgaria from the time the peasant government was formed under his leadership in 1918, until he was overthrown last week by the Bulgarian Army, was killed yesterday morning in the village of Vetren, near his native town of Stavovitza. He was shot in the course of an attempt by a party of peasants to rescue him from guards who had captured him on Thursday after a three days' pursuit.

Stamboulisky was brought from the village of Golak, where he was captured. He announced that he had important documents at his Stavovitza home and was permitted to set out for Stavovitza in an automobile surrounded by guards. On the outskirts of the village a party of peasants blocked the road.

Under the fire of the peasants the guards abandoned Stamboulisky and the peasants proceeded to escort him towards the village. En route a band of soldiers attacked the peasants with rifle fire. It was during the short, stiff fighting which followed that Stamboulisky was shot —virtually on the threshhold of his birthplace.

Stamboulisky, as a captive, was expected to be brought to Sofia by the noon train yesterday. When the train arrived at the station the streets around Alexander Square were choked with citizens eager to get a glimpse of him. Shortly afterwards they learned of his fate.

It was a peasant who arrested the former premier at Golak. Stamboulisky went to a tile making establishment and ordered a large amount of tile, paying 300 leva to bind the bargain. Recognizing him in spite of his disguise, the merchant summoned assistance and told Stamboulisky he was under detention.

Stamboulisky then decided to place himself in the hands of the new authorities and wrote a letter to the Chief of Police at Vetren, offering to surrender. The officer arrived several hours later with a detachment of soldiers. After starting for Sofia, the former premier asked to be permitted to drive to Stavovitza, and it was the granting of this request that led to his death.

The Sofia newspapers continue to publish various versions of alleged irregularities and scandals of the peasant Premier's regime. The government has issued a warning against the printing of unfounded reports.

Trains are now running to all points in Bulgaria and private messages are permitted over the government wires.

QUIZ CORNER

CATTLE SHIPMENTS TO GREAT BRITAIN.

Q—When were live cattle shipments to Great Britain resumed?

A—The first consignment of store cattle to be shipped from Canada to England since 1894 left St. John, N.B., in April. The shipment consisted of 427 head, averaging 1,000 pounds each, all the animals were in good shape on arrival. The cattle went forward to Manchester. It is estimated that there will be no less than forty freight boats available for the big rush of Canadian cattle moving to England from Montreal.

QUEBEC'S POPULATION.

Q—What is the present estimated population of the province of Quebec?

A—Figures issued by the Provincial Bureau of Statistics show that the population of the province of Quebec is 2,361,194 made up of 357,298 of British origin; 1,889,000 French Canadian; 47,277 Hebrews; Italians 16,141; Indians 11,566; Germaps, 4,668; Chinese, 2,336; Greeks, 1,780; Negroes, 1,046; Syrians 2,570 and the balance from other European countries.

B. C. Gets Dividend On Sale of Liquor

VICTORIA, B.C., June 16.—(Canadian Press). — Municipalities of British Columbia will receive $415,698 as their thirty-five per cent. share of the profits from the sale of liquor by the Government during the six months ending March, 1923, according to the figures released yesterday by Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance. The amount is somewhat less than that of the last distribution, which exceeded $500,000.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, June 16. — James Blute of the Windsor Hotel and Ed. Runions went fishing on Thursday in the Trent River, near where the new power house is to be built, and in less than an hour had landed 25 prize pickerel. They returned with the goods to back up their claim. It was only a matter of handing them out as one or other of the fishermen had one on his hook all the time.

The waters of the Trent Valley are holding their own in famous fishing grounds and visitors are coming in from all sides since the opening of the season to try their luck. All the streams in the vicinity have been well restocked with fry of all kinds this year.

Real Estate Transaction.

T. L. Diamond reports the following deals in real estate:

Joyce & Mason have purchased, through Mr. Diamond's agency, as a new location for their growing flour and feed business, the factory on George Street, owned by Long, Ltd., who used it for the manufacture of ice-cream and confectionery. The machinery in the plant has been purchased by R. S. Southworth, of the Trent Valley Creamery. The price paid for the building was $5,000. Messrs. Joyce & Mason will move in at once.

Mr. Diamond has re-sold to J. C. Anderson the E. T. Morton residence, which was bought from Mr. Morton by Glen Thompson. Mr. Anderson will take possession of his new home at once.

No Vacant Houses.

Twenty new houses have been built or are uunder construction in town since the opening of the building season, and yet there is not a vacant residence in Campbellford, one of the best possible indications of prosperous manufacturers.

The Hydro people are putting up a long bunkhouse to accommodate part of the force that will be employed on the new power plant and dam.

Aged Resident Ill.

Samuel Diamond, one of the pioneers of this district, is seriously ill at his home here. As Mr. Diamond is 88 years old, his relatives have little hope for his recovery.

The Passion Play.

B. B. Morden, director, and J. A. McLaren, lecturer of the Passion Play, which tells so vividly the story of Christ's life on earth, were at Warkworth last night, where the pictures wer shown in the Methodist Church to a large audience.

It is likely that the slides will be shown here again under the auspices of one of the churches, the pastor of which is carrying on negotiations with that end in view. Messrs. Morden and McLaren say that the presentation, on account of its religious teachings, always draws better when the exhibition is held in a church.

Deputy-Reeve Better.

Deputy-Reeve Wilkinson, who was laid up for some days with a severe cold, is around again, and hopes to be able to atend the June session of the County Council which opens at Cobourg on Monday.

Personal.

James Price, W. H. Barry, and Herbert Rush were among those from Peterborough who witnessed the presentation of the Passion Play in Cole's Opera House on Thursday night.

NEWS OF DEATH STAMBOULISKY CAUSED REGRET

Allies Looked Upon the Former Bulgarian Premier As An Outstanding Leader in His Country.

STERN RULER.

LONDON, June 16. Canadian Press. — News of the death of former Premier Stamboulisky of Bulgaria caused deep regret in diplomatic and official circles in London, where he was regarded as a sincere friend of the Entente.

Marquis Curzon and other British leaders came in contact with him at the Genoa, Hague and Lausanne conferences, and were impressed by his desire to retain the friendship of the Allies.

As a reward for Bulgaria's exemplary conduct since the war under his leadership, the Allies recently reduced the Bulgarian war indemnity from $450,000,000 to $100,000,000, and during the next ten years the country will be required to pay only $17,000,000.

Stamboulisky was regarded by the foreign officials as singularly successful in handling the difficult situation in which Bulgaria was placed by the war, but he was adversely criticized for introducing Utopian and revolutionary schemes of government and for his unrelenting attitude toward his adversaries. Unlike Mussolini, whom he greatly admired, Stamboulisky failed to realize the need for compromising with those who opposed him.

Nothing perhaps did more to alienate foreign and domestic sympathy and support from him than his summary trial and imprisonment of members of the Radoslavoff, Gutchoff and Malinoff Cabinets, all of whom at one time were his associates and who represented the brains of Bulgaria. At his instance these men were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment and ordered to pay the Bulgarian people the entire cost of the war which was something like $1,000,000,000.

What effect the late leader's death will have on the present disturbed situation in Bulgaria, the allied diplomats last night were disinclined to say, but they were unanimous in the belief that it would lead to a long period of unsettlement and perhaps even bloodshed. For in spite of his sudden overthrow Stamboulisky undoubtedly enjoyed the esteem and good will of a large part of the peasantry from which he sprang. Whether the sympathies and the indignation of the people over fall of their idol will lead to a counter-revolution, the allied officials would not venture to predict, but they admitted that the whole situation was one calling for the utmost vigilance and precautionary military measures on the part of Bulgaria's neighbors and the allies.

STOCK EXCHANGE TO CLEAN UP WALL ST.

Will Expel Members Who Refuse to Disclose Their Business Records.

NEW YORK, June 16.— (Canadian Press.)—The New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb market took further steps in the many-sided campaign to "clean up Wall Street," when they adopted resolutions providing for the expulsion or suspension of members who refuse on constitutional grounds to testify or disclose their business records in any civil or criminal procedure on the ground that to testify or disclose the records might tend to incriminate them.

At the same time Chairman H. K. Pomeroy of the Stock Exchange Law committee, said that the Exchange was considering depriving the Consolidated Stock Exchange in which most of the recently failed brokerage houses, including H. M. Fuller and Company held membership, of its ticker service on quotations.

WAR BABIES INFERIOR.

By LYLE C WILSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 16.—(United Press)—Children born during the war years are mentally inferior to others, according to the headmistress of a large London school.

School age is just arriving for the babies who entered the world when it was in flames. These youngsters were deprived of nourishing food. Their mothers had been denied proper parental sustenance, according to members of a teachers' conference which recently considered th problem.

Especially in the areas subject to German air raids the neurotic condition of children is giving rise to alarm. During the latter days of the war Londoners were robbed of many hours of sleep by nocturnal visits of German bombers. Adults have recuperated from their temporary abstinance from rest. For the babies, the job has been too much.

Special methods are to be employed to prevent any permanent crippling of the children's brains.

Unless a satisfactory program of instruction is devised, the baby crop of 1914-1918 may grow into a subnormal manhood and womanhood.

BIG MAJORITY CONFIDENCE IN POINCARE GOVT.

THE OPPOSITION.

PARIS, June 16—Canadian Press —The Chamber of Deputies late last night gave of vote of confidence to the Government on its domestic policy. The vote was 380 to 200.

Premier Poincare was summoned yesterday, during the Chamber's debate on interior politics to difine the limits of the majority in the Chamber on which he proposed to rely for support. He refused, however, to draw arbitrary lines between the groups of the Chamber, further than to exclude the Royalists, Socialists and Communists. Extreme parties, he said, are inevitable in Parliament Sometimes their opposition may prove useful and he preferred that they remain always in the opposition The policy of the Government, he declared would be to repress violent measures by the extremists. whether Royalists or Communists.

The Entente Republicaine, the principal group in the Chamber, desired that the radicals also be ex-communicated, but the Premier carefully refrained from mentioning them. They showed signs of excluding themselves from the Government majority, however, by remaining silent in their heats while the rest of the Chamber, excepting the Socialists and Communists, were applauding the head of the Cabinet.

The Government majority, M. Poincare said, will properly develop from free exercise of the vote by the Deputies individually. He emphasized the fact that the dominating part of the Government's cares at the present time is the foreign situation. and that internal politics must be adapted to the pressing necessities of the situation abroad. Incidentally, he recalled that Germany had paid nothing in reparations, and that her resistance to the Allies in the Ruhr had obliged them to prolong and intensify the rigor of the occupation.

While the Premier declined to draw lines between the groups defining his majority, the reception of his declaration seemed to effect such a delimatation, showing a sharp division between the left, composed of the radicals, Republican Socialists Socialists and Communists, which received the Premier coldly, and the rest of the Chamber, which. with the exception of a few Royalists, approved his words heartily. If the deputies vote the way they applauded, the Cabinet will have a majority of from 150 to 200.

The deputies wanted to adjourn the debate but M. Poincare insisted that it be finished last night.

Forest Fire Losses Over Four Million

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 16. —(Canadian Press. — Lumbermen yesterday placed the monetary loss suffered so far in the destruction by forest fires which have burned over more than two hundred and fifty square miles in New Brunswick during the past two weeks at not less than four million dollars. These figures were reached by a valuation basis on an average of twenty-five dollars to the acre on approximately 160,000 acres.

In addition there have been the losses in destruction of mills, houses, barns and various other buildings, as well as several highway bridges and corps in some settlements.

A GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE STEEL FAILURE

Inquiry Will Be Confined to Specific Acts in the Management of the Corporations.

OPENS MONDAY.

BUFFALO, N.Y., June 16.—(Canadian Press.) —A Grand Jury inquiry into the collapse of the $26,000,000 L. R. Steel enterprise will begin next Monday. The investigation will be confined to specific acts in the management of the coroprations disclosed by the State Attorney General's audit.

"The matter to be presented to the Grand Jury," said District Attorney Guy B. Moore, "relates to officers and directors of the Steel companies and concerns particularly the causes that were mainly responsible for the collapse of the enterprises. The Grand Jury at this time will not inquire into possible criminal actions in connection with the sale of stocks."

The audit of the Steel books has been made by Major Hugh Reilly, representing Attorney-General Carl Sherman and Frank B. Rowley, an assistant District Attorney. Major Reilly, District Attorney Moore and Mr. Rowley spent four hours in conference yesterday arranging for the presentation of the case to the Grand Jury. The audit will not be completed for several weeks, it was said.

About 60,000 persons in the United States and Canada invested more than $22,000,000 in the Steel enterprises.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR DELORME TRIAL

Fifty-Four Witnesses Have Been Subpoenaed By the Crown—Court in Readiness.

DELORME CONFIDENT.

MONTREAL, June 16—(Canadian Press). — With arrangements completed for the trial of Rev. Father Adelard Delorme next Wednesday on a charge of murdering his half-brother Raoul, the priest is awaiting the decision of his fate calmly and with apparent eagerness to have the trial started, says the Montreal Star.

This information is stated to have been obtained at the Bordeaux Jail, where the priest is at present held. He spends most of his time in reading or in sitting in meditation in his room. While he talks little, jail officials say his attitude is one of supreme confidence that his trial next week will mean his exoneration. Always scrupulously neat in his appearance, Delorme has not permitted himself to "go to seed" it is declared at Bordeaux as so many prisoners do. He is never seen unshaven, his shoes are always glistening and his linen clean.

At the court-house all is in readiness for the trial, and at the office of High Constable St. Mars yesterday it was said that subpoenaes had been served on all important witnesses for the Crown, numbering fifty-four.

RHODES SCHOLARS LEAD.

MELBOURNE, June 16.—(Associated Press).—Australian Rhodes scholars lead in scholarship and scholastic honors among all the Rhodes scholars from British Dominions and the United States, according to the recent report of the trustees of the Cecil Rhodes Fund.

In Arts, Australian candidates who took honors of the first class are 38 per cent., as against 15 per cent. for the United States, 14.5 per cent. for Canada, and 4 per cent. for South Africa. The proportion of scholarships won by the scholars at Oxford is: Australia 15, Canada 11.5, United States 11.

Australian scholars also lead in athletics during their stay at the university.

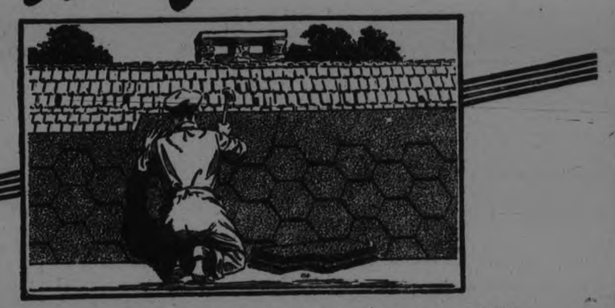
More Years of Better Roof Service



'Another Vulcanite Patented Shingle

The Vulcanite Self-Spacing Shingle — the self-spacing shoulder makes laying easy and economical and seals the roof against the worst ravages of the weather by sealing the upper half of the slot between shingles and effectively prevents rain, snow or sleet from being driven through to the roof boards.

EVERY one admires a beautiful, distinctive roof of Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs. In soft green or Indian red, it adds attractively to the appearance of any home.

And it is unusually practical and economical, too. The patented design makes the slabs double thick everywhere—giving double protection, as well as more depth and body to their pleasing appearance.

Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs are easy and economical to apply, because they space automatically, saving both time and money. They can be laid right over old shingles, giving a fire-and-weather-resisting roof that is an enduring source of beauty and protection.

Vulcanite Roofing of the same high quality also comes in individual shingles, four-in-one slab shingles, and in rolls, both slate surface and smooth finish—for home, farm and industrial buildings. You can identify the genuine by the Vulcanite name and the Beaver trademark. Ask your dealer for full information or write us. We will send free samples and a booklet on request.

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1923.

A RED LETTER DAY.

Among those who go down to the river in boats there is no pessimism today.

Ontario may be in the midst of a general election, the German mark may be down out of sight, the West may be bothered with caterpillars and the ball team may have lost a couple of games this week—but those things are trifles alongside the big outstanding fact that the fishing season is open.

For the last week or two favourite spoons have been polished, trawling lines have been overhauled and the bait-can retrieved from the attic, and this morning many of the most eager anglers tried their luck for the first time.

They didn't all catch a fish—some of them may not catch one all summer—but that is not the point.

They had the fun of trying, they were out in the fresh air, and they will all be the better of the experience.

In Peterborough we are specially favoured. Even within the city limits there are bass and 'lunge and pickerel to be had, and below and above Peterborough there are noble stretches of river and lake where angling can be indulged in to the heart's content among ideal surroundings.

To all the city's anglers, good luck and good sport.

A RECORD LIST.

Although the electors of Ontario are apathetic towards the Provincial campaign, it certainly cannot be said that there are not many people willing to serve their fellow-citizens in the Legislature.

No fewer than 295 candidates have filed their papers—a number that sets a new record.

Three-cornered contests are the rule rather than the exception, quadruple fights cut by no means a novelty, and the number of straight duels between two candidates is surprisingly small.

The number and variety of the aspirants for political preferment indicate what a change has come over politics in Ontario in the last few years.

Not only are there Liberals and Liberal-Conservatives and U. F. O. candidates, but, in addition, there ware 21 Labour nominees, some of whom are allied with the U. F. O. ticket; there are Independents of various descriptions; there are a few wine and beer candidates; there is a Toronto First standard-bearer, and in Cochrane a new political force has made its appearance in the candidature of R. F. Seymour as a Settlers' candidate.

There are 103 Conservatives, 77 Liberals, 76 U. F. O., 21 Labour and 18 Independents in the field—a conglomeration of candidates that makes it difficult for political observers to make any definite predictions as to the results.

The campaign so far has been tame—it may warm up next week as the organizations get in their last and most determined efforts—but at present the outlook, in spite of the large number of candidates, is for a small vote.

SHOULD BE CLEARED UP.

If the circumstances are such as have been related, the Indians of this district are quite justified in their protest against the judgment of a Lindsay magistrate in inflicting a fine of $20 upon a white man who shot at and wounded an Indian.

The punishment seems ridiculously in adequate in the face of the serious nature of the offence.

No man in this country should be allowed to feel that he can use firearms on another citizen—so long as he is careful to pick out an Indian as a target—and escape with a nominal fine for an offence that should draw a jail sentence.

There may, of course, have been some facts in connection with the case that have not been brought to public attention.

It is difficult to see how any magistrate would inflict such a light sentence if the circumstances were exactly as have been described.

At all events, the complaints entered by the Indians may bring out the full facts of the case.

It would not do to let the impression go abroad that shooting at Indians is not considered as any more serious than a minor breach of the traffic regulations, and not nearly so serious an offence as a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act.

The Indian who said that it was queer that a man was fined $200 for supplying an Indian with liquor and only $20 for shooting at one was right.

As it is, they are welcome to the satisfaction they can obtain from the fact that they succeeded in nearly spoiling the day for the women and children who had waited so long in the sun.

A FAIR QUESTION.

Aspirants for the Legislature, not only in the Peterborough ridings but elsewhere, have said very little about a question that appears, to The Examiner at least, to be of considerable importance.

At present the municipalities of Ontario, which are, the interests now directly and most vitally concerned in the Hydro-Electric enterprise, are without direct representation on the Hydro-Electric Commission

The Ontario Government appoints the Commission and the municipal partners in the power scheme are not given a chance to have anything to say about the personnel of the Board which has the management of the whole undertaking in charge.

The municipalities should at least be given the privilege of naming one member of the Commission, and candidates for the Legislature should be asked to state where they stand in this respect.

Do they think it just or reasonable or even good business to refuse to the people most concerned in the success of the Hydro any privileges whatever in so far as the composition of the Hydro Commission is concerned?

And in the event of their being elected, what course do they propose to follow in connection with Hydro matters generally?

These are questions that demand a plain answer, and candidates should have no hesitation in showing just where they stand in regard to this matter of adequate municipal representation on the Hydro-Electric Commission.

THE FAIR BOARD'S APPEAL.

There are many potent reasons why the request of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition for a grant from the County Council should be favourably passed upon by that body.

In the first place, the Exhibition is not a city enterprise—it is a county fair, and it benefits the whole district in one way or another.

Secondly, the Exhibition exists primarily for the stimulus it imparts to agriculture, and because of the educational value that is to be found in an annual event of this kind.

The directors, who include in their membership farmers and urban dwellers alike, have no concern in the matter other than the desire to make the Peterborough Exhibition an outstanding success, to provide new features from year to year, to add to the accommodation, and in general to see to it that the Exhibition steadily grows in size and in the benefits it brings to all classes in the community.

The City Council has already made a substantial grant towards the Exhibition finances, and such assistance is approved by the citizens of Peterborough.

Every reason exists for believing that similar assistance accorded by the County Council would be as well received by the rural taxpayers as the city's grant is endorsed by those who have to provide the money.

The Peterborough Industrial Exhibition is a community enterprise, and as such it should have enthusiastic support not only from individual citizens of the city and county, but also from the municipal governments.

BRITISH INDUSTRY.

Britain has escaped for the present from the national disaster of a country-wide strike and the paralysis of industry. The loss of millions in money and the rousing of angry passions such as blackened the mining districts two years ago, and threatened to involve the life of the whole nation, are not to be repeated.

Wiser counsels have prevailed, sound and sensible advice has been tendered to the men by their leaders, and followed, and the workers have strengthened their case by the restraint and the fairness they have displayed. When the strike was brought to a close two years ago work was resumed in the coalfields on a different basis of remuneration and industry began a new era with the acceptance of the principle that in future the miners would share with the employers in the rewards of industry.

Two weeks ago the Miners' Federation met at Blackpool for a momentous conference. The Federation had decided by a majority vote to cancel the agreement then existing and to return to the old method of barter and haggling for terms which has been one of the basic causes for the antagonism of the past between Capital and Labor. It was recognized by Labor leaders as well as by the employers that this would be a retrograde step. To have terminated the agreement would have been, in the opinion of the best informed students of industrial conditions, to have thrown away all the fruits of victory of the historic struggle.

Mr. Frank Hodges has not generally been regarded as a counsellor of moderation. Few leaders of the Labor movement in England have made a more serious or more thorough study of modern conditions, but hitherto his influence has generally been thrown on the side of the Radical wing and with the men who have demanded the utmost. Yet at Blackpool Mr. Hodges lent all his weight and the power of his personality on the side of the retention of the agreement. He convinced the miners by the clear presentation of the figures he put forward that in the majority of districts its termination would not bring better terms for them, but rather worse. Yet the most striking part of his address, which had an important effect on the reversing of the decision with which the delegates had come to the conference was his statement that the real strength of their case lay in the preservation and the fostering of the good-will of the people and in not besmirching it by extraneous influence or by prejudice so that they might present it intact before Parliament.

"It is not by strikes and lock-outs that the condition of the miners will be improved," said Mr. Frank Hodges, who in past years has raised his voice in favor of strong and forceful if not positively violent methods. No student of industrial conditions, either among the employers or employed will deny the truth of this sentiment. Mr. Hodges appealed for voluntary co-operation among the mine owners to remedy the grievances and to level up the inequalities at present existing between the large and smaller mines and, failing this, to compel the removal of obvious unfairness by legislation.

Prime Minister Baldwin took a wise step when he promised the Labor delegation that waited upon him that a day would be set aside during the present parliamentary session when the whole question of mining costs, expenses of transportation and distribution and the price of coal would be discussed in Parliament. Such a debate should do something to clear the air and to improve conditions in industry. It will be a preparation for the coming trade revival which the economists so unanimously predict.

Trade is more likely to be attracted to a nation whose house is swept and garnished than to one that is cluttered up from cellar to attic with prejudices, and meaningless shibboleths and in which the whole family is warring one against the other.—Montreal Star.

No remedy can cure all ailments of the human body, but an immense number of people suffer from aches, pains and disease symptoms when their real trouble is lack of iron in the blood. It is the iron in your blood that enables you to get the nourishment out of your food. TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, June 16.—The cattle market staged a "comeback" this week, following the depression of last week. There was a moderate run of a little over 3,000 cattle offering in Monday's market, but buyers for the big plants were slow in getting down to business and for a time the trading was light. Later there was a bit of a spurt, and the mraket closed with prices about steady with the previous week's close, but with quite a few cattle left over.

In succeeding markets the tone rapidly changed, and prices gradually stiffened to 25c to 35c higher than Monday's market. Heavy export steers quoting from $8 to $8.50 on Monday were quoted at $8.50 to $8.75 in the later markets and a few extra choice lots at $8.85 to $9. Fat heifers were going for export at around $8. Export heavy bulls were selling freely from $5 to $5.50.

In connection with the recent brisk export cattle movement following the removal of the British embargo, the purchase of a load of choice export steers by Mr. Philip Chapman of Norwich, England, agent for his majesty the King, has been the subject of a lot of satisfaction and congratulatory comment during the week. This lot of very fine representative Canadian steers was selected and shipped by the firm of Rogers and Maybee, and were for the most part taken out of the U.FO. alley. The cattle are now a part of the King's choicest herds on the royal farm at Sandringham.

In the butcher cattle section a very brisk demand developed during the week, closing with a good clean up at around $8 to $8.25 for the best butcher steers and heifers. All grades of butcher stuff were firm in proportion, at the general advance.

Best butcher cows at $5.50 to $5.75, and extra choice at $6. Fair, medium cows, $5 to $5.25.

Choice handy butcher bulls, anywhere from $5 to $6. Light bulls, $3.50 to $4.

Choice handy butcher bulls, anywhere from $5 to $6 Light bulls, $3.50 to $4.

The heavy runs of calves of poor quality continue to depress this market, tops in very few cases going over $9 to $9.50 in the week-end market.

The hog market has suffered from competition with the United States the general depression in bacon prices in England, and the keen hog markets. The local market closed weak on Thursday on the basis of $8 f.o.b. and $8.60 fed and watered. Packers are talking still lower prices for next week.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

Trading was active on the cattle market yesterday with most of the desirable killing classes selling strong. Yearlings steers topped at $7.75 to $800; best butcher steers, $7.00 to $7.60; beef cows $4.00 to $5.50; feeders steers $4.00 to $5.00 stockers $3.50 to $4.25.

Sheep lacked quality, the few sales being completed from $4.50 to $6.00.

The hog market was unchanged at $8.35 for thick smooths and $9.18 1-2 for select bacons.

CASH GRAIN

MONTREAL, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—Trade in cash oats on the local market yesterday was quiet and prices were steady. There is no improvement in the flour situation. The millfeed market is without change and trade in rolled oats continues quiet. There was no feature in the baled hay market. The tone of the egg market is steady. A weaker feeling has developed in the potato market. Prices for butter were generally maintained and a fair business was reported in cheese.

CHEESE MARKET

MONTREAL, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—At the United Dairy Men Cooperative auction sale of Ontario cheese held here to-day the offerings amounted to 537 boxes of which 152 boxes No. 1 white sold at 16 3-8 cents per pound; 318 boxes No. 1 colored at 16 7-16 cents per pound, while 15 7-8 cents per pound was asked for 37 boxes No. 2 white and 15 15-16 cents per pound for 30 boxes No. 2 colored.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Higher prices for wheat resulted yesterday from reports of damaging rains in the winter crop belt and from drought in some of the spring crop states. The market closed firm at 3-4c to 1 1-8c net advance, with July $1.11 7-8 to $1.12, and September $1.09 3-4 to $1.09 7-8. Corn finished 5-8c to 1c up, and oats scored gains of a shade to 1-4c. In provisions the outcome ranged from 5c decline to rise of 20c at 22c.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, June 16 (Canadian Press). — Cattle receipts, 7,000; most killing classes steady to strong; quality generally plain; light steers and yearlings predominating. Top yearlings, $11.25; highest since the middle of January; best heavies, $10.85; bulk beef steers and yearlings $9.00 at $10.00; lower grade beef cows, canners and cutters slow; stockers and feeders $650 at $7.75; choice light yearlings for Mineral Point, Wisconsin, $8.55.

Hogs, receipts 8,000; good to choice grades mostly 10c to 15c; others steady to 10c higher; top, $7.20; bulk, 160 to 325 pound average, $6.90 at $7.15; packing cows mostly $6.00 at $6.35; bulk desirable 110 to 130 pound pigs, $5.50 at $6.25; estimated holdover, 11,000.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, June 16 (Canadian Press). — The market is a little easier, and Ontario straight receipts are being offered at 23 1-2c to 24c, firsts 29c to 29 1-2c f.o.b. Western quotations are a litle firmer, firsts 25c, seconds 18c f.o.b. Winnipeg. COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, June 16.—Traffic Policeman John Wilson, who was injured on Tuesday when he collided on the Provincial Highway east of Cobourg with a car in which were District Inspector Bumpstead, Provincial Officers Atkins and Boyd and Driver Dorris of Belleville, is now improving. He has suffered from concussion of the brain.

Nurses Receive Diplomas.

An interesting event occurred at the Ontario Hospital here on Thursday evening when diplomas were presented to ten nurses who have graduated. They are Misses Jean Dalgleish, Jessie Lyon, Mildred Scott, Agnes Wood, Alice Holmes, Aileen Jones, Lenore Jones, Agnes Mitchell, Mary Mitchell and Dorothy Green. Dr. P. McNaughton is medical superintendent of the hospital and Miss A. B. Johnston is superintendent of nurses. Quite a number of town people attended the function and brief addresses were made by Mr. Sam Clarke, M.P.P., Col. J. W. Odell, Col. W. H. Floyd, Mr. J. B. McColl, ex-M.P., Mr. R. T. Mahon, Dr. T. Malcolm McCulloch of Peterborough. Dr. H. A. Abraham administered the Florence Nightingale pledge to the nurses. Refreshments were served and later a dance was enjoyed.

Excursion Here.

One of the first of the big excursions coming here for the 1923 season took place Tuesday, when the retail grocers came down from Toronto for the day. They arrived here about noon by steamer Corono, which carried about 800 visitors. The time until 6 p.m., when the boat cleared for the city, was spent in sight-seeing and in sports at Victoria Park.

Golden Wedding at Rossmount.

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kinsman in Hamilton Township, near Rossmount, was the scene of a happy event when one day during the week about sixty relatives and near friends assembled to honor their host and hostess. The reason was that just fifty years ago Mr. Richard Kinsman brought to that same homestead a bride, before her marriage Miss Grace Hurd of Hamilton Township. For half a century they have met the joys, the blessings, the trials and sadness that come in the daily round of life, together making their home always a helpful centre in community and church life. At an opportune time Rev. C. C. Washington, Baltimore, voiced the sincere good wishes and congratulations of those who had assembled, and an address was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Kinsman, accompanied by many valuable gifts. Mr. Kinsman is a steward in the Bethel Grove Methodist Church on the Baltimore circuit. All of Mr. and Mrs. Kinsman's family were present. They are: Rayner, on the homestead; Mrs. John Bamsey and Mrs. Henry Goheen, Rossmount, and Mrs. Walter Hurd, Peterborough.

OLD MEXICO WIN CHILDREN

SAN DIEGO, Calif., (United Press)—Attractions of old Mexico are too much for thousands of California boys and girls who are trying to cross the border alone, contrary to customs regulations which require they be accompanied by parents or guardians. In the past six months 1,479 boys and 889 girls have been turned back from the border at Tia Juana, customs officials announced recently.

PRESENTATION TO AN OMEMEE LADY

Mrs. (Rev.) Stillman the Recipient of Life Membership in W. M. S.

OMEMEE, June 16.—The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of the Methodist Church was held in the Sunday School room on Thursday afternoon, with a large attendance of members. The President, Mrs R. F. Stillman, occupied the chair. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Bradburn.

Following the devotional exercises an excellent report of the 30th annual convention held at Cobourg last week was most ably given by the delegate, Miss Lila Parsons, who not only brought home the outstanding features of the different addresses, but also conveyed to her hearers many items of interest to the Omemee society, such as generous donations from Mr. Herb Shields of Peterborough, formerly of Omemee, to a memorial to his late wife, Jennie Marshall Shields, and Mrs. Campbell of Ladnor, B. C., of $300, who formerly resided in Omemee, for the endowment of a cot in the Maternity Hospital in Chenghe, China.

After the business was transacted, the following address, accompanied by a life membership pin, was presented to Mrs. Stillman:

"Dear Mrs. Stillman,—

"A cloud o'er shadows our gathering today in the knowledge of the fact that you, our faithful and untiring President for the past four years, are about to sever your connection with the church here, to make your home elsewhere. Your bright personality and the capable manner in which you have presided over our meetings will leave a vacancy which we fear will be hard to fill.

"The cloud under which we are now resting has a silvery lining, however, in the thought that one of our own girls who was ever interested in Mission Band and Epworth League work was later permitted to come back to us as our pastor's wife, and here, in the home of her childhood, take an active part in all church activities.

"You are leaving us to take an even greater part in the work of the Master, and we feel certain that the home W.M.S. will ever be dear to you. We ask you to wear then this life membership pin as a token of love and esteem from your co-workers in the Master's service.

"The earth is breathing back to Thee
The odours of the perfect flowers;
May all our lives as fruitful be
Amid the sunshine and the showers."

Signed on behalf of the W.M.S.

At the close of the meeting the hostesses, Mrs. A. Rutherford, Mrs. Emery Windrim and Mrs. W. Kennedy, served refreshments.

COBOURG, June 16.—The marriage took place in Dunn Avenue Methodist Church, Toronto, of Clara Mabel, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Willis of Cobourg, to Dr. E. Culverhouse of Niagara Falls. Rev. W. E. Baker conducted the ceremony. Dr. and Mrs. Culverhouse will reside at Niagara Falls.

WALLER—CAMERON.

COBOURG, June 16.—At St. Peter's Church here Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers officiated at the marriage of Miss Isabella Cameron and Mr. Bert J. Waller of Colborne. The bride wore ivory silk and pretty hat, and also the groom's gift, a handsome string of pearls. She carried ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Katherine Waller, who was bridesmaid, wore pink silk crepe de chine, with picture hat, and carried pink and white carnations. After the church ceremony a luncheon was served at the home of Mrs. Arthur Waller, after which the happy couple left for a trip to Newark, N. J., and other American points.

McMILLAN—SMITH.

COBOURG, June 16.—On Saturday, June 6th, the marriage took place here, Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers officiating, of Mr. Edward McMillan and Miss Florence May Smith of Port Hope.

McLAUGHLIN—FINDLAY.

COBOURG, June 16.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rosevear, Bethel Grove, Rev. Dr. James T. Daly officiating, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Catherine Ferguson Findlay, Stewarton, Ayrshire, Scotland, and Mr. John McLaughlin of Port Hope. Miss Reta Johns played the wedding march as the bride entered the room. The bride wore ivory crepe de chine, with tulle veil arranged with orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Olive Robinson of Rossmount, wearing rose organdie. Mr. Alex. Laurie of Port Hope attended his friend as groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin will reside in Port Hope.

LOW SPIRITED AND DEPRESSED

A CONDITION DUE TO POOR BLOOD AND WEAK NERVES.

Nearly all women and most men suffer at times from fits of depression and low spirits, from which they are unable to free themselves. They cannot attend to their duties satisfactorily and are unable to get any pleasure out of life. People who suffer in this way soon lose their energy of mind and body. They lack vitality because their blood is poor and ill-nourished, and their nerves are starved in consequence. The only way to obtain new health is by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The new rich blood made by these pills will carry renewed health and energy to every part of the body. Your appetite will improve, your spirits brighten and you will be endowed with fresh energy and find a new joy in living. Mrs G. Reid, Napanee, Ont., tells of the benefit she found through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on different occasions and cannot emphasize too strongly the benefits derived from them. I was growing nervous, my complexion was becoming sallow and my eyes dull and listless. My vitality was poor and I did not sleep well. I became despondent, losing interest in my work, which seemed to tire me so easily. I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking six boxes I began to enjoy life again and looked much brighter and felt happier. My appetite improved, I gained in weight and could sleep without any nervous wakefulness during the night. I also used these pills while nursing my baby and found them a wonderful help both for myself and for making my baby better natured. For these reasons I gladly recommend them to anyone who needs a tonic for the rebuilding of strength and energy."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Drury Government Is Worthy of Support of East Peterboro Electors

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

As the Government candidate and supporter of the Premier, the Hon. E. C. Drury, I again ask your influence and support in the coming election in the interests of good government.

FOUR YEARS OF PROGRESS.

Real progress has marked the past four years of the Drury administration. Progress which is now criticized by its opponents as too advanced, but which in session they criticzed as too moderate.

NO GENERAL TAXATION

Without imposing any general taxation, the Government, since 1919, has increased the annual revenue by eighteen million dollars. This came from recovered timbermonies, stumpage dues on Crown lands, race tracks, and succession duties on very rich estates, etc. This increased revenue enabled the Government to give to the people larger grants for Education, Hospitals, Mothers' Allowances, etc.

EXPENDITURES CURTAILED

Of the expenditures some seventy-one millions had to be spent in completing the undertakings of the previous Government in the Chippewa and other hydro developments. The big radial project, however, after investigation was rejected by the Government, saving the Province at least two hundred millions expenditures. This huge debt our opponents urged, although they now cry economy. In fact taking out mainly hydro, charities and education, the Drury Government expenditures can be proved to be $60,541 lass than before.

EDUCATION ASSISTED

Recognizing the burdens of municipal taxation for school purposes in the rural districts the Drury Government has rendered great assistance. In East Peterborough the Government's school grants to the townships have been more than doubled in most instances. The village schools, contrary to any class legislation, have been even more favorably dealt with. The grants to Havelock Public School have been increased from $189 in 1919 to $1818.00 in 1922; to Norwood P. S. from $130.04 to $1,576.00; to Lakefield from $176 to $1,490.00. The Continuation and High School grants to these villages have also been largely increased, all of which has assisted greatly in keeping down the taxes in villages and townships. Electors in village and country will make no mistake supporting a Government which looks after their interests.

COLONIZATION ROADS

The expenditure on Colonization roads has been put on a business basis and $100 value is given now where $100 is spent. East Peterboro is securing splendid grants of this money.

TEMPERANCE

Premier Drury's stand on the Ontario Temperance Act is well known and all the electors who wish to play safe for sane administration as in the past four years will vote for the Drury Government.

GOOD ROADS

Our opponents in their vain endeavor to secure power are criticising the Good Roads system which they themselves advocated years ago.

"If Tory friends had built those roads
We'd have to keep as meek as toads
(They'd be the roads the Tories built)
There'd be no kick about the tax
And things would be as smooth as wax.

The Drury Government, however, has wisely capitalized the fees from motor licenses at twenty-five millions of dollars to provide a fund WITHOUT OTHER TAXATION to finance road systems. The railway magnates got their millions, why not a little money to keep up our own roads upon which we can ride FREE?

I might go into the benefits enacted by the Mothers' Allowance Act, the raising of the Cattle Embargo, rural credits, etc., but space will not permit.

ALL ELECTORS WELCOMED

In the short time I may not see you all personally but I just as sincerely ask your worthy support for sound, honest government. As in the past four years it will be my endeavor to keep closely in touch with all the electors in every part of the riding and no matter what your past party affiliation has been you will be cordially welcomed. Believe me,

Faithfully yours,

E. N. McDONALD

EXPECTS 75,000 ELKS.

ATLANTA, June 16—(United Press.)—Atlanta Elks are making elaborate arrangements to entertain the grand lodge of the order, which meets here July 9-16. Local Elk leaders say they expect representation from a large majority of the 1,600 lodges forming the organization in the United States. At least 75,000 visitors are expected.

In order to house the influx, the grounds and buildings of the Southeastern Fair will be converted into a tourist camp. Two Pullman cities will be established, where visitors can be cared for in these hotels on wheels, while other spaces will be set aside for auto tourists, who desire to camp.

It takes two to start a fight and too long to stop it.

NEWS OF DUNSFORD AND THE DISTRICT.

A Jolly Day's Outing Provided By P. H. Skitch—Paragraphs of Interest.

DUNSFORD, June 16. — Miss Ada Thurston had the misfortune of having her fox terrior dog killed on Sunday last by a car.

Mr. P. H. Skitch gave a day's outing at his park, "Thurstonia," to those who helped in putting on the "Old Time Concert" a few weeks ago. Tables were beautifully decorated and spread on the lawn and verandah and lunch was served to the satisfaction of all. Softball was played, and later on in the day Mr. Skitch very kindly furnished rowboats to all the party, who enjoyed a real happy time on the water.

On Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. La Plain and Armand, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bell and Tootsie, Mr. John Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Mel. Morrow and Adelle motored to Oshawa recently.

Mrs. Lee Wilson visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, Bobcaygeon.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Thurston, accompanied by Miss Ada Thurston and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Thurston, attended a recital given by Miss Doris Beaty of Lindsay on Tuesday night.

A number of tourists have returned to make their home at Thurstonia summer resort again.

The Conservative party held a meeting in Mr. R. J. Patterson's interests on Tuesday evening. The speakers were Mrs. Windrum, Mr. W. W. Stanles, Lawyer Frost (Lindsay) Mr. Bottom and Mr. J. Lithgow (Bobcaygeon) and Mr. R. J. Patterson. Mrs. Mel. Morrow rendered a solo, accompanied by Mr. C. Laplain, violin, and Mrs. Walter Breen, piano. Mr. C. Laplain contributed a violin solo and Mr. Rogers of Lindsay sang an appreciated song number.

Mr. George Burgess, on going to his pasture on Tuesday, found that one of his cows had been killed by lightning.

Mr. Wm. Smith has purchased a new fisherman's motor-boat.

Three steers of Mr. John Robertson were found dead in his field on Monday. It is said that they had eaten some kind of weed which poisoned them.

Mr. Roy Robertson, while working on the township stone crusher, had his finger crushed.

Mr. Earn German has purchased a new car for delivering his mail route.

Mr. Hazel Thurston had his hand badly jammed while building a cottage at Greenhurst Park.

Mr. George Voute's horse broke loose out of the Presbyterian Church sheds and run away, wrecking the buggy and almost running over two village children.

Warkworth Personals.

WARKWORTH, June 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smooker and son, also Miss Bessie Wilson, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wilson of Rochester, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Twiddy, also Mrs. Andrew Thompson, motored to Peterborough on Wednesday.

Mr and Mrs. G. A. Ireland and family of Trenton called on relatives in town on Monday.

RUSSIA BOASTS.

MOSCOW, (By mail to the United Press).—Moscow has begun to advertise its telephone service as the best in the world. It is also perhaps the most exclusive—30,000 telephones in a city of 1,500,000.

Telephone wires, badly in need of repair, are being relaid. The service now functions all night, and no time out is allowed for meals.

And last of all, under the new system, telephone girls are required to confine their conversation with subscribers to business—telephone business.

There was a time when Tillie, the beautiful telephone operator, was an important part of the social life of Moscow, and the bored subscriber could exchange bright nothings with her at will.

Now operators are forbidden to talk either or among themselves, except regarding telephone numbers.

GIRLS AS BOOK AGENTS.

CHICAGO (United Press)—More college girls will earn their next seasons' expenses by selling books this season than have ever before entered this field, it was stated by R. C. Barnum, a Cleveland publisher. Twelve hundred girl undergraduates will form the woman's wing of an army of more than twelve thousand students who will carry books to farms and small towns this summer Barnum said.

Are You Fat? Just Try This

Thousands of overfat people have become slim by following the advice of doctors who recommend Marmola Prescription Tablets, those harmless little fat reducers that simplify the dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. If too fat don't wait—go now to your druggist and for one dollar, which is the price the world over, procure a case of these tablets. If preferable you can secure them direct by sending price to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. They reduce steadily and easily without tiresome exercise or starvation diet and leave no unpleasant effect.

WORK OF POLISH CHILDREN.

WARSAW, June 16.—(Associated Press).—During the celebrations in Poland last year in honor of America and American Poles, Polish school children united in composing several commendatory letters and addresses, which were by themselves beautifully transcribed on parchment and illuminated.

This work was so well done, and has such artistic merit, that it has been decided to collect the parchments and send them to the Polish legation at Washington for exhibition

A VOLUNTARY EXILE.

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(United Press).—An uncrowned king in exile is spending the summer here. He is General Luis Terrazas, now in his 94th year, who once owned and ruled 8,000,000 acres in the state of Chinhuahua, Mexico.

The old general and his family were driven from Mexico ten years ago, after the Madero revolution. In 1911 Pancho Villa captured his son, Luis Terranzas, Jr, and held him for $50,000 ransom.

The general could not raise the money, but his friends did, and Luis was released only to die at Los Angeles shortly afterward, as a result of ill treatment at the hands of the bandits.

Further misfortunes have overtaken the old general, but recently his affairs have turned for the better. President Obregon has decided to take over his lands to divide into small holdings and to pay him $5,500,000 for the estate.

The "grand old man of Chihuahua" is still living in voluntary exile in the United Sttaes. He is surrounded by most of his relatives, numbering 100, and in this small colony he still remains an uncrowned king among his people.

A Thought

"Surely the churning of milk bringeth forth butter, and the wringing of the nose bringing forth blood; so the forcing of wrath bringeth forth strife.—Prov. 30:33.

If anger proceeds from a great cause, it turns to fury; if from a small cause, it is peevishness; and so it is always either terrible or ridiculous.—Jeremy Taylor.

Is ATHLETE'S HEART a Myth?

ATHLETE'S heart, long a bugbear to the medical profession, is now declared to be a myth. Dr. S. A. Levine of Boston, with Dr. Burgess Gordon of Spokane, Wash., and Dr. Albert Wilmaers of Belgium, who conducted a series of experiments upon the long-distance runners taking part in a gruelling twenty-five-mile test, said that, although it had not been scientifically proved, success in long-distance running was probably more a matter of legs than heart or wind power.

The experiments conducted on the marathon runners were designed, according to Dr. Levine, who had charge of the research work, to bring to light information on the old controversy concerning "athlete's heart"—among other things, to try to learn whether there really is such a phenomenon and whether it may be induced by overexertion. The recent American marathon was chosen for the tests, as it is believed to be the most strenuous of all accredited athletic events.

The condition of each athlete's heart immediately after the race and at normal was determined by the taking of X-ray pictures of each runner immediately after the finish and again later after the man had rested for several hours. The pictures then were compared.

"The surprising thing in our results was that the heart in no case became any larger as a result of the race, but in a number of instances it became smaller," Dr. Levine said. "This is diametrically opposed to the old view that dilation of the heart is apt to follow overexertion."

The runners also were examined as to their wind power or the "vital capacity of the lungs." The physicians concluded from comparisons of their tests before and after the race that in general the wind power of the runners was above normal, but that there were some who were slightly below normal. The winner, Clarence De Mar of Melrose, Mass., who registered his third success in the event and is the record holder, had a wind power of 20 per cent. above normal, but two men who finished far down in the list had greater strength in that particular.

"Before the race Dr. Wilmaers and myself determined the vital capacity of each man's lungs by having him exhale as forcefully as possible after having taken a deep breath, into a spirometer," Dr. Levine said. "In cases of weak hearts this measurement under ordinary circumstances serves as a guide as to the severity of the damage to the heart.

Determining the Condition of an Athlete's Heart by X-Rays.

"These tests were repeated on as many of the runners as possible as soon as they had finished to see just how much of this 'wind power' had been lost. Invariably we found that the long, hard road race had taken away much of the strength from the lungs."

Dr. Levine says that results so far learned indicated that a man of moderately small stature, of below the average weight, with strong, muscular legs, a normal heart and wind power apparently would be most successful in long-distance runs. He also said that as far is could be learned from the experiment just completed, the contestants sustained no immediate ill-effects from the race.

Dr. Levine added that experiments conducted on animals, when the animals were run to a state of exhaustion and then were examined as to the effect on their hearts, bore out in every particular the results obtained from the experiment on the marathon runners.

"We performed no tests on the muscular abilities of the runners," Dr. Levine said, "but from our observations, the result of such a race as the American marathon depends almost entirely upon the muscles of the legs. When a man collapses in such a race it is usually because his legs refuse to carry him further, rather than the heart or lungs refuse to do his bidding."

How Armies May Be Turned Into Icicles by Use of Liquefied Gas

THE discovery by a Dutch chemist of a method of liquefying helium is said by scientists to be "sufficient to revolutionize human life." How this amazing result was brought about is explained as follows by a writer in London Tit-Bits:

"This discovery to a mind of scientific imagination is fraught not alone with the most alluring possibilities for the well-being of mankind, as it may be applied to the increase of comfort and health, but with possibilities of destruction and death beside which the engines and munitions of modern warfare are playthings.

"Let us divide the proposition into two parts. Some years ago, when I was conducting some experiments in a cold storage establishment, I sent a number of workmen through the plants to inspect what are called ammonia gates. These are valve-like openings, by the proper action of which the expansion of the ammonia gas may be regulated at will, the rate of expansion determining the temperature.

"One of these men, in some way which no one will ever know, kicked open an ammonia gate. Not only was the man killed instantly by the fumes, but he was frozen solid and broke into pieces when he struck the floor.

"Now, when you consider that liquid helium is as much colder than vaporized ammonia as a piece of ice is colder than molten lava, you will realize the appalling consequences of its power as an agent of death, should it be employed as an instrument of war or private vengeance.

"Suddenly liberated in a battleship, it would not only instantly freeze to death every man on board, but the inconceivable cold would at once cause the ship itself, with all its guns and machinery, to fall in pieces.

"An office building cooled by the medium of liquid helium could be wrecked in an instant by the hand of a maniac or one bent on revenge, and every one of its occupants transformed to ghastly statues of ice. I am not romancing.

"Just as sure as we are now conquering the buoyancy of the air, we shall achieve the control of its temperature.

"While diplomats are protesting friendship at state banquets, secret wires will be laid, and suddenly, at midday, perhaps, a whole metropolis will become a splintered ruin, and its inhabitants frozen solid at their occupations.

"But this picture of the future has a bright side as well. It is in the realm of sanitation that I can see the vast utility of this great discovery. It means the practical stopping of the process of putrefaction for one thing.

"A hollow wire of liquid helium just small enough not to freeze water run through every pipe in a city would not only absolutely deodorize the city, but it would kill every germ of disease. Water mains and sewer pipes would be absolute non-conductors of death—as they are now its chief thoroughfares."

EARTH'S SURFACE Is Like a TIDE

SINCE men of science say that the weight of the earth is equal to that of a globe of steel of similar size, it would seem that the belief that this planet is solid is justified by fact. Yet the actual fact is very different, and the earth is not nearly so solid as most persons believe.

The delicate instruments used today show that the apparently solid crust on which men live and move, and erect great buildings, bridges and railways, is nothing of the sort, but is always in a state of flux or motion.

As a matter of fact, the ground has its tides like the sea, and there are four pulsations or movements daily, corresponding to, but some hours earlier than the tidal waves of the oceans. They are, of course, much slighter; the earth waves do not rise so high as the tidal waves, yet nevertheless they occur as regularly.

These waves, caused by the pull of moon and sun, occur in the layer of fluid material or molten rock which everywhere underlies the tough but thin crust of hardened material on which life exists.

The crust varies from twelve to only about three miles in thickness, so that, in reality, it is a mere coating over a lake of fire. This may sound alarming, but is really nothing of the sort, for, since this crust is thin enough to accommodate itself to the movements going on in the molten depths below, no one needs to worry about his safety.

It will be much later on in the earth's life history, when the crust has thickened, that trouble will begin. Then the earth's rind, unable to accommodate itself to the tide pull in the molten sea beneath it, will start cracking, and there will be earthquakes and convulsions of so frightful a character as will be quite beyond comprehension or description. Whole oceans will sink into the interior, and whole continents be blown up.

Astronomers say that the moon is an actual example of a planet that has suffered these convulsions. It is seamed with giant crevices, pitted with vast craters.

But now it is dead; its seas have sunk into its interior, and probably no molten core remains. No longer is it troubled with earthquakes, but even if it was there is no one there to feel them, for it has paid for its immunity with death. It is a dead and solid world.

How CUCUMBERS Become PICKLES

THE cucumber is one of the oldest garden vegetables. It had its origin some 3000 years ago, probably in India. The popularity of the cucumber is well known and today it is found in some form in practically every country in the civilized world, especially as a pickle.

"As a fresh vegetable," says Edwin LeFevre in a bulletin on "Fermented Pickles," issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, "the cucumber has a most refreshing and appetizing flavor, and it is held in high esteem by the great majority of people. It is, however, in the making of pickles that the cucumber finds its chief value, being above all other vegetables, well adapted to this purpose. As a result, there are few homes in this country in which cucumber pickles in some form do not find a place in the dietary.

"Whenever cucumbers are grown in such quantities that they do not find ready sale in the markets as a fresh vegetable, they should be placed at once in brine and converted into either salt or dill pickles. The method of doing this is very simple, entailing but little expense aside from the cost of the barrels used as containers. After being cured they can be kept as long as desired or until it becomes possible to sell them to good advantage, either in local markets or to pickle manufacturers. Thus the grower is protected against a loss by overproduction or from inability speedily to market a crop which spoils readily, and at the same time the pickle market has the benefit of a more steady and ample supply.

"The proper curing of cucumbers for the production of pickles is accomplished by a lactic fermentation in brine. The use of brine is necessary for two reasons: (1) By the osmotic force which it furnishes the juice of the cucumbers is withdrawn to form part of the brine. Brine also causes a hardening or firmness of the cucumber tissue. (2) The presence of salt checks the action of spoilage organisms. At the beginning of a fermentation, before sufficient acid has been formed, and later when the amount of acid has decreased, these organisms probably would attack and break down the cucumber tissue.

"Cucumbers contain approximately 90 per cent. of water. This water, which is extracted by the osmotic action of the brine, includes the fermentable sugar, one of the constituents of the cucumber. The sugar content of cucumbers varies from 0.5 to 2.5 per cent., depending upon the variety, and upon soil and climatic conditions. Usually it is sufficient to afford nourishment for the growth of the acid-forming bacteria, as a result of the growth of which it is split up, to form lactic and probably, to some extent, certain volatile acids. By its reaction upon the cellular structure of the cucumber the acid brine thus formed brings about those changes in color, taste and texture, which are recognized as constituting the pickled state. In other words the cucumber ceases to be a cucumber and becomes a pickle.

"As the large water content of cucumbers reduces materially the salt concentration of any brine in which they are fermented, it is necessary to add an excess of salt at the beginning of a fermentation, in the proportion of one pound for every ten pounds of cucumbers fermented. The active stage of a cucumber fermentation continues for a period of from ten to thirty days, depending largely upon the temperature at which it is conducted. As determined by the optimum requirements of the essential organisms, the most favorable temperature is approximately 86 degrees Fahrenheit. Practically all the sugar withdrawn from the cucumbers is utilized during the stage of active fermentation, at the end of which period the brine reaches the highest degree of acidity."

DUMB ANIMALS That POSSESS Great VOCAL POWERS

ONE commonly speaks of animals as "dumb creatures," yet with the exception of a few, such as giraffes, kangaroos, and armadillos, the majority of mammals are endowed with vocal powers. Even the house-mouse frequently displays considerable ability as a vocalist, certain individuals, known as "singing mice," being able to modulate their voices to an extraordinary degree.

A specimen kept as a pet was able to run up an octave when singing, and would often finish its vocal performance with a trill. When thus engaged it would vibrate and inflate its throat in the manner of a bird in song, and usually sit upright upon its hind feet.

There is an impression that whales are unable to utter any cry. Certain of these aquatic mammals, however, are endowed with the power to produce vocal sounds; while the dolphin is able to emit a low, murmuring noise.

It is also recorded that some porpoises, having ascended a river and finding their return to the ocean barred by a fencing placed in the water, gave voice to most distressing cries.

Among fish, even, there are a large number of different kinds that possess voices. The American bow-pin is an example; it is able to produce bell-like notes.

A fish known as the dog's tongue, a kind of sole about four inches long, which is in the habit of attaching itself to the bottom of boats, produces a sound like that of a jewsharp struck slowly, though sometimes it increases in volume and resembles the full tone and sound of an organ.

Darwin reported that a catfish found in Rio Parana and called by the name of Armado gives a grating sound when it is caught by hook and line, and the noise can be heard distinctly even when the fish is in the water.

The sunfish, a large fish sometimes found in British waters, is said to utter a distinct groan when it is removed from its native element; and the carp and the barbel will croak when treated in a similar manner. The jewfish, found in the Gulf of Mexico, is said to emit a booming sound, and some of the blennies are able to utter a cry that has been likened unto a shriek.

Yet another vocal performer is the meagre, which utters a humming sound, and when a number of the fish are found together the noise they produce is audible through a depth of over 120 feet of water.

Who ever heard of a singing snail? Yet a small species found in the Sandwich Islands has the peculiar power of being able to emit musical sounds which have been likened by one writer to those produced by "hundreds of Aeolian harps." It is assumed that the snail produces the sounds by rubbing its shell against the bark of trees.

The CHINESE Repeating CROSSBOW

THE invention of the Chinese self-loading, repeating crossbow has been credited to Gen. Chu-ko-Liang (181-234 A. D.), but early records show that self-loading crossbows are referred to in Chinese literature several centuries before Christ. In all probability this weapon is not a Chinese contrivance, but belongs to the culture of the Lolo and Maio-tzu, aboriginal tribes in the southwest and south of China. Their national weapon is still the crossbow, and they have influenced Chinese culture to a certain degree since oldest times. In the Chinese collection of the American Museum of Natural History are to be found excellent examples of implements of warfare, including a well-preserved repeating crossbow.

The weapon consists of a wooden arm about a foot and a half in length. In this is a perforation through which the bow passes. On the stock there is affixed a magazine holding from seven to ten small darts which can be shot off one after another in quick succession. On the arms there is a lever connected with the magazine, through which passes a string of neat leather. In moving this to and fro the crossbow may be shot several times consecutively, the darts sinking by their own weight into the catch. The principle on which the arrow case is constructed tallies with the magazine mechanism of the modern rifle, first constructed in America in connection with the Winchester rifle in 1867.

In Pekin house owners still make use of the crossbow to scare away burglars.

Origin of 'SAFETY FIRST' Superstitions

AMONG the commonest of superstitions, which are as old as the human race, are those relating to "safety first." Take, for example, the pet belief of some that it is unlucky to spill salt, which is said to have had its origin from an ancient custom.

Salt is one of the necessaries of life, and to eat it in a man's house in the East is today a sign of friendship, as it was in the days of Abraham. If you refuse to eat his salt you offer him the deadliest insult, while the accidental spilling of it could easily be mistaken for a wilful act, and might cost a clumsy man his life. If, however, he picked up a pinch and threw it over his left shoulder he signified that the spilling had been unintentional.

The idea that it is unlucky to walk under a ladder was undoubtedly started and encouraged by early builders in self-defence. People passing under a ladder can easily bring it and the man upon its rungs crashing to the ground by knocking against it accidentally, but if they walk outside they can do little harm.

Why is it considered unlucky to pass on the stairs? Simply because in the old days you never quite knew who was not your enemy. A man coming down stairs had an enormous advantage over one going up; hence passing on the stairs became unpopular.

Drinking healths had a very similar origin. If your host let you drink alone you could not be sure the draught was not poisoned, but you could feel safe if he drank liquor from the same bottle. The words, "Your health," were his guarantee of good faith.

In some country districts superstitious people cross their fingers to avert evil. When doing so they are making the sign of the cross, used for nearly two thousand years to ward off evil spirits. The same idea is behind touching wood after making a boast.

Thirteen is supposed to be the unluckiest of numbers. In ancient times it was quite the reverse! Men in those days always counted in dozens, and it was customary to add one "for luck." The baker's dozen is a modern survival. The present belief that thirteen has a baleful influence comes from the Last Supper, when Judas Iscariot was the thirteenth at table and the first to rise from the meal.

Why should not three cigarettes be lighted from one match? This superstition is an Oriental one. In parts of the Near East three wax tapers are placed by a deathbed, and three lights are held to be a sign of death.

Why, again, is it considered unlucky to see the new moon through glass? Moon-worship is one of the oldest forms of religion, and the new moon as the symbol of reviving life was so sacred that whole tribes would assemble waiting for it to appear. Anyone who saw it through glass must have been indoors, and therefore absent from the sacred ceremony of welcome.

How Colors Affect Sales

HAVE you ever realized how your choice of a purchase is influenced by the color of its wrapper or box? Probably not. Yet in making your selection you have been swayed, consciously or unconsciously, by the law of color.

Candy manufacturers have always given careful attention to this question, and a long series of costly experiments has demonstrated beyond all doubt that red is the color that "pulls." Candies done up in blue wrappers have left the public cold; the same sweets enclosed in red wrappers have enjoyed a steady sale.

The modern advertising man knows the subtle appeal of red. Note its predominance in colored advertisements and on posters. A case in point is that of a monthly magazine which was published with a quiet gray cover. Its sales were small. The second number, which was enclosed in a cover of vivid red, sold like wildfire.

Observe the number of red-backed novels at the book-sellers' and ask a few questions about their sales, and you will realize that red is the best selling color. The reason given is that red is a warm color; so also are orange and yellow, but in a lesser degree.

Green, blue, and violet are cold colors. They arouse no enthusiasms. Green is a restful and soothing color—hence its use in the manufacture of billiard tables and in theatrical "green rooms." Soft shades of gray convey an impression of refinement.

Care of Women's Hair

MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN.

The condition of the hair is largely a matter of physical health, but nowhere is neglect more evident. Neglected hair is never beautiful, while sometimes scanty heads of hair pass for beautiful and luxuriant ones just because the possessors give them care.

Beautiful hair is clean hair. There is considerable diversity of opinion among hair specialists regarding the frequency with which the shampoo should occur.

Some maintain that every two or three weeks is none too often, while others declare that once in two or three months is frequent enough.

Naturally the hair should be washed often enough to keep it clean, but brushing it thoroughly each night and using a tonic which is rubbed carefully into the scalp often keep it clean without occasioning a shampoo oftener than every month or six weeks.

If you have a tendency to baldness or a decided loss of hair, shampooing should occur only when cleanliness absolutely requires it, for you are depriving it of the natural oil when you wash it.

An excellent shampoo is made by beating an egg into an ounce of water and rubbing it thoroughly into the scalp. The yolk contains iron and sulphur, both excellent for the hair. The white is very cleansing.

If you prefer to use soap, nothing is better than to melt a cake of white castile soap in a quart of boiling water, then with a couple of tablespoons of the soap jelly and rub thoroughly into the scalp. Gather the long ends up on the crown so that they, too, may be well lathered.

Before rinsing, massage the scalp with firm, rotary movements. Rinse the hair through several waters, the last of which should be cold. Be sure that every particle of soap has been removed.

Brushes and combs should be selected with care and cleansed frequently. For exaggerated cases of dandruff or hair ailments it is best to consult a specialist who will prescribe a remedy for your particular case. Sun baths are excellent. It is also advisable to let long hair hang down the back while in the boudoir that it may have air and freedom.

Dyeing or bleaching the hair seems to me most unwise and I always advise patrons against such remedies.

YOUNG RANCHER NEED NOT WORRY OVER THE H.C.L.

HONOLULU, June 16 (Associated Press).—The high cost of living is one thing that need not cause much worry for the next year to ten-year-old Richard Smart, who is now on his annual visit to his domain, the great Parker ranch of almost 2000,000 acres on the island of Hawaii.

On the petition of his grandmother and guardian, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, who was Mrs. John Parker before her second marriage, Judge John Desha of Honolulu has just increased the youngster's annual allowance from $9,000 to $16,300. This sum is divided as follows —general maintenance, education, and upkeep of automobile and employment of nurse, governess and chauffeur, $12,000; provision for annual gifts to employees of the Parker ranch, $1,800; special fund for his annual vacation on Hawaii, $2,500.

Few American boys attaining their majority will control the wealth that lies in store and is piling up for young Smart. He will be a multi-millionaire, with an annual income of more than $200,000, and the ownership of the ranch, one of the largest and finest in the world, which is estimated to be worth between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The ranch has played a prominent part in island history and was one of the few places in the territory which did not pay homage to "king sugar." In the early days of the huge estate, life was as wild and care-free as on any cattle ranch in the mainland West. The Hawaiian cowboys were considered of the finest in the world and took many trophies and prizes at mainland rodeos.

Most of Richard's time is spent upon the mainland, chiefly on the Pacific coast, but his annual visit to the ranch is marked by a huge celebration, rodeo and barbecue in which the countryside participates. It is at this time that his gifts to his employees are distributed.

More than 12,000,000 letters, cards and parcels were mailed in England with insufficient stamps during a recent six months.

HALL CAINE'S 70th BIRTHDAY

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press) —Hall Caine, who recently observed his seventieth birthday, took the opportunity to speak of things as they used to be. Referring to the relations between writers he said: "There comes a time when all writers get stuck in their work and want advice. I knew Wilkie Collins intimately, and whenever I got stuck I would go and see him. Always he would help me without hesitation.

"This comradeship was a common feature of literary work in those days, not only here but abroad. Flaubert, George Sand and the Younger Dumas, to mention only examples, would help one another in difficulties. Today, however, you never hear of that sort of helpfulness, and I think the loss is a great one."

For the manuscript of his first novel, Mr. Caine said, he received $250 and was supposed to have done well. Literary values have increased enormously since. "When I first came to London," he declared, "the usual arrangement was for a publisher to pay $200 out and out for anovel. In some cases writers like Wilkie Collins, Charles Reade or Walter Besant has some sort of acturial valuation made of their potential financial worth, and sold themselves to the publishers. It was an arrangement which generally operated greatly to the advantage of the publishers."

SHEEP FED ON THE SCREENINGS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 16 (Associated Press).—The feeding of western sheep and cattle on the screenings from the big elevators at the head of the lakes has been carried on successfully during the past winter. The animals are brought here from the prairie provinces and finished for shipment to eastern markets.

This plan was inaugurated by R. C. Harvey, an Alberta sheep rancher, two years ago. In 1921 he wintered some 6,000 sheep. The railways granted him a through rate to eastern Canadian points with stop-over privileges. The sheep were fed on a diet consisting of screenings mixed with an allowance of hay. After being fed for the winter months on this concentrated ration, the animals showed a very profitable increase and were reloaded for eastern markets.

Last winter Mr. Harvey wintered and fed more than 10,000 sheep. The experimental stage is over, and a saving of thousands of dollars annually is expected to result from this new scheme.

Fattening of cattle on the elevator screenings was tried out during the past winter with gratifying results. There is practically an inexhaustible supply of the screenings at the head-of-the-lakes, and the wintering of cattle, as well as sheep, will probably be carried on extensively next winter.

System Run Down Blood Out of Order

Many people become run down, but don't know just exactly what their trouble is, when, as a rule, it is improper circulation of the blood.

For this purpose there is nothing on the market to-day to equal.

Burdock Blood Bitters

It regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, purifies the blood and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. H. Poole, Port Dover, Ont., writes:—"My system was run down and my blood out of order, and I suffered a great deal from pains in my head which made me feel very miserable. A friend told me to try Burdock Blood Bitters, so I got a bottle and before it was used I found it was doing me good. I kept on until I had taken three, and now I feel like a different woman.

My husband also took it and it has built him up."

DECLARES DISEASE NOW CONTROLLABLE

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press).—Cholera, plague, typhus, typhoid, small pox, tuberculosis and malaria have at last become controllable, says Sir George Newman, chief medical officer of the British governemnt. The antitoxin treatment of diphtheria has reduced the death-rate in that disease from 29.8 percent. in 1890 to 9.3 percent. in 1922, which means that 200 additional lives are saved in every 1,000 cases. In 1871 enteric fever claimed 374 lives in each million of the population in 1922 it was 12 in each million.

"We are living in the golden age of medicine," says Sir George. "Unperceived it is rapidly changing the face of the world and the destines of men. The extension of the frontiers of life is assisted by fresh air and sunlight in dwellings, sanitation of workshops, wholesome water and food supply, and the isolation of infectious persons. The result of this is seen in the fact that every child born today has an expectation of 12 years more life than had his grandfather."

COAL.

This is a good time to buy your winter coal—if your dealer is playing fairly. You'll probably find he is. The coal business is rather quiet, hungry for orders. Seasonal dullness. That makes prices more attractive than when everybody is trying to get coal at the same time, bidding against each other.

By buying your winter fuel in summer, you'll save a lot more money than interest on the investment. And you'll help keep the mines busy, jobs for the coal diggers.

DISABLED VETERANS WILL OWN THE TOWN

MINNEAPOLIS, June 16 (Associated Press) —Like the many towns on the French battlefront which capitulated during the war, Minneapolis will literally "surrender" itself to the 10,000 disabled veterans who will attend the annual convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in this city June 25 to 29

"The disabled service men will own the town' during their stay," says Mayor George E Leach, himself a disabled service man who led the 151st Field Artillery

On the opening day, Monday June 25, St Paul is given the honor of entertaining the visitors.

Tuesday 'a mammoth parade will be staged in Minneapolis. The majority will march, but is estimated that about 40 percent of the veterans will have to be taken in automobiles, due to their disabilities.

A tour around the city and Lake Minnetonka with the Minneapolis chapter of the disabled veterans' organization as host, is scheduled for Wednesday. Thursday evening is set aside for the grand formal ball, the premier social event of the meetings.

A summer Mardi Gras festival, with fire works and vaudevile entertainment will share honours with the public dance at the huge Armory here for the final entertainment on the closing day Friday.

HAGUE COURT TO DECIDE PROPERTY RIGHTS IN WIRELESS

THE HAGUE, June 16 (Associated Press).—Property rights in news distributed by wireless is a subjedct now engaging the Dutch courts. One Dutch news agency sued another for intercepting and sending to its newspaper subscribers news sent to the first agency by wireless from a third agency in Berlin, each of the dispatches bearing as prefix a notice that they were the copyright in Holland of the plaintiff agency which claimed payment at a specified rate for each message thus intercepted and distributed.

The president of the Hague Court has ordered the defendant agency immediately to cease interupting the wireless messages which the plaintiffs claimed as their property, until it has been judicially decided whether such interceptions is illegal or not, and ordering the defendants, in the former event, to pay $10 each for each item of news illegally intercepted and distributed.

Forewarns Against Efforts to Break Down Insurance

ATLANTA Ga., June 16 (Associated Press).—Insurance policies are the under lying bonds of the individualist state and for that reason, the studied effort which is being made in this country to break down insurance as a private enterprise and to make a state monopoly out of it is the most dangerous and insidious of all socialistic movements, the delegates to the National Association of Credit Men were told today by Henry Swift Ives, secretary of the Casualty Information Clearing House, of Chicago.

Mr. Ives' subject was insurance, credit and the state. Continuing he said: "The institutions of our representative democracy and the principle of private rights in property might weather, for atime, the government ownership of transportation and the so-called utilities, but they could not survive government ownership of insurance.

"Power breeds power and it is only a short step from state compensation funds to state life and fire insurance. Those who unthinkingly accept the socialist theory of why state companies should write compensation lines, cannot hold to it and at the same time logically oppose any other government insurance scheme.

"I wonder how many people there are in this country who know that today 16 American states are operating insurance companies for the writing of workmen's compensation business, and sthat two states, Wisconsin and Massachusetts, have experimented with life insurance? I venture to say that there are vey few who realize the extent to which this socialization scheme has been carried.

"The states which are experimenting with the compensation lines are: California, Colorado, Idaho, Maryland, Michigan, Montana, Nevada, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. And even of these states actually prohibit private companies from writing this type of insurance and require all employers of labor, arbitrarily and without option, to rely on the state funds for their protection. The states, which, by establishing a monopoly, admit their inability to compete on equal terms with others engaged in the insurance business are: Nevada, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming. In 1921 the state companies in the nine states permitting competition only wrote 14.7 percent of the compensation coverage, although all of them offered as inducements an apparent intial saving rates.

"This record ought to be ample proof that government ownership of insurance is just as inefficient, just as extravagant and just as bureaucratic as government ownership of any other business. The test of any commodity is its quality, not the price it is sold at. The employers of these nine states seem to have heeded this principle in buying their compensation insurance."

WHEN?

With May pig iron production smashing all records, even of war-boom times, you have the very pleasant situation that when general business starts to slump again it will be carried forward for considerable time by its own momentum.

It takes about an eighth of a mile to stop the fastest and heaviest express train after the brakes are thrown, a veteran engineer tells us. So with business when it's rushing top speed.

Advance notice of a slump will be in plenty of time to enable everybody to reach the cyclone cellar. Trouble is, only old-timers start for the cellar in time. Most folks think as they hope, that the storm will blow over. Optimism often is a severe handicap.

FLOWING GOLD

REX BEACH

COPYRIGHT 1923 BY REX BEACH
PRINTED BY ARRANGEMENT WITH METROPOLITAN NEWSPAPER SERVICE, NEW YORK

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. For a friend, who is vice president of the biggest jewelry house in Dallas, Gray undertakes a journey to Ranger to sell valuable diamonds to Gus Briskow. He meets Ma Briskow, Allegheny, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Gray makes a good sale and starts home in the same machine hired for the trip to Ranger. Having prepared himself against a hold up plot Gray throws vapor gas into the eyes of an adventurer, named Mallow, when he and a pal attempt to hold up Gray's machine.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

The jeweler was delighted. "Good!" he cried. "I detest the deserving poor as heartily as you do. And now I'd like to open a bottle of champagne with our breakfast."

On the very day that the new sign, "Tom and Bob Parker," went up over the door of the insurance office at Wichita Falls, the junior partner announced:

"I'll have to tell you—" Barbara perched herself upon her father's desk and began speaking with a note of excitement in her voice. "I heard Henry Nelson was in town, so I went to the bank this morning to see him. He's such a big man in the oil business I thought he might help me. He was there, but in conference with his father and another man. There were several people waiting, so I sat down. When the man they were talking to came out, it was Pete, that driller who put down the first well for us. He was glad to see me, and we had quite a talk, but I noticed he was fidgety. He said he was running a rig over near 'Burk,' and had a fishing job on his hands. With all the excitement and everybody running double 'towers' and trying to beat the other fellow down to the sand, it struck me as queer that a contract driller like Pete would be here in Wichita in conference with Bell and Henry Nelson, when he ought to be out on the lease fishing for a lost bit. I told him I'd bet he had a showing of oil and was trying to borrow money to buy the offset or to get the Nelsons to buy it and carry him for an interest. Well, that wretched man turned all colors when I accused him, and tried to 'shush' me. He said I mustn't talk about things I knew nothing about—somebody might overhear me. He declared the outfit he was working for were no good and wouldn't pay a driller a bonus if he made a well for them. He was sick of making other people rich and getting nothing for himself. . . . It was time the drilling crews shared in the profits. . . . He'd see that nobody froze him out again if he had to spoil the hole. He wound up by denying everything, and I pretended to swallow it, but when he had gone I went over my maps and located the lease where he's drilling. Three of the adjoining tracts are owned by the big companies, so that eliminated them, but the twenty to the west belongs to Knute Hoagland. Henry was glad to see me when my turn came to go in, and—I didn't forget to call him 'Colonel,' and that pleased both him and Bell. Then I told them that I proposed to become a rich and successful oil operator and wanted their advice how to begin. Old Bell was amused, but Henry was more diplomatic. He tried to convince me that the oil game is altogether a man's business and that no woman could succeed at it. 'It is a contest of wits,' he explained. I was duly impressed. I asked him to call this evening, for I did so wish to have him teach me what little I was capable of learning. But he couldn't come, because he had been called to Dallas, unexpectedly. That was my cue. In my most sweetly girlish manner I said: 'Oh, indeed! Do you expect to see Knute Hoaglund while you're there?'"

Two hectic spots had come into "Bob's" cheeks during this recital; she was teetering upon the desk now like a nodding Japanese doll, and her blue eyes were dancing.

"I heard Old Bell's chair creak and I saw him shoot a quick glance at Henry. Henry admitted, casually, that he might drop in on Knuts. Why?

"'You'll be wasting time,' I told him, even more sweetly, 'for dad and I have that twenty west of Burkburnett.'

"Well! You'd have thought I had stuck a hatpin into Bell. And Henry's mouth actually dropped open."

"But—we ain't even got an option! It takes money to lease close-in stuff." Tom was bewildered.

"Of course. And they realized that, or Bell did, as soon as he'd had time to collect himself. But it was too late then; he had betrayed himself and he knew it."

"Bob" laughed again, a bit hysterically. "That's about all, dad. They agreed to put up the money and carry me—us, I mean—for a quarter interest if I can get the lease from Knute Hoaglund. So, I'm leaving on the night train."

The publicity Calvin Gray received from his exploit at Ranger could be nothing except agreeable to one of his temperament. Gratefully he basked in his notoriety, meanwhile continuing assiduously to cultivate the moneyed men of Dallas.

He was relieved one day to receive a telegram from Gus Briskow asking him to meet Ma and Allie at the evening train and "get them a hotel." He managed to secure a good suite at the Ajax, and it was with genuinely pleasurable anticipation that he drove to the station.

Dismay smote him, however, at first sight of the new arrivals. Ma Briskow resembled nothing so much as one of those hideous "crayon enlargements" he had seen in farmhouses—atrocities of an art long dead.

If the mother's appearance was unusual, the daughter's was startling, what with her size and the bizarre latitude of color she had indulged herself in. Allegheny's get-up screamed.

They were enough to daunt a stronger man than Calvin Gray, these two. He could well imagine the sensation he and they would create in the lobby of the modish Ajax. But his first surprise was succeeded by a gentle pity, for Ma Briskow greeted him rapturously, and in Allegheny's somber eyes he detected a look of mingled suffering and defiance. Enthusiastically he took charge of Ma's lunch basket; against Allie's muttered protest he despoiled her of her bilious, near-leather suitcase.

Allie answered his phone call about eight o'clock the next morning.

"Ready for breakfast?" he inquired.

"Why, we et at daylight," she told him, in some astonishment. "I been ridin' since then."

"Indeed! Putting roses in your cheeks, eh? With whom did you go?"

"Oh, one of the elevator men."

"B—but—" Gray sputtered, deeply shocked. "Why, Miss Briskow, they're negroes! Riding with a nigger! My heavens! Where did you go?"

"Nowhere. Just up and down."

It was a moment before the man could speak, then he said, in a queerly repressed voice: "That—is quite different. I'll run down and get a bite and join you in no time."

"Seems awful funny not to have any housework to do in the morning," Ma Briskow confessed, as they left the Ajax. "A hotel would spoil me in no time."

Gray took the elder woman's hand in his and scolded her gently. Smilingly, he lectured her on the art of doing nothing, and voiced some elemental truths about living.

The mother nodded, a bit vaguely. "That's kind of like Pa talks. He sent you this, and says to tell you it's our first spendin' spree and act accordin'." From her pocket she drew a folded check, made out in blank to Calvin Gray and signed by Gus Briskow.

"So! I assume that I'm to pay the bills. Very well. The sky is the limit, eh?"

"That's it. Of course, I don't need anything for myself—this dress and bunnit are good enough—but Allie's got to have new fixin's, from the inside out. I s'pose her things'll eat up the best part of a hundred dollars, won't they?" The speaker's look of worried inquiry bespoke a lifetime of habitual economy.

"We're not going to buy what you need, but what you want. You're going to have just as many pretty things as Allie."

Mrs. Briskow gasped, she rolled her eyes and fanned herself; she appealed to Allegheny, but it was evident that the latter had kept her eyes open and had done some thinking, for she broke out, passionately:

"You make me sick, Ma! It'll take all Pa can afford, and then some, to make us look like other people."

Gray determined that the girl should not be disappointed if he could help it, so he went directly to the head saleswoman of the first store, and asked her to assume the role of counselor where circumstance compelled him to relinquish it. Although the woman agreed to his request, he found before long that his trust in her had been misplaced. Not only did she threaten to take advantage of her customers' ignorance, but also, to Gray's anger, she displayed a poorly veiled contempt for and amusement at his charges.

For once in his life Calvin Gray was at a loss, and knowledge of that fact caused him to chew savagely at his cigar. Engaged thus, he became aware of a stranger who looked on at the pitiful comedy without amusement. She was a pretty thing. Gray stared at her openly and his scowl vanished. When she moved away, he made a sudden decision, excused himself, and followed her.

He was gratified at the manner in which she accepted his breathless apology for speaking to her.

"You can save the reason of a distracted man and add to the happiness of two poor, bewildered women, if you will," he concluded, earnestly. "It isn't a funny situation; it's tragic."

"What do you wish me to do?" the girl inquired.

"It's a lot to ask, I know, but won't you help them buy the things they need and save them from further humiliation at the hands of these highbrow clerks and lowbrow customers? I—I want to punch somebody in the nose."

MUST DECIDE THE MOTHER OF CHILD.

Two Women Claim the Same Baby, a Winsome Little Girl.

By GEORGE BRITT.

CHICAGO, June 16.—What mental kink is responsible for two women here claiming not merely the custody but the natural maternity of a winsome 5-year-old girl?

Both can't be right. Is one of them simply and consciously telling an untruth, impelled by covetousness for the little cherub, or is she rather the victim of a novel "maternity complex?"

The object of the controversy, Leona Felicia—last name unsettled, accepts the adoring attentions of each woman, and upon occasion she will call either one "Mama."

Tells Her Story.

The story, told by Mrs. Julia Wasny, about 40, is that Leona Felicia was born to her on May 6, 1918, at Stryj, Galicia. She shows a Polish birth and baptismal certificate. The child's father is dead, she stays, and she brought her to America three years ago.

This spring, when she herself was ill, Mrs. Wasny says, she took the child to the home of Mrs. Nicholas Lenz to be boarded. When she recovered and went to claim Leona Felicia, Mrs. Lentz refused to surrender her.

Now hear the story from Mrs. Lenz, who is about five years younger than the other claimant.

"My love could not be so strong had I not given birth to this baby myself," she says. "I love her better than my life. Of course, she was American born. She was not at my home foun months ago. She was ill, and a woman nurse had her. She was away too long. I could not bear to have her away another day."

Mrs. Wasny, through her attorneys, sought a writ of habeas corpus to recover possession. The case will go before Judge Joseph B David to be decided. And the jurist now realizes why old King Solomon's hair turned white.

Another bit of evidence which the petitioners stress is the fact that Leona Felicia speaks Polish. Mrs. Lenz does not, "but then she plays with Polish children," she explains.

There might be easily a mental cloud which could account for such conflicting cliams, according to Dr. Bayard Holmes, distinguished alienist and psychological expert.

"Women between 30 and 40 are especially subject to mental abberrations," he says. "Either one not being the real mother, might feel a longing for the child. She could favor and encourage the delusion of maternity until she actually believed the child was hers."

Meanwhile, people are turning again to the biblical episode of how Solomon of old decided the maternity of a child. They compare the two case, and believe that Judge David may have to use, while not the same methors, at least an unusual way to unravel the knotty problem.

MEYERS STRONG IN THE COUNTRY

His Experience of 35 Years as Practical Farmer Impresses Many of His Hearers.

(Contributed.)

Two large and enthusiastic meetings were held by Mr. J. W. Meyers, the Liberal candidate, last night at the Orange Hall, 16th line of Smith, and Selwyn.

Mr. Stewart Hutchinson was the chairman at the former meeting and Gordon Nichols acted in that capacity at the latter. The speakers accompanying Mr. Meyers were Mr. Joe Wearing, Ex-Mayor J. J. Duffus and Captain John Dewart.

Strong criticism was directed at the public record of Hon. Howard Ferguson, the Conservative leader, and it was shown that he had completely mis-managed the Department of Forest and Lands when he was Minister of the Crown in the Conservative administration. During the last session he had been a destructive critic of the Drury government, but he had offered no solution to the problems, which confronted the people to-day. He was a man who indulged in the wildest and the most extravagant language in criticizing his opponents, and had said of the members of the Farmers' government that they were "political and intellectual freaks, who had been projected into power by accident and had grown out of the garbage." A man of this type could not possess the confidence of the people of Ontario and was utterly unfit to be Prime minister.

Mr. Tooms had not been a farmer and had never been in intimate contact with the daily work and problems of the industry of agriculture. The legislation he had sponsored during the last four years had not been along the lines of improving rural conditions.

Mr. Bradburn, the Conservative candidate, had never farmed, and could not understand the requirements and problems of the rural districts a swell as a man who had been brought up on a farm.

Alderman Meyers, the Liberal candidate, had been a farmer for 35 years, and had made a success of that occupation, and having been a farmer his sympathies and interests were with the rural population of the province of Ontario. He also had made a success of his business in the city. He was an employer of labor and he understood the problems of labor and the city people quite as well as being conversant with the problems of the farmers. In addition he had served on the township and county councils while farming and organized and had been president of the first cooperative dairy factory in the County of Wellington. In that way he was admirably fitted to represent a constituency composed both of rural and urban population.

Mr. Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, was described as a modest unassuming business man who had been a success along all lines of endeavor, whose business and personal life was above reproach, and in the Legislature he had been an advocate and supporter of strong, firm constructive legislation. He had been in opposition and knew and therefore had the necessary experience to economize and stabilize the finances of the province.

He is the man best fitted to assume responsibility and lead a government which would legislate to good advantage for all classes of people in the province of Ontario.

The electors were strongly urged to get behind Mr. Meyers and send him to Queen's Park to assist Wellington Hay in attempting to solve the serious problems, which are at present confronting the province of Ontario.

The meeting closed with three hearty cheers for the King and the Liberal candidate.

NORTH MONAGHAN HEARD BRADBURN

(Contributed)

Mr. Bradburn's meeting held at the Town Hall North Monaghan. came on as another success for himself and the party. He was accompanied by Dr. M. A. Morrison, Mr. E. A. Peck and with the forcible address from the candidate supplemented by two other speeches the audience had a field night, for sure. Nothing was lacking in the definite nature of the arguments presented.

Dr. Morrison took up discussion on the O.T.A., and as one of the stalwarts of the movement for temperance in years past and as a faithful worker to have the act carried, gave explicit arrguments as to why the Act could not be tampered with, no matter which group or party, came into power. Only might the administration differ. And if any laxity was allowed it would show up, and steps taken to have the laxness corrected. He maintained that notwithstanding what was alleged to the contrary that the enforcement of the law was as safe for rigid enforcement in the hands of Mr. Ferguson and the Liberal Conservative party as in any other hands, and even better than in if the hands of a Liberal-Labor Combination, which would be the case if the country rejected the Liberal Conservatives.

Mr. Peck and Mr. Bradburn spoke generally on the issues before the election, and pointed out the very many wrongs that had been committed on the electorate, and the immense expense incurred by the reckless and thoughtless movements.

The meeting was a fine one and showed that North Monaghan will stand four-square for Mr. Bradburn on Polling Day.

ANTI-UNIONISTS CALL FOR MEMBERS

TORONTO, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—Virtual declaration in independence by anti-unionists in the Presbyterian Church appears to-day in a form of advertisement in the daily papers. It means the formation of a new Church out of the minority left from the Presbyterians.

The advertisement asked every "loyal member and organization in every part of the Church to continue to work for its constitution and our religious liberty." The name of the president is given as Thos. McMillan, Toronto, and the secretary, Rev. J. Macnamara, Toronto.

"We have committees acting in every province of the Dominion," he added. "In the near future we will issue a statement defining in detail our aims and purposes."

Mr. McMillan is confident that the "Antis" would be able to muster a strong force when the time came for organizing as an independent church under Presbyterian colors. "We will fight under corporation bills to the last," he declared.

RUM RUNNERS IN MIDNIGHT BATTLE

ATLANTIC CITY, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—A running fight in which several volleys of shots were fired, occurred early to-day between rum-runners and Government boats. Many bullets whistled over the board walk, driving night owls to cover. Government boats, about midnight, sighted several runners about two hundred feet from the shore, attempting to make a landing. They called on the smugglers to stop, and attempted to surround them, but the runners escaped in the fog. The smugglers in their haste to get away, swept so close to the shore that they almost touched bottom, and, putting on full speed, dashed out to sea in single file. Both sides exchanged shots freely, and the fight could be seen clearly from the board walk. Astir with midnight prowlers, the promenade was soon deserted.

SEVEN HUNDRED PUPILS JOIN IN SCHOOL PICNIC

The Prince of Wales' school held their annual picnic yesterday afternoon, on the school grounds, with an attendance of the majority of the seven hundred pupils of the school, and a large number of mothers. The picnic was a very enjoyable and successful affair. The Home and School Association, of which Mrs. J. S. Peters is president, helped with arrangements. Mrs. George Robertson was convenor of the refreshment committee; Mr. F. E. Kerr had charge of sports, and each teacher looked after the welfare of her own class in the al fresco supper which was much enjoyed. Sports took the form of races and baseball matches.

Donations for the occasion were received from Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson, Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Mrs. S. T. Medd, Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mr. J. John, Mr. Jas. Dutton. The electric plate donated by the Board of Education, was used for the first time yesterday.

A SOCIAL EVENING KING'S OWN CLASS

Address and Presentation to Departing Teacher—Cognawagas Were Guests.

A very enjoyable time was spent last evening by the King's own Bible class of St. James' Methodist Church, when they entertained the Cognawaga Club in the Sunday School room. A number of games were played after which the girls presented their teacher, Mrs. J. F. Chapman, with a beautiful reading lamp.

Dear Teacher: Y . S. S. class, realizing that the parting between teacher and scholars is near at hand, deire in some way to express their love and appreciation of the loving service you have given to us during the past four years. Your teaching exposition of Bible truth has been indeed inspiring and helpful to the better understanding of God's word, and has been an incentive to a greater diligence in searching the Scriptures. By your capable leadership, counsel and Christian character in our religious and social activities, you have helped us to a higher plane in Christian thought and experience that has brought blessings to our lives.

As a token of our love and affection kindly accept this reading lamp.

The best wishes of the young ladies of the King's Own Bible Class go with you to your new sphere of service.

We pray that God's richest blessing may go with you, that your pathway through life may always be beautiful and bright with Christian service.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY MR. AND MRS. LEBARR

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. LeBarr was commemorated last evening at their home, 203 King Street, by the presence of about forty of their friends, including several who were present at the wedding twenty-five years ago.

A pleasant evening was spent in games and dancing. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. An address to Mr. and Mrs. LeBarr was read by R. B. Pearson, accompanied by the presentation of a handsome chair to Mr. LeBarr, made by A. Parker, and of a large quantity of table silverware to Mrs. LeBarr, by Mrs. R. L. Sarginson, of Toronto. A fitting reply was made by the host.

Guests included Miss Annie Sanderson and Mrs. R. L. Sarginson, of Toronto.

Mr. LeBarr has been a resident of Peterboro for the last twenty-seven years. He came here from Port Perry with Mr. B. F. Acker, man, in whose employ he has been continuously since that time. He has been a faithful member of Trinity Church choir for over twenty years, in which congregation Mrs. LeBarr has also been an active worker. His wife was formerly Miss Elizabeth Sanderson, of North Monaghan.

"ALWAYS IN TROUBLE" BY THE BENSFORT CLUB

The Bensfort Sunday school was filled last evening for the presentation, under the auspices of the Bensfort Community Club, of the humorous force, in three acts, "Always in Trouble," directed by Lionel Waterman.

Those taking part were: The Misses Marjorie Emmerson, Mary Whittington, Ruby McAllister, Margaret Wood, May Wood, Edna Huggins, Mary Wood, Frank Emerson, Fred Wood, George Morrison, Jack Harvey, Chalmers Pue.

FOUND AFTER AN ALL NIGHT SEARCH

KIRKLAND LAKE, June 16. — (Canadian Press.)—Exhausted from her aimless wandering through the bush and badly bitten by black flies and mosquitoes, but still alive, Mrs. Thomas Pinder, who lives here, was located after an all night search The woman had gone in search of a dog which had broken away. She found the animal but lost her bearings.

ENGLISH PASTOR VISITS GEORGE STREET CHURCH

At both services to-morrow in George street church, the preacher will be Rev. G. Stanley Russell, pastor of the Grafton Square Congregational church in London, England. Mr. Russell is recognized as one of the most brilliant preachers of the world's Metropolis, his church being one of the most outstanding churches in London. He is well known in Canada, having been sought by some of the leading congregations of the country. His coming to the city is a distinct event in our life, and his messages will live long in the hearts of those who hear him.

Dorothy Allan Park will sing at both services, her morning solo will be Dvorak's "Turn Ye to Me," and in the evening she will sing the classic "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Liddle. Mr. J. H. Renwick will direct the choir in the usual musical service.

MICHAEL O'LEARY. V.C., IS NOW A DETECTIVE.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 16.—(Canadian Press.)—License Inspetcor Michael O'Leary, V.C., has resigned his position with the License Department and joined the detective force of the Michigan Central Railway. Mr. O'Leary has been connected with the Department for two years in Haldimand and Welland counties.

CHANGE LEGITIMACY LAW.

LONDON, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—The English legitimacy law was brought into conformity with the long-established Scottish law yesterday by the House of Commons giving the third reading to the bill enabling children born out of wedlock to be legitimized by their parents' subsequent marriage provided neither parent was married to a third party at the time the child was born.

TELEPHONE INSTALLED.

The telephone which was removed from the harbormaster's office at the George Street Wharf last winter will be re-installed next week. This is a practical necessity in case of accidents, and a great convenience in the tourist season by enabling the harbormaster to communicate with the Trent Waterway Association on their arrival. By meeting incoming tourists, the Association is able to boost the city, besides giving any required assistance.

BODIES OF SEVEN ARE EXTRICATED FROM WRECK

MOSCOW, June 16.— (Canadian Press.)— The bodies of seven persons have been extricated from the wreckage of the Moscow-Kharkov express, which was derailed yesterday about 14 miles from Kharkov by bandits. It is believed other bodies are still in the debris.

BARGAIN ANNEX.

MR. T. TOOMS RECEIVES 80 COLS.

21st an election interview of 8 inches and editorial of 13 inches. Speaking on the eve of the municipal elections, Mr. Tooms advocated the return of the Labour candidates as "men whose word is their bond, men who put character before wealth."

Quite recently, and on a previous occasion, Mr. R. N. Scott has been reported as referring to pledges and bonds and words of honour which might have been magnified if there had been any desire on the part of the Examiner to embarrass Mr. Tooms. Some of the other bulky items of that time were a 29-inch address by Mr. Tooms to the Independent Labour Party on April 7th; and a 42 inch report of another address to the same body on April 22nd.

The Passing of the Weekly Chronicle.

In that summer Mr. Tooms was editor of the Weekly Chronicle, and the Examiner gave five inches of space to its appearance in the newspaper field. It was Mr. Tooms' own personal organ, and when it passed out of existence after a brief struggle under the ministrations of Mr. Tooms, the Examiner noted its passing in silence, and likewise the aftermath of the venture down even to recent re-echoes.

Passing over numerous letters and shorter articles, a survey of the Examiner files in 1921 shows a report extending to 48 1-2 inches of Mr. Tooms' speech to the Trades Council. It was decked out with a two column, three line heavy 36 point heading. On January 12th, 1922, Mr. Tooms on Hydro radials measured 23 inches in type; on August 1st 23 inches on his trip to the Old Country, and on August 31st 24 inches on the front page on his trip with the hotel commission.

And so on down these EIGHTY COLUMNS to more recent events, including Mr. Tooms' announcement of his candidature in the present elections, published entirely on the front page, with his photograph.

Some of the edtiorials criticized a few of the ideas held by Mr. Tooms and some of his performances. The Examiner disagreed with his attitude and policy in regard to the administration and control of police departments in cities. It had a perfect right to do so, and very many of the constituents of this riding preferred the existing methods of administration by an appointed commission. Some of the editorials commended Mr. Tooms, and his recommendation of his brother-in-law for the position of clerk of the Division Court in Peterborough was not harshly mentioned in view of the political plane Mr. Tooms assumed far and above that of the old parties. That appointment was passed over with the comment that nepotism was a particular species of patronage, and that patronage itself was supposed to have been a device of only the old political parties.

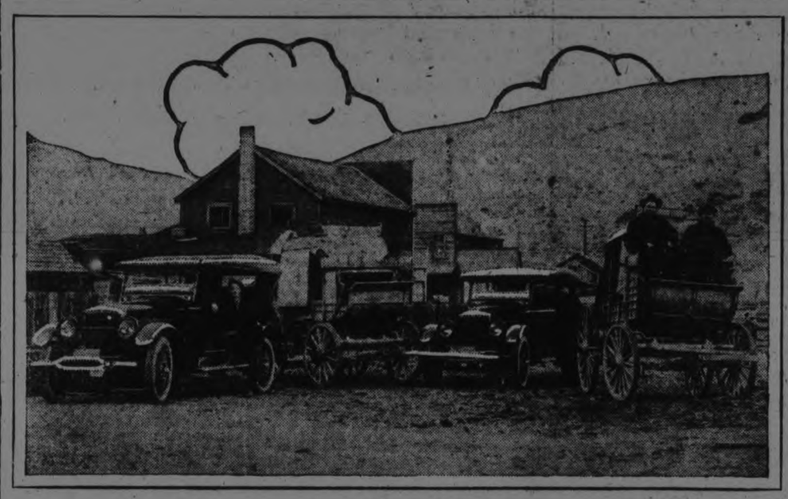
Gratitude is an Attribute of Few Persons.

Thus not only in the quantity of EIGHTY COLUMNS, but also in the predominating spirit of the editorial comment, in the facilities that were extended to Mr. Tooms, in the support that was given his efforts to secure a fish hatchery for this district, The Examiner submits tangible evidence to those at the meeting of two weeks ago in disproof of Mr. Tooms' allegation that he had not been fairly and even generously treated in these columns.

Gratitude is an attribute of few persons with whom newspaper men come in frequent contact, and politicians are no exception. In this particular, however, it is gratifying to be able to single out Mr. J. H. Burnham as perhaps the tenth man that returned while the other nine passed on unappreciative and forgetting. After the famous by-election in which he was defeated, Mr. Burnham had the courtesy and grace and the fine sense of gratefulness to write and thank the Examiner for the treatment he had received in the columns of this newspaper and from its staff and management. "You conducted the campaign fairly," was Mr. Burnham's closing paragraph. The very solitariness of the incident made it doubly refreshing and acceptable.

Finally, the Examiner's fairness to Mr. Tooms has been most empathic, not so much in what it said or reported, but in what the Examiner DID NOT say or report.

Last Symbol of Frontier Passes Into History



The old-time stagecoaches, used for years over the historic Cariboo Trail in British Columbia, were recently replaced by Studebaker cars. These cars now make the 220-mile trip north, from Ashcroft to Quesnel, in about a quarter of the time required by the horse-drawn coaches, and the fare is only one-fourth of what it was when the passengers depended upon old Dobbin.

NEW CHILD FILM STAR

(By Robert A. Donaldson.)

LOS ANGELES, June 15.— Another "kid" star is rapidly forging to the front, and bids fair to take rank before very long beside Jackie Coogan, if his present work is any indication.

He is Bruce Guerin, four years old, Jackie Coogan, working at $40 a week, literally took the star part away from Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid," and Bruce Guerin, who gets more money than that, did exactly the same thing with Viola Dana in "Love in the Dark," a Metro release.

Without Bruce the picture would have been only more "orphan girl-crook drama," with Viola Dana doing charming work as the star. But Bruce was the actor who put the picture over with a smash.

Jackie Coogan himself never exhibited more naturalness, or gave more of an impression that he knew exactly what he was doing every minute. Guerin is a real little actor, and unless some of the best critics miss their guess, he will be starring in his own productions inside of a year. Incidentally, he is another youngster who was literally "born in the films." He has been appearing in pictures ever since he was able to crawl, so he knows what it is all about by now, and is said to be one of the easiest children in the movies to direct .Very few re-takes are necessary in the scenes in which he appears.

* * *

Reports are current that Famous Players-Lasky have trimmed their schedule for pictures for the year from 80, as originally planned, to 52.

Goldwyn's have trimmed their releasing schedule from 52 to 48. These figures apply to big features in both cases.

The figures indicate that Goldwyn's is rapidly overtaking the Famous Players organization in feature releases, although in actual production the latter organization is still far ahead, and, of course, has a large string of houses of its own.

The recent merger of Hearst's Cosmopolitan corporation with Goldwyn and Distinctive Pictures, all of which have been releasing through Goldwyn's during the past few months, definitely marks Goldwyn's as the big competitor of Famous Players.

* * *

Universal Film Company is actually the largest single producer of pictures in the game, but many of its pictures are on a cheaper scale and of different character than the big feature releases of the other companies. Its real feature production is below both Famous Players and Goldwyn's.

Metro is fourth, releasing about 30 features a year, of which they actually produce about 18.

A number of other consolidations of smaller independent producers are rumored. Rumors are also current that Famous Players-Lasky will soon split up their organization and "sell" their theatres to a new corporation in much the same manner that the Standard Oil Company split up into separate units. This move would eliminate the charge that Famous Players-Lasky actually operate a trust, controlling production, distribution and exhibition.

House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir,—We extremely regret to advise you that owing to the fact that practically no protection is given to worsted yarns spun on the French System, and our inability to procure orders owing to English competition, we are compelled to close our French Spinning Plant at Peterboro as quickly as possible, thus throwing out of work 40 skilled operatives, and bringing trouble and distress to 40 Peterboro homes.

We have reduced our prices to absolute cost, leaving ourselves no profit whatever, in an effort to obtain business for this mill, but find that we cannot obtain a single order. Knitters of hose using yarn of 30's count, or finer, can bring this yarn into Canada free of duty, and are thus enabled to import it cheaper than it is possible to make same in Canada.

Ours is the second mill to close during the past few weeks, leaving only one mill in Canada manufacturing this material. We have always employed a staff of about 40 hands, and during past years have paid very large amounts out in wagts to Peterboro people. These skilled workers, we presume. will join in the general trek to United States, and we are now looking for a buyer for our mill.

A copy of the report presented to the meeting of Directors yesterday, and a copy of the resolution which was passed at the meeting is enclosed.

We are also sending copies of this correspondence to the "Peterboro Examiner," with the request that they publish same.

Yours very truly,
Canadian Woollens, Limited,
Per: W. Tinker,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Copy of Resolution passed at meeting of Directors of Canadian Woollens, Ltd., held in Toronto. Thursday, June 14th., 1923.

It was resolved that steps be immediately taken to close the French Spinning Plant at Peterboro as quickly as possible; that an estimate of value be procured, and if a satisfactory price can be obtained, that the Plant be sold without delay.—Carried.

Certified Correct:—W Tinker,
Secretary-Treasurer

THE Y. W. C. A. GARDEN PARTY

A large number of people attended the very successful garden fete conducted yesterday afternoon and evening by the Young Women's Christian Association, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald, 300 London street. The spacious grounds offered an ideal background for the pretty booths and tables which were placed at points of vantage, and the long side hedge of bridal wreath, the well-kept lawns and the lighted Chinese lanterns of the evening's entertainment made the 'Y' garden party a very attractive gathering place yesterday. A pageant of aesthetic and folk dancing on the lawn, in costume, by members of Miss C. Littlefield's dancing classes, was a particularly lovely feature of the affair. The series included the Moonbeam, Rosette, Autumn Flowers and Golliwog dances, the Sailors' Hornpipe and the Highland Fling.

Tables were placed on the side lawn for the afternoon tea and later sumptuous high tea which were both well patronized. These were decorated with pretty artificial flowers, and were in charge of Mrs. B. Gardiner and Mrs. G. Macdonald. The lovely flower booth near the steps was conducted by Mrs. V. Eastwood and Mrs. R. M. Waddell; ice cream cones were sold under the supervision of Mrs. R. Cormack; and the candy booth, strikingly fitted up in yellow fancies, with gorgeous half-moon of yellow tissue, was in charge of the Business Girls' Club, with Miss Thressa Taylor as general convenor.

The fish pond and treasure trove was watched over by Mrs. C. E. Jamieson and Mrs. A. Robinson, the latter a small tub garnished with ferns, and filled with fish, frogs, etc. Balloon novelties were sold by Mrs. L. J. Leclair; Mrs. G. Porter and Miss Wood had the home-made cooking, and the fortune-telling booths, splendid in red furnishings, with their attendants in gypsy costumes, were in charge of Mrs. R. H. Turner and Mrs. R. Denne. Helpers here were Mrs. C. G. Graham, Mrs. G. McClelland, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Miss Ethel Nichol and Miss Mamie Foote

General convenors for arrangements were Mrs .A. W. Cressman, Mrs .W. H. Hill and Miss E. Morrow. Decorations were supervised by Mrs. V. Eastwood.

The thanks of the Board of Directors of the Y.W.C.A. were freely expressed for the kind hospitality extended them by Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald.

MAY KEEP HANDS LOVELY AS FACE

By Mme. Helene Rubinstein

A woman's hands should be no less lovely than her face and may be cultivated to a point of exquisitness quite beyond that of her features

The added attraction which any woman may achieve through the cultivation of her hands more than repays the trouble it makes.

The dainty, feminine type of woman always has lovely hands, even if she does all her own housework and indulges in outdoor sports.

Immaculate cleanliness is the first consideration. When you cleanse your hands from time to time during the day do it thoroughly. Don't dabble them in a little cold water which rinses off the surface dirt and grinds in the rest.

Wash in tepid water, using a good soap. If soft water is not available, add a little borax or a few drops of ammonia.

Scrup the nails with a nail brush, and remove any stains with lemon juice. Then, after drying the hands, use a little glycerin or any soothing lotion that agrees with your skin.

At night rub cold cream well into the hands, after cleansing, particularly about the anils. Then draw on a pair of roomy old gloves and keep the hands anointed and protected during the night.

In the morning wash the hands in soap and water. Then massage a little skin food into the skin and train down the cuticle about the nails with an orangewood stick.

The nails, of course, require extra care, but every woman can be her own manicurist if she will equip herself with slender, curved scissors; a nail file, a buffer and an orangewood stick. It might be well to mention that it is no longer considered good form to over-polish the nails or to file them in long points.

A slender, flexible wrist and well-rounded arm add to the beauty of the hand and can be attained by exercise and massage. All arm exercises are bound to be good for the hands, and the graceful motions learned in classical dancing train them to assume poses of beauty and grace.

It is all right to hit a fly when he is down.

AT THE ST. LAWRENCE

By J. E. Middleton

In the recent formation of an American Company to develop electrical power at the St. Lawrence Rapids lies another warning to the people of Ontario and the citizens of Canada. The Federal Government has informed the American administration that the time is not opportune for a conference on the joint project for the deepening of the St. Lawrence ship-channel and the hydraulic development of the Rapids. It is a judgment that is open to question. There is no doubt that the Wester farmers are suffering by reason of the excessive freight rate on grain from Fort William to the sea. The Government has admitted the fact by the nomination of investigators to inquire into shipping rates on the Lakes. A deep waterway by Lakes and Rivers, obviating the necessity of breaking bulk, would bring immediate benefit to thousands of farmers in Canada as well as in the mid-Western States. The prospective benefits from the improvement are so great that the heavy capital outlay necessary could be defended if it were to be a non-remunerative investment—though there is a growing opinion that expenditures on public works must be curbed. The by-product of canalization will be nearly 2,000,000 horse-power of electrical energy, and the sale of this power would undoubtedly carry the investment, even though it should exceed $250,000,000. Private capital is prepared to undertake the task—and take tolls from the consumers of electrical energy in perpetuity. Surely there is a sufficient demonstration in Canada of the practical possibility of municipal co-operation in power distribution to prevent the alienation of this tremendous white-coal mine to private exploiters.

The people of Ontario own the power on the Canadian side of the Rapids. There is already a prospective scarcity of energy in the adjacent territory. The developed waterpowers are not sufficient for the needs of the district. The only reasonable and defensible action on the part of the Federal Government is to go into conference with the Washington Administration on the question of improving the navigability of the Channel, declaring that the power byeproduct on the Canadian side must be reserved for public distribution under the control of the Province of Ontario.

What happens on the American side is none of our business. If our neighbors prefer private ownership of power that is their affair, although the State Government at Albany is more inclined towards conservation of public resources than its predecessors.

Passionate Buying

By ROY GROVE.

GALION, O., June 16.—Mrs. Emma Lee had a passion for buying. Whatever she liked—whether government bonds or onions, pocketbooks or galvanized tubs — she bought. And in wholesale lots!

Mrs. Lee, aged about 75, said to have been the divorced wife of a wealthy Missouri manufacturer, died recently. But not until now has it been revealed to what lengths her purchasing craze carried her.

Sixteen thousand articles were jammed in a house which from the outside looks decidely ramshackle. Three big four-poster beds were so full of articles, she had been forced at times to sleep on the floor!

"Grant for President"

Here are a few of the things administrators of her estate—which, by the way, is valued at $75,000—found:

Thirty-six new pocketbooks.

Ninety-nine galvanized tubs for washing. (And she had all her laundry done outside!)

A hundred chairs. (And she lived alone.)

Two thousand five hundred cakes of soap.

Twelve granite stew kettles. (She ate practically all her meals in a restaurant.)

Valuable Stocks.

One hundred and ninety silver spoons.

Mrs Lee also left money and securities. But these, too, were either in strange forms, or in strange places in her house. For instance:

Bank stock worth $12,000, (This was in a tiny double closet on the second floor. It was impossible to get to the stock until the room had been entirely emptied.)

People here tell of her goodness. Every Christmas she would obtain names of all poor of the town, and each one would receive a big, heaping basket of fruit and other food, from an "unknown" friend.

About ten years ago, the one constant companion she had since her divorce, died. It was a parrot.

Mrs. Lee was not a recluse. She liked to talk with people, and to have some few friends visit her.

And all have none but kind words for her memory.

These one-man straw tops the men are wearing need two men to handle them on a windy day.

It is also stated that five hundred million levas worth of French perfumes were found stored in the dwelling.

The late ex-Premier Stamboulisky of Bulgaria is the fifth statesman among those who participated in the Genoa Conference of April, 1922, to meet violent death, it is pointed out here. Three of the participants have been assassinated.

These were Premier Narutowicz of Poland, Walter Rathenau of Germany, and Vorovsky, the Russian Soviet diplomatic agent. The fourth victim was ex-Premier Gounaris of Greece, executed last fall by the Greek revolutionaries.

It is noted further that the delegates to Genoa of most of the Western Powers have since been dropped from office by their respective Governments.

W. F. NICKLE ADDRESSED CAMPBELLFORD VOTERS

CAMPBELLFORD, June 16—W. F. Nickle, who will represent Kingston in the Ontario Legislature for the coming term following his re-election by acclamation of the official nomination Thursday, addressed a large gathering in Cole's Opera House last night in the interests of Major B. F. B. Belford, the Conservative candidate in East Northumberland. I. A. Humphries, who occupied the chair in introducing Mr. Nickle to the audience referred to him as an outstanding financial critic one who thoroughly understood the monetory condition of the province.

Mr. Nickles Forecast

Mr. Nickle said that in his opinion the Conservatives will have the largest group in the Houst but he will not undertake to say that they will have a majority of the members elected. In the event of the Progressive electing a minority neither Premier Drury or Mr. Montgomery, the Progressive candidate in East Northumberland will say what their future course will be, wether they will support the Conservatives or form a coalition with the Liberals. That was something which he eblieves the voters are entitled to know.

The Election of 1919

In the election of 1919, Mr. Nickle said, the U.F.O. elected 46 members and they formed a Government by taking in the nine representatives of labor. They did not, however, have behind them a majority vote of the people but represented only 1,200,000 electors while the Conservatives and Liberals with 55 members all told represented 1,600,000. This condition was due to the fact that since the previous election the population of the cities had fallen off while that of the country had decreased. A redistribution bill should have been brought in at the last session to equalize the representation but Drury had delayed this matter until it was too late to pass such a measure because in the 22 ridings that would have been affected 16 were held by his own followers.

Morrison Versus Drury

When Premier Drury, soon after taking office declared his belief that no Government could exist if it represented a particular class and advocated broadening out, J. J. Morrison the founder of the U.F.O. and its Provincial Secretary, objected. In the U.F.O. convention of 1922 the majority of the delegates were opposed to broadening out.

Drury ade overtures to the Liberals but the latter party in their convention of 1922 refused to coalesce with the U.F.O. and decided to nominate candidates in all ridings where men willing to stand could be found.

Contract with Morrison

Last winter Mr. Drury signed a contract with Mr. Morrison, agreeing in case he did not secure a majority at the next election, to make no move until he had first consulted the heads of the U.F.O.

"You cannot have a stable Government," said Mr. Nickle, "if on the outside there is an autocratic group dictating as to how the Legislature should function.

Charges Extravagance

Taking up the subject in which he specializes Mr. Nickle dealt with the expenditures of the present Govemnent. In 1918 the ordinary expenditure when the Conservatives were in power was $17,000,000 The Drury Government, had increased it every year until in 1923 it had reached a total of $41.000,000. The speaker read all his figures from the public account.

The first year the Mother's Allowance Act took effect the amount paid out was charged as capital expenditure and when Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial Treasurer, was asked to explain he said the outlay was extra ordinary because it was the first time it had ben paid.

Freaks in Bookkeeping

Mr. Nickle further charged that the Government manipulated the books by closing the ordinary expenditure account at the end of the finanial year but recording the receipts that came in for more than a month aiter that date.

Another item that was changed to capital instead of ordinary expenditure was the sum of $190,000 paid lawyers for their services in connection with the radial and timber investigation.

The Government, said Mr. Nickle saved itself from a huge deficit this year by a bargain made with the executors of the estate of the late Sir John Eaton, who left an estate worth $13,000,000, the succession tax on which was not due the province until September of this year. By this transaction the Government secured in 1922 payment of $1.600,000 which in the ordinary course would not have come to the public treasury until this year.

Expensive Highways.

Mr. Nickle also sailed into the highway policy of the Government, charging extravagance, mismanagement and favoritism. In East Northumberland $270,000 was spent on Provincial highways, while the amount expended in Wentworth, the riding represented by Hon. F. C. Biggs, was $3,386,000. He does not regard it as fair that the townships should be taxed to pay for highways along the front, some of them 100 miles away, and upon which the people who are made to pay for them will never turn a wheel.

How to Dodge Taxes

Enumerating the new forms of taxation by which the Government secured a revenue of $13,000,000, Mr. Nickle held that the most of these were direct even though Premier Drury says that any man who does not want to pay them need not do so. The only way a person could avoid these taxes, Mr. Nickle says, would be by becoming a mummy and being buried like King Tut.

In an eloquent peroration, Mr. Nickle appealed to the people to vote against class administration and to return a Government with a safe working majority, the Conservatives on their record being entitled to support.

Major Belford's Address.

Major Belford delivered his second address in Campbellford since the opening of the campaign and made a fighting speech, in which he was particularly caustic in his personal references to the members of the Drurry Government. The election of 1919 he regards as a brain storm that overtook the people. When the voters of East Northumberland elected Wesley Montgomery they were "moon mad" on "something," but were showing evidence of recovery. At another time he called the present Government a "bunch of amateurs," and later referred to them collectively as so many "animated misfits."

"The Mudhole at Crown Hill."

Major Belford referred to Mr. Drury being called from his obscure "mudhole at Crown Hill" to become Premier of Ontario. He devoted considerable of his address to defending Hon. Howard Ferguson, whom, he said, Mr. Drury had attempted to besmirch in his address in Campbellford last week.

"Drury has been a fizzle," said the Major. He has given you the worst Government you ever had. He wobbles on everything. Mr. Montgomery, your member, has done nothing for your riding. He has not gone among the people, and in some places very few know him.

The Major told the farmers that if they wanted farmer legislators to represent them they could easily secure them by adhering to old party lines, as the farmers have the majority at every convention held in East Northumberland. This was better than electing "an assembly of old women."

Major Belford believes he is going to be elected, but he asked men and women to not only vote for him but to work in his interests until the close of the polls.

"I cannot see," said Chairman Humphries, at the conclusion of the meeting, "how any person can conscientiously go into the polling booth and vote to send back men whose record has been shown up so ably by Mr. Nickle to-night."

Cheers were given for Mr. Ferguson, Major Belford and Mr. Nickle.

GOLDEN JUBILEE HONOR FOR REV. JOSEPH WILKS

A Presentation and Address to Minister Who Has Served Many Years in the Ministry.

MILLBROOK, June 16. — A very enjoyable "At Home" was held in the parlours of the Methodist Church on Thursday, 14th June, from 8 to 10 p.m., the occasion being a golden jubilee in honour of Rev. Joseph Wilks, who that day attained his seventy-seventh birthday, and on the 13th of May, 1873, entered the work of the ministry. The latter date, this year, would have been observed for the golden jubilee had it not been for the fact that Rev. Mr. Wilks was ill at the time, hence the reception was postponed until his birthday this month.

The rooms were beautifully decorated for the evening with bridal wreath, ferns, Japanese lanterns, etc., while the large tea table was appropriately arranged in white and gold, the floral centres of American Beauty roses, and airy golden balloons entwined in the bridal wreath overhead.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wilks received the many guests near the centre platform, the clergy of other churches having received special invitations, those attending including Rev. Canon and Mrs. Allen, Rev. G. S. Gervan, and Rev. S. G. Rorke; a number from other churches were present, as well as members of the Methodist congregation, Mr. Wilks haing been a great help in the latter church ever since he took up his residence in Millbrook seven years ago.

The guest of the evening, who has made a host of warm friends of all denominations during his citizenship here, was the recipient of reiterated good wishes for "many happy returns of the day" expressed with heartfelt sincerity.

Rev. S. T. Tucker occupied the chair for the more formal part of the evening, his opening address having appropriate reference to the "duo of happy events" which formed the occasion of the pleasant gathering. Mr. Tucker also, in common with Rev. Canon Allen, Rev. Mr. Gervan, and Rev. Mr. Rorke, who were succeeding speakers, expressed his warm personal friendship for Mr. Wilks, his pleasure in hours of social intercourse spent in his company, and his appreciation of the great help which he had given in other churches as well as his own since coming to Millbrook.

During the course of the programme, Mr. W. F. Fallis, superintendent of the Sunday School, came to the platform and read the address which follows, two little girls, Bryer Edmunds and Mary Burnham, presenting to Rev. Mr. Wilks the silken bag containing fifty dollars in gold, a gift from the congre-

Rev. Joseph Wilks,
Millbrook.

Dear Mr. Wilks,— We congratulate you heartily on reaching the fiftieth anniversary of your entrance into the Christian ministry. This period covers a very important stage in the religious life of our country, linking the pioneer days with our own times. They were years when the Methodist preacher did not have many advantages, but glorified in the sacrifices made on behalf of the Master.

We would not forget the fact that you spent a term of years as a pioneer missionary in Central Africa. Your stay amongst us has been a benediction. Your cheerful disposition, and optimistic outlook, has helped us many times. We have also appreciated your willingness to help in every way possible. Many in all the churches have been helped by your earnest and thoughtful ministrations.

On behalf of the people of our church we present to you this small token of esteem and love. We all wish you many more years of useful service, and the richest blessing of God upon your life's work.

On behalf of the congregation of the Millbrook church—

S. T. Tucker, Pastor.
W. H. Hetherington, Rec.-Sec.
G. E. Burnham, Treasurer.
Millbrook, June 14th, 1923.

Rev. Mr. Wilks' reply was naturally of a reminiscent nature, and included anecdotes of many interesting people met with, and events encountered, during his fifty years' ministry. In the course of "his ecclesiastical pilgrimage," as a subsequent speaker humorously termed it, Mr. Wilks was baptized in the Anglican church, and successively connected with the Baptist, Congregational and Methodist churches. "A good beginning," as Canon Allen remarked, "some good gained from each, and finally swept into the Methodist granary." Not only has Mr. Wilks spent four years as a missionary in Africa, but in many States of the Union has pursued his ministerial calling, as well as in Canada. A chequered career, full of action, and sparing nothing of himself in his whole-hearted devotion to his Master's service.

Two solos, "Builders for God," and "The Barefoot Trail," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, and piano solos by Miss Estelle Hetherington, added to the enjoyment of the evening's programme. Dainty refreshments were served at the close, Mrs. I. E. Needham and Mrs. A. Kennedy, seated at either end of the table, pouring tea and coffee, while a number of members of the Ladies' Aid attended to the awnts of the guests. Not the least important item on the menu was the delicious birthday cake, which the Aid had provided in Mr. Wilks' honor.

Mrs. Wilks was remembered with a handsome bouquet of roses before the evening was brought to a close. An hour or more of pleasant social intercourse was enjoyed before the guests finally dispersed.

Veteran pastor, reaches his seventy-seventh birthday.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

TRAVELING WITH BABY.

There is nothing which tests the endurance of any traveler as to be compelled to spend many hours on the train with children whose mothers have no slightest idea how to make them comfortable. Traveling is hard enough for the older folks who have half a dozen ways to wheedle away the hours, but for the baby or young child, it is tedius to the ninth degree and in consequence children vent their ill humor in the usual way.

There is never a time when a child needs to be so carefully protected against indiscretions of diet. It is useless to expect a good child when the mother keeps him quiet by an apple in one hand and a banana in the other. (I saw this myself and the baby less than 2 years old, too). Meals should be absolutely regular if humanly possible and nothing given to the child that he is not used to, in fact it is far better to err in the other direction and give less than usual. Indiscriminate cracker feeding, fruit at all hours, indigestible messes are to be blamed for many a "terrible" trip.

There should be ample provisions made for water drinking. A thermos bottle and a cup, filled often will quench the child's thirst better than so much ice water taken perilously and inadequately from a paper cup. The small boy must be provided with something beside ice water, of course.

Milk for the infant had better be of the powdered variety, to which the addition of hot water will make it of the usual strength of his formula. This is better than depending on fixing the food at home and then perhaps finding that it is going sour on the trip.

Diapers are another problem on a long trip. The paper variety may tide one over for several days and simplify matters, or small pieces of old cloth may be used inside of the regular ones and be thrown away when soiled.

Take a small pillow for the baby's use on the train during the day time have some playthings for the older children, depend on something beside constant eating to keep them quiet and their digestion will remain stable also their traveling disposition.

NEW EFFECTS.

It is possible to change many a frock merely by dressing up the neckline. An approved method is to add a collar of finely pleated georgette and fasten it in with a wide velvet ribbon about half an inch wide that is tied with long ends, either over the shoulder or down the back.

FEMININE TOUCHES

With the return of the tailored suit is the return of the buttonhole bouquet of colourful French flowers and the corsage of violets or the single camellia. Any of these soften the severity of effect and add a subtle touch of femininity

HUSBAND DIDN'T DARE LEAVE HER ALONE HER HEART WAS SO BAD

Those feelings of faintness, those dizzy spells, the all-gone sinking sensations which come on from time to time indicate a weakened condition of the heart and a disordered state of the nerves.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

have no equal as a remedy to strengthen the heart, invigorate the nerves and build up the run-down system.

Mrs. C. Vanhorn, Eckville, Alta., writes:—'About a year ago I had heart trouble. My husband didn't dare leave me alone, and often I would just feel kind of faint and my heart would seem to stop beating. I would just faint away, and it would sometimes be an hour before they could bring me back to life. Someone told me about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I got three boxes I took them and felt much better, so continued all Winter, and now I ever feel any such faintness. I surely do appreciate the good they have done for me."

"PIRATES" DON'T WORRY CHILE

They Steal Only Trade Marks and Labels-Which Seems to Be Necessary.

SANTIAGO, June 16.—The pirate still continues to be a terror to merchantmen along the Spanish Main. There are just three differences in this respect, however, between the time of Captains Kidd, Drake, et al, and the present. The pirate of today is the pirate of trademarks, copyrights and labels denoting the country of origin of merchandise. The merchantman is now the North American or European merchant who has goods to sell in Latin America. And the Spanish Main now extends from the Rio Grande to the Straits of Magellan.

Here in Chile, as elsewhere in the territory that once belonged to Spain, t there is no more vain illusion than to believe that the "made in the United States, Germany or France" label prominently displayed on goods purchased in the shops means exactly what it says. The practice of imitating foreign merchandise and placing it on the market without admitting its domestic origin is more widespread than any Chilean is willing to admit and has come to be tacitly and tolerantly regarded as a necessary evil by consumer, seller and imitator alike.

The Reason Why

However indefensible morally, there is no doubting the urgent nature of the necessity that has mothered the practice here and elsewhere. In Chile, even more than in the United States, the public stubbornly insists on its belief that goods manufactured in foreign factories must invariably be in some way superior to the same article when it is the product of home industry. In the United States, as one Chilean business man pointed out to the writer with good-natured malice, a cigar must be Havana and a hat must be French and a piece of woolen must be English, even if all were made in Philadelphia. Then why should a perfume for sale in a Santiago shop modestly deny itself the prestige lent by Parisian extraction, even if it were perhaps from the output of a Valparaiso factory?

Chile's young and struggling manufacturing industries at any rate have no scruples against fighting the popular prejudice respecting domestic merchandise with whatever weapons have come easiest to hand.

"English Woolens"

Woolen goods in the tailors' shops are of English origin with a most extraordinary unanimity, despite the fact that Chilean mills every day are turning out thousands of yards of woolens of excellent quality. French perfumes, made in Valparaiso, are packed in French bottles of beautiful workmanship fabricated by a thriving and skilful Chilean glass industry. Shoes, including one well-known American make, and other leather goods consistently boast a foreign origin which at the least is open to a serious doubt.

Silk dresses shown in the shop windows are carefully wrinkled and creased beforehand as conclusive proof that they have not escaped entirely the rigors of the long sea voyage from Calais. A survey of the tin containers in course of preparation at a Santiago can factory suffices to relieve the investigator of his last doubt as to the extent to which the Chilean manufacturer has yielded to the temptations of expediency.

In some cases imitation of imported goods involves downright and undeniable pirating of a trademark or copyright and there has been considerable, and in many cases successful, litigation by foreign manufacturers in protection of their rights. In other cases the imitation is chiefly merely appropriation of a label declaring the article in question to have been made in some foreign country. In either case redress is generally difficult to obtain, for the patent laws of most Latin-American countries are lax and inadequate.

The Label Treaty

The problem of the second class of imitation, that of the country of origin label, was considered by the Commerce Committee of the Fifth Pan-American Congress, a treaty being concluded which, if ratified, will make it illegal throughout the countries of this hemisphere falsely to declare merchandise to have been manufactured in any Pan-American country in which it did not in fact originate.

The problem of trademark and copyright pirating was also given some attention by the congress, but without the achievement of any worth while agreement, the only accomplishment in this direction being a revivifying of the international patent registration bureau with headquarters in Havana and Rio Janeior.

The failure to reach any further and more concretely valuable understanding on the subject was expected. Ratification of an effective trademark treaty by the legislatures of most of the Latin-American countries is generally conceded to be an impossibility—for the same entirely human reasons that at present keep the various legislatures from enacting effective patent laws for protection of the trademarks and copyrights of foriegn manufacturers.

AMERICAN TRADE MIGHT BE WORSE.

But Europe is Profiting at the Expense of the United States.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 16—Since the World War started the United States has exported more than she imported so regularly that business men received a shock recently, when the Commerce Department unexpectedly announced the "trade balance had changed—that this country was buying more goods abroad than she was selling.

This means the United States isnt taking in money from the rest of the world. It means she isn't trading goods for goods. It means she's paying money out—the balance is against her—she's got to ship gold abroad to settle her bills.

Some people don't like it. It may be all right for a little while, they say—for instance, up to a billion dollars. But it ought to be stopped then, they declare. There's talk of a gold embargo.

Maybe an excess of imports over exports can be overdone. But so can an excess of exports over imports. A country can kill its export business by the very act of doing too much of it.

Argentine Trade

An illustration of this is the best way of proving it. There's no illustration so illuminating as the situation which prevailed between the United States and the Argentine Republic a year and a half ago.

Argentine wasn't in the war, so no war complications were mixed up in the matter. She didn't owe much. Bach of her paper circulation she has, or had, proportionately a larger gold reserve than this country's—the largest in the world.

The Argentines are heavy buyers of manufactured products. They'd been getting them largely in Europe, but the war collapse of European production drove them to the United States as customers. Even the United States hadn't much to sell to them while the war lasted. They got along without. But directly after the armistice was signed North America exporters began filling back orders.

It would have been an ideal condition from the North Americans' standpoint if an excess of exports over imports were a good thing unqualifiedly.

The trouble was that the Argentines had bills to meet to an enormous a in the United States and North American didn't have any bills at all to meet in the Argentine.

Money Gets Dear

The result was that North Americans money rose to a stiff premium over Argentine money. It got as high as 30 per cent. or more.

If Argentine money really had been depreciated it would have been different. But it wasn't. It was just as good money at home as ever it had been and it was at a big premium over European moneys.

By this time Europe was getting back onto the market again. The Europeans, with their cheap money as compared with the money of Argentina, could underbid the United States, with her dear money, hopelessly. Even if they couldn't get what they wanted in Europe the Argentines wouldn't buy in the United States—prices there were prohibitive, because of the difference in the two moneys.

Net result: in a few months the United States lost practically all her business, for the time being, with the Argentine Republic. By selling too much she'd euchered herself out of a good market. There were some other reasons but that was the principal one.

FAMOUS JOCKEY CLUB POWER FOR CLEAN SPORT

By LYLE WILSON

LONDON, June 16 (United Press).—Not the least contribution of Old England to Young America is the tradition of clean sport.

The Jockey Club of Newmarket has done more for that tradition of fair play and sportsmanship than any other organization, official or private.

A man who has reason to know something of the body that rules the racing of the world tells how the Stewards of the Club once bared a prince who latter became king, but who was never able to cross the dictum of the club that he be barred from Newmarket.

The jockey club was probably founded in the middle of the eighteenth century.

In the Old Red Lion Inn, at Newmarket, it was the custom in those days for a group of noblemen, keen sportsmen and racing men to meet. They were the unofficial leaders of the turf; they laid down no laws about racing; but they exercised a tremendous influence by other means. They had no legal status, but they were the "big guns," and smaller men could ill afford to go against their code of sporting honor.

Their influence increased steadily, and in the middle of the eighteenth century they decided to have their own rooms. The Duke of Ancaster and the Marquis of Hastings obtained the necessary land at Newmarket for the building of a clubhouse.

The place was known as the Coffee House, and when the newly formed Jockey Club took possession, for the first time in its history it drew up rules.

Here the club flourished, still dining in the old inn. Up to this time it was merely a private club, but it started a policy which was destined to make it the most powerful sporting body in the world. It started to buy Newmarket Heath.

Bit by bit, the club increased its holdings on the historic heath. In 1819, the Jockey Club had the whole of the heath in its possession. Owning the heath, the club could dictate the rules that should govern race meetings held there.

Although the Club can "warn off" of Newmarket Heath by virtue of private ownership, it has no such legal power over other meetings. It has, however, what is just as effective, the co-operation of every reputable meeting and club in the racing world, who accept its rulings and abide by its rules.

Many a famous name has been connected with this Club; but perhaaps none more redolent of the past when men ate, drank and loved immoderately, than that of Old Q. the Duke of Queensberry, made a tidy fortune by judicious betting at Newmarket. A born gambler, the old duke was ready to bet on any and every sort of sporting venture.

Once he made a bet at the Jockey Club, that he would drive a carriage and four, with a passenger, 19 miles inside an hour. A thousand guineas was staked, and it must have cost Old Q more than that to win his bet, for he had a coach specially built. It weighed only 169 pounds, and even the harness was of silk, to save weight.

By the beginning of the nineteenth century the Jockey Club was firmly established. It had its elected stewards, its stately home the New Rooms, Newmarket, and its code for the regulation of sport.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

SO READERS WILL APPRECIATE YOUR BARGAIN.

A Want advertiser was showing an inquirer a steam, electric vulcanizing outfit. He has told his price—$200 cash—and explained good features of the outfit, including the little wear it had received The visitor was enthusiastic. In fact, the owner inwardly had concluded he wasn't going to make a sale. Then he chanced to remark:

"What!" exclaimed the called.

Suddenly, the inquirer had new interest in the vulcanizing outfit. He pressed for more information concerning first cost—and received it. The advertiser added, "It really is a very low price. Last week I asked $250."

The sale was made shortly—all because the advertiser had happened to use two bargain arguments which always appeal.

It is not always enough to offer a real bargain, What's needed; too, is to make reader of your Want Ad, and inquirers, appreciate the bargain. The Want Ad which convinces readers a genuine bargain is offered always gets quick results, because the world is full of people looking for bargains. Everyone, in fact, is susceptible to the bargain appeal—old or young, rich or poor, business man or mechanic. There are several effective ways of indicating your bargain.

One is to state, as the vulcanizer did, what the article cost new. Applying the same principle, an advertiser tells what a house cost to build, or what he paid for a farm, if less than he asks.

Another tack, when the price has been recently reduced, is to state the fact, adding the price formerly held for.

Still another method is to describe the price as, "Cheap," "Very reasonable," "Low."

"FOR THE SICK-ROOM"

How strangely consoling this presence of the Risen Lord is to His disciples in times of pain and suffering, loneliness and solitude, weakness and trembling Let me dwell strongly on this inspiring word of Jesus—"the same ysterday, Today, and Forever." What does hold out to the soul that takes Him at His word? Surely nothing less than this, the perpetual Presence, and all comforts of body, and mind, and estate of the strongest truest, sweetest Companion Who ever walked this earth or made glad the heart of man by the sunshine of His Presence. Dwell on that thought all you who are weak, ill, lonley, fearful, sad No life lacks dark hours and trying conditions. It may be such are yours who read this. Well here is the Friend born for adversity, and He bids you remember "I am with you always." (He accompanies the faithful servant when he treads the via dolorosa, the sorrowful way, when contempt and bitter scorn are his portion, when men withdraw support and leave solitary the faithful heart)

Yes, there is one blessed experience the tortured soul can always look for with absolute confidence—the drawing near of the Strong Son of God to succour and protect, to inspire and cheer, when the world forsakes and men turn away. (When I am most lonely He draws near.) When the world despises He greets me. (When peril is greatest He shares it with me.) Oh, blessed—thrice blessed—

Your Home

Have you placed the "guardian angel" of life insurance over your home?

A home protected by life insurance—covering the mortgage and the necessities of life—is one of the happiest places possible. There is no dread of the future; no fear of losing the home through forced sale should death occur to the bread-winner; nor is there any likelihood of the mother having to supplement a meagre income by working, nor of the children having to forego the advantages of an education.

The guardian angel of life insurance simply takes your place and "carries on." With a mighty three billions of dollars she is standing watch over thousands of Canadian homes, where the parents and children all live in the happiness that comes through the knowledge of adequate protection.

Life Insurance representatives are the great ambassadors to your home. They will be pleased to show you how simply and easily you can throw the "mantle of protection" around it.

NOTHING CAN EVER TAKE THE PLACE OF YOUR HOME. IT IS A WORLD IN ITSELF ABOUT WHICH EVERYTHING REVOLVES.

A Vacation Home for "Central"

ENLIGHTENED self interest has taught the employer of today that the health of the employes is a matter of concern for both parties.

A very practical demonstration of how far this is being realized may be found in the Vacation Camp for telephone operators maintained by The Bell Telephone Company of Canada at Lac L'Achigan, Québec.

Nestling amongst the Laurentian Mountains, about 40 miles from Montreal, and overlooking the beautiful lake L'Achigan, the camp is ideally located. The strain of keeping "a smile in the voice" under even the most trying circumstances, is forgotten amidst such peaceful and health giving surroundings.

As may be seen from the illustrations the "House" proper is a most attractive residence, and accommodation being available at a rate which brings it within the means of every operator, a full house is the rule from May till October.

Facilities are provided for Bathing, Boating, Tennis and Basketball and the roads and country around invite the "hikers."

The hardest working member of the camp staff is the victrola in the spacious living room and while the records last a wet day has no terrors.

The smaller building pictured is the dining hall and meals on the verandah which encircles the dining room are a popular part of the daily programme.

Equipped with every facility for healthy enjoyment and with a natural environment which of itself is replete with recreation possibilities, the camp enjoys a wonderful popularity which is best measured by the demand for accommodation.

MUNICIPAL OPERA A SUCCESS IN ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 16 (United Press).—St. Louis has paid $80,000 into the box office of Municipal Opera, in advance sales on seats for the 10-week season, which is now under way in Forest Park. The sky is the only covering, making the advance sales somewhat of a gamble.

This year instead of opera six nights a week the Municipal Opera will give seven performances weekly on America's biggest out-door stage. This year instead of eight weeks as before, the season extends ten weeks.

The operas to be given are: Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," De Koven's "Fencing Master," Wilson Mores's "Wang," Gustav Luders' "Prince of Pilsen," Johan Strauss' "Der Fliedermaus" (The Bat), Franz Lehar's "Merry Widow," Reinhardt's "Spring Maid," Herbert's "Sweethearts," and Lehar's "Gypsy Love."

The St. Louis opera is unique in America. There is no other such municipally controlled, civicly sponsored summer entertainment. It presents a cast of principals gathered from the best in America and including Frank Moculan, principal comedian; W. J. McCarthy, second comedian; Blanche Duffield, Helen Morrill and Dorothy Maynard, prima donnas; Craig Campbell, tenor; Flavia Arcaro, contralto; Detmar Poppen, basso; Thomas H. Conkey, baritone; and Roland Woodruff, juvenile.

With these there is a chorus of 96 St. Louis boys and girls, intensively trained in the Municipal Opera Free Chorus School, and all of them candidates for the six $500 scholarships to be awarded at the end of the season to the boys and girls who by talent and application prove most promising as candidates for light opera careers.

Over a quarter of a million dollars will be spent in the productions for this season and it is estimated that half a million St. Louisans will see the opera which is offered at popular prices. At each performance there are 1,200 free seats to be occupied by those who cannot pay.

For the last three years Municipal opera has made a profit. But profits are forbidden under the charter of the Municipal Theatre Association, which sponsors the productions. Therefore the surplus each year is spent in musical training for the chorus members and in improvements and beautification of the theatre which, developing from simple board seats on a hillside amphitheatre with the flat below as a stage, has become the largest, best equipped and certainly one of the most beautiful in America.

JUNE.

In watching for a slump in iron production (as the weather-vane of general business), don't be fooled by the mild slumps apt to come on a small scale during the hot months.

When iron industry drops next time, it will be a real slump. Easy to detect it from a slow-down for a curve.

RADIO INCREASES IN USEFULNESS

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press).—American fishermn off the Grand Banks and the Atlantic coast may find it profitable to emulate the example of their brother fishermen in England, who have equipped their vessels with radio. The purpose is to enable them to communicate with the shore or with sister trawlers whenever they discover a shoal of fish too large for their capacity. At a time when a remarkable shortage of fish is reported from the North Sea, some thirty trawlers have been fitted with wireless apparatus.

It has been found that with the use of radio communication huge hauls, which otherwise would certainly be missed, can be taken in a short time by vessels which are in constant communication with each other and with the shore.

The cost of radio installation is insignificant compared to the great catches of fish it makes possible. Also the value of constant communication between the trawler owner ashore, who knows the condition of the market, and the skipper at sea is obvious. If the supplies at one port are heavy, the owner can send orders for the catch to be landed at another port. If the catch is unusually heavy, he can make arrangements to facilitate unloading.

ERUPTION FORECASTS

HILO, Island of Hawaii, June 16 (Associated Press).—The present spectacular activity of Kilauea, the ever-active volcano on this island, probably indicates the rapid approach of a great outbreak of the sister volcano, Mauna Loa, one of the largest in the world, according to a statement by L. W. de Vis-Norton, secretary of the Hawaiian Volcano Research association.

The activities of Mauna Loa, which rises 14,000 feet above sea level, occupy a cycle of roughly nine years, it has been found, and it is upon this fact that De Vis-Norton based the indications.

In the immense fire-pit of Kilauea floods of molten lave, in excess of 1,000,000 cubic yards daily are welling up from unknown depths now and this is said to be a certain indication of the rising of the lava within the Mauna Loa rift system.

Slightly more than a year ago the active throat of Kilauea collapsed and presented to the spectuator a terrifying abyss 1100 feet deep and more than a mile wide. Its walls overhung on all sides and the only things to be seen were masses of debris and broken rock far below the rim of the pit. Now the diameter of the pit is more than one and a quarter miles and there is an area of 28 acres of seething, boiling and wildly fountaining lava, less than 200 feet below the rim upon which the spectator stands.

Earthquake shocks which are being recorded at the Kilauea Volcano observatory seismograph, together with reports from outlying stations at important points around the entire mountain, strengthen the indications of an outbreak of Mauna Loa, which may be reasonably expected to come during the June solstice, De-Vis-Norton said.

HEALTHY AND ACTIVE AT 125

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press).—The latest entrant for international old age honors is a Hungarian woman by the name of Antonia Lippai, whose age is authenticated at 125 years. She is reported to be in excellent health and very active.

In answer to inquiries as to her health, Antonia says she wore glasses until she was 95, but since then she has been able to see clearly without artificial aid. She has been a widow for fifty years, and earns a living by giving medical advice in her community.

THE "TROUBLE SHOOTER"

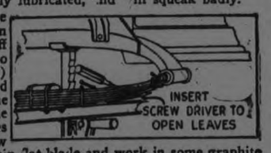
The Springs and Their Care

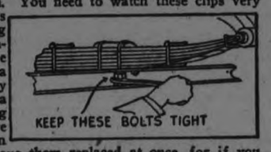
If there is one part of a car that is more neglected than the springs, I have yet to hear of it. The springs are generally covered with a deposit of mud and dirt, and rarely are they kept lubricated properly, so allowing water and grit to creep in between the leaves and promptly rust them up. The result of this is that the leaves do not slide as smoothly over each other as they should, and so are not able to take up the bumps as well as they would if they were properly lubricated, and will squeak badly.



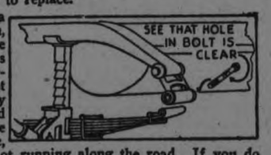
Before you start to lubricate the springs, thoroughly clean them with some gasoline and a stiff brush. Next jack up the frame so as to raise the car (not the wheels) and the weight of the wheels and axle will then help to pull the leaves apart. Now loosen the spring clips and separate the leaves with the blade of a strong screw driver or cold chisel, then take a thin flat blade and work in some graphite grease between the leaves. DO NOT take the spring leaves apart and polish them with emery cloth, as this makes the spring TOO sensitive, and when you strike a bump or rut, you are shot up in the air about 6 inches. There must be a certain amount of friction between the leaves of the spring to damp out the small vibrations. Do not go to extremes in lubricating the springs, about once every two months is all that is necessary.

It is a good idea to fit a cover over the springs to keep out the water and dirt, but be careful if you do this that you do not overlubricate the springs. With covers fitted, you will only require to lubricate about once every four months.

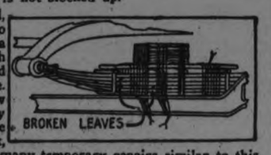
The most important part of your springs to watch are the clips that hold the spring in position on the axle. Fully 90% of all spring breakages are due to loose spring clips. You need to watch these clips very carefully during the first 500 miles you run a new car, until the spring has got its permanent set. Examine and test the tightness of the nuts on the clips about once a month, but if you are doing very much running test them once a week. While you are tightening the clips examine to see that there are no leaves in the spring broken. If there are any broken leaves, have them replaced at once, for if you delay having this done, the extra strain thrown on the remaining leaves will cause them to break also, and instead of simply replacing one leaf, you will have a whole new spring to replace.



Most cars are now fitted with a high pressure greasing system, which enables the grease to be forced through the shackle bolts and thoroughly lubricate the bearings. If the shackle bolts are not kept lubricated, they wear very rapidly and develop a rattle and squeak that you will hear on the road, but will find difficult to locate, because it stops when the car is not running along the road. If you do not have a high pressure system fitted, it is a good idea at least once a season, to remove the shackle bolts on both front and rear springs to see that the hole through the bolt is not blocked up.



If when you are out on the road, you are unfortunate enough to break several leaves in a spring, a temporary repair can be made with a couple of strong tire levers and a block of wood and some wire. The illustration shows clearly how to make this repair. Always carry a spool of copper and steel wire about 20 gauge in your tool box, and you will find them handy for many temporary repairs similar to this one. In an early article I will give you a list of tools and spares to carry while touring that will enable you to make any repair or adjustment on the road that can be made by the average driver.



A large number of cars are now fitted with shock absorbers or rebound straps, and there is no doubt that these accessories help to stop spring breakage and at the same time give you a much smoother riding automobile. A car with harsh springs is not a very pleasant one to drive for any long distance, owing to the continuous series of bumps and jolts that are not absorbed by the springs. It is my candid opinion that a set of shock absorbers or rebound straps will improve very considerably the riding qualities of any car.

LARGEST AIRPLANE SOON TAKE THE AIR

DAYTON, June 16 (Associated Press).—The largest airplane the world has known, with a wing-spread of 120 feet—half again as wide as the great Martin Bombers of the Army Air Service. She will take to the air for the first time here some time this month.

The new monster of the skies, intended solely for use as a bomber, and said to be capable of carrying a quantity of explosives sufficient to destroy a large portion of a modern city, is being assembled at McCook Field, the army air station, under direction of Walter H. Barling, its designer.

With its great width and other measurements in proportion, the plane will draw the largest ships now used. The height of the new plane will be 2 feet, while its length from nose to tail will be 65 feet.

Driven by six Liberty engines, the new ship will require a minimum crew of four men and contain provisions for a working force of eight men to be used when the occasion requires. Exclusive of the crew, it will weigh more than 40,000 pounds.

With the idea of obtaining a maximum of lifting power, stability and safety, Mr. Barling designed the ship as a tri-plane of modified type. The upper and nether wings will be of practically the same dimensions, while that in the center will be narrower. Along its length will run the control devices giving them protection and adding a feature of safety.

Describing the value of the new plane as a machine of war, Mr. Barling, who during the war did much experimental work for the British Flying Corps, says that its maximum load of several tons of explosives could do untold damage. One bomb of the size which the ship can carry would be capable of sinking the largest and newest type of naval vessel, he believes.

Likewise, a single bomb from the machine declares, could demoralize an entire community. Should such a projectile be dropped in the center of a city, he says, a fifty-foot crater would be dug, all buildings in the vicinity completely destroyed and structures for a half a mile or more around would be greatly damaged.

The plane will have no passenger carrying facilities and its value would rest entirely in its ability to transport large projectiles great distances.

Lightning Started Fire in Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 16.—(Canadian Press).—A fire in the Butler Street storage yards of the Atlantic Refining Company here, started yesterday afternoon when lightning struck a tank containing 15,000 barrels of refined oil.

WYOMING MAY SUPPLY UTAH WITH NATURAL GAS

SALT LAKE CITY, June 16 (Associated Press).—Natural gas for Salt Lake City and Ogden from a newly discovered field in western Wyoming is being considered here. One well drilled recently is said to have a capacity of 80,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day and this amount experts point out, is greatly in excess of what would be used by Salt Lake and Ogden even should natural gas displace coal for heating purposes.

Manufactured gas in Salt Lake City at present cost about $1.52 per thousand cubic feet, and it is claimed the natural gas could be piped on and sold for much under this amount. The new natural gas field in Wyoming is said to be practically inexhaustible and it is proposed to construct a pipe line of about 200 miles.

ANTIOCH STUDENTS TO BE SELF-SUPPORTING

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio, June 16 (Associated Press).—Plans to make Antioch College largely self-supporting, through the establishment of private industries adjoining the campus, have been assisted by a $10,000 gift from Mrs. Willard D. Straight of New York City, it was announced today by President Arthur E. Morgan.

A number of small industries it was explained, will be invited to locate in a plant provided by the college. The labor will be supplied by the students, and expert advisory service will be given by faculty members teaching courses in administration, the college to have a share in the profits.

Mrs. Straight believes that Antioch is taking a promising step toward solution of the increasing problem of educational finance. "The new Antioch curriculum," in her opinion, "is meeting the national need of training executives, by combining cultural studies with courses in business administration, and by the character-forming process of alternating such study with actual work, paid employment in appropriate occupations. The graduates of Antioch will be both self-made and college-bred."

MISSION TAKES BIBLE TO MANY FOREIGN LANDS

CHICAGO, June 16 (Associated Press).—The development of a Christian mission enterprise through an "interdenominational and un-denomintional organization" over a period of thirty-six years, is the history of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, as recorded here in the 26th annual council just closed.

The work began in 1887, and today the organization claims active ministration to 42,000,000 souls in every quarter of the globe. It is one of the largest of the few organizations working in the foreign fields whose program is founded upon a belief in the literal inspiration of the scriptures. The Whole Bible to the Whole World is the motto of the alliance.

The work is carried on through 150 foreign stations and approximately 1,000 workers in America. In distant lands the gospel is delivered in 18 fields and 22 languages.

The chief work of the alliance is in South America, China, and Japan. Other spheres of activity are Japan, the Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, Jamaica, Africa and Palestine. In America, the alliance maintains five Bible Schools, the largest of which is at Nyack, N. Y., with an enrollment of 400 students in training for work in foreign lands. In addition, there are throughout the country hundreds of affiliated churches, tract stations, and branches.

LEHIGH FINDS METHOD TO PLAY BASEBALL IN PEACE

BETHLEHEM, Pa., June 16 (Associated Press).—A solution of the problem of how to keep the "kids" quiet at baseball and lacrosse games has been found at Lehigh University.

The boys are put on their honor. Any Bethlehem boy mmay see Lehigh games free on condition that he sits in a section of the grand stand especially reserved, and obeys the rules. They have a cheering section of their own and are led by a Lehigh student cheerleader. No longer do they disturb the play be "razzing" visiting teams and shouting "kill the umpire." Now a days they even have cleanly washed faces and hands.

SETABLISH SHRINE TO MARK TWAIN

FLORDIA, Mo., June 16 (Associated Press).—The plan to establish a Mark Twain Memorial Park here, where the humorist was born, has met with an encouraging response, according to officers of the MarkTwain State Memorial Park Association, which is fostering the movement.

The executive committee has set August as "Mark Twain month," and the first week in September as "Mark Twain week." All lovers of the famous humorist should read at least one of his books in August, the committee declared and heads of schools will be asked to have some sort of memorial program on one day in "Mark Twain week."

M. A. Violette, owner of the home here in which Mark Twain was born, has promised to donate the house and its old-time curios to the association.

Mark Twain was born November 30, 1835, and in his autobiography he humorously speaks of Florida as having "two streets, each a couple of hundred yards long, the rest of the avenues mere lanes, with rail fences and corn fields on either side." Florida, however, has grown into a neat little town, with all the usual business institutions.

IRELAND TO CENSOR MOVIES

DUBLIN, June 16 (Associated Press).—The Irish Government is establishing a national censorship of cinema pictures. Hitherto managers have been carrying on such censorship as was provided in England, and many films were uncensored, but there was no uniformity and some public complaint of the exhibition of objectionable films.

The new censorship will supersede all others. Every film must be censored by the national censor, and the exhibition of any uncensored film will be punished by heavy penalties.

CONSIDER PRINTING "ADS" ON INCOME TAX FORMS

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press).—Chill penury may repress many a noble rage, but in the case of the heads of the various government departments of England, it has brought forth a decided show of genius in the art of raising and saving money. It is now proposed by the chancellor of the exchequer to sell space on income tax forms and other government papers for advertisement purposes.

It is claimed that about $2,500,000 can be raised in this manner.

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX TOURING CAR $1375

A Six—and a Studebaker—for $1375

The advantages of six-cylinder performance and Studebaker quality are combined in the Studebaker Light-Six—at a price of $1375.

You can throttle down to a snail's pace in high—then quickly and smoothly accelerate to a racing speed. Vibration is practically eliminated at any speed—due to the perfect engine balance secured through machining the Light-Six crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. No other car in Canada selling for less than $3500 follows this practice.

The operating cost of the Light-Six, like the initial cost, is low. Proof of its low fuel consumption has been established through 27 world-wide tests, which set an average of 26.9 miles to the gallon. Minimum repair cost is proved by Studebaker's limited volume of repair parts sales, which in 1922 averaged only $13 per car in operation.

Thousands of owners vouch for the Light-Six, while Studebaker's 71-year-old reputation is a further assurance of quality. Your purchase of a Studebaker Light-Six will be a safe and satisfactory investment.

EXPERTS PREDICT NEW FUEL SUPPLY

MONTREAL, June 16 (Associated Press).—Science's quest for a method that will add lignite char to the available fuel supplies of the United States was described at a session of the Fuels Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers here today by O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

"The Bureau of Mines is investigated ing the possibilities of a program said Mr. Hood, "which has for its main features an inexpensive carbonizing device and the use of the lignite char direct, without briquetting.

"Lignite char can best be described in a few words as fuel rather near in analysis to anthracite coal, but softer, with a little more volatile matter, and thus kindling easier. In size it grades from pea coal to smaller sizes, and is a stable product. Whether a market can be developed for such fuel at prices around five dollars a ton at the mine, remains to be shown, but it is at least encouraging to know that Germany used last year, 400,000 tons of similiar material for domestic heating and cooking.

"This fuel burns well with natural draft where a thin fuel bed can be maintained. Base burners, cook stoves, and other heaters can be adapted to use the fuel satisfactorily. The Germans have developed a special stove, burning fuel on a bed of ash in an enclosed drawer. There is no loss of fuel in the ash and lignite char used in such a stove heats an oven sufficiently for baking operations and will boil water. It makes a very clean fire, is smokeless, and the char is clean to handle."

VETERINARIANS PROSPER

LONDON, June 16 (Associated Press).—Despite the much threatened extinction of the horses by increasing use of motor vehicles, there is no falling off in the number of veterinary surgeons in London.

This is attributed to the greater attention now paid to cats and dogs, and to the fact that while the number of horses decreased, the number of individual owners has increased.

MIRACULOUS CURES OF CONSUMPTION REPORTED

LONDON, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—Humanity is offered a palliative if not a cure for consumption by Prof. George Dreyer distinguished bactertologist of Oxford University. The basis of his treatment is described as a more effective system of innoculation than has hitherto been known. In explaining his discovery the Institute of Pathology and Research of St. Mary's Hospital he said that miraculous cures had been effected with the new vaccine of guineau pigs. He pointed out that in inoculation of human beings, dead bacteria were used.

Judge Madden Did Not Recommend North Bay Criminal For Freedom.

KINGSTON, June 16 (Canadian Press). — In the Court of General Sessions yesterday Judge Madden, who sentenced the late Leo Rogers, the North Bay convict, to an additional term in the Penitentiary for his murderous attack upon Detective William Duncan, stated that he had yet to hear ho. Rogers was allowed out on parole.

Judge Madden intimated that Rogers was not given his freedom on his recommendation. This was impossible, as he regarded him as a criminal at heart.

Turks to Enforce Prohibition Laws.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 16.—(Canadian Press.)—The Governor of Constantinople has informed the Allied High Commissioners that the Turkish prohibition law will be enforced beginning to-day. This will mean the closing of 2,478 establishments.

Special arrangements have been made for Allied troops, and it is understood that foreign subjects will be allowed provisionally to enjoy exceptional treatment until peace is concluded at Lausanne, but otherwise the law will be rigorously enforced even against the native Christians.

The putting into effect of the dry regime by regulations printed yesterday comes after many postponements. But, the Turkish newspapers point out that the whole scheme is nullified as more than 200 establishments are to be left open by order of the Allies for serving the Allied occupational forces.

THE DOMINION BANK

PETERBOROUGH BRANCH,

JOHN CRANE, ... Manager.

To The Electors Of The Riding of West Peterboro.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,

The Liberal Convention having honoured me with the nomination, I take this early opportunity of expressing my thanks for the confidence shown in me, and in asking the Electors generally for their support in the coming Election.

The supreme need of this great Province at the present time is a Govrnment which will conduct public affairs in a sound, prudent, business-like manner, and put a curb on all extravagant expenditures. With a public debt of $240,000,000 and an annual expenditure which has reached $38,000,000, the future credit of the Province absolutely depends on economic, business-like administration. This is the kind of administration the country may expect with Mr. Wellington Hay as Premier, and to such a Government I will give my unqualified support.

Having been in the closest touch with agricultural interests all my life, it is my ambition to make myself particularly useful to those engaged in the basic industry of this Dominion. If elected, I can be safely depended upon to give the closest attention to agricultural problems generally, and to watch carefully the rural needs of this constituency. Believing that there must be closer co-operation between the man who produces in the country and the man who consumes in the city, I will do my utmost to solve this problem so far as it may be considered a local or Provincial problem.

Labour will also find me sympathetic to its needs. I consider that I am particularly well adapted to represent labour, because both as an employee and employer I have had a long experience with both sides of the many problems that have come up in this field from time to time. The Liberal Party has invariably stood for the rights of the toiler, as against the privilege of the idle rich, and under all circumstances I may be absolutely depended upon to see to it that the men in our industrial life and all those dependent upon them will receive a square deal in the Legislature.

My views on temperance are well known. The Ontario Temperance Act was passed following a direct demand for prohibitory legislation on the part of an overwhelming majority of the people of this Province, and if elected I purpose to give it my hearty support.

It is my intention to meet as many as possible of the Electors of this Riding before Election Day, and I will avail myself of every opportunity to discuss public questions with members of the Electorate. In seeking your support and influence, I promise, if elected as your Member, to devote myself faithfully and earnestly to the duties of the position, and to uphold and advance the best interest of the people of West Peterborough.

Faithfully yours,

J. W. MEYERS.

PRESENTATIONS AT ST. JOHN'S

Choirmaster R. J. Devey Recipient of Purse of Gold, Mrs. Devey Gets String of Pearls.

The choristers of St. John's assembled in full strength on Thursday night in order to do honor to Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey whose connection with St. John's choir expires with the present month after more than seventeen years service, Mr. Devey having resigned his position as organist and choirmaster.

Choir practice was held in the church after which an adjournment was made to the Guild room. Mr. H. W. Morphet took charge of the gathering and addressing Mr. Devey briefly reviewed the history of the choir for the last 17 years. He paid eloquent tribute to the skilful ability, unceasing activity and great popularity in the choir, not forgetting the Sunday School of which Mr. Devey had been superintendent for many years, and all those present felt the keenest regret that their relationship was about to come to an end. On behalf of the choristers Mr. Morphet then asked Mr. Devey to accept a purse of gold pieces as a token of their earnest appreciation of his work among them A burst of cheering greeted Mr. Devey as he received the generous gift, and proceeded to heartily thank Mr. Morphet for his kindly address and the whole of those present for their splendid present, and above all for the splendidly loyal and enthusiastic reception. After this month, Mr. W. H. Morphet would be the only member left of the old 1907 choir, as seen in the late Mr. Roy's splendid picture in the vestry, and Mr. Devey paid eloquent tribute to Mr. Morphet as a staunch friend and loyal choirster. Nearly two hundred members had passed through St. John's choir, very many of them boys, and no less than thirty one men and youths exchanged the cassock and surplice for the C.E.F. uniform during the great war. He would carry away with him memories, chief of which would be the magnificent response to what had been the great watchword of their happy choir family, "service."

Miss Quartermaine then read an address to Mrs. Devey with all the lady choristers groups around;

Dear Mrs. Devey,—

We, the women choirsters of St. John's church wish to express our appreciation of you, and of your loyalty through the happy years we have spent together as choirsters.

Your faithful attendance at services was an inspiration to us to do likewise. In our social gatherings as choir members you were always the moving spirit. In our times of sorrow, we felt your kind sympathy.

In severing your connection with St Johns choir, we ask you to accept this string of pearls as a pledge of our friendship and esteem and our warmest wishest for the future.

The presentation was gracefully made by Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie and Mr. Devey for Mrs. Devey warmly thanked the ladies for the signal honor of their beautiful address and gift. Mrs. Devey's ovation was as hearty as that accorded to her husband.

The choirboys to the number of 19, having as spokesman a senior boy, George Coleman, presented a delightful address, also a complete smoking outfit, silver mounted pipe in case, pouch, tobacco, cigars and matches, the address regretting losing their friend and choirmaster and wishing all future prosperity.

Singing of songs, also "For They are Jolly Good Fellows", cheers and a tiger was followed by refreshments served by Coleman Brothers, the National Anthem concluding a memorable evening of the happy family type, replete with fellowship and goodwill.

Worships 2-Gun Film Hero

By Jack Jungmeyer

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—The mental suffering injected into the lives of William S. Hart and Miss Elizabeth McCaulley through her infatuation for the two gun hero, recently featured in news pages, dramatically revealed the extreme to which fan adoration may go.

In lesser degree, though often quite as potentially tragic, the same devotion for screen celebrities holds countless men and women enthralled. Fan mail is full of its testimony.

Folks do fall in love with celluloid phantoms; needing not even actual first sight to evoke the grand passion. And they are by no means all callow young things of undisciplined emotions. Miss McCaulley, who conjured an overwhelming Hart affair from a photo as she confessed, is a middle-aged. cultured woman of a type not easily susceptible.

No star is without those admirers whose regard for the artist is tinctured with something more personal. In many requests for autographed photos there is confession or hint of it. In letters the admissions range from propoals of marriage to veiled wistfulness. These "cases" are capable of pathos, comedy or tragedy, as circumstances may dictate. Most of them are catalogued as comedy by picture folk.

Hollywood has seen not a few hero worshippers arrive from afar to languish near the adored one. Some of th emore rash have proclaimed infatuation openly, in embarrassing situations, as in the recent case of the Spanish girl who invaded Chaplin's home and threw herself at his feet. Another woman concealed herself in the auto of a famous star and created a scene at the home of her unsuspecting hero.

Without much regard for the heart havoc it wrought this adoration for film stars, especially the younger ones, used to be positively encouraged in the exploitation of pictures and players. The charms and personality were often stressed equally with artistic ability. And often are still The bathing beauties of the films, once the vogue, numbered their serious conquests via the screen by the thousands.

Until recently it was generally regarded as the height of publicity folly to make known the fact that picture folk were married. The taboo still exists in a number of studios. Exploitation departments frankly took the stand that many of the younger folk in audiences harbored a romantic interest in their favorites which. with the dollars it represented, might be destroyed if domestic ties were revealed.

Half the inquiries about players received at the studios ask or intimate the question whether or not they're married. Most of these are now frankly answered, although some actors of both sexes still believe it's good fan technique to kid the worshippers along.

Let psychological sharps explain it—folks not only fall in love at first sight, they even fall in love with the moving shadow of a maid or man.

Clearing of Bill Hart's name is connection with the sensational charges made by Elizabeth McCauley, who now admits having attempted to foist upon him a "phantom child" as a final bid for unreciprocated affection, paves the way for his return to pictures after retirement of several years.

"Save for this vindication from those horrible charges, from her own lips," he told me, "I would never again have gone before the camera.

"Just when I'll do my next picture I don't yet know. But this has cleared the way. I've just come up out of hell, hell with the lights turned off."

Hart has just placed with a publisher a story on the American revolution on which he has worked for six years. featuring the life of Patrick Henry. It is probable that his next appearance will be in this role of his own book.

STRESSMANN MAY RULE IN GERMANY

Magnetic Orator Expected to Succeed Cuno As Chancellor.

BERLIN, Germany, June 16—The best orator—the most magnetic speaker—in Germany. That is Gustav Stresemann of Berlin, who is being mentioned as most likely to succeed to the reins of government in Germany if Chancellor Cuno is forced to resign.

Stresemann's accession to the chancellorship means rather a change of personality at the head of the government than a change of policy in the government. There have been no wide differences between Cuno and the German People's party which Stresemann has led in the Reichstag. Instead, there has been almost constant agreement, and the German People's party has been the backbone of Cuno's Reichstag majority.

Stresemann's special strength lies in his ability as an economist, his thorough going knowledge of Germany's industrial problems and his force and magnetism as a speaker.

Born in Berlin May 10, 1878, he has just turned 45 years of age. He was educated in Berlin and Leipsic, specializing in political science and political economy.

He is president of the German People's party, a member of the Saxon Industrial Society and president of the German-American Economic Society. He was married in 1903 and has two sons.

STRIKE BREWING.

OTTAWA, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—There is a general feeling prevailing here at present that this city may, in the near future, be in the throes of a strike of the employees of the Ottawa Electric Railway.

Nothing official could be learned yesterday but it is known, however, that negotiations between the men and the company for increased wages and an eight-hour day have practically ceased.

It is stated that at a meeting of the men, to be held within the next few days, a motion calling a strike will be put.

LIBERAL RALLY AT DOWNEYVILLE

South Victoria Candidate Accorded a Hearty Reception — Government Arraigned.

DOWNEYVILLE, June 16. — A rousing Liberal rally was held here last evenings in the interests of L. V. O'Connor, the South Victoria candidate. John C. O'Leary of Lindsay, made a very creditable chairman, while Dr. Blanchard of Lindsay presented a scathing arraignment of the Drury-Labour Government, who he charged with reckless expenditure generally and especially so on the Provincial highways. He also stressed his contention that farmers elected to the Legislature, demonstrated a preference for urban interests by moving from their rural homes to reside in the cities and towns. The province's increased debt under the Drury regime also came in for considerable of the speaker's critical attention.

Mr. Brooks of North Toronto unqualifiedly endorsed Dr. Blanchard's views, as also did the candidate, L. V. O'Connor. The latter speaker characterized Provincial Treasurer Hon. Peter Smith, as an indifferent official, and denounced the ten per cent. tax on property transferance as a crying injustice, which the Liberals would eliminate if returned to power this election.

The candidate was enthusiastically received.

Autopsy Showed That Miss Lindsay Was Shot.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., June 16 (Canadian Press). — An autopsy performed here yesterday on the body of Miss Marguerite Lindsay, of Montreal, a volunteer worker with the Grenfell Mission at Cartwright, Labrador, who disappeared from the Mission last August, revealed a bullet wound in the breast, the newspapers announced last night.

The body was brought here on Thursday by steamer from Battle Harbour, Labrador, whither it had been conveyed from Cartwright by dog team.

It will be sent to Montreal to-day.

Miss Lindsay, who was 23 years old, was at first thought to have been drowned while bathing when she failed to return to the Mission. During the winter, however, her body was found in the woods near Cartwright.

The Newfoundland Government sent a magistrate from Battle Harbour, Southern Labrador, to hold an investigation. He made the trip by dog team.

It was announced yesterday that the Government will investigate the incident thoroughly when navigation opens. Severe ice conditions this season have isolated the Labrador coast later than usual.

Merchant Marine Will Carry Canadian Cattle.

MONTREAL, June 16—(Canadian Press).—In order to expedite the shipments of Canadian cattle to Great Britain, the Canadian Government Merchant Marine is fitting those of its vessels trading from Montreal to Cardiff and Swansea, for the carriage of 208 head of cattle per boat.

To meet this new cargo, wooden stalls are being erected on the fore and after decks of the vessels. This arrangement has the approval of the Department of Marine and will care for adequately up to 208 head of cattle per ship, the limit under the present-day conditions of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine boats.

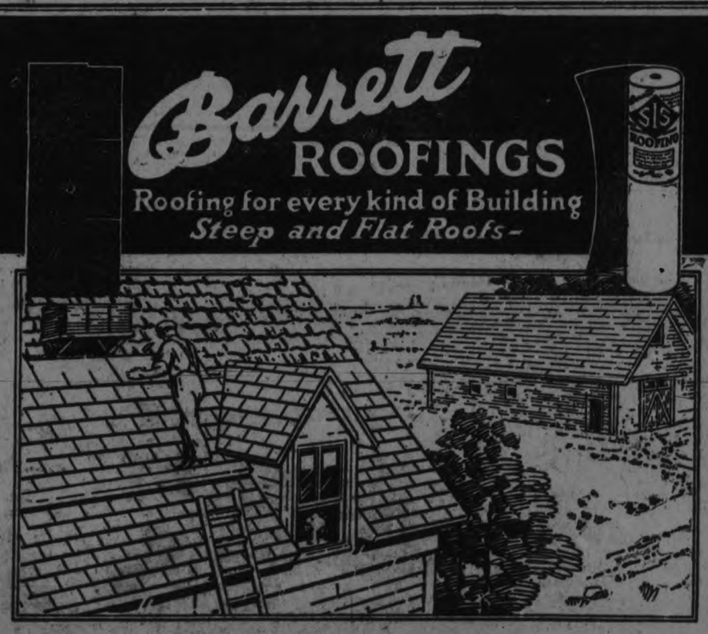
AMEND PENSIONS ACT.

OTTAWA, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—The House gave the third reading to a bill to amend the Military Pension Act by providing that the period of service entitling officers, retiring compulsorily, to pension, shall be twenty years. The period of service required of every militiaman to entitle him to pension will also be twenty years, or fifteen years if incapacitated for duty.

Barrett ROOFINGS

Roofing for every kind of Building

Steep and Flat Roofs—



Barrett Everlastic Giant Shingles

Handsome — Fire-Resistant — Durable — Economical

That's one way Barrett Everlastic Giant Shingles save you money, but it's not the only way. Made and laid 3 to a strip, they cost less to lay.

Barrett Everlastic Giant Shingles stand staunch and tight against storm and blizzard throughout the years. Their base is an extra-heavy highest quality roofing-felt, thoroughly waterproofed. They're "Giants" for strength and service.

Thanks to their heavy mineral surface in artistic shades of red, green, or blue-black, they are highly fire-resistant. And as this mineral surface is fadeless and permanent, painting or staining is never required. Still another big saving!

Come in and see these sturdy, economical shingles. Let us give you an estimate on a complete roof.

S. I. S. Roll Roofing (Seventeen Inch Selvage Edge Roofing)

Total width of roll 32 inches—15⅞ of the width of roll is mineral-surfaced. 1⅞ of the width is plain surfaced to insure firm cementing of the overlap. A roof of S. I. S. is double thickness throughout with weather-proof, fire-resisting mineral surface in red or green.

Everlastic Liquid Roofing Cement. Gives new durable surface to worn-out "rubber" and other patented roofs.

Plastic Elastigum Patching Cement. Stops leaks in roofs; repairs flashings, gutters, cisterns, etc. Sticks to wet or dry surfaces.

QUESTIONS—

ONE — If a fielder muffs a foul fly and the batsman is finally retired, is the fielder who made the palpable muff charged with an error or does the fact that the batsman is retired remove it?

TWO — Catcher in attempting to retire runner trying to steal second throws wild, the runner reaching third on the play. How is it scored?

THREE — If a thrown ball to get a runner at the plate is wide of its mark, the ball striking the wire striking the wire netting, same being the regulation distance from the plate, and remains in the meshes o the screen, how does it affect the advancement of the runners?

FOUR — If catcher drops a third strike that permits the runner to reach first, the third strike being a perfect pitch, is the pitcher credited with a strikeout and the catcher an error?

FIVE — If home and visiting team captains are unable to agree on ground rules governing overflow crowd how is such a dispute settled?

ANSWERS—

ONE—Fielder is chaged with an error on palpable muff of a foul fly regardless of whether or not batsman is retired.

TWO—Runner is credited with a stolen base and catcher charged with an error for the wild throw that enabled runner to advance an extra base.

THREE—If ball remains in the screen that is the regulation distance it is considered the same as if the ball went into the stand. All runners are entitled to advance two bases.

FOUR—Pitcher credited with a strike out. Catcher charged with error.

FIVE—If two captains are unable to agree on ground rules it is up to the umpire to settle the dispute.

Jack Kearns Sent Ultimatum to Shelby.

GREAT FALLS. Mont., June 16. —(Canadian Press).—Jack Kearns, manager of Champion Jack Dempsey virtually served notice on the Shelby promoters yesterday afternoon that unless the $100,000 due Dempsey was paid before 12 o'clock last night he would consider the fight off. Kearns said he had an offer from Cleveland for the match. The Bankers' Committee in the meantime, continued its attempt to untangle the financial situation and save the show.

First "doctor of medicine" was Guglielmo Gordonio, who received the honor from the College of Aosti, in Italy, in 1200.

LOCK WORKS WON FROM EXAMINER

League Leaders Walloped the Tail-Enders to the Tune of 15 to 0.

The Lock Works maintained their position at the top of the Mercantile League by defeating the Examiner nine by a score of 15 to 0 in a lob-sided game at the Oval last evening. Connors, who was on the mound for the winners, started off as if he was going to turn in a no-hit game, but Scates and Outram spoiled his record before the game was over.

Scates started on the mound for the Examiner, but errors, coupled with a slight wildness in the second session, sent eight runs across the pan and Taylor went in to finish the game. A complete re-organization of the infield was made and the Lock Works held to five runs for the remainder of the game.

The players were:

Score by innings:

NEW YORK TEAMS GET NO CROWDS

Teams Are Leading Their Leagues But Fail to Attract the Crowds That Were Expected.

New York has always been a hard crowd town to figure. It is primarily an amusement seeking city with assorted ideas on what is amusement. The same rules that hold in other big cities do not apply to New York. Professional football, which goes big in the middle west, was a bust in New York, where it was figured that anything would get a crowd. New York supports two six day bike races a year.

Promoters who have been successful in New York generally work on the theory of "giving 'em a winner" in anything they like, but this does not always work, as is being shown now in the case of the New York Giants.

Manhattan fans have turned away from the Giants and are favoring the Yankees with their patronage. Considering that Giants are the worlds champions and that in two world's series engagements they have made the Yanks look decidedly inferior, it is difficult to figure the change in heart.

If the main idea is to look at a winner, the Giants certainly ought to get more patronage at home than their Amreican League rivals, because the Giants are not only the greatest team in the major leagues now, but many former players, managers and old fans regard McGraw's present team as one of the best balanced and greatest clubs of all times.

If the attendance had fallen off in the Yankee stadium as it has at the Polo grounds this season, it would be plausible to figure that the New York fans were getting tired of championship fans, like the Philadelphia crowds did back in 1914, when poor business forced Connie Mack to break up one of the greatest teams of all times.

At one time the American League club in New York was scoffed at and ridiculed, and the fans boasted that they were Giant rooters. The rabid partisanship began to slip away as soon as the Yanks got Babe Ruth, and now the same fans are just as rapidly boosting the Yanks.

The situation is a tough one for the Giants to figure. If they can't get the crowds with a winning team they wouldn't care to risk the chances of a losing team, and there is no other Babe Ruth.

SOFT BALL TONIGHT.

Last weeks postponed game between the DeLaval and C.G.E. Girls soft ball teams will be played this eevning at Central Park. The game will start promptly at 6.30. This game should be a good one as these two teams are evenly matched.

Team Standings in Mercantile League

The victory of the Lock Works over the Examiner team left the anti-burglar boys safely perched in first place in the Mercantile League. The standing of the various teams is:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Lock Works 3	0		1000
Bankers. 2	1		.667
C. P. C... 1	1		.500
Westclox.. 1	2		.333
Examiner 0	3		.000

One game in which the C.P.C. defeated the Westclox has been protested and may make a change in the line-up. The first round of the schedule will be finished next week.

A. G. HAVERS WON BRITISH GOLF TITLE

Young English Professional Defeated Walter Hagen By One Stroke at Troon Yesterday.

TROON, Scotland, June 16 (Canadian Press. — Arthur Gladstone Havers, a young English professional who has played golf ever since he wa sold enough t ohold a club, yesterday won the British Open Championsnip of 1923 by a margin of one stroke over Walter Hagen, who came from the United States to defend the title he acquired one year ago at Sandwich.

Through the sound and sturdy efforts of Havers, Great Britain has won back its own cup, which has been held in the United States for two successive years.

Hagen ended his 72-hole battle yesterday with 296 strokes recorded on his card.

Third place went to MacDonald Smith of San Francisco, who had a score of 297, including a 69 yesterday morning that broke the record for the old Troon course.

The scores of the eight leaders for the 72 holes were as follow:

A. G. Havers ..	73	73	73	76	—295
Walter Hagen ..	76	71	74	75	—296
MacDon. Smith,	80	73	69	75	—297
Joe Kirkwood ..	72	79	69	78	—298
F. R. Fernie ...	73	78	74	75	—300
C. Whitcombe ..	70	76	74	82	—302
Geo. Duncan	79	75	74	74	—302
Johnny Farrell..	79	73	75	79	—306

Between 10,000 and 15,000 spectators watched the last two rounds of the competition. Fully two-thirds of them kept their eyes on Hagen in the last hour of his gallant struggle to overtake Havers, who was leading him by two strokes when they went out after lunch for the last 18 holes.

Missed Tiny Putt.

Each took 38 to reach the turn at the ninth hole, the outward journey being made with a strong wind behind the ball, and a clear sky overhead.

Hagen missed a tiny 12-inch putt at the ninth, so he still was two strokes behind Havers, with only nine more holes to go. Then he began his real battle; but he had dropped even farther behind at the eleventh for he got that hole in par, while Havers slipped his ball into the cup for a birdie three.

By the time Hagen had reached the eleventh green, however, Havers had tapped his final putt into the home hole so that the champion knew exactly how hard a task lay ahead of him over seven holes and into the wind.

A three at the fourteenth, where Havers had taken a four, helped Hagen along a little, but it was at the sixteenth that he made the first of two inspiring attempts to do the impossible, and almost succeeded.

His third shot to that hole, made longer by the heavy facing winds, had dropped into the crowd standing on the rough grass-covered mound guarding the side of the green.

Hagen made a marvellous effort to sink the chip shot off that mound. The ball went into the air, landed on the green and rolled straight for the cup. It seemed the impossible was going to be accomplished, but the ball went straight over the cup and rested a few inches away. So Hagen had to be satisfied with a perfect par five, instead of a miraculous birdie four.

A Great Effort.

Hagen now needed threes at both the seventeenth, which is a short hole, and the eighteenth, which is a par four, to tie Havers. His drive off the seventeenth landed in the rough several yards off the side of the high table-like green. He pitched perfectly and sank his first putt for the required three. Now there remained his last hope—that of getting a birdie three on the eighteenth, an accomplishment Hagen had achieved only on Thursday.

Hagen sent a terrific drive down the fairway, but his second shot, blown to the right by the northwest wind, landed in a bunker.

Surely it was all over now. But the crowd that had seen Hagen's desperate and determined effort to sink his chip shot at the sixteenth, knew he would make another attempt to perform the almost impossible—to get out of a bunker and into the cup, ten yards away, with one shot. He did make the attempt, and it was another good one.

For a long time the champion studied the green, and then the bunker where the ball lay. Finally he hit the ball. It rose over the high face of the bunker and fell upon the grass.

It rolled in a direct line for the hole, but it stopped one yard short of it. All was over. Hagen had lost his title, and Great Britain had recaptured the trophy. It mattered not what Hagen did with his one yard putt; but nevertheless he sank it for a four.

When the litle ball disappeared in the cup there came to the ears of Hagen the sound of thousands of persons applauding him for having fought so hard and so well.

A Steady Player.

C. A. Whitcombe, who had taken the lead on Thursday afternoon, collapsed yesterday afternoon under the terrific strain which the championship round imposes, and finished with a 82, which landed him in a tie with George Duncan.

Havers did not win by brilliance of play. He won by starting steady and keeping steady until the very end. Each of his three rounds he made in 73's, while the other leaders in the contest fluctuated from low 69 to as high as 80, these two extremes being recorded by MacDonald Smith.

Some of the sharps said last night Havers could not stick; but those who knew him declared he would stick, for he stuck before, notably two years ago when he was the first British player to finish behind the winner of the championship, Jock Hutchison.

Yesterday afternoon Havers failed to round out his card with another 73, but he went no higher than 76, and that figure, as it turned out, was low enough to bring him the championship.

Havers is the first really young Briton to win the championship since the twentieth century began, as, until the United States golfers won it, the trophy always had been captured by either one or another of the group of the old British golfers, such as Harry Vardon, Edward Ray, and James Braid. Geo. Duncan was no spring chicken when he emerged victorious in the 1920 championship.

Havers, at the age of fourteen, broke the course record of the Royal Norwich Golf Club, of which his father was and still is the steward. His score then was 68. In 1914 when sixteen years old, playing the Troon courses. Havers qualified for the championship.

CLEVELAND HFLD ATHLETICS AT BAY

Cleveland is Climbing and Threatens to Jump Into Second Place in American League Race.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16. — (Canadian Press.)— Sherrod Smith, former Brooklyn southpaw, held the Philadelphia team helpless yesterday and enabled Cleveland to even the series. The score was 4 to 1.

The home team was blanked until the final inning when Hauser tripled and scored on an infield out. The defeat sends the Athletics further away from the Yankees and leaves Cleveland but one game from second place. Score:

Johnson and Bassler; Quinn and Walters.

New York 1, St. Louis 0.

NEW YORK, June 16.— (Canadian Press.)—Herb Pennock easily held the St. Louis Browns in check yesterday and the New York Yankees scored an easy victory in the third game of the series, 10 to 0. Nine runs were scored off Vangilder in the first two innings, six in the second with the aid of but two hits. Catcher Collins of the Browns was accidentally spiked over the right eye in the first inning by Ward, who was trying to stretch his triple into a homer after clearing the bases.

Collins was rendered unconscious and obliged to retire. Score:

W.M.S. CONVENTION ONE OF THE BEST.

COBOURG, June 16.—The closing sessions of the W.M.S. convention held here were occasions of deep inspiration and helpful interest. In fact, the 1923 Bay of Quinte branch meeting will go down into history as one of the best conventions yet held. The meetings were all held in the Methodist Church and the large auditorium was well filled.

Thursday Morning.

The devotional exercises were followed by the reading and approval of the minutes.

Miss E. V. Ketcheson very aply outlined the new study book, "Building a Nation." Before the election of officers, Mrs. (Rev.) Neal of Conway led in a very earnest prayer for guidance and direction in the appointment of the officers, which resulted as follows:

Honorary President—Mrs. A. W. Grange.

Honorary Vice-Presidents—Mrs. (Dr.) Harrison and Mrs. A. R. Campbell.

President—Mrs. W. H. Ashton.

1st Vice-President—Mrs. J. W. Roberts.

2nd Vice-President—Mrs. G. W. Hammond.

3rd Vice-President—Mrs. George Jackson.

Recording Secretary—Mrs. C. A. Callery.

Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. R. G. Lawlor.

Treasurer—Mrs. Jas. Kendry.

Mission Circle and Band Secretary —Mrs. M. E. Wilson.

Mission Circle and Band Treasurer —Mrs. (Dr.) Irvine.

Supt. Christian Stewardship—Mrs. F. W. White.

Strangers' Secretary—Mrs. John Laird.

Representative to Conference — Mrs. Stillman Gay.

Alternates—Mrs. Wagar and Mrs. Kendry.

The morning session was brought to a close with the "Quiet Half Hour," which was led by Mrs. E. E. Marshall of Toronto and will long be remembered as a time of refreshing coming from the presence of the Lord.

Thursday Afternoon.

The opening exercises were conducted by Mesdames Seymour and Walker and was followed by the reading of the minutes.

The "Question Drawer" was made interesting by numbers of questions which were ably answered by Mrs. J. W. Roberts and Mrs. G. W. Hammond.

Report of Courtesy Committee was as follows:

We express our sincere appreciation of the splendid work of the Reception Committee from the time the delegates alighted at the station, when we were conveyed by auto to the place of registration, served with lunch, and finally conveyed to our billets.

We express our gratitude to our hostesses who have so kindly opened their homes to us where we have been so royally entertained. Also, we extend our thanks to the local auxiliary for their kindly words of welcome, to the citizens of Cobourg who through the Mayor, Col. Boggs, gave us such a hearty welcome to the town and extended to us the freedom of the city, to the pastor and the board of this church, to the orchestra and the choir, to the Mission Band and to the Circle Girls who furnished entertainment for us.

As our delegates leave this beautiful town we will carry with us the most pleasant recollections of this most inspiring convention.

The Port Hope ladies send an invitation for the convention next year.

Rev. Mr. Wilson closed the convention with prayer.

BUT FEW CHANGES IN RUGBY RULES

No Radical Changes But Many Ambiguous Points Are Cleared Up—Duties of Umpires.

The Rules Commission of the Canadian Rugby Union, after several meetings and much exchange of correspondence, have made a final decision on the changes respecting the playing code of the fall pastime. There are no real radical changes but rules have been gone over carefully and many ambiguous points cleared up. In the past rules intended to have one meaning were so worded that several meanings could be interpreted. These have now been cleared up. Many minor changes have been made also on points that were not found to be covered clearly in last year's code.

To Share Duties

In the future the umpire will be equally responsible with the referee for the enforcement of the rules. In the past the umpire had only certain duties to perform. If any of the affiliated Unions so desire they may designate to the head linesman power to sound a signal for infringement of any of the rules, especially regarding offsides on the line of scrimmage The "kick-out" after rouge or safety touch has been abolished and a scrimmage only must be taken. One point changed that will be of interest to many is that in which after the ball is dead players must have a reasonable opportunity to be onside. In the past many players in following down a supposed kick which was blocked, found themselves unable to get back in time before the other team had scrimmaged the ball and the result was a penalty.

Three Yards Remain

The three-yeard offside zone has not been changed, but a new wording has been given to the rule and should clear it of the many meanings that had been taken. Much time was spent on this by the Commission. It was generally agreed that the three-yard zone was quite enough though there had been much talk of increasing it. There are new penalties in the matter of distance. On scrimmage plays the penalty is the loss of one down. For offside, the loss of ten years. However, for illegal interference the penalty still remains the loss of one down and fifteen yards. It was felt that only by a stiff penalty or illegal interference would this phase of the game be eliminated. By a lighter penalty it would only tend to increase it. In time illegal interference will practically be unknown. Much space taken up with rough play and severe penalties are attached to offences.

Quaker Girls Won a Fast Ball Game.

The Quakers defeated the Tigers last evening by a score of 15 to 12 in the fastest game played this season in the Girls' Soft Ball League. The entire nine innings were played in just 45 minutes. On two occasions the Quakers were retired on seven pitched balls. The Quakers were held scoreless for six of the nine innings, but a great show of strength in the fifth frame which netted them nine runs. Three runs in each of the first two frames accounted for the remainder of their runs. The Tigers made a great rally in the ninth and sent four runs home, but were retired before they could pull up on even terms.

The players were:

LACROSSE

After various set backs from too much baseball opposition, wet grounds and other difficulties lacrosse is apparently about to get started.

The opening game here is with Marmora, Thursday, June 28th when the juniors go into action. Hastings intermediates agreed to a postponement of their game here, but the date chosen was election day which in an afterthought is considered unsatisfactory.

A general lacrosse meeting is called for Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce. Vic Hamilton specially requests the players to come around to this meeting at which it is expected some tag-end business will be cleaned up.

The intermediates are going to Port Hope on July 2nd for a game with the Leaside intermediates. Port Hope always puts on a big celebration on Dominion Day, and this year they are combining with it an Old Boys' Reunion.

Bert Todd, Jack McDonald, Vic Hamilton, Johnnie Sutherland, Vince O'Connell and the rest of the helpers were out at last night's practice. Among those in uniform were Johnnie Ward. Fred Goodfellow, Taylor, Johnston Ranger, Donovan O'Toole, Killoran Lou Lebarr, Ben Simms Pete Milloy, Fred Jones, Curtin, Lynch, Buck Foy, Jack Lebarr, and several others.

Arrangements are being made for practices at Riverside Park. Dates will be announced shortly. In the meantime it is hoped that the lacrosse team will get a little more use of King Edward Park, which is generally regarded as the fastest field in the city with the possibly exception of Central Park which is cluttered up with poles and is now plastered with a temporary tence. If the lacrosse boys will pull together the way they have been doing of late they will soon forget these little handicaps.

While trying to impress people you are liable to depress people.

Does It Cost More to Build Cord Tires?

Most assuredly! The cord fabric costs more than ordinary fabric. There is more rubber employed. Expensive machinery is necessary to complete the various processes. More care and detail is essential to the proper construction.

In Firestone Cord Tires this extra cost has been reduced to a bed rock minimum by constant experiment and efficient production methods. But when you come to consider the added comfort and extra mileage they deliver the final cost is far lower.

Firestone Cords make driving easier —they lessen the demands on your motor—they save gasoline bills—their remarkable resilience absorbs road roughness and inequalities—they practically do away with fabric friction and embody a surprising wear-resistance.

The steadily increasing demand for Firestone Cords—the pacemakers of cord construction—emphasizes the fact that owners are becoming tire-wise—are finding out that extra mileage without additional cost embodies true tire economy.

We stake a reputation we have spent many years to build on each Firestone Cord we put on your car—surely the highest assurance of quality and superservice any car-owner could possibly wish for. Ask your dealer.

BUSH FIRES ARE GAINING HEADWAY

Sixteen Thousand Square Miles of Forest are Threatened by Flames

HAILEYBURY, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—Bush fires are sweeping along at a terrific rate in North Western Quebec, and it is estimated by lumbermen that about 1600 square miles of forest are threatened by flames.

Prospectors returning from Rouine gold area report a heavy pall of smoke hanging over the country with the sun completely obscured at times and with tell-tale ashes falling thickly over many miles of territory to the windward of the fires. Forest rangers declare the first great fire got its start at Long Lake to the south of Larder Lake, where lumbering operations left the country in a dangerous condition while other fires came down from points on the transcontinental railway.

Prospectors are making their head quarters on the shores of the lakes and some of them are building docks of dried timber which may be quickly set afloat with their equipment on board should fires break down through the mining country.

It is feared that forty forest rangers and mounted police which the Quebec government is sending in will not be able to save the forest area from terrific loss.

GOLF NOTES

CLEVELAND, June 16 (Associated Press).—When Chick Evans comes here to defend his title in the western amateur golf championship, to be played over the Mayfield County Club course July 23-28, his stiffest competition probably will come from Ruddy Knepper of Sioux City. Bobby Jones, of Atlanta, has announced he will not be a participant, while Francis Ouimet is considered a doubtful starter.

Other promising entrants are Harrison Johnson of St.Paul; Godchaux of New Orleans and Boyd of Knoxville.

Indications, according to golf experts here, are that Knepper will beat his best this year. They point out that he struck his stride for the first time last year and easily was one of the ranking players of the season. work in the national amateur at Brookline was not many strokes below the best form shown by Sweetser, Evans and Jones.

QUEEN'S WILL STANDS THROUGH FOUR SUITS

HONOLULU, June 16--(Associated Press).—Litigation over the will of the late Queen Liliuokalani, last reigning monarch in Hawaii, which has occupied the courts here since her death in 1917 has been terminated with the withdrawing of the suit filed by Mrs. Kahakauilakeliimoewaiowaialaulia (correct Keawe Nawihie to break the testament. The 30-letter name means "Thundering Chiefess of the Sleeping Waters."

Mrs. Nawahie's acton was the fourth that had been brought in an effort to overturn the will. She contended that she was the next of kin to the former queen.

The first suit was filed by the late Prince Jonah Kuhio Kalanianaole, former delegate to Congress, and was settled by compromise.

The second suit, filed by Mrs. Emma K. De Fries, was dismissed.

The third acton, based on a will which named the "Princess" Theresa Owana Wilcox Belliveau Kelley and two other persons as beneficiaries, aso was dismissed by the territorial supreme court.

This suit had a sensational aftermath. A Hawaiian minister, who testified that he witness the signature of the late queen to the document, told his attorney later that he had a vision or a dream, and confessed that the will was a fraud on the part of "Princess Theresa." As the result she was convicted of forgery and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. She was released recently at the conclusion of her term.

Mrs. Nawahie's contest was dismissed some time ago on the ground that she had failed to prove her contention that she to a jury but after long court delays withdrew her suit, she told the court, because all of the attorneys she consulted told her that her case was without merit.

French Have Occupied More Railway Stations.

BERLIN June 16. — (Canadian Press).—French troops Thursday night and yesterday occupied railway stations from Dortmund to Kray, including the important youngtions of Langendreer and Bochum. This severs the last line of communication between industrial and occupied Germany and traffic is now possible only by means of electric tramways.

Dortmund and other large towns are completely isolated; nobody is able to enter or leave without a French permit.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 16. (Special.)—Wall street, and that meant all the big markets, breathed easier to-day following the announcement of the failure of a big stock exchange house which had taken a prominent part in recent years in the flotation of oil securities. Rumours that a leading firm was in financial stress had been a source of considerable uneasiness for several weeks. The general opinion versed in the speculative community was the market should now act better with this now out of the way. A number of oils which had been under pressure for some time displayed an improved tone but this was offset by the continued weakness in Sinclair and a few of the members of this group. Aside from oils the industrial list was virtually featureless. Rails however maintain their main upward drift on a restricted volume of dealings. The collaped brok rage firm was Knaught, Natched & Kuhn. Its failure was announced from the rostrum of the exchange but word from the courts were an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed, carried the information that the liabilities were practically offset by the assets. The firm carried on a small business on the curb and was suspended from that market also. The firm is credited with liquidation of oil stocks and bonds during the past few days. In the bond market and on the curb the oil issues stiffened perceptibly when the street learned that the recent selling of oils was not primarily due to the increased production in crude oil.

The failed firm had built up an international business in foreign exchange but not in foreign bonds. It has been prominent in the flotation of oil securities. Bankers do not believe the failure will prove a large one. A rising tendency was in evidence in the stock market at the opening, before the news of the failure became known, and the improved sentiment was based on the general belief that the higher classes of rails and industrials will soon be in the way of a piling up of good profits. Then when the news of the revelation of the "overhanging event" broke, stocks showed a decidedly better tone. California Petroleum, American Can., Studebaker and other industrial leaders scored fair recoveries while the rails continued to display a confident front.

Some opening prices were: United States steel, 95 up 3-8; Studebaker 108 14 up 3-4, Atchinson 104¼ off 1-8; Baldwin 128 34 up 3-4; N Y C 107 7-8; up ¼; American Locomotive 138 1-4, off 1-4; American Can. 97¼ up 1-8.

Bonds showed a steady undertone during the two hours' session. Rails assumed leadership from the start, finishing well up from the low of the day, though the trading was not particularly active. Austrian sevens were again active in the morning. French issues were steady though francs showed a further easing. British issues were firmer though not so specially active.

Government Aid to Drydock Construction.

OTTAWA, June 16. — (Canadian Press). — The final reading was given in the House yesterday to a bill to amend the Drydock Subsidies Act of 1910 so as to permit payments of subsidy when the amount expended for work and materials upon a dock of the first or second class shall have equalled 75 per cent. of its total cost. The bill provides that, when the chief engineer of the Department of Public Works has certified that 75 per cent. of the total cost has been expended, half-yearly payments at the rate of 4½ per cent. may be made on 90 per cent. of the cost of the work done.

LONG POSTAL SERVICE RECOGNISED BY KING.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16.—(Canadian Press)— Since 1881 William Kimber has never missed a day from his work at the Toronto Post Office. In forty-one and a half years he has never been sick.

Yesterday, along with two other veterans of Post Office staff, his service was recognized, when Postmaster Lemon by command of the King, presented him with an Imperial Service medal for meritorious service. Other men honored were James Lynn, who has completed 31 years service and Thos. Ball, who has completed 33 years.

UNDER X-RAY 56 HOURS CONDITION IS IMPROVED.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—Marked improvement in the condition of Miss Ellen Ellin, of Springvalley, N.Y., was reported last night from the ward in Bellevue Hospital to which she was removed after being exposed to X-rays of twenty-five thousand voltage for 56 hours in an effort to cure abdominal cancer.

Dr. H. Heth Hirsch, of Bellevue Hospital, said he was highly pleased with the result of his experiment, which, he asserted, was the first anti-cancer attempt at which a patient had been subjected to so high voltage for so long a time.

HOW TO BE HAPPY, THOUGH MARRIED

1. Don't be a tightwad. A woman makes allowances for ill-fortune.
2. Let your wife run the domestic affairs without interference.
3. Smile, even if you don't feel like it. It pays big dividends in domestic happiness.
4. Don't be afraid to let your wife know you appreciate her.
5. Keep up your courtship. Don't quit being a sweetheart when the honeymoon is over.
6. Don't scold.
7. Get away from relatives and make your own home.
8. Beware the boarder. Better have a pet python around the house.
9. Shun slovenly habits. "Slick up" like you did when you were trying to persuade her to be your wife.
10. Treat your children kindly and justly—their mothers will be won along with them.

"YOU CAN'T FOOL YOUR WIFE."

For contrast in feminine pulchritude and temperament, few motion pictures recently produced can, by any stretch of imagination, equal George Melford's latest Paramount picture, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," which comes to the Capitol theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and in which the three principal roles are played by Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi and Pauline Garon.

Miss Joy, as Edith McBride, is the trusting wife, charming and ingenuous, yet intuitive to the last degree. Her particular type of beauty, with her soft brown eyes and dark brown hair, gives just the necessary sympathy to the role of the modern wife, troubled and tormented by a million aire husband who has reached the so-called dangerous age.

Miss Naldi is the siren de luxe in the picture—a polished beauty, wife of an eminent surgeon, who seeks social conquests to further her husband's practice. Her raven black hair and alluring eyes produce the desired effect when she sets out to annex a man to her long list of victims.

Miss Garon, chic, blonde, diminutive, is the flapper of eighteen, but possessing a sophistication that would be a credit to a woman of fifty. She bobs in and out of the picture on a breeze spontaneity that is a delightful contrast to the action of the other two characters in the story.

With three such types there is little wonder that Lewis Stone, Paul McAllister and John Daly Murphy, who play the three principal characters opposite, should be hopelessly entangled in a domestic drama.

A GOOD BRAND BALL AT PARK

Both Teams Failed to Score in the Opening Frame — The Line-ups

RIVERSIDE PARK, June 16.—A big number of Cobourg fans and the usual enthusiastic crowd of Peterborough rooters turned out to watch the seventh game Peterborough has played in the big four league. The diamond was in good condition and both teams were keyed up for a big game.

The batteries for Cobourg were: —Derry, pitcher and Chalk, catch. For Peterborough, Heckman was pitching and Swanston catching.

The teams were:

Cobourg—Skitch 2b; Turpin 3b; Thompson lf; J. Kenny, cf; Higginbottom, rf; Drennan, ss; D. Kenny, 1b; Chalk, c; Derry p.

Peterborough:—Ansaldo, ss; Collins 2b; Swanston c; Comoli 1b Heckman p; Wolfe, cf; Helson 3b; Legon lf; Johnston rf.

In the first inning Skitch rolled to Comoli, Turpin was safe on Heckman's error; Thompson singled; J. Kenny sent a high fly to Wolfe and Higginbottom struck out.

Peterborough went out on four pitched balls.

For Peterborough, Comoli fanned; Hackman singled and went to second on Wolfe's sacrifice; Helson fanned.

In the third Skitch grounded to Helson, Turpin singled to centre, Thompson took a base on balls; Kenny singled, scoring Turpin; Swanston caught Kenny trying to steal second; Higginbottom singled scoring Thompson; Drennan out on high fly to Legon.

Wolfe hurt his leg in the second while chasing a ball in centre and was changed into right field. Johnston went to centre.

Peterboro: Collins grounded to Skitch;; Legon to Turpin and Ansaldo to Turpin.

Summary—0 runs, 0 hits, 0 errors.

DEMPSEY-GIBBONS FIGHT SAVED FROM FAILURE

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 16. —(Canadian Press).—The Dempsey-Gibbons fight at Shelby, Montana, was saved from financial failure early to-day when President G. H. Stanton, of the Stanton Trust and Savings Company, advanced $50,000, and pledges were made to the other $50,000 to make up the $100,000 instalment due Dempsey.

Election News

TORONTO, June 16.—(Canadian Press).—If, as now expected, the name of Dr. A. G. Wallis, Liberal, goes on the ballot papers in Algoma, this will make a three-cornered contest and give the Liberals a total of seventy-seven candidates as compared with the Conservatives 103 and the U.F.O. 76. On the other hand, the withdrawal of Dr. Paul Hoisson, Independent candidate in North Essex, makes that straight contest between the Farmers and the Liberal candidates.

This afternoon's picnic method of political campaigning is very much in vogue. It is estimated that in at least forty ridings in various parts of the province, various party speakers are expounding their arguments in outdoor gatherings to accompanying excursion music.

All party leaders have engagements over the week-end, with prospects of a rest on Sunday to prepare for the last and biggest week of the campaign. It is announced that a deputation of officials from Wentworth County will visit the Parliament Buildings here on Monday and demand to know before election day what the Government will do in regard to the payment for Provincial highways in that county.

TYPING TESTS LAST EVENING

Fred Jarrett Supervised Exhibition and Contest in Speed Typewriting—The Winners.

An interesting exhibition of typewriting took place at the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall last evening in the presence of about one hundred of the relatives and friends of the young people who took part.

Graduates of former Collegiate Institute business courses and seniors and juniors of this year's class took part in three relays of ten minutes each, under the supervision of Mr. Fred Jarrett, head of the Education Department of the Underwood Typewriter Company of Toronto, and several times winner of the Canadian typewriting championship.

Present also were J. A. McKone, head of the Peterborough Business College; R. H. Hocking, assistant managing director of the Remington Typewriter Co. of Canada; Mr. Herbert, the local Remington representative, and Miss E. O'Loughlin, of the School Department of the Underwood Company in Toronto.

Judges in the contest were Messrs. Jarrett, Herbert, and McKone.

Thirty-four girls and two youths took part in the different sections of the contest, which was run through with speed and a noticeable lack of nervousness on the part of the contestants.

Graduates: Miss Greta Brownlee, with an average speed of 59 words per minute after errors, which caused a deduction of ten words for each mistake, were reckoned with.

Seniors: Miss Lila Curtis and Miss Isobel Donnelly (tie), with an average speed of 37 words per minute.

Juniors: Miss Mary Staples, 38 words average.

The award of a silver challenge cup by Miss Mary Elliott went to Miss Lila Curtis, the senior with the highest standing.

Presentation of certificates won during the year 1922-1923 by the senior class was made by Mrs. W. R. Morris. Typewriting certificates were given by the Underwood and Remington companies; filing certificates by the Office Specialty Company, and certificates for artistic typing from the Gregg Writer of Chicago.

Underwood typing certificates in the sections devoted to speed of 30 and 40 words a minute were won in both sections by Cora Clarke, Isabel Donnelly, Lila Curtis, Florence Cooper, Clemena Long, Mary Lynch, Grace Sergeant, Madeline Wheeler, Helen Madden, and Dorothy Worboy.

Certificates in 30 words a minute also went to Elsie Bennett, Kathleen Grady, Florence Hutchinson, Daisy James, Olive Goselin, Jean Moore, Anastasia O'Toole, Alice Rightmeyer, Helen Wright, Margaret Hilman, and Vernon Skitch.

In 50 words a minute, certificates wer granted to Isabel Donnelly and Madeline Wheeler.

Remington certificates, with a five-error limit, went in the 25 words a minute section to Grace Agnew, Elsie Bennett, Isabel Donnelly, Lila Curtis, Florence Cooper, Kathleen Grady, Daisy James, Clemena Long, Mary Lynch, Madeline Wheeler, Dorothy Worboy, Vernon Skitch, and Frank Wood.

In 55 words a minute (gold medal) Clemena Long.

Mr. C. E. Jamieson gave a brief introductory address explaining the contest, and emphasising the nature of the course undertaken by the students, who devote only a short time each week to typing practice. The attention given to accuracy in typing was one of the first principles of the course.

The idea of being accurate first and speedy afterwards was also the keynote of an address by Mr. R. H. Hocking.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner explained the idea behind the contest, and said that similar exhibitions would be given yearly in the future.

A demonstration of typewriting, illustrating a speed of 40 words a minute, then of 100 words, was given by Mr. Jarrett.

The presentation of prizes, in the absence of Mr. A. A. Fowler, chairman of the Board of Education, was performed by Mr. J. A. McKone.

An exhibition that attracted much favourable comment was that of the various departments in commercial work conducted by Miss Mary Elliott, Miss Edith Murphy, and Mr. C. E. Jamieson.

Samples were on view of the work of the pupils in map-making, in artistic bits of crayon, pen and ink, water colour and pencil work, in posters and in neat typing of business and legal forms. One of the business letters, neatly done, was embellished with Persian figures to carry out the nature of the communication regarding Persian rugs, a new idea in commercial correspondence, and the posters were excellent, a particularly good example being that of the Community Plate, an Old Dutch Cleanser poster, and a striking silhouette of a girl for "Winter Sports."

Big Increase in Circulation of Notes.

OTTAWA, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—There was an increase of over four million dollars in the circulation of Dominion notes in May over the previous month. The gold holdings against notes increased slightly, but in the result there was a slight decline in the gold percentage.

INCREASE NOTED

OTTAWA, June 16. — (Canadian Press).—Immigration is increasing. During the five months ending May, 39,441 immigrants entered Canada, or 41 per cent. over the total for the corresponding five months of last year. Immigration from Great Britain alone during the five months showed an increase of 100 per cent.

LITTLE GIRL DIED AS RESULT AUTO ACCIDENT

TORONTO, June 16.—(Canadian Press)—Six-year-old Vula Catharine, who succumbed early this morning to injuries received last evening on Boon Avenue, when she was struck and knocked down by an auto truck said to belong to Bowles' Lunch Co. Eye-witnesses state that the child stepped suddenly from the sidewalk into the path of the truck, and that the accident was unavoidable.

TECHNICALITY WAIVED AND WALLIS WILL RUN.

TORONTO, Ont., June 16. Canadian Press. — Dr. A. G. Wallis, will after all, contest Algoma riding for the Liberal party. Although he was declared by the local returning officer to be out of the running on a technicality, Chief Election Officer A. M. Dymond has wired the returning officer in Algoma that if as reported to him Dr. Wallis' telegraphic consent was received before the hour for nomination had closed, his name should go on the ballot paper.

As a still further saefguard however a mandamus was applied for yesterday by representatives of Dr. Wallis at Osgoode Hall and will be served upon the returning officer and will come up before Justice Maston for trial here at 11 o'clock here on Monday. Of course action will not proceed if as expected Algoma returning officer complied with the order of his chief.

Dr. Wallis' campaign manager was in Toronto yesterday and according to his explanation the Doctor was campaigning in a distant part of the riding on Nomination day.

FOREST PROTECTION TO BE LEGALLY ENFORCED

A LIGHTNING BOLT STRUCK OIL TANK

Fire Results, Consuming Thousands of Barrels of Oil.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—(Canadian Press). — Burning fiercely throughout the night, and resisting every effort of all available firemen and fire-fighting apparatus, the fire at the Atlantic Refining Company's plant was not under control this morning, fifteen hours after it was started when a bolt of lightning struck an oil tank. The blaze had consumed thousands of barrels of oil and gasoline stored in huge tanks at the plant covering four city blocks along the Alleghenny River, and burned a number of other buildings, including the shop of the United Engineering and Foundry Company and a garage of the Pittsburgh Brushed Steel Company.

This morning the fire was consuming oil at the rate of 250 barrels an hour, and firemen had thrown up direct barriers in an effort to keep the flames from reaching the gasoline reservoir containing twenty thousands of barrels of fuel. The damage already done is more than half a million dollars.

AUTO CAUGHT FIRE.

The first call in some days was received by the Fire Department yesterday afternoon, when an auto caught fire at Fontaine's Garage on Park Street. Parts of the car had just been cleaned, and there was evidently a leak in the gas pipe. When the self-starter was used, the car burst into flames. A small amount of damage was done.

POLL FOR MEN AT PETAWAWA

May Provide Advance Privileges for All Voters Going to Military Camp

OTTAWA, June 16.— (Canadian Press.)— Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Acting Minister of National Defence, made a statement just before adjournment of the House last night in reply to a question earlier in the day by the leader of the Opposition as to reasons why Petawawa artillery camp had been allowed this year to interfere with the Ontario elections. Mr. MacDonald said that arrangements for this year's camp had been made in March, as in former years, so that there could have been no knowledge that an election was to be held.

He stated that he had communicated with Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney-General, proposing that an advance poll be held for those who would go to Petawawa, if the Ontario election would permit of such a step ,and that if it did not then necessary ratifying legislation could be provided at the next session of the Legislature. This plan had been acceded to by Hon. Mr. Ferguson and had been submitted to Wellington Hay, Liberal leader. This was the only feasible solution of the problem.

REFUSED TO DELIVER COAL.

DUSSELDORF, June 16 (United Press). — A French court-martial at Verdun fined three Ruhr industrialists a total of 268,334,074,000 marks, and sentenced each to five years' imprisonment for refusing to resume delivery of reparations coal, and for non-payment of the 40 per cent. coal tax.

Raney Pays Tribute to Ferguson

DOES HE EXPECT CONSERVATIVE LEADER TO BE NEXT PREMIER?

According to a report in The Globe, Attorney-General Raney, speaking at Fergus on Thursday, incidentally paid a tribute to the Conservative Leader, Mr. Ferguson was a brilliant man, he said, good lawyer, good legislator, and a good critic of legislation. "When he has so willed he has given excellent constructive critisism, and I don't know anyone who can do it better."

MOUNT ETNA HURLS THOUSANDS OF TONS LAVA ON SMALL TOWN

Flaming Line Three Hundred Yards Across Advancing Upon Neighboring Hamlets in Sicily—Inhabitants, Warned, Flee to Safety.

AWAKENED GIANTESS

CATANIA, Sicily, June 18.—(United Press.)—Hurling thousands of tons of flaming lava high into the sky from its main crater, while five new craters are belching molten destruction with the reports like those of a thousand cannon, Mount Etna is in eruption and already has destroyed this village and threaetns a score of others. A great wall of molten lava thirty to forty feet in height slide over the spot where the little town of Lingua Glossa had stood and advanced in a flaming line three hundred yards across upon neighboring hamlets. The village of Boscoragate has disappeared.

The Casualties.

Inhabitants of the threatened towns, warned for days by rumbling and mutterings of the great mountain volcano, fled to safety in time. No casualties have been reported, but the roads are clogging with rude carts and peasants and their families staggering beneath loads of their household belongings snatched from in front of the fiery masses that inundate their homes.

The outpouring from Etna's old and new craters grows in volume each hour. The thunders from new crevices whence the flaming lava issues comes to watchers on distance hills through the dense black smoke that hangs over the mountain top. Now and then a great burst of flames shoots high above the inky pall and flare against the sky, lighting the haze with a ghastly red glow. At each demonstration of the awakening giantess new flights are begun by the terrified Sicilians.

Burning Lava.

The lava pours down the mountain sides and over the surrounding country at a terrific speed. line of railroad has gone under. The station Gastiglone burst into flames and then was buried in lava.

Like Days of Old.

As in the days of old Pompei, the terror of the volcano has communicated itself to the country for miles around.

Cattle and sheep are being driven in great herds from the direction of Etna. The populace fills the streets of nearby towns. No work is being done. The eruption began at an ear-

Chinese Bandits Capture Priest And 500 Converts

ROME, June 18. (United States.)—Chinese bandits surrounded the Roman Catholic Mission near Hankow, China, and captured Father Malotto, the missionary, and five hundreds of the Chinese converts, according to cables received here today.

The brigands demand a ransom of $1,000,000, threatening to kill the priest if this is not paid at once.

Pope Pius has cabled Father Wilhelm Leufers, at Hankow to do his utmost to effect the release of the captives.

FOUND THE BODY OF ORVILLE CROWE

Recovered Yesterday Afternoon Within 200 feet of Where He Sank.

After a week's continuous search, the body of Orville Crowe, who was drowned in Lovesick Lake on Sunday, June 11, was recovered between 2.30 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon within 200 feet of the place where he was last seen.

Alderman J. Crowe, the father of the unfortunate young man, has conducted an almost unceasing effort to locate the body, accompanied by Arthur Metheral, who was with Orville Crowe at the time of the accident, and others. Yesterday a party consisting of Alderman Crowe, Arthur Metheral, Walter Metheral and Edward Vinette had cruised around the scene of the fatality for some hours, using grappling irons, but without success.

They went ashore for a short time, resuming the search about 2.30. p.m. Theparty made a circuit around the area which has had their attention for a week, and found the body floating near the boom, it having come to the surface during their absence.

When recovered, the young man's right hand pressed his heart, while his left hand was drawn against his side, Arthur Metheral stated.

The probabilities are, one of the searchers said, that but for Mr. Church, the lockmaster at the Burleigh dam, the body would have been carried over the sluice during the absence of the search party. Mr. Church, however, had added stop logs at that end of the dam immediately after the accident to prevent such an occurrence, and this caused the body to be held by the boom.

ED-WARDEN DEAD.

KINGSTON, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—John E. Campbell, ex-Warden of Frontenac, and one of the mostly widely known county legislators, died at his home at Verona yesterday evening after a lingering illness aged 68 years. He was pioneer of Hinchinbrooke township.

DOUKHOBORS TO QUIT THE WEST FOR NIAGARA

Fifteen Hundred Now Living in Saskatchewan Plan to Take Up Farming in Ontario.

ARE VEGETARIANS

WINNIPEG, June 18.—(Canadian Press).—Fifteen hundred Doukhobors now living in Saskatchewan are planning to leave that province and take up land in Ontario according to an anouncement made here last night by Peter Veregin, leader of the sect. Mr. Veregin expects to leave for the East in a day or two to prospect a suitable area in which to locate his followers.

He explained that the Doukhobors are finding the climate in Saskachewan too severe in winter, and pointed out that, while it might suit persons who eat meat, it is not suited to those who practice vegeterianism, the diet system which is part of the creed of the sect.

The Doukhobors propose to purchase between ten and twenty thousand acres suitable for small and large fruit growing in Niagara peninsula. Their holdings in Saskatchewan are estimated to be forty thousand acres.

WHAT TORONTO HEARS

TORONTO, June 18.—The Department of Agriculture here has received no direct inquiries with references to fifteen hundred Doukhobors removing from Saskatchewan to Niagara District, but it was stated at Queen's Park to-day that a private Toronto firm had been asked to ascertain if fifty thousand acres could be secured in this district. Department officials thought this would be a difficult order to fill.

It is now assumed that inquiry was made in connection with the Doukhobors plans.

THREE GIBRALTARS IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, June 18. — (United Press).—In discussing military and strategist positions in te Mediterranean, one instinctively visualizes the fortress summit of Gibraltar as the key to the inland ocean.

The forthcoming conference between England, France and Spain on Langiers. however, emphasizes that there are at least two other "Gibraltars in the Mediterranean-Langiers and the Island of Malta.

While the narrow portal at the lip of Portugal gives England ont of her most important gates of empire, "Malta's" local geographic situation renders it of highest value as a military naval base. Langiers, likewise, is a key to Egypt and North Africa; France for her purposes considers it a far more important key than Gibraltar.

Under an agreement of 1912 the city of Langiers was internationalized, andlo later a commission provided more specialized privileges for the interested parties. Now France, which desires Langitrs because of its strategic relations to important African colonies has suggested a new conference. England is satisfied with the present arrangement and does not desire that France dominate "the terrain which might be useful as a basis for an attack on the Gibraltar forty miles to the west. The English press vouches the opinion that an international arrangement without favor to any one nation will be the only acceptable solution of the situation.

FEW OUT OF WORK

Road work has taken away a good number of the unemployed from the books of the Government Employment Bureau, and only a few applications for work are on file to-day. Men are wanted for bush work, and several have accepted. About fifty were absorbed by the street work in the city.

BUILDING PERMITS

Bulding permits for the first half of June total $10,230, including three dwelling houses and seven garages. The dwelling houses are located at Mark street east, 4 rooms $1,500;; Stewart street, 6 rooms, $6,000; and Lake street, 3 rooms $1.200.

The other permits are for repairs and alterations.

SEEMS THAT THE WORLD IS REVERTING TO BARBARISM

Such is Opinion of Ramsay Macdonald, Who Opposed Launching of Mystery Super-Submarine by Britain

LONDON, June 18 (United Press). — British Pacifists and a section of the Labour Party are protesting against the launching of X1, the new mystery super-submarine, described as the world's largest undersea craft.

Cost $4,000,000, without her armament, the vessel is reported to have a cruising radius of 8,000 miles.

She was laid down prior to the Washington Disarmament Conference, and is therefore exempt from the restrictions imposed by the pact.

Ramsay Macdonald, prominent Labour member of Parliament, opposed to the launching of the vessel, in a speech at Southampton on Sunday, said: "It seems that the world is reverting to barbarism."

LARGEST FINE EVER LEVIED

Imposed by French Upon Eight German Industrialists Who Refused to Deliver Coal.

DUSSELDORF June 18—(United Press).—The larges fine ever levied against a group of individuals was imposed upon eight German industrialists by a French court martial at Worden.

The defendants, five of whom were not present were sentenced to five years' imprisonment each and were fined a total of 1,664,000,000,000. This sum is approximately the equivalent of $14,511250,00.

The charge against the industrialists included refusing to deliver coal by way of reparations thus encouraging pasisve resistance and theft of material in North-western france during the war.

RESIGNATIONS IN ST. JOHN'S CHOIR

Impressive Music at Yesterday's Service.

Matins and Evensong in St. John's church yesterday were impressively sung by the very large choir. Service forms of the Canticles were "Te Deum," ("Smart,") "Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis," "(Winchester.")

Morning anthem "Conquering Kings," ("Maunder,") solo verse by Miss Quartermaine; evening anthem, "The Marvellous Work," (from Haydn's "Creation,") soprano obligato by Mrs. W. G. Perks.

The latter number is one of the best in the choir library, and the choir did it full justice, especially the subdued score accompaniment to the climatic obligato i gnificently sung by Mrs. W. G. Perks.

After the service in the vestry the organist and choirmaster announced that Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie and Mrs. R. J. Devey had resiged from their choir, and after expressing regret at losing their valuable help which has been of that faithful nature which neither extremes of heat or cold, rain or shine, could cause their absence from practice or service.

In thanking them for their loyal and consistent support he included all the choir members present, and all with whom he had come in contact during his seventeen years at St. John's, which ends with the present month.

Earthquake Shocks Take a Life-Toll of Three Thousand

PARIS June 18. — (United Press)—New earthquake shocks in Persia have wiped out 3,000 persons, and destroyed eight villages in the past week. The shocks continue, as 100,000 persons, their homes destroyed by earthquakes throughout the past months are fleeing in terror from the Korassan Region. Scientist, believe there is a connection between the remarkable activity of Vesuvius, Etna, and other Italian volcanos. the lava flows recently reported from Hawaii and the Persian disaster.

SETTLERS FLEE FROM FLAMES

Some Forest Rangers in Kamouraska County, Quebec, Were Encircled by Fire.

QUEBEC, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—A wire received this afternoon was to the effect that some of the forest rangers in Kamouraska County were encircled by fire and had difficulty in making their escape. In fact, several of them had to remain in Dunnette, Zeigette, Caribou and Canard Lakes, which are situated in Kamouraska.

At St. Blandon's at noon to-day settlers had left their homes and were rushing towards other sections, while the parish of St. Anaclet was being seriously menaced. Losses in this district are said to reach more than three hundred thousand dollars.

Unconfirmed reports state that in addition to two lives being lost in Temiscouata County, two families had disappeared at Sully and one at Les Etroite.

FIRE IN ROOF OF CHEESE FACTORY

Farmers Saved Emily Factory From Total Loss at Noon Today.

(Special to the Examiner).

KING'S WHARF, Emily Township, June 18. — Sparks from the smoke-stack set fire to the roof of the East Emily Cheese Factory at noon to-day, causing considerable damage before it was brought under control. Wm. Purdy, the cheesemaker, discovered the blaze when it was getting a start, and immediately sent out a general call for assistance over the telephone. Farmers quickly arrived, and forty cars were counted around the factory during the noon hour.

The roofs of the factory, the cool curing room and ice house were damaged, but the fifty or sixty cheese in stock were carried out unsoiled.

REAL ROMANCE WHEN EXPRESS BUSINESS BEGAN

Rotarian Seels Tells of the Days of Bandits and Indians and Guards With Shot Guns.

THE PONY EXPRESS

The romance of the early days of the express companies colored in a most interesting manner an address by Rotarian J. H. Seels at to-day's luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club. Rotarian Seels, who spoke on his classification did not confine his paper to present day statistics, but sketched in a breezy manner the development of the great express systems now in existence on this continent.

Of particular interest was his story of the most fascinating history of the Wells-Fargo Company of the fifties, when after the gold stampede to California in 1819 the company's fleet of 1000 stage coaches was placed in commission. These were the days when white bandits and Indians constantly attacked the stages when guards armed with sawed-off shot guns protected the passengers and property, when Bret Harte was an express messenger. Equally vivid too was Rotarian Seels' description of the pony express which operated for two years and succeeded in hitting up a speed of 250 miles per day.

The speaker gave some new informative statistics about the growth of the express business in Canada, and his reference to the war service of the companies, when in spite of an enlistment of over twenty-five per strength, millions of dollars were carried without the loss of a dollar, was much appreciated. The idea that the express companies are mere carriers of parcels was refuted by Rotarian Seels who sketched the service rendered by the companies, and showed how widespread is their activities.

The paper was thoroughly enjoyed by the Rotarians.

Among the visitors to-day were Rev. G. Stanley Russell, of London, Eng., Capt. George Hatton, of the Royal Engineers, Constantinople, and Messrs. M. H. Park and R. J. Kidd, of Peterboro.

Rev. M. Russel, who is the pastor of the Grafton Square Congregational church in a brief address, expressed his pleasure at being present, and remarked that the chief hope of the world lay in such international organizations as Rotary, to which movement he wished every success.

Mr. Park delighted the Rotarians with two songs rendered in his usual splendid style.

It was announced that the additions to the boys' camp were nearly completed and Rotarian George C. Macdonald asked to be supplied with names of the boys whom Rotarians wanted to send there for a holiday.

Rotarian Reg. Turner called attention to the visit of the Detroit Ticket Agents' Association on Sunday and asked for volunteers among the Rotarian car owners to transport the visitors to South Beach.

Rotarian M. A. Morrison suggested that Rotary should have a Canadian ensign, and his suggestion was immediately acted upon, a collection being taken up that will ensure the presence of the flag at the next meeting.

Rotarian Alex. Kay announced that the Bantam Baseball League had been fully organized with 85 players; grounds had been secured at the King Edward and Prince of Wales schools, and the schedule would begin on Thursday with a game between the Kiwanian and Rotarian bantams. The other two teams are fathered by Curlers and Belmonts.

RATIFIED APPOINTMENT

The County Council of Victoria has ratified the appointed of Mr. R. F. Downey as school inspector, replacing Mr. G. E. Broderick who was compelled to resign because of ill-health. Mr. Downey is now school inspector for Peterborough and Victoria Counties.

ACCIDENT ON GEORGE STREET.

While Miss Margaret Stinson, 610 Reid street, was driving a car on George street at 12.10 on Saturday, she struck Miss Tully, of Murray street, knocking her down. The accident occurred at the corner of George and Murray, where several similar accidents have taken place this summer.

Miss Tully aws taken to Dr. Morgan's office, where she was found to have only received a few scratches.

Peasant Discrders Rite in Bulgaria on Modified Scale

BELGRADE, June 18. (United Press.) — Despite the reported death of ex-Premier Stamboulisky, the peasant disorders continue in Bulgaria, although on a modified scale.

TURKS VIOLATE MUDANIA PACT

And British Find Them Endeavouring to Remove Guns and Troops From Thrace.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 18.—(Special.)—A British destroyer operating in the Sea of Marmora, has seized a Turkish transport loaded with arms, according to advices received here to-day. The munitions were being shipped from Thrace.

Thrace in Europe was disputed ground between Greeks and Turks following their war, which ended in a defeat for Greece. Turkey at that time sent men and supplies to the disputed territory and had them ready for eventualities.

The capture is the result of plans of the British authorities who had received information that the Turks were endeavoring to remove from Thrace guns and troops clandestinely sent there in violation of the Mudania armistice when resumption of hostilities with Greece was threatened.

RT. REV. LOUIS RHEAUME BISHOP OF HAILEYBURY

ROME, June 18 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's Agency). — His Holiness the Pope has appointed the Right Rev. Louis Rheaume, Director of the Grand Seminary of Ottawa, as Bishop of Haileybury, Ontario, succeeding the late Right Rev. E. A. Latulipe.

Right Rev. Louis Rheaume, O.M.I., Ph.D., D.D., was born in Levis, Quebec, in 1873, and was educated in Ottawa and Rome. He became a priest in 1904. He was Professor of Higher Mathematics in the University of Ottawa in 1905, Director of the Grand Seminary of Ottawa in 1912-1915, and since 1921. He was Rector of the University of Ottawa from 1915 to 1921.

ERECT SCHOOL ON GROUND OF PRESENT P.C.I.

Dr. F. W. Merchant No Longer Insists That Additional Property to the West Be Acquired.

REDUCES COST

The situation regarding the site for and cost to the ratepayers of the proposed new school building for academic and vocational education has somewhat changed of late in that new land for a combined addition to the Collegiate Institute will not be needed.

Originally Dr. F. W. Merchant had insisted that the property west of the Collegiate grounds be acquired were he to recommend a Government grant of in the neighbourhood of $140,000 toward the cost of the contemplated composite building; but he has since modified his views, and is now satisfied that the structure be built on the school's present grounds. This obviates the necessity of the School Board acquiring properties, consisting of seven houses facing Aylmer and McDonnel Streets, and thus saving an expenditure estimated by Mrs. W. R. Morris at between $30,000 and $40,000, and consequently reducing the $450,000 project to $410,000, or $420,000, according to the valuation placed upon those seven lots.

Extract from Letter.

In the foregoing connection, Mrs. Morris has placed in The Examiner's hands the following extract from a letter from Dr F. W. Merchant, Director of Technical Education, to the Peterborough Board of Education, 12th May, 1923:

"I am prepared to recommend to the Minister of Education that he approve the scheme of an addition to the Collegiate Institute of a composite nature for the purpose of providing accommodation for vocational and academic classes on the site now owned by the Board."

In other words, it will not be necessary to acquire any additional land, in order to build a composite addition to the Collegiate Institute.

Industrial Advisory.

Another phase of procedure in regard to the projected new building for Collegiate and vocational purposes is the part that the Board's Advisory Industrial Committee plays in the proposition. Citing Mrs. Morris, in a recent interview with The Examiner, she is understood to contend that while the chairman of this committee and the chairman of the Board of Education must sign a request to the Department for a grant toward the cost of

HERE AND THERE

BOOM.

More pig iron was manufactured in our country during May than in any month in history. May was the third consecutive month to smash all records.

Keep an eye on pig iron output. It will slump months before general business goes to the bow-wows. Th iron and steel makers are intuitive to the point of clairvoyance. They guess far ahead—and usually guess correctly.

JONAH.

Retiring after half a century spent in teaching, Elisha Scott Loomis recalls that in 1885 he was "fired" from a university professorship because he didn't believe that the whale swallowed Jonah.

Possibly he had looked down the small throat of a whale and figured that it would be about as easy for Jonah to swallow the whale. A miracle, however, is the accomplishment of the seemingly impossible, and cannot be judged by "possible" lines of reasoning.

PEACE GUARANTEE FOR ALL NATIONS IF THEY DISARM

Proposition to Be Made By League of Nations as a Result of the Geneva Conference.

By HENRY WOOD

GENEVA, June 18 (United Press).—"Progress towards a definite plan and basis for disarmament is being steadily made by the League of Nations, except that the public must not expect results too soon. It has already been established that the problem is exceedingly more vast, complicated and difficult than anyone supposed before an actual effort towards solution was made."

This is the declaration in an exclusive interview to the United Press of Colonel Emile Requin, member of the French general staff, and president of the league of nations, permanent military naval and aerial advisory commission. Colone Requin has just finished the presiding of a long session of his commission at Geneva, on which hte technical details of the League's plan for disarmament were worked out. The commission will remeet at London this summer to work out the political aspects of the problem.

"Were I to venture a purely personal conjecture to the utmost rapidity with which a disarmament basis can bew reached I would say that it would be as follows, Col. Requin continued:

"At last year's meeting of the League Assembly that body laid down and established the general principles which itiis conceded constitute the only basis in which disarmament can take place at the present time.

"At this year's meeting of the Assembly in September, it may be hoped that the League will be able to adopt a definite method and project for disarmame nt.

An Internation al Treaty

"Then finally, at next year's meeting of the Assembly, the League should be in a position to place this project in execution by incorporating it for example into an international treaty and convention which all nations shall be called upon to sign.

"Work towards this end is being pushed as rapidly as the various technical commissions of the league charged with the task can proceed.

"The whole plan will be based upon the principles laid down by Lord Robetr Cecil two years ago, namely that disarmament can only take place in exchange of a definite guarantee of safety. Security and disarmament are inseparable.

"Naturally every state will want to be certain that the guarantee offered is adequate. It is generally conceded that such a guarantee to be effective must imply that it is adequate, that it is fully prepared in advance, and that it is applicable at any place at a given moment.

To Meet Emergencies

"It is on this basis that the states signing the mutual guarantee would be required to furnish military, naval and aerial contingents necessary to meet any emergency that may arise.

"Similarly every state participating in the mutual agreement pact would want to feel that the guarantee was adequate to keep it from becoming the victim of any aggression. As a consequence the general aim would have to be first to have the guaranteeing force sufficiently strong to immediately check and wipe out any violation for frontier or aggression.

"Then in the worst aspect of the case should this first resistance prove ineffective, other resources must be available to localize the conflict and prevent it from developing into a world war.

As soon as this project of guarantee has worked out on a basis so that every subscribing nation will feel that it really does offer effective national security, then the next aspect of the problem will be to decide on what proportion or degree of disarmament can be carried out in exchange for this international, mutual defensive pact.

The Final Step

Then finally, when that aspect of the problem has been solved, the whole can be incorporated into a national treaty for the nations to sign, or some other method of execution and application carried out.

"Even after the general plan is adopted however, will come the final stage of the problem in deciding how the plan is to be made effective, whether by international treaty or otherwise, and thus it is that the problem is one of long solution. The important fact however is that steady progress is being made."

RECIPES

(By Bertha E. Shapleigh)

Sift one pint of flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt together. Add one teaspoon sugar and four tablespoons butter or lard, cutting it in with a knife or fork. Moisten with milk to a soft dough and add grated rind of one orange.

Take on to a floured board, roll to one-fourth inch in thickness, cut with a small cutter and place in a buttered pan. On top of each biscuits place a small piece of sugar which has been dipped in orange juice.

Bake in hot oven 15 minutes.

MACKEREL BAKED WITH VEGETABLES

By BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

Clean and split one large or two small mackerel.

Melt a quarter cup of butter. Add a thinly-sliced onion and a finely-cut green pepper, cooked until slightly brown. Then add two cups o. canned or fresh tomatoes, a teaspoon of sugar, half a teaspoon of salt and an eighth teaspoon of pepper.

Put the mackerel in a greased baking pan, cover with the other ingredients, and bake until the mackerel is cooked—about 30 minutes.

Wash, pare and cook six small potatoes until they are soft, drain and place around the dish, with the tomato mixture.

Sprinkle two tablespoons of chopped parsley over all.

"THE FRENCH"

The term is new to many, but as summer season follows summer season, the words spread and their meaning is passed along. Two hundred and fifteen miles north of Toronto, on the Canadian Pacific main line to Sudbury the mighty French River rushes on its way to Georgian Bay, there to lose itself amongst the Thirty Thousand Islands that dot the bay. From Lake Nipissing and adjoining waters, it takes its course for sixty miles through one of the most beautiful camping and sporting countries to be found in Ontario.

The country appeals to all those looking for the big open places. There is wonderful fishing to be had bass, maskinonge pike and pickerel. In season, where is the finest of deer hunting, some bear and, good bags may be obtained of the smaller animals and game birds. Boats, canoes all equipment and guides, can be obtained for excursion to the head waters of the river and Lake Nipissing.

This year the Canadian Pacific Railway is building a Bungalow Camp, convenient to the Railway, which will be conducted along similare lines to the Bungalow Camps which the Company has been operating for some years in the Canadian Pacific Rockies. The descriptinve folder, 'Bungalow Camps in Ontario' contains full information. There are also other camps conveniently located, privately owned with accommodation for large or small parties—all camps are well conducted. Accessibility to the Railway provides the camps with fresh food.

"The French" should receive your careful attention when planning your own, or your family's, vacation. Any Canadian Pacific Agent will be pleased to quote you fares and assist you n making arrangements. A concise, descriptive folder on the French River District quoting rates at camps and hotel in the towns, will be gladly mailed on request. Write W. Fulton District Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Toronto.

RUHR WORKERS HELD MEETINGS TO DECIDE ACTION TO BE TAKEN

Latest Action of French Will Play a Big Part in Breaking Down Passive Resistance.

PRICES SOARING.

ESSEN, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—The miners and factory workers in various parts of the Ruhr held meeting yesterday to determine what action should be taken in view of the latest moves of the forces of occupation to break the passive resistance of the Germans by the taking over of the railroad stations of Dortmund, Bochum, Herne, Gelsenkirchen and other industrial towns. The French now control absolutely all the railroad lines leading into and through the Ruhr by which up to the last Saturday the Germans had been bringing in food supplies from unoccupied Germany.

These food shipments to the Ruhr had been from five hundred to six hundred carloads daily. When the remaining lines were taken over the German railroad men quit work as a part of their passive resistance programme. Owing to the seizure of the lines, according to the French authorities, the Germans now will be forced to come to terms with the French in order to allow the necessary food supplies to reach the inhabitants of the Ruhr.

The Germans contend that much fresh milk and other perishable foods and necessaries, have been held up at Dortmund because of the occupation by the Frenh troops. The French assert that the fault lies with the Germans themselves, declaring that the Germans have the privilege of transporting food to Bochum and other points if they are willing to co-operate with the French. This would necessitate a conference between the French and German officials before trains could be operated. In the eyes of the Germans this would be contrary to the passive resistance plans inaugurated when the French and Belgiums entered the Ruhr in January. The Germans claim French guards have refused the Germans permission to enter the Dortmund station and take charge of French milk destined for hospitals and the children. The French deny this, claiming that the railroad men all quite work when the troops arrived and that they have not tried to come back to work since that time.

The relief workers in Dortmund and other places say the food situation is serious and that they are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the controversy. At the meetings yesterday of the Ruhr workers plans were discussed to overcome the difficulties created by the food shortage. The workers claim prices already have begun to soar. They view the situation with much alarm.

Meetings have been arranged for the Ruhr officials at Bochum and Dortmund to consider the situation and decide what action to take—whether to cooperate with the French, or to continue their resistance or try to reach some compromise.

Counterfeit Notes Smuggled to Canada

MONTREAL, June 18. —(Canadian Press.)—Accounts of a sensational conspiracy to smuggle counterfeit bank notes from the United States into Canada were given in the arraignment here Saturday when local detectives told of finding spurious $5 bills in the pockets of 'Kid' Cohen and 'Kid' Albert, two prize fighters of New York. The two men are also awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to burglarize a shop on St. Viatuer street.

According to the detectives a new organization has been formed to smuggle false money, manufactured in the United States. The men were remanded until June 21, bail being set at $400 each.

WALL ST. SHAKEN BY BIG FAILURE

NEW YORK, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Wall Street, in the midst of a many-sided "cleanup" campaign, directed primarily at bucket shops, was hit on Saturday by another failure, that of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, a member of the New York Stock Exchange and the New York Curb Market.

Boasting a record of 70 years in the Street, 28 of them as members of the Stock Exchange, the supposedly powerful house, with strong German connections, was forced into a receivership with $11,000,000 liabilities.

A statement of the firm, however, declared its assets were ample to meet its obligations, provided they were administered wisely, although it was admitted that a large portion of them were "slow" assets.

The failure was the first involving a Stock Exchange house in more than six months, although there have been a string of Curb and Consolidated Exchange failures.

Unlike most of the recent failures, there appeared no suspicion on the part of the authorities that Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne had engaged in the popular business of bucketing orders. Their failure, it was indicated, was due primarily to unsuccessful oil promotions, and in a lesser degree to the falling market for German marks, in which they were the most extensive dealers in the United States.

Besides stockbroking and dealing in foreign exchange, the firm did a large international banking business.

Parking Stations For Liquor From Liners.

NEW YORK, June 18 (Canadian Press). — With the announcement on Saturday that Bermuda would be made a parking station for liquor by Lamport & Holt liners plying between New York and Buenos Ayres, rumours were received that British and French Trans-Atlantic liners might use a Canadian port of call as a liquor depot.

Halifax was mentioned in connection with the British lines and it was stated that French liners, plying between Havre and New York, might drop and take on liquor by tender at one of the French islands off the Newfoundland coast.

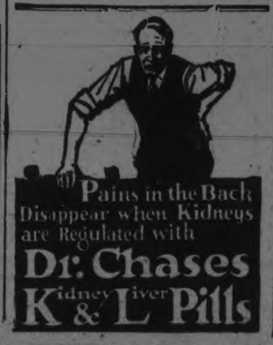
Some members of the crews of the liners Homeric and Carmania, of the White Star and Cunard Lines respectively, which sailed for Britain on Saturday, declared they would not return, if they had to work in ships affected by the dry ruling.

Officers said forty sailors of the Homeric and three coal passers on the Carmania had deserted.

German Marks Take Still Another Drop.

LONDON, June 18. Canadian Press —The German mark was quoted at 610,000 to the pound sterling, (approximately 132,000 to the dollar) at the opening of the London exchange to-day.



PARIS FASHION SHOW MARRED BY WEATHER

Le Grande Semaine Was a Near Failure Owing to the Cold and Threatening Weather.

CUSTOM OF 1674.

PARIS, June 18.— (Canadian Press.) — President Millerand and Mme. Millerand, adhering to the social custom in vogue since 1874, offered what is known to Paris society as La Grand semaine, by attending the Grand Steeplechase at the Auteuil track. On this occasion, also, accustoming to custom, bewitching mannequins from the Paris dressmaking establishments usually are wont to display the charming toilettes that go to make up madame's summer wardrobe.

"La Grand Semaine," when rightly interpreted, means the last week of the Spring social season, beginning with the Steeplechase and ending with the Grand Prix De Paris next Sunday. The week is interspersed with dinners and gala events, including a gala performance at the opera on Saturady night.

After this round of entertainment everybody claiming membership in society deserts the French capital for various European watering places, leaving plenty of seats in the busses and subways for those who remain throughout the hot months to keep the city intact until the Autumn.

As far as the race itself is concerned—it was really an incidental event—it was a decided success. Lyser, owned by the Duke of Decazes, won the 500-metre race by two and a half lengths from Master Bob, owned by Roux De Rezieux. Heros VII, belonging to Henri Coulon, was third.

Seven horses started in an endeavor to win the purse of 160,000 francs.

But from the standpoint of fashion, the display this year was a sort of failure. Many of the world-famous Parisian houses had spent many long and tedious hours preparing their models for the fashion promenade, only to have these delicate fabrics of their toilettes covered by drab-colored furs because of the showers and chilling winds. There were only occasional bursts of sunshine during the day.

Notwithstanding the cold, threatening weather, which for more than a month has robbed Paris of its proverbial spring sunshine, however, the famous course was jammed with crowds before the horses in the first race were called to the post. Even in the early morning hours, throngs trudging afoot, swinging their lunch baskets, were to be seen on their way to the race course, anxious to get a thrill from the race over the turf.

PROCEED AT ONCE TO LARGER UNION.

Bishop Suggests Unity of Churches With Church of England.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., June 18.—(Canadian Press).—"The serious news from the Presbyterian assembly that nearly one-fourth of the Commissioners voted against union with Methodists," surely raises the question, why not abandon the lesser measure and proceed at once to large union, says right Reverend George Exton Lloyd, D. D. Bishop of Saskatchewan, in a statement headed, "Church Union and Larger Union."

"Outside Rome, probably the strongest church body in Canada, numerically, is the Church of England." the statement continues. "The strongest financially is Presbyterian. Why not, at once, move along the line of Union between Anglican Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational, churches," and if possible Lutherans and Baptists? There are only two real obstacles and the theologian question of ordination presents the chief difficulty. To the average layman it is a form of service.

New Liquor Laws in Force in Ulster.

BELFAST, June 18 (Canadian Press). — The new liquor laws having received royal assent, Ulster went partially dry yesterday. All the publichouses will be closed on Sunday hereafter, and only guests in hotels will be allowed refreshments of that kind.

The first Prohibition Sunday was the cause of a rush to towns just across the border from the county area for liquid refreshments.

The Donegal, Cavan, Monaghan, and Louth districts had many visitors.

Bangor, the home of the Lipton cup challengers, and Belfast's famous seaside resort, was hard hit, as was Warren Point on the County Down shore of Carlingford Lough.

But in the latter case a short row took thirsty souls across the Omeath, which enjoyed one of the busiest days in its history.

Passengers on the Canadian liner Metagama, arriving at Belfast from the dry and dusty Atlantic, were astonished to find themselves in parched and arid Ulster.

Empress of Canada Set New Speed Record

VICTORIA, B.C., June 18. — (Canadian Press.) — The Canadian Pacific steamship Empress of Canada established a new trans-Pacific record of 8 days, 10 hours, 53 minutes ,on her arrival from the Orient yesterday. The former record of 8 days, 16 hours, 31 minutes, had been held by the Empress of Russia, since 1914.

The fast voyage was accomplished in unfavorable weather, the ship's officers said, the liner having had to slow down in head winds and heavy seas. The average speed between Yokohama and Race Rocks, Vancouver, was 20.6 knots an hour.

STREET CAR MEN REACH DEADLOCK

Efforts Are Being Made to Avert a Strike of Employees of the Ottawa Street Railway.

OTTAWA, June 18 (Canadian Press). — A deadlock has been reached between the employees of the Ottawa Street Railway Company and the management in regard to the recent decision of the majority of the Board of Arbitration in regard to the eight-hour day and an increase in wages.

The men are standing behind this majority award. The company, on the other hand, is standing on the minority award, which recommends the same hours and the same wages as are in force at present.

At present the men. it is stated, are determined to enforce the majority award even if a strike is necessary.

Mayor Frank Plant on Saturday, at the request of the men's committee, made an effort to avert a strike. He first heard a committee of the men, and later conferred with F. D. Burpee, general manager of the company.

The result was that the company intimated that it was not prepared to put into force the majority award. In case it came to a strike, the company intimated that it was prepared to give Ottawa a car service daily in accordance with its agreement with the city.

France to Encourage Balkans' Advancement.

SOFIA. June 18. — (Canadian Press).—The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has received Premier Poincare's message, asuring Bulgaria that France desires to encourage every Government wishing to execute treaty provisions and work with its neighbors for advancement of the Balkans. It now transpires that Stamboulisky was killed by his own guards, shot in style characteristic of Mexican revolutionists in old days.

ANTI-RELIGIOUS PROPAGANDA TO BE CARRIED ON

OBJECTIONS HEARD.

MOSCOW, June 18.— (Canadian Press.)—The British, German, Russian and other delegates of the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale have indicated in their speeches that they had come to the meeting uncertain as to what tactics to take, owing to present international complications.

J. T. Newbold, Member of the British House of Commons, asked what the British Communists should do in the struggle against British capitalism.

Alexander Trachtenberg, of the United States, said the time had arrived when the Executive Committee should show a way and means of carrying on the struggle against United States' imperialism, which he charged with responsibility for Latin-American revolutions.

The Swedish and English delegates objected to anti-religious propaganda. Zinovieff replied:

"In our programme we do not declare war against honest but religious workmen, but our programme is based on scientific materialism, which includes unconditionally the necessity of propagating atheism. Certainly, however, anti-religious propaganda must be carried on wisely."

Body of Orville Crowe Was Found Yesterday

The body of Orville Crowe, who was drowned in Lovesick Lake on June 10, was found yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock above the dam at Burleigh. The discovery was made by a party from Peterboro composed of his father, Alderman Joseph Crowe, Walter and Arthur Metheral and Edward Vinette. The body had come to the surface and was found floating between two boom timbers. It was brought to Peterboro last evening.

CHAPEL DEDICATED AT RIDLEY COLLEGE

The Old Boys Presented a Beautiful Structure in Memory of Those Who Gave Their Lives For the Empire.

ST. CATHARINES, June 18. — Canadian Press. — Solemnly impressive was the service of dedication for the new chapel of Ridley College presented by the Old Boys of the school in memory of those students and graduates, 59 in number, who made the supreme sacrifice in the great war. The service which was conducted by Right Rev. W. R. Clark, Bishop of Niagara, to whom G. H. Gooderham of Toronto formally handed over the beautiful structure with a request for dedication. The chapel had previously been presented to the school by Lt. Col .H. C. Mason of Toronto., Pres. of the Old Boys' Association.

Assisting clergymen were Ven. Archdeacon Renison, Rev. A. H. Hewitt, B.A., Rev. Dr. Miller, M.A., G.T.; Rev. W. F. Wallace, Rev. W. J. A. Almon, Rev. W. L. Archer.

The memorial represent: The perpendicular style, with both exterior and interior finished in stone, the windows, copings and doorways being done in Bedford stone, while the bulk of the building is finished in Georgetown stone, there are five mullioned windows on either side, and larger windows at either end. The window at the end opposite the chancel has five lights and is beautifully proportioned. Above it is a parapetted stone gable elaborately pierced with tracery. On one side of the main entrance there is a passage way connecting with the main college buildings and at the chancel end on the other side there is a wing with an arcade front containing vestry and chair rooms.

Including the chapel are the following special memorials: Chancel window to Flight Lieut. Robert Gordon Jardine, killed at Ypres 1917; side window in memory of Lieut. J. A. Chestnut, Lieut. J. H. Ningersoll, Lieut. J. C. Scott, Lieut. E. F. Thairs, Lieut. D. Woodruff, and Gunner G. A. Fairfield; preaching desk in memory of Joseph Easton Leonard; lectern in memory of John Labott Scatcherd; organ screen, in memory of Lieut. Hugh MacKay Grassett, Third Battalion; Bible in memory of Lieut. Eric Meighler; Communion Service, Lieut. Woodruff; Alms basin, Lieut. Alan Farrier Gates, and the Altar in memory of Katharine Alexander Miller, wife of the First Principal of the College.

Another window will shortly be erected in memory of Liuet. Gates.

The fallen Ridleians honored today were: John Wallace Alexander, Richard Laurence Cotter Barwick, Gerald Edward Blake, Herbert Hallowell Bourne, Herbert Cust Boyd, Chas. Carpenter, John Albon Chestnut, George Cooper, Ernest Ford Crossland, Oliver H. Denning, Cyril B. Dickson, Wilfred J. Dobson, Graham Alexander Fairfield, Wm. LEAGUE TO SEE THAT PEACE IS RULE IN POLAND

Will Probably Take Steps to Settle Dispute Between Poland and the Free City of Danzig.

TREATY RIGHTS.

WARSAW, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Indications that the League of Nations is likely to take energetic measures to settle the long-standing difficulties between Poland and the free city of Danzig, are revealed by Sir Eric Drummond, the League's General Secretary, who was in Poland for a study of the situation.

The same desire to see this troublesome question settled amicably also dwas expressed in an interview with M. Mantoux, the French representative in the League Secretariat. Both the League officials are taking an active interest in the question.

Sir Eric stated that while the League has no definite information concerning the Poland-Danzig dispute he was always aware of the fact that the Treaty of Versailles, which created the free city of Danzig, gave certain definite rights to both Poland and Danzig and that the League was anxious to see that the stipulations were fulfilled by both parties.

The Polish Government is occupying itself actively in preparing a report on alleged violations of the Danzig, and this report will be vigorously presented at the next meeting of the League.

BIG CAMPAIGN EXPECTED FOR CLOSING DAYS

WEEK OF PICNICS.

TORONTO, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—With the Ontario election campaign only one more week to go before polling on June 25th, the political pot will boil during the next six days. All the big guns of the parties have crowded programmes arranged for them and much of the minor artillery will join in the oratorical barage. The leaders are expected to reserve a substantial portion of their energy for the obstacles in their own ridings this week in order that their followers may not be confronted with the necessity of finding new leaders after the votes are counted. It is safe to say that this will be picnic week throughout the province.

Dr. Forbes Godfrey, the Conservative candidate in West York, had a representative of the moving picture photographers on his platform Saturday night who declared that the government had paid out $400,000 for pictures since taking office less than four years ago and, said the picture man, only twelve pictures at a cost of about $10,000 have been produced on agricultural subjects.

Speaking at Ingersoll and Woodstock on Saturday Premier Drury emphasized the effort his government has put forth to advance technical education and he also replied with vigor to those who are saying that Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario minister of agriculture, was not chiefly responsible for the removal of the British embargo against Canadian store cattle.

No Dingy Film

On the prettier teeth you see everywhere today

Do you realize how many prettier teeth you see in every circle now? And how many smile to show them?

It is so the world over. There has come a new era in teeth cleaning. You and everyone should learn how much it means.

Why teeth discolor

Film is what clouds teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms cloudy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Old methods did not effectively combat it. So most teeth were coated more or less. And few escaped the troubles caused by film.

Film holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Now ways to fight it

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved those ways effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

The name of that tooth paste is Pepsodent. Now dentists the world over are urging its adoption. To careful people of some 50 nations it has brought safer, whiter teeth.

Mistakes corrected

Research also proved that former methods reduced Nature's tooth-protecting forces in the mouth.

Pepsodent corrects that mistake. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Watch it for a week

A test of Pepsodent will prove a revelation. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

You will quickly realize what this method means to the people in your home. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Compare it with the old-time methods. Cut out coupon now.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

In a bylaw that is to be submitted to the City Council of Montreal by the Executive Committee, there is a number of recommendations aiming to ensure greater protection for the public against fire that might well be adopted by every community that has a moving-picture theatre.

The bylaw declares that the booth containing the moving-picture machine shall be immovable, and shall be constructed entirely of incombustible material; that it shall not be placed directly over a door; that the door of the booth shall be an automatic fire door, and that it shall not be locked during performances.

Another provision is that all furniture, shelves and fixtures within the booth must also be constructed of incombustible materials.

It is a well known fact that practically all fires in moving-picture houses originate in the booth, so that the wisdom of the Montreal bylaw is apparent.

The chief source of danger will be practically eliminated by the strict enforcement of these regulations, and it would be a good thing for the public safety if similar precautions were to be insisted upon in every theatre in Canada in which motion pictures are shown.

INFORMATION FOR VISITORS.

The local Chamber of Commerce serves as headquarters not only for the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Motor League, but also for the Trent Waterway Development Association, so that Mr. Leon Frazer, who acts as Secretary of all three bodies, is in possession of much valuable information for tourists whether travelling by water or over-land.

It is the desire of these organizations to be of the greatest possible service to visitors, realizing that courtesy demands that the guests within our borders shall be assisted in every way possible.

Information as to routes, maps, charts, places where supplies can be secured, lists of hotels and boarding-houses and cottages to rent and other data of the same kind is in constant demand, and often visitors are at a loss to know where they may obtain the facts they require.

Sometimes citizens who are asked about some of these things are equally non-plussed as to the necessary information.

The public in general is therefore asked to tell visitors that their questions can be answered at the Chamber of Commerce in order that the fullest service can be given by the various organizations interested in welcoming tourists and anxious to give them a good impression of Peterborough and the district generally.

A live information bureau, capable of fully informing tourists, is in existence, and it should be utilized to the fullest extent possible.

THE DUTY OF THE ELECTORS.

With election day only a week away, it is only too evident that, so far as Peterborough is concerned—and, judging from press reports, the condition is general—there is not the widespread interest in the campaign that should characterize a general election.

Whether it is the advent of a third party has done away with the old partisan spirit or not the fact remains that the average citizen refuses to get excited over the campaign, and there is an almost total absence of the usual bickering and argument.

Even when the contest is mentioned when two or three citizens get together the issues are discussed dispassionately and coolly without any indication of party spirit or consciousness.

That in itself would be a very welcome condition were it not that it involves an indifference towards the result that is disconcerting to those who realize that the choosing of a Government is a very important piece of business, and that to take a wrong step next Monday would be to put Ontario in a very unfortunate position for the next four years.

The electors have a week in which to arouse themselves to a realization of the fact that as citizens of this Province it is not only their privilege, but their duty to play a conscientious part in the selection of the Government that will administer Ontario's affairs until 1927.

Their part is to weigh the different policies and issues and guided by their judgment, register their vote on Monday next.

The citizen who refuses to do this deserves to be reminded of his neglect in a very tangible way in his tax bills and otherwise during the next three or four years.

UP TO THE AUTHORITIES.

Although the high water has interfered considerably with boating on the Otonabee, complaints have already been received by the Examiner of motor boats running around at nights without the lights called for by the regulations.

There is too much of this sort of thing, not only down the river, but on the various lakes in the district, and unless some of the offenders are checked the carelessness of such conduct is liable to result in a drowning.

A high-powered motor boat running at full speed without lights is a constant source of danger, and it is a miracle that a series of accidents has not occurred.

On a summer night the Otonabee for two or three miles below the city is alive with small craft, many of the canoes being handled by very amateurish paddlers.

That some of these boats have not been run down by power craft is a mystery to those who have observed the conditions.

Sometimes two or three launches are running along in the same vicinity, and if there are no lights to warn the canoeist it is almost impossible to locate the exact whereabouts of the power boats by the sound of their engines.

Under the circumstances the man in the small boat has to take his chances, and there have been some very narrow escapes.

The regulations call for lights to be carried, and those who are responsible for the carrying out of the law in this respect should see to it that the safeguards provided for are in commission.

"DEAR COMMON FLOWER."

A leisurely walk along almost any road these days is brightened by borders of brilliant yellow blossoms, so golden and so cheerful looking that one almost loses the feeling of animosity with which the plant is usually greeted. The meadows stretching off into the distance are a soft green with here and there wide bands of the dandelion or golden patches that seem to reflect the sunshine. "A weed," someone has said, "is a flower in the wrong place." Dandelions growing in a lawn are certainly unwelcome and out of place, but along a road that is grey with dust, the flower is in its element. Its abundant leaves and still more abundant blossoms make a fringe that thrives on the dust thrown up by passing carts and automobiles, and they make a bit of loveliness in a very commonplace spot.

The dandelion blooms from the earliest days of spring to the last of the autumn, and grows in every country of the civilized world. With a perfect system of seed distribution it provides a never-failing crop of plants; it flourishes where other weeds give up the struggle defeated. Anyone who doubts the dandelion's fitness to survive should give a few minutes a day struggling to eradicate it from even one small lawn, only to find the grass covered with golden flowers day after day, springing apparently from no where, but still existent, and produiing seeds of even more than the usual number. "Never say die" is the dandelion's motto, when you cut off its head, and as quickly as possible it produces a new set of leaves to show you how utterly futile your efforts were.

It is true the dandelion is far from a useless plant. Its leaves provide salads and greens, and the flowers are used even in temperance Ontario for the manufacture of wine. The presence of the mosquito when the flowers are at their best makes it difficult to pick a large number at a time, but one fancies it will take more than mosquitoes to discourage anyone with an absolutely guaranteed recipe. Mrs. Traill says that in the early days the root of the dandelion was utilized as a substitute for coffee; it was washed but the thin brown skin not scraped off as much of the tonic virtue is contained in this covering. Cut up and dried by degrees in the oven, then ground in a coffee mill, it was used as a beverage with cream and sugar. It is said to be palatable and to possess great tonic values. Personally we consider life is too short to dry dandelion roots so long as coffee grows in Brazil and ships "sail down to Rio."

But apart from its gay presence along the highways and its useful qualities in the production of various beverages, the dandelion holds a secure place in the hearts of most of us. Tiresome to get rid of, and useless to grown-up eyes, once in the days of long ago, it was our favorite flower. It grew in every field in the city and along every road near the farm where we went in the summer. Lovely yellow blossoms that could be picked apart to make doll's cakes, jolly slippery stems that could be turned into the most fascinating of curls for dolls or for ourselves, and when the seeds were ripe, you could tell the time of day by blowing the feathery seeds away with a sudden sharp puff. That the flowers were not favorites with grown-ups was not remarkable. So few wild flowers found favor in their eyes, clovers and buttercups for instance were also taboo for household decoration, and yet how really beautiful they were.

Perhaps you remember a very long time ago—it seems 10 times longer than it really is in years because your point of view has become so altered—when you spent a whole morning picking dandelions in company with other youngsters, arriving home at lunch time with both your chubby fists full of flowers that were wilting fast. While you know now that your mother did not really like them any more than other grown-up people, you can recall, with a catch in your throat, the way she kissed your dusty little face, freckles and all, and told you to hurry up and get washed as the lunch was ready. Your bouquet was put in a real vase in the centre of the table, and you thought they were the most wonderful blossoms in all the world. And so they were. Sometimes, with all the wisdom that the passing years are supposed to bestow, it would be pleasant if they left with us that feeling of absolute security, of knowing that your possessions were the finest the world held, and that your home was the sunniest and brightest ever made; giving us now and again in these early summer days a glimpse of the days when dandelions and buttercups and clover, the sun shining and the sky a lovely blue, made up an utterly perfect day.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

And now for the last awful week.

The weather seems to be warming up faster than the campaign.

Mr. Tooms' complaint about the Examiner that he has not been given a square deal in this paper in the way of publiciyt is not only blind to the facts, but is not very sound campaigning.

Motor boat tourists visiting the Trent just now will find the water high, but there is no reason why they should find the prices that way, too.

Some of the Peterborough "dads" are having hard work finding excuses for not wearing the ties they received on Father's Day.

If the Hunter Street Bridge is not to be paved this summer, the roadway most certainly should be oiled. The dust nuisance is intolerable at present.

The current is still swift in the river, and until the water goes down it should be understood that bathing is not a very safe pastime for the children.

Mr Ferguson might be able to tell us tonight some of the things he is going to say to the Attorney-General in Fergus on Thursday.

A Federal commission for the protection of racing is now on the cards. What is really needed, however, is a system that will keep people from picking the wrong horses.

COUNCIL OF A. Y. P. A. MEET AT LAKEFIELD

Very Successful and Profitable Gathering Featured By Large Attendance From Peterboro District.

LAKEFIELD, June 18.—The local Council of the A.Y.P.A. of Peterborough district met in the school room of St. John's Church, Lakefield, on Thursday evening, with a very large attendance and a successful meeting was held. The President, Miss Graham, occupied the chair and conducted the meeting. Rev. C. Grant King read the prayers in the absence of the chaplain, Rev. Geo. J. Bonsfield of St. Luke's, Peterborough. The date of the local Council picnic was fixed for July 26, the picnic to be held at Chemong Park. Mrs. Waldon gave a report of the Sports Committee, which consisted of Mr. Stenner and herself, and the purchasing of prizes was arranged for. An invitation was extended to the local Council to meet the second Thursday in September in Perrytown. St. Paul's branch of Perrytown is the baby branch of the local Council and received a hearty welcome. Mr. Robt. Stone, President of the branch at St. Thomas' branch, Millbrook, reported that a branch would be started in Bethany in the near future.

After the business had been disposed of Mr. Ernest Robertshaw contributed several solos, which were greatly appreciated and loudly applauded. Mr. Robert Summers acted as the pianist.

The members of St. John's branch, Lakefield, provided bountiful refreshments, and the gathering dispersed after singing the National Anthem.

Those Present.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Notwithstanding temporary upturns that resulted from unfavorable reports of crop conditions in Missouri and elsewhere, especially Kansas, the wheat market Saturday underwent a material setback in price. Dearth of speculative buying formed the chief apparent reason. The close was heavy, 5-8 to 1 3-4c. net lower, July $1.10 1-4 to $1.10 3-8, and September $1.09 to $1.09 1-8. Corn finished a shade to 7-8 and 1c. down; oats varying from 1-8c. off to a shade advance, and provisions at a range that extended from 7 and 10c. decline to 7c. gain.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, June 18. — (Canadian Press.) — Domestic trade in cash grain was very quiet Saturday, but the tone of the oats market was steady. There were no new developments in the flour situation. Trade in millfeed was slow and prices for rolled oats were unchanged. Prices were remarkably steady in the egg market. Total receipts from May 1 to date were 189,753 cases as against 135,621 cases for the same period in 1922. Business is very slow in the butter market. Total receipts from May 1 last have been 10,280 packages less than in the same period of 1922.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

The Women's Picnic at Chemong a Jolly Event—Personal Mention.

LAKEFIELD, June 18. — The business men's excursion day was also the occasion of a very jolly picnic, held at Chemong Park by some of the ladies of the village. The trip was made by motor, most of the party going in the new "Bluebird" bus—otherwise, the Stoney Lake bus. The weather, which had been rather unpromising earlier in the day, cleared and a pleasant afternoon was spent. Tea was served in the park and was indeed a wonderful repast, to which all did full justice. The men probably enjoyed themselves, but so did the ladies. Among those present were: Miss Burgess, Mrs. Connell and Miss Claire, Mrs. S. J. Charlton, Mrs. W. J. Charlton and Miss Cora, Mrs. Gillman, Miss Graham, Mrs. Leonard and Master Jack, Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Gordon Northey and Miss Ruth, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. N. Payne, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. H. Sutton, Mrs. G. H. Spence, Mrs. J. H. Sherin, Mrs. Stuart, Mrs. Wagar, Mrs Weaver and sons and Mr. Roy Charlton.

Citizenship!

A prize of $5 was offered recently to the pupils of the High School for the best essay on "Citizenship." Several of the pupils competed and all the essays showed careful preparation and deep thought. The judges decided that the prize should be awarded to Miss Lillian Moore, who received the prize on Wednesday. It is probable that the essays will be published.

Personal Mention.

Haven't Seen Its Equal In 60 Years, Says Sadd

Declares Tanlac Restored Him When All Else Failed — Indigestion, Backaches and Asthma Disappeared Entirely, He States.

"I thought all advertised medicines were about alike until I took Tanlac, and I want to say right here I haven't seen its equal in all my sixty years' experience," says William Sadd, 28 Mulberry Street, Hamilton, Ont.,

"For six years, before I used Tanlac, I got in a run-down and weakened condition every spring, and was so stuffed up with asthma and hay fever I could hardly breathe. I was so nervous at night I would walk the floor. What I ate nauseated me, I had knife-like pains in my stomach, and across my back, and could hardly stoop over to lace my shoes.

"The Tanlac treatment is the only medicine that ever helped me, but it fixed me up so fine I am not bothered any more with my old troubles. A little Tanlac now and then keeps me in fine shape, and I feel as active as I did thirty years ago."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

SPECIAL MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL OF CAMPBELLFORD

Consider Making New Survey and Map of Town — Rumored Resignation of S. J. Moore From the Woollen Mills.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18.—It was rumored some days ago that S. J. Moore, on account of ill health, had resigned as manager of the Trent Woollen Mills. (now the Campbellford Cloth Company), a position which he has filled for nearly 30 years. It seems that Mr. Moore did send in his resignation to the directors but they refused to accept it, granting Mr. Moore leave of absence, in the hope that a rest and change will completely restore him to health. Mr. Moore will leave town in a day or two on a long deferred vacation. He was appointed a member of the Board of Education by the County Council last January but never was able on account of his health to attend any of the meetings. He resigned some time ago.

Special Meeting

The members of the Town Council met in special session Saturday forenoon to confer with D. D. James, surveyor of Toronto, on the problem of making a new survey and map of Campbellford. Finally it was decided that Mr. James should go to Colborne to consult with A. G. Willoughby, the registrar as to just what is required, and to report later in writing to the Council.

New Garage

Meyers and Stone. agents for the Durant car, have built a new garage 67 by 27 feet, in the rear of their premises on Front street.

Roads are Unfinished

Reeve Anderson and Deputy Reeve Wilkinson made a tour of inspection of the town Saturday after noon, to ascertain what county work is yet to be done. Parts of the county provincial highway within the corporation are yet unfinished and this fact will be brought to the attention of the County Council of Cobourg this week.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Meyersburg Sunday School Had Enjoyable Picnic—Aged Citizen of Seymour Passes — Personals.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18. — On Saturday about one hundred of the teachers, officers and pupils of Meyersburg Sunday school, with the teacher, Miss Patterson, and pupils of the Public school, motored to Cobourg, where they spent the day in the park. Ball games and music were indulged in and enjoyed, after which all did ample justice to the good eats provided by the parents and friends. The pupils and officers are deeply indebted to those who so kindly provided cars for the occasion.

W. M. S. Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 19th, at the home of Mrs. Charles Davidson. The delegates to the recent conventions will give their reports, and an excellent programme has been arranged.

Sunday Services.

Rev. H. B. Kenney preached two helpful sermons Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Toronto, who are visiting in town, rendered the duet, "Love Divine All Loves Excelling," very sweetly at the evening, and at the morning service Mrs. Smith, who is soloist at St. David's church, Toronto, rendered the solo, "In the Dawn," in a very sweet, rich voice which was much appreciated.

The Late James Melville.

There passed away on Thursday, after an illness of six months, Mr. James Melville, one of Seymour's most highly respected citizens, at the advanced age of 78 years.

The late Mr. Melville, who was unmarried, was born in West Seymour township, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Melville, on the farm now occupied by his nephews, sons of the late Robert Melville, and was of Irish descent. The deceased was a most successful farmer for many years, retiring about 15 years ago, since which time he has resided at the home of Mr. William Clark, Meyersburg. The late Mr. Melville, who was the last remaining member of a family of nine, was a man of quiet, unassuming manner, who exemplified the true Christian spirit ot all times. He was a faithful member of the Methodist church until physical disability prevented his attendance.

The funeral was held on Saturday from his late residence, conducted by Rev. C. F. McIntosh, pastor of St. Andrew's church, Campbellford, and the remains were laid to rest in Centre Church cemetery, Seymour West. Universal sympathy is extended to the relatives in their bereavement.

Personals.

Mrs. C. Irwin of St. Catharines, is visiting at the home of her son, Mrs. J. A. Irwin.

Mr. Leon Wilkinson of Peterborough, spent Sunday at the home of his uncle, Mr. Robert Bell and with other relatives here.

Mrs. (Dr.) Gardener and daughter, Miss Mabel, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. C. W. Turner, Queen street.

Friends of Miss Helen Irwin are congratulating her upon having passed with second class honours her first year at Victoria University.

Rev. H. B. Kenny has left for Whitby, where he will attend the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McMaster, of Havelock, spent Wednesday in town.

Master Donald Keir left on Thursday for Oshawa, where he has secured a good position.

The many friends of Mr. Llewelyn Reynolds will be pleased to learn that he is progressing most favorably after undergoing a serious operation for appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital, Peterborough.

Mrs. Chas. Macoun left on Friday for Gananoque, where she will address meetings of the Federated Women's Institute. Next week Mrs. Macoun leaves for North Bay, where she will also address meetings of the Women's Institute.

Mrs. Samuel St. John (nee Miss Jessie Bell) and little daughter Gwen, of Sunderland, Ontario, are visiting friends and relatives in town.

Mr. R. Seggsworth, Brampton, Field Secretary for the Ontario Trustees Association, was a recent guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Arnold.

Mr. and Mrs. George Moore, Queen street, announce the birth of a son on Wednesday, June 13th.

Mrs. M. Hart, Grand Road, leaves on Monday for Toronto, where she will be a delegate from the local Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge to the Rebekah assembly being held there next week.

Mr. George Salter will be a delegate from the local Oddfellows' Lodge to the Grand Lodge at Toronto next week.

Miss Bertha Clark, teacher at Roseneath, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Clark.

The Late Thomas Irvine.

There passed away on Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Andrew Oliver, Maple street, Mr. Thomas Irvine, aged 72 years. Mr. Walter Irvine, of town, is a son of the deceased.

The secret of the fresh and delicious flavor of Moir's Chocolates lies in the chocolate coating. Moirs do not buy their chocolate coatings. They make their own, importing for this purpose the choicest cocoa beans. These are roasted and blended by a secret process in the Moir candy kitchens. Then they are ground by machinery for days at a time until the chocolate paste has the smoothness of satin with a texture so close and fine that the air is excluded. That is why you always find Moir's so fresh and delicious. The wonderful coating preserves their goodness.

Take home a box to-day.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH AT CAMPBELLFORD OBSERVED BIRTHDAY

Celebrates the Sixty-Fifth Anniversary With Inspiring Services — Rev. R. Pogue of Peterborough the Special Preacher.

LARGE OFFERING.

REV. C. F. McINTOSH.
For the past six years pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18. — The sixty-fifth anniversary of St. Andrew's Church was celebrated yesterday, the preacher for the occasion being Rev. R. Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, who delivered two of his characteristic Gospel discourses to large congregations.

The evening service was postponed until 7.30 to give the members of the other churches in town a chance to drop in before the beginning of the sermon. There was, too, a large contingent from the Presbyterian Church at Burnbrae, the evening service there having been cancelled. Rev. J. J. Black, pastor at Burnbrae, was among the audience.

The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Fred Wigglesworth, the organist, rendered special music at each service, the special offerings in the evening being an anthem and a quartette, "Just As I Am," those taking part being Miss Hazel Atkinson, Mrs. D. W. Douglas, Walter Henson, and Mr. Wigglesworth, the selection being sung without accompaniment.

Mr. Pogue's Appeal.

For his evening discourse Mr. Pogue selected as his text the 12th verse of the first chapter of the Gospel of St. John: "But as many as received Him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name."

One of the illustrations used by the speaker to show the difference that is wrought in those people who accept the Gospel and "receive Him" was the story of how florists convert a blossom from the briers that grow wild into a modern rose. The sinners were likened to the briers and the converted to the beautiful finished flower.

Mr. Pogue was at his best, and both his addresses were delivered with the earnestness and energy for which he is noted.

Special Offering.

The special offering for the day amounted to over $300.00. The finances of St. Andrew's are in a highly satisfactory condition, and the church is making steady progress in every department, and never more so than during th pastorate of Rev. C. F. McIntosh, who came here a little over six years ago, and who enjoys the esteem and confidence of all citizens, inside and outside of his church. Since his coming to Campbellford, 275 new members have been added to the roll of St. Andrew's. Of this number 40 were admitted since the beginning of the year, 23 at the Communion service a few weeks ago.

The revenue of last year showed an increase of $250 over that of the previous twelve months. A system of waterworks has been put in this summer, and dressing-rooms fitted up in the basement. The church is now fully equipped, and is regarded as one of the leading congregations of the denomination in Central Ontario. It has a modern organ and a well-trained and efficient choir.

Only three Presbyterian Churches between Brockville and Toronto have, according to the reports, exceeded St. Andrew's in contributions to missions, one of these being St. Paul's, Mr. Pogue's church, in Peterborough. St. Andrew's, too, at a cost of $1,600.00, maintains a missionary, Rev. G. A. Williams, in the Formosa field. Mr. Williams is not a Campbellford man, but he was selected for the work by the congregation.

There are now over 226 families and 576 members connected with St. Andrew's, the history of which dates back to 1836, its founder being the late Rev. Dr. Robert Neill, of revered memory, who for over forty years was pastor of the church at Burnbrae, and to whose untiring energy so many of the surrounding Presbyterian congregations owe their existence.

One of the most venerated of the early members of St. Andrew's is the late Mrs. Gibbs, who died in 1894, leaving to the congregation a legacy by which it was possible not only to pay off the indebtedness on the building, but to undertake the erection of the present handsome manse, which was finished in 1898.

The Sunday School, of which J. A. Anderson is superintendent, is one of the most successful departments of the work, and the Young People's Society is one of the most flourishing in town.

Supposed Suicide of Sir Henry Primrose.

LONDON, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—Sir Henry Primrose, cousin of Lord Roseberry, was found in Kensington Gardens yesterday mortally wounded. A revolver lay beside him, and a letter found in his pocket declared his intention to commit suicide.

Economic Development Is Aim New Company.

LAUSANNE, June 18.—(Canadian Press).—A corporation "for the economic development of Turkey," designed as a sister company to the Turkish National Export and Import Company, has been formed by a British group under Leslie Urquhart, with the assistance of French capital, it has been announced in conference circles.

The promoters explain that through reciprocal agreement, the new organization will have a monopoly of an importation and exportation of the Turkish National Company.

SWALLOWED VALUABLE RING.

NEW YORK, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Two armed bandits today held up Samuel Lowey, jeweller, and robbed him of jewels worth about $3,000 and $300 in cash.

Lowey swallowed a ring valued at $1,500 when the bandits approached.

PULPIT SERMONS ON CHURCH UNION

Rev. Fraser Stresses That Christians Can Forget Their Differences.

TORONTO, June 18.— (Canadian Press).— Decision of the Presbyterian Assembly in favor of church union was the subject of pulpit discourses in many of the churches here yesterday.

There was a possibility that legislation legalizing union would not be obtained said Rev. Morden St. James Square Presbyterian church, but this possibility was very remote and he urged ministers and congregations favoring union to begin preparation for change.

Rev. Principal Fraser of Montreal one of leaders of church union, preaching in Knox church on sentimental ties that bound adherents to the Presbyterian church and their reluctance to bury churches traditions said that if a union church: "Can give an impressive witness to the world that Christians may forget their differences and combine their forces in the cause of righteousness; let us wish it Godspeed."

A BAD HURRICANE IN SASKATCHEWAN

One Death Results and Toll of Property Damage Is Mounting.

SASKATOON, June 18.—(Canadian Press.)—One death and a rapidly mounting toll of property damage has been reported here up to late last night in a hurricane which swept central Saskatchewan on Saturday night. Store fronts were demolished, farm buildings carried hundreds of yards through the air, telephone lines blown down, farm house destroyed by lighting, according to reports received here from points over a two hundred mile radius.

Victory Cassidy, 15 years of age, was killed when a bunk house in which he was staying on a farm near Rosetown, was picked up bodily and blown 20 yards through the air. The lad fell out and was dashed to death on the ground. Ten miles north-west of Rosetown a shack in which Mr. and Mrs. Nile Woods were sleeping, was picked up by the wind and tumbled for a mile and half across the prairie. The woman escaped with a bad shaking up, but Woods is reported in a serious condition.

Election News

TORONTO, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Considerable warmth in politics, as well as weather, is promised old man Ontario this week.

Party organisers have arranged for heavy campaigning in all sections of the Province by the leaders and supporting speakers.

In most of the constituencies, rank and file among the candidates are working hard with their own electorates. The present campaign will be notable for the "personal touch" efforts of the men and women offering themselves as nominees for the next Legislature.

This afternoon Premier Drury, assisted by the Hon. R. H. Grant and the Hon. Peter Smith, laid the corner-stones of new buildings at the Western University, London.

To-night the Premier will speak at St. Thomas, to-morrow at Essex Centre and Blenheim, Wednesday at Petrolia and Dresden, and on Thursday at Niagara Falls and St. Catharines.

Wellington Hay starts out at Stratford to-morrow, jumping to Peterborough on Wednesday, Cornwall and Brockville on Thursday, and Niagara Falls on Friday. On Saturday he will be in his own riding of North Perth.

Hon. Howard Ferguson opens up with a mass meeting in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday night. On Wednesday he will be in Barrie, and on Thursday he takes on the much-heralded debate with the Hon. W. E. Raney at Fergus, Ontario, in the afternoon, speaking at Guelph at night. On Friday he will speak at Harriston and Owen Sound, returning to his own constituency of Grenville on Saturday.

THE FRENCH SEIZE 170 LOCOMOTIVES

Food Situation in Ruhr Growing More Serious Daily — Communists Relieve.

ESSEN, June 18 (Canadian Press) —The French authorities to-day seized 170 locomotives and 2,000 freight cars on the branch lines between Dortmuad and Essen, virtually completing the French control of the Ruhr transportation lines.

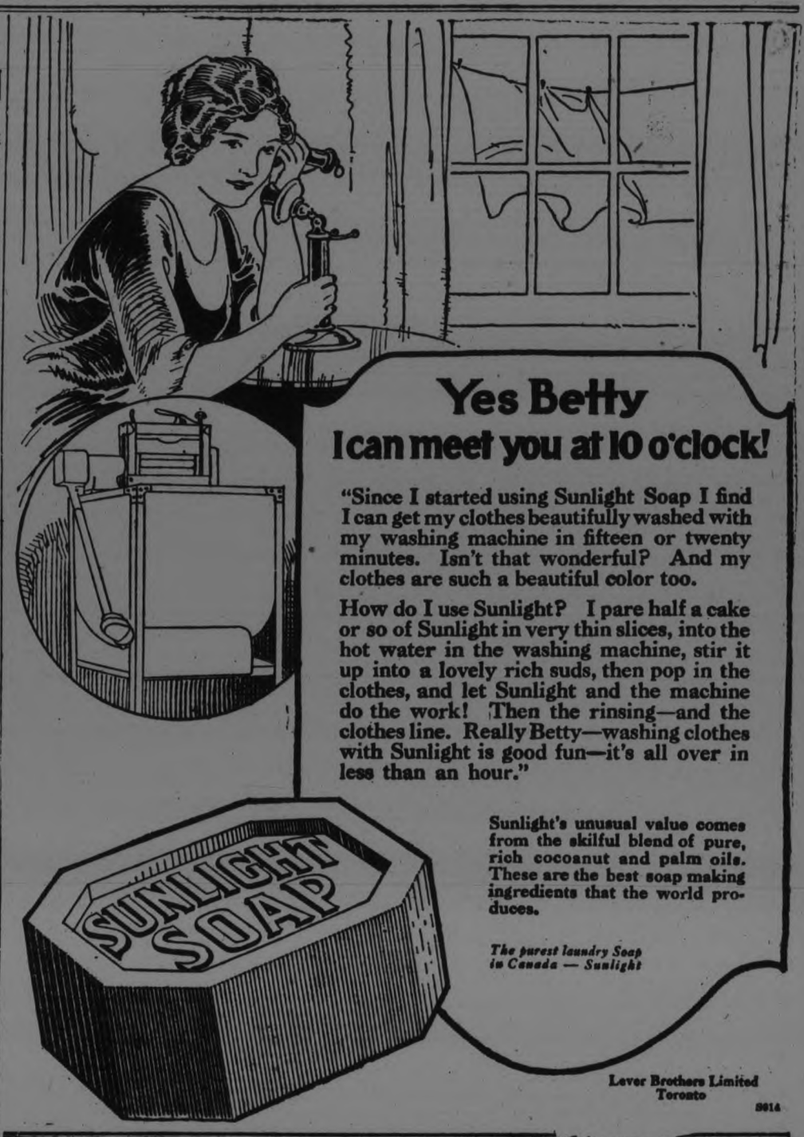
The food situation at Dortmund, Bochum, and other points, is growing more serious daily as a result of the French seizure.

The Germans are planning to use inter-urban tramways and trucks for food distribution.

Dortmund and Bochum are said to be without butter, eggs milk, and cheese and at Witten about 2,500 inhabitants are being supplied with bread by a Communist relief body which received wheat from Moscow.

No wonder babies grow up to look like their fathers. All they do is loaf around and raise a racket.

Anything can happen. But not enough things do.



Yes Betty
I can meet you at 10 o'clock!

"Since I started using Sunlight Soap I find I can get my clothes beautifully washed with my washing machine in fifteen or twenty minutes. Isn't that wonderful? And my clothes are such a beautiful color too.

How do I use Sunlight? I pare half a cake or so of Sunlight in very thin slices, into the hot water in the washing machine, stir it up into a lovely rich suds, then pop in the clothes, and let Sunlight and the machine do the work! Then the rinsing—and the clothes line. Really Betty—washing clothes with Sunlight is good fun—it's all over in less than an hour."

Sunlight's unusual value comes from the skilful blend of pure, rich cocoanut and palm oils. These are the best soap making ingredients that the world produces.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Annual Picnic Was a Big Success—Personal Mention—News of Interest.

MILLBROOK, June 17. — The annual picnic under the auspices of "Golden Sheaf," Rebekah Lodge, No. 1766, and Millbrook Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 308, was held on Thursday afternoon, at Cobourg Park, about 80 motoring to the pleasant picnic grounds and a delightful outing being enjoyed. The attendance would have been at least trebled had it not been for the fact that the weather was threatening and that many felt obliged to attend the nomination meeting in the town hall that afternoon.

Games, races, etc., were heartily entered into soon after all had arrived at the park and the bountiful picnic supper served at 6 p.m., was done ample justice to, the bright sunshine which came out as all were seated, adding much to the pleasure of the occasion. The list of successful contestants in the races was:

Boys (12 and under), 1 Cameron Vance.

Slow race (time not to be under 2 minutes), 1 Mrs. P. I. Bentley, 2 Leonard Henderson.

Single Ladies Race, Kathleen Isbister.

Girls (12 and under), Mary Vance.

Potato race, Irene Francey and Aubrey Fallis.

Ladies, 45 and over, Mrs. A. J. Henderson.

Gents, 45 and over, J. A. Vance.

Girls, under 21—Loretta Barnard.

Fat Ladies' Race, Mrs. Wilbert Thorne.

Fat Man's Race, J. N. McGill.

Married Ladies Race, Mrs. W. Thorne.

Single Mens Race, Aubrey Fallis.

Closing Meeting.

The Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church held their closing meeting until after the holiday season on Friday afternoon at the Fallis line appointment, the ladies of the congregation very kindly extending a cordial invitation for the gathering to be held in their church. There was a large attendance the members going out by motor through the kindness of those who willingly gave the use of their cars for the occasion.

The president, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, occupied the chair, and Mrs. B. R. Raper read the Scripture lesson from Romans the 10th chapter; Rev. Mr. Tucker led in the opening prayer.

The chief item on the programme was the report of the delegate, Mrs. J. Hatherly, of the branch meeting held in Cobourg the previous week. Mrs. Hatherly gave an interesting account of the gathering at Cobourg covering the three days' proceedings in a comprehensive manner. It was worth while noting that the 195 Auxiliaries in the Bay of Quinte Conference last year raised the total of $40,895.81; the total membership is 7434, exclusive of Circles and Bands. Mrs. W. H. Ashton, of Campbellford, is the new president, succeeding Mrs. Grange of Belleville who has worthily filled the office for 7 years. The latter was presented with 27 beautiful roses as a mark of appreciation—one for each year of service.

A solo, "Christ, our Shepherd," by Mrs. G. W. Sayles, a reading "Mrs. Rush at the Branch meeting,' by Miss A. Hampton, and an appropriate reading "Mrs. Cantafford's Mite Box," by Mrs. P. Stinson, the secretary of Mite Boxes, were other numbers which were greatly enjoyed.

The annual distribution of Mite boxes was made by the secretary following her reading, quite an addition to the Auxiliaries income arising from this source. The hostesses of the afternoon served a delightful tea before the guests left for their homes, a hearty vote of thanks being moved by Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, seconded by Mrs. Sayles.

Among those going from here were: Mrs. I. E. Needham, Mrs. A. Ferguson, Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. G. Fallis, Mrs. Edgar Fallis, Mrs. J. Hatherly, Mrs. I. Hatherly, Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Mrs. W. Lowes, Mrs. Elmer, Mrs. J. Spence, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. B. R. Raper, Mrs. W. Mullen, Rev. and Mrs. S. T. Tucker, Mrs. A. Kennedy, Mrs. W. Turner, Mrs. G. Freelove, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. T. Luxon, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. W. Larmer, Mrs. G. Locke, Mrs. C. Garside, Misses S. Hetherington, M. E. Hetherington, A. Hampton, M. Needham, A. Brock, E. Kriger, and others.

Mrs. E. S. Burnham is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. T. V. May, at the latter's summer home, "Freakes Cottage," Beaverton, Lake Simcoe, and will also visit another sister, Mrs. G. J. Early, Cannington, before her return.

Mrs. J. Hammond, who has been visiting her sister in the south for some months, has returned and is at present the guest of Mr. and Msr. P. Stinson, before going to her home in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Wedlock and two children, of Toronto, have been recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Winslow, Cavan.

Mrs. R. M. Howden, of Cavan, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Galbraith, Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Black, of Brockport, N.Y., are guests of her sister, Mrs. John Gray, Main Street. Other visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gray are Mr. H. Gardiner, of Brockport; Miss Marjorie Devell, Master "Bobbie" Devell, of Rochester, the two latter a neice and nephew of Mrs. Gray's.

Mrs. J. C. Kells' many friends will be pleased to learn that she is much improved in health since her recent serious illness, and is now at her daughter's, Mrs. H. Sims, Barrie, expecting to return to her home here in the near future. Miss Anna Kells returned on Friday; Miss Christie came at the same time and is busy opening up the house and preparing for Mrs. Kells' return.

Mr. A. E. Rea had the misfortune to break his right arm this week while cranking one of the Lindsay Creamery trucks. It will take several weeks for recovery.

Mrs. (Rev.) G. S. Gervan is holidaying with friends in Toronto this week.

Mrs. S. DeGeer and granddaughter, Miss Olive MacDonald, of Oakwood, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Birchard.

The Ladies' Aid of Grace Presbyterian Church are holding a garden party on Thursday, June 26th, at the home of Mr. Jas. Paul, 8th Line, Cavan. Good programme provided.

The annual U.F.O. picnic will be held at Wallace's Point on Thursday, June 21, under the auspices of the Cavan and South Monaghan and Peterboro Farmers' Clubs. Speaking will begin at 2 p.m. Those giving addresses include: W. A. Amos, president of the U.F.O.; Sam. Clarke, of Cobourg; S. S. Staples, Rev. A. H. McConnachie, and others. A baseoall match between the South Monaghan and Peterboro Farmers' Clubs, with other athletic sports, will add to the afternoon's enjoyment. The following Sunday, June 24, will be observed as U.F.O. Sunday, when an open-air religious service will be held at the Point, at which Rev. Mr. McConnachie will preside, Rev. R. M. Paterson and others being among the speakers for the occasion. W. H. Barnard is president of the U. F. O. committee, and W. H. Bebee, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Raymes, of Brighton, motored over and spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richards. Mrs. Raymes is remaining for a longer visit, her sister, Miss Gertrude Richards, of Fenelon Falls, also being a visitor here.

A YOUNG ENGLISHMAN DROWNED AT BRAMPTON

BRAMPTON, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Within full view of several picnickers and less than two hundred yards from the shore, Fred Randall, a young Englishman, met his death yesterday afternoon in Snell's Lake by drowning.

He was in a rowboat when it capsized a short distance from the shore.

Although twenty boats were available for his rescue, he was not reached in time to save his life.

SEVERE STORMS.

WINNIPEG, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Reports received here early this morning from several Manitoba districts tell of the heavy property damage, but no loss of life, as a result o the atmospheric disturbances during the week-end, which varied in severity from winds of almost cyclonic proportions to welcome showers.

T. TOOMS LIKE LILY OF FIELD

Wants Race to Neither Toil Nor Spin, Says Campaigner--Translation by Legislation.

(Contributed).

"Mr. Tooms has an idea that he can bring about prosperity by passing Acts of Parliament. Every man will work six hours a day. But wages will be increased and the cost of living will be reduced at the same time, all by Acts of Parliament. He wants to translate us by legislation into a new world, where there wouldn't be any more sorrow or suffering or trouble. He is an impractical idealist. Trotzky and Lenin were always talking about a new world, but there is more sorrow and suffering to the square inch in Russia now than there ever was before they tried their experiment. Mr. Tooms with his theories about Acts of Parliament making a new world is the safest kind of man to leave at home. He is like the lily of the field, wanting neither to toil nor to spin, nor to have others do so. He wishes only to sit and dream about a new world. I am quite sure that most of us work more than six hours a day. I am sure that Mr. Mevers works twelve hours a day and longer. It is a serious problem that faces the people of Ontario just now, when our province, with its vast resources, is in danger of being left in the hands of spendthrifts and dreamers."

Enthusiastic Rally.

The above were the closing remarks of R. R. Hall, K.C., final speaker at a rally of the Liberal party held in the Town Hall of Lakefield on Saturday evening. An attentive audience listened to a group of visiting speakers, including G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P.; R. R. Hall, K.C.; Mr. J. W. Meyers, J. J. Duffus and Capt. Jno. Dewart. Mr. Gordon Nichols also occupied a seat on the platform. The meeting was presided over by E. A. Tanner, of Lakefield. Mrs. Geo. H. King, of Peterboro, delighted her hearers with several splendidly-rendered vocal solos.

The various speakers outlined in brief and vigorous fashion the record of the U. F. O. Government during the last four years, and the mal-administration of affairs in the department of Hon. Howard Ferguson in the Conservative regime.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., whose appearance was greeted with applause, reminded his audience of the outstanding debts which must be paid, and which amounted roughly in interest charges alone, before any decrease in the debt could be made, to about $100 per capita per annum to Provincial dwellers. The true reason for mills and factories working at half-time, he declared, was the reduction in the purchasing power of the people, and particularly of the farmer. Drastic economical measures must be enforced in order to meet this situation. "It is necessary that taxes, which increase the cost of living, be cut down as much as possible. The interests of the individual must be submerged in the interests of the great masses of the people."

Deal Exposed.

Mr. Gordon alluded to the Sheplin-Clark deal, exposed through the efforts of Hartley Dewart, and to the soiled record of the Conservative leader, G. Howard Ferguson. Conservative speakers, he declared, although they might boast about their candidates in different ridings, invariably put the soft pedal on their leader, "and they are wise in doing so."

Mr. Gordon paid a strong tribute to the personal worth and public record of Mr. Meyers, as a man of clean, honest, wholesome character and high ideals, whose actions in the Legislature would be guided by principles of honesty and straight dealing.

R. R. Hall, K.C., in an eloquent speech, reviewed briefly the record of the Liberal party when in power, and their foundation of universities and various public institutions which were serving the people of the province to-day. He spoke of the practical outlook of the Liberal leader, Mr. Wellington Hay, who would help back to normalcy a province "lost in a dreamland where men, tinged by the unreal conditions of war time, thought and acted in terms of hundreds of millions."

Smith's Extravagance.

Mr. Hall referred to the extravagance of the Hon. Peter Smith, who set out to borrow a sum of six million dollars, and, when he found the going was good, ended up with an issue of bonds over-subscribed to the tune of sixteen millions, acting like an extravagant business man who had found a willing banker and immediately proceeded to mortgage the future by borrowing and spending more money than was necessary for present needs. Extravagant commissions appointed by the Drury Government were necessary because of the fact that the U.F.O. personnel contained no men capable of undertaking investigations into complicated and important matters, such as the Hydro. Consequently, experts had to be employed at expert prices. In the Federal House, composed as it was of men from every walk of life, experts for such investigations could be had at any time without extra cost to the people.

"Why is it that during the last twenty years the farming population has decreased instead of increased in the province of Ontario?" asked Mr. Hall. "New Ontario has been opened up and yet the rural population is decreasing." In Ennismore, declared the speaker, there had been a decrease in population since 1901; in Smith and Dummer and Douro the same conditions prevailed. With the single exception of North Monaghan, which owed about 1,500 of its population to people who lived in that township but worked in Peterboro, finding this a cheaper system with regard to taxation, all of Peterboro's surrounding townships had decreased in population. "And what has Mr. Drury done to create conditions that would benefit the farmer, and yet Mr. Drury was elected by a party who considered that farming interests were neglected."

J. W. Meyers, the candidate, gave a short address, punctuated with some humorous remarks that evidently tickled his hearers. He spoke of the record of the U.F.O. party while in power, and alluded to the Liberal leader, Mr. Hay, as an able business man, straightforward and trustworthy, whose office had sought the man.

J. J. Duffus, in a clear-cut address, prefaced by a complimentary reference to the beauty and utility of Lakefield's new hall, spoke in high terms of Mr. Meyers' worth as a citizen and business man. The platform of the U.F.O. party, he asserted, had been that of strict attention to economical administration, abolition of party patronage, and a stoppage of the practice of constructing high-priced roads for the benefit of the few. Their administration had proved a practice exactly opposite to these pre-election promises in every respect, and the farmers' interests had been neglected also by a party pledged to their support and advancement.

Is Quite Unfit.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson had proved himself an absolutely unfit man to represent the people of the province in a position of trust. His language, descriptive of his political opponents, was unworthy of a public man, and his wobbly attitude on the liquor question also marked him as unreliable and shifty. A man of honor, integrity and ability was needed for the office of Premier of Ontario to carry on the affairs of the province in an economical manner.

Capt. John Dewart, the first speaker, reviewed the history of the Farmer movement; the increase in Provincial indebtedness during the Drury administration, which had placed a millstone around the necks of the people of this province; the mismanagement of financial matters which had led to the loss in one instance alone of over a million and a quarter dollars in connection with a bond issue from which brokers reaped fat profits; the engaging of high-power, high-priced experts to investigate questions which the Government Ministers were incapable of understanding, and from which lawyers waxed rich, one man's fees; Hon. Wesley N. Rowell, being $29,000 for legal services; the increased expenditure at Government House, which the Druryites had declared would be converted into a hospital or public building of some sort; the record of Mr. Ferguson in connection with the timber deals, and the language employed by the same Mr. Ferguson when he described the U.F.O. Government as "a body of political and intellectual freaks, who were projected into power by accident, and who had grown out of the garbage."

Mr. Dewart closed with a reference to the Liberal leader, Wellington Hay, as a plain, unassuming business man, of constructive ability, worthy of the confidence placed in him by the people who saw in him the coming Premier of Ontario, the man capable of reclaiming the province from the perilous situation in which it had been placed by the mal-administration of inexperienced legislators.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. Gus Briskow of Ranger, having struck oil, asks Gray to act as guide for Ma Briskow and daughter, Allegheny, on a shopping tour of Dallas. Bob Parker, daughter of Tom Parker, is home from a four-year college course. She offers to help the Briskows in the selection of suitable wearing apparel. Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker, promises to buy and sell real estate through Bob Parker when she resolves to start into that business with her father.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"I was sure you did. That is what attracted my attention."

"You are a person of taste, if you will pardon a perfectly obvious compliment from a total stranger, and they need such a woman's guidance. But they need, even more, a little bit of feminine tact and sympathy. Look!" He showed Gus Briskow's blank check. "The whole store is theirs, if they wish it. Think what that ought to mean to two poor starved creatures who have never owned enough clothing to wad a shotgun:"

"I have all day," the young woman confessed. "I merely came in to yearn over the pretty things."

"O messenger from Heaven!" he cried, more hopefully. "Would it appear presumptuous if I asked you, in return for this favor, to select the very prettiest gown in this shop for your very own?"

The offer was refused pleasantly, but firmly. "I'd be paid ten times over by the fun of spending oodles of money even if it were not my own. But would they consent to have a stranger—?"

"If you will permit a tiny deceit, I'm sure they will. I shall burden my conscience with a white lie and pretend that you are a friend to whose judgment I have appealed."

Without further ado, Gray hurried his new acquaintance back to the dress department, then, in his easiest manner, introduced her to the Briskows. She flashed him a look of amusement as he glibly made her known as "Miss Good." Miss Good, as they could see, possessed unerring good taste, but what was more, she had a real genius for finding bargains. As a bargain hunter Miss Good was positively unique.

Ma Briskow pricked up her ears at this, soon she and the newcomer had their heads together, and within a few minutes Gray realized that his experiment was a success.

Gray called Miss Good aside.

"Please let me return at lunch time. I promise to talk upon that subject which every man can discuss to best advantage—himself—and I pledge myself not to ask one single question about you. Miss Good. Not one—" He bowed ceremoniously over her hand. "Although, as you can imagine, I'm dying to ask a thousand."

CHAPTER VIII

Pa and Ma Are Shocked

THE luncheon hour was long in arriving, and when it did come around Calvin Gray regretted that he had elected to play a game of make-believe with "Miss Good," for she rigidly held him to his promise, and however adroitly he undertook to ascertain who or what she was, she foiled him.

The luncheon went off gaily enough, then Gray was again banished with instructions to return at closing time.

But a disappointment awaited Calvin Gray when, late that afternoon, he returned to the store. Miss Good had gone. At first he refused to believe Ma Briskow's statement, but it was true: she had disappeared as quietly and as unobtrusively as she had appeared, and, what was more annoying, she had left no word whatever for him.

"Where is Allie?" Gray inquired.

"Lord knows! She's som'eres around bein' worked over by a couple of women. Gettin' her hair washed an' her finger nails cured an' I dunno what not. Mercy me! The things Miss Good had 'em do to her! An' the money we've spent! Allie's gone hog wild."

Gray pretended to listen as the good woman babbled on, but he was thinking about the girl who had disappeared.

So engrossed was he in his thoughts that he did not notice Allegheny Briskow until she stood close beside him. Then, indeed, he experienced a shock, for it was difficult to recognize in this handsome, modish young woman the awkward, ill-dressed country girl he had seen at noon. Allie was positively stunning. She was completely transformed from the soles of her well-shod feet to the tip of her French coiffure, and what was more astonishing, she had lost much of her self-consciousness and carried herself with a naive grace that became her well.

"WHY, ALLIE!" GRAY EXCLAIMED, "YOU'RE WONDERFUL!"

"Why, Allie!" Gray exclaimed. "You're wonderful! Let me see you." He stood off and gazed at her while she revolved before him.

"Sakes alive! Who'd ever s'pose you'd look like that!" the mother exclaimed.

It was on the second day thereafter that Gus Briskow appeared at the hotel. He came unexpectedly, and he still wore his rough ranch clothes. After an hour or more spent with his wife and daughter, he went down to Gray's room and thanked him for the assistance he had rendered the two women.

Followed a few moments of desultory conversation, then he put an abrupt question: "Mr. Gray, you're a rich man, ain't you?"

"I—am so considered."

"Um-m! Dunno's I'm glad or sorry."

"Indeed! What difference can it make to you?"

"A lot. It's like this: my boy Buddy has took a turrible shine to you, an' he can talk about nothin' else. I was sort of hopin'—"

"Yes?"

"Buddy's ignerunt. He'd ought to go to school, but he says he's too big, an' he'd have to set with a lot of little children. Him an' Allie's alike, that way—it r'ars 'em up on their hind feet to be laughed at."

"Get a tutor for them."

"A what?" When Gray had explained the meaning of the word, Mr. Briskow's face cleared. "That's what I figgered oh, but I didn't know what you called 'em. That's why I'm sorry you're so well off. Y' see I'd of paid you anything—I'd of doubled whatever you're gettin'—" The speaker raised a hopeful gaze; he paused as if to make sure that his hearer was beyond temptation. "I thought mebbe him and you'd like to travel some—go to furrin places—see the hull world. I kin afford it."

It was in a voice graver than usual that the younger man spoke: "Briskow, you're sensible enough to understand plain talk. I'm not a fit man to teach Buddy what he ought to know. In fact, I'm about the worst person you could select."

The father sighed. "I s'pose you know, but— Well I'm disapp'inted. But it wasn't bully on that account I come to Dallas. Ma told me over the telephone how nice you been an' what you done for her 'n' Allie, so I says to myself I'll square things by givin' him a chance to make some money."

Gray stirred slightly in his chair and regarded the speaker more keenly.

"When oil come in at Ranger, nobody thought it would get out our way, but Ma had a dream—a lot of dreams—about oil on our farm, so I got an outfit to come there an' drill. Folks thought we was crazy, and we didn't expect they'd find much, ourselves—a few bar'l a day would of looked big—but I allus had ambitions to be good an' rich, so I got options on quite a bit of acreage. It didn't take no money at the time, 'cause land was what people had most of. Along with the rest, there's a hundred an' sixty right next to ours—hill stuff that wouldn't feed a goat. It's wuth a lot of money now, but the option's 'most run out."

"When does it expire?"

"Saturday."

"That's tomorrow."

Gus Briskow nodded. "It's cheap at a thousand dollars an acre, an' it costs two hundred."

"Of course you'll take it."

"Nope."

"Why not?"

"Fer one thing, I got a lot of other land just as good an' mebbe better, an' I been takin' it up out 'of the royalties that come in. We got enough sure money in sight to do us, but I promised Ma to play safe, an'—we can't take everything. You kin have that option, Mister Gray, for nothin'. You kin sell the lease inside of a week an' make fifty thousand dollars, or you kin hold it an make mebbe a million. All it'll cost you is thirty-two thousand dollars. I don't make a cent out of it."

Gray nodded and smiled queerly as he thanked the nester, then from his pockets he removed several crumpled wads of currency and a handful of silver. These he counted before saying: "What capital I have is entirely liquid—it's all in cash. There is eighty-seven dollars and forty-three cents. It is every dollar in the world that I possess."

"Huh?" Gus Briskow's bright eyes searched the smiling countenance before him. "You're—jokin'. I thought you said you was rich."

"I am rich. I don't owe a nickel, and won't, until my hotel bill is due, day after tomorrow. I'm in full possession of all my faculties. I'm perfectly healthy and cheerful. I know men who would pay a million dollars for my health alone, and another million to enjoy my frame of mind. That's two million—"

"Well—doggone me!" There was a pause, then. Briskow sighed. "I could of sold it myself—thought I had it sold to a bunch from Wichita, but they tricked me. I offered it the day you was at our house for eighty thousand and Nelson more'n half agreed to—"

"Who?"

Briskow looked up at the tone of this inquiry. "One of the fellers from Wichita Falls. I s'pose he knowed the option was about to run out; anyhow, he's been holdin' me off from day to day till it's too late now for me to—"

"What is his name?" Gray broke in, sharply.

"Name's Nelson. Bell Nelson's son. Bell's hard-boiled, but—"

"Henry Nelson?"

"That's him."

Gray rose from his chair and strode swiftly to the window. He stood there staring down into the street for a moment before saying, curtly, "Go on!"

FAMOUS FORT HAS BEEN DEMOLISHED

CHICAGO, June 18 (Associated Press).—Chicago in a space of less than three years, has broken the old confines of the elevated "loop" and is fast creating a new business center about the very spot where the first white man landed, where the first white man's home was built, and where the first American fort stood.

The shift was made possible by the completion three years ago this summer of the boulevard link bridge, a double deck structure which opened Michigan Avenue across the Chicago river.

The boulevard link cost $16,000,0 to build, and already twice that m is being invested in office buildings either completed, under construction or projected along its approcahes.

On the site of old Fort Dearborn, whose garrison was annihilated by Indians in Aug. 15, 1812, a 21-story building is being completed by the London Guarantee and Accident company.

Across the river the 29-story Wrigley Building shares honors with the new Methodist Temple as the tallest building in Chicago. The Wrigley building cost more than $5,000,000 to build.

Adjoining the original Wrigley Building Mr. Wrigley is erecting a 16-story annex at a cost of $4,000,000, and across the street from the annex the Chicago Tribune has broken ground for its monumental tower, which is to cost $8,000,000.

Opposite the main Wrigley Building and between the Tirbune location and the river, a soap factory occupies one of the most valuable sites in Chicago, and when the wind is in the right direction furnishes a strong reminder that the old factory, warehouse and dock district which formerly clustered about the river mouth has not all disappeared.

The soap factory's site, by the way, is Chicago's most historic plot of land. It was here that Joliet, Marquette, La-Salle and Tonty first landed on Illinois soil on the years 1673 to 1685.

On the same spot the first white man's home was built and the first white child born. The log cabin was originally erected in 1779 by Jean Baptists Point de Sable, a Santo Domingo negro, and was occupied from 1796 to 1804 by the French man Le Mai, sold it to John Kinzie, Chicago's "first civilian" and father of the first white child. Kinzie fled before the fort Dearborn massacre, but returned in 1816 and continued to occupy his cabin until his death in 1828.

The Chicago Plan Commission has obtained approval of plans for the elimination of the famous South Water Street market, and the tearing down of all the buildings between South Water Street and the river from the boulevard bridge west to market street, a distance of seven blocks. A double deck boulevard with an ornamental river wall ill be erected in their place, with steamer docks and trucking space on the lower level.

The western terminus of the improvement will be the site of the old French fort, the first fortification in the Chicago territory, which covered the junction of the two branches of the Chicago river. The site later became known as Wolf's Point, and was occupied by Wolf's Inn, with its swinging sign depicting a wolf running at full speed. The tavern was headquarters for General Harrison in the Black Hawk War.

IRELAND PREPARES TO REDEEM BONDS SOLD IN AMERICA

DUBLIN, June 18 (Associated Press).—A bill is to be introduced into the Dail this session to carry into effect the pledge made by Michael Collins that the Irish gavernment would redeem all the Irish Republican bonds.

These bonds, to the amount of about $10,000,000, were floated in the United States, in Ireland and elsewhere and contain an undertaking that they would be redeemed six months after the establishment in Ireland of an Irish Republic. Micheal Collins claimed that the treaty, apart from its form, effectively established Irish freedom, and that the condition on which the bonds were issued had been practically realized.

Despite the difficult Irish financial position, President Cosgrave, as finan minister, has decided that all the bonds shall be paid off.

BURN VILLAGES TO STOP REVOLT.

Confused Reports Indicate Revolts and Counter Revolts Sweeping Balkans.

LONDON, June 18.— (Canadian Press.)—Troops of the Zankof government are resorting to severe measures to put down a peasant counter revolt, even going to the extent of burning whole villages in the south-east, according to the Daily Chroncile to-day.

Jugo-Slavia, alarmed, is calling reservists to the colors and dispatching troops to the Macedonian border, the Chronicle's Belgrade correspondent reports.

These despatches indicate that the reported demise of former Premier Stamboulisky, the peasants' leader, has by no means ended the counter revolutionary movement. In fact, fresh reports persist that Stamboulisky is not dead at all, as announced by his friends, but has bobbed up again at the head of a regiment of peasant forces. Reports from Sofia, by way of Athens, says that Bulgarian agrarians and communists seized huge ammunition stores and ortakioi Sunday.

There are indications of numerous other minor revolts in various parts of the Balkans inspired by the Bulgarian coup d' etat, according to London newspapers.

A strong Jugo-Slav force is reported to have been dispatched to Montenegro to put down a nirdrite revolt which demanded restoration of Turkish authority.

GERMAN CAPITAL SEEKING INVESTMENT IN FAR EAST

LONDON, June 18 (Associated Press).—German trade magnates are seeking control of the coal, iron and oil of China, according to information supplied to the British Board of Trade from trustworthy sources.

The Stinnes interests have $2,000,000 already invested in coal concessions in Ho-nan, Hu-nan, and near Pukow. This group has found oil in Che-kiang, and is interested also in coal near Hang-Chow. The big Siemens corporation of Germany has $4,000,000 invested in coal interests in Shantung, Ho-nan, Hu-nan and near Hang-Chow. In Saghalien this company has something like $1,000,000 invested in coal and iron concessions. Thirty-eight German engineers are now waiting in Shanghai for instructions to proceed to various centers.

The pressure of the new economic conditions imposed upon Germany by the results of the great war and the difficulties arising out of the payment of reparations, has prompted German capitalists to seek a profitable outlet for their capital in the east. In pre-war days the main interests of Germany lay in the west. Many of the western markets are now more or less closed to her, and reports are accumulating of schemes for the extension of the commercial interests of Germany in Russia, China and other eastern markets.

A RIOT OF TIME

By GUS M. OEHM

BERLIN (By mail to the United Press).—They're having a time of it in Europe today.

Daylight saving time, railroad time, standard time, good old summer time—all mixed up promiscuously here and there about Europe—have left the time situation in a sorry mess.

Great Britain has summer time, Belgium has summer time, some portions of Italy have daylight saving time while others have standard central time. Germany has standard time, while Holland has home-town time, reckoned on the position of the sun in each particular city, while her railroads operate on Greenwich time.

If one travels from England across Europe by the Simplon-Orient Express and wishes to know what time it is wherever he is it is necessary to change his watch five times—some forward and some backward—before he reaches his Balkan destination. If he leaves England he will find another time in France, pick up the Dover reckoning again in Belgium, use it once more for an entirely different and local time at Amsterdam.

"BATTLING" SIKI LOST ON A FOUL

Judges Awarded Decision to Morelle When He Was Hit Below the Belt.

PARIS, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—Battling Siki was disqualified in the sixth round of his match with Morelle here Saturday night. Morelle was fouled, being carried from the ring in an unconscious state

Siki was penalized for hitting below the belt and Morelle, although writhing in agony in his corner, was declared the winner much to the mystification of his Senegalese opponent.

For the first five rounds the men fought evenly; then, in the sixth Siki landed a blow which crumpled Morelle up. He sank limply on the floor. The timekeeper immediately announced time out, and the referee made no motion to count. The judges hastily conferred and unanimously decided that Siki had fouled.

Prior to the beginning of the fight the officials at the ringside announced that no title was at stake, as the Senegalese had refused to weigh in notwithstanding his appearence for that purpose in the afternoon.

While the judges conferred over Siki's blow in the sixth the Senegalese stood nonchalantly in his corner in an attitude of complete satisfaction that he had won by a knockout.

Surveying the crowd of fight fans, many of whom were in evening dress the Battler bowed theatrically to mingled shouts of derision and applause, apparently assuming that the "booes," which almost drowned out the cheers, were not for him.

When the judges announced that the black fighter had been disqualified the applause of approval rose above the shouts of derision. By this time Siki himself was convinced that he had not won and climbed reluctantly from the ring. Morelle, in the meantime was carried from the ring half unconscious, on the shoulders of his trainers, not knowing or caring about the result.

Morelle holds the middleweight championship of France..

KINGSTON PONIES HERE SATURDAY

Limestone City Crew Is Now Under Managership of Red Batstone.

The Kingston Ponies who are now under the management of Harry Batstone the ex-Hillcrest star will be here on Saturday and the game should be a good exhibition. The Petes who broke even with Kingston in the last series travel to Kingston on Wednesday and are going to make a big effort to grab off both games this week from the Limestone City crew. The Ponies were only beaten 4 to 2 on their last appearance here and under Batstone's guidance should set a rapid clip from now on.

CAN JESS WILLARD COME BACK TWICE?

McAuliffe Thinks the Big ex-Champ Is Throwing Away His Chance to Beat Firpo.

(By Henry L. Farrell, United Press Sports Editor.)

Jess Willard has already proved, in a way, that it is possible for an "old man" to come back. He has yet to prove, however, that he can come back twice.

Jack McAuliffe, the veteran lightweight and the only retired, undefeated champion, believes that Willard blew all his chances to come back when he stopped work after winning from the light-hitting Floyd Johnson.

McAuliffe is one of the best authorties and judges of boxing in the country and he has a big following.

"Willard has always had a one-way mind," McAuliffe says. "He would never listen to advice and would never have anyone around him to advise him. He worked himself around into fine shape before the Johnson fight, and then stopped.

"Any trainer in the world would have told him to keep on training. After getting himself trimmed down like he was he will fill up again rapidly as long as he stays away from work, and he will not get that weight off again without hurting himself.

"I thought, after seeing his comeback against Johnson, that he would have a good chance to beat big Firpo, but he won't, now, unless Firpo gets in the same mental state as Willard.

"Firpo may do that very thing. He's money crazy and he does not like to be managed. Instead of running down to Havana, Mexico, and around the country picking up a few dollars, he ought to be staying in the gymnasium with Jimmy De. Forest and learning something about the business.

"De Forest is one trainer in the country who can make a fighter. There are very few trainers like that and there are very few made fighters. Firpo has a lot of natural ability, but he is too old to be made over. It is possible to get a youngster about the age of eighteen and teach him the game. Benny Leonard is a made fighter, and he got started when he was just a kid.

"Firpo is getting near the thirties, and I believe he is too old to pick up a lot of fine points. He seems to be after the money, and nothing else, and no doubt he cares little about picking up the fine points."

McAuliffe was one of the few experts who picked Dempsey to win the heavyweight championship from Jess Willard. He came within a round of naming the knock-out of Georges Carpentier, and he has picked the winner of nearly every big fight in the last three years.

He thinks that Tommy Gibbons has a fine chance to win the title from Dempsey.

"Dempsey will never be as good as he was at Toledo. He's the champion now and he was the desperate challenger when he went against Willard He's been out of the ring too long. Stage work is bad for a fighter. He's got to pull his punches and it's a bad habit to get into.

"Gibbons is a dangerous man. He is cautious, and he won't give Dempsey the chances and the openings that Carpentier did. Demnsey won't have the kick in his punches either, when he finds a man going back with every punch."

Sixty-six vessels for one shipping company in the same number of years is the record of a Clyde shipbuilding yard.

Wilde and Villa Are Very Evenly Matched.

NEW YORK, Juie 18.—(Canadian Press).—Experts who have watched the training of the bout boxers were loth last night to venture prediction of the winner of the bout to-night in which Jimmy Wilde of England will defend his title of world's champion flyweight against Pancho Villa of the Philippines.

Except for a ten-year difference in age. Wilde being 31 and Villa 21, the men are about evenly matched physically and will go into the ring within one pound of each other's weight, and neither above 112 pounds the flyweight limit.

One of the biggest fistic crowds of the season is expected to be seated in the Polo Grounds, the home of the New York Giants, when the bout starts at ten o'clock Monday night. It will be precedede by four other bouts, the semi-final between Carl Tremaine of Cleveland and Harry Gordon of New York.

1 BIG INNING WINS FOR PETES OVER COBOURG DERRY BLOWS IN FIFTH

Lakeshore Crew Leading 3 to 0 When Blow Up Occurs and Petes Score Seven Runs in a Cluster.

PLENTY OF HITTING.

Until "Punch" Derry blew up with a resounding bang in the last half of the fifth inning in Saturday's Big Four game at Riverside Park it looked as if Cobourg had the verdict pretty well tucked away. In five frames they had nicked Heckman for ten hits and were sitting out in front with a 3 to 0 lead, as Derry in the first four innings had allowed the Petes but one solitary hit. All at once, however, the ex-Kingston heaver who was Cobourg's ace last summer went to pieces. A couple of walks and a lucky infield hit filled the bases and Frankie Collins promptly unloaded half of them with a long double to left. A wild pitch by Derry let the tieing run in and after Legon had reached first on a fielder's choice on which no one was retired, Ansaldo drove in another pair of runs with a timely single—and Mr. Derry departed from the rubber after the Petes had scored five runs with nobody out.

Manager Dick Turpin evidently figured the game was gone so instead of using Jahren who was on the bench he called on centre fielder Kenny to stop the riot. The big gardener got the side out after two more counters had registered but got into all kinds of trouble on his own account in the next frame and had to be rescued by T. Kenny the first baseman who got by with only one more run against him for the balance of the game.

It was a queer ball game but the fans who likes lots of hitting and wants to see someone on the bases all the time should be satisfied. Heckman pitched for the Petes and as he put it himself had "nothing but his glove." His usual smoke was missing and the Lakeshore crew collected 18 hits during the engagement. A bunch of them were scratchy of course, pop flies that dropped back of the infield, rollers that took a bad bounce and that sort of thing, but there were some honest- to-goodness clouts mixed in and Cobourg got at least one hit in every inning—yet all this hitting did not make it easy to score runs. For instance although they started off the sixth with two hits and put in another one after the first out was registered they got only one counter for "Heck" fanned the next two batters and again in eighth a double and a single to open the inning, went for nothing as two runners were cut off at the plate.

The Petes did nothing at all against Derry until the fifth, Heckman who singled with one out in the second being the only homester to reach first. Then came the blow up as described and in five minutes the whole complexion of the game was changed.

A running catch by left fielder Thompson of a long drive from Swanstong' bat, Wolfe's grab of a fly from J. Kenny and his accurate throw to the plate doubling Thompson and a catch in short center by Ansaldo were the fielding features.

Cobourg had a chance in the first when after Skitch had rolled to Comolli, Turpin got a life when Heckman's low throw to first got away from Comolli. Thompson followed with a single to left but J. Kenny flied to Wolfe and Higginbottom struck out.

The Petes went out in order. Ansaldo lined to Thompson in left, Johnston rolled to Skitch and Derry tossed out Swanston.

For the Petes Comolli fanned. Heckman singled over Turpin's head and went to second on Wolfe's sacrifice but Helson struck out.

Cobourg got two in the third. After Helson had thrown out Skitch, Turpin singled to centre and Thompson walked. J. Kenny's single through the box scored Turpin and sent Thompson to third. Kenny died stealing second. Thompson scored on Higginbottom's roller to short. The throw was high but the runner had it beat anyway. Drennan field to Legon.

The home talent were easy. Collins rolled to Derry, Legon was extinguished on a tap to Turpin and Ansaldo went out the same way.

The Lakeshore outfit wasted two hits in the fourth. T. Kenny fanned. Chalk singled to centre. Derry lined to Wolfe in right, he having just changed places with Johnston. Skitch doubled over third sending Chalk to third. Turpin fouled to Helson.

For Peterboro Johnston rolled to Drennan, Swanston hoisted a high one to Skitch and Comolli was called out on strikes.

Cobourg made in 3 to 0 in their half of the fifth. Thompson got a lucky hit to start with on a roller that bounced away from Helson. J. Kenny singled to centre sending Thompson to third. J. Kenny stole second. Higginbottom fanned. Drennan dropped a single back of short scoring Thompson. Heckman got out of a hole by fanning T. Kenny and Chalk.

Then came the Petes' big innings. Heckman and Wolfe walked to start with and Helson beat out a slow rolled, filling the bases. Collins doubled to left scoring Heckman and Wolfe. A wild pitch by Derry sent Helson in with the tieing run while Collins reached third. Legon rolled to Turpin who tried to trap Collins going home but the runner slid back into third safely. Legon stole second. Ansaldo's single to centre scored Collins and Legon, the batter going to second on the throw in. With five runs in and nobody out that was enough for Derry and he was taken out in favour of centre fielder J. Kenny, Higginbottom moving over to centre and Derry taking right. Johnston singled over T. Kenny's head. Swanston's tap was fumbled by Skitch and the bases were again loaded. Comolli's hot single past second scored Ansaldo and Johnston. Swanston was caught off second. Heckman up for the second time drew another walk and Wolfe was also passed again, filling the sacks for the third time in the inning. On Helson's fly to Derry Comolli was doubled up at the plate ending a hectic inning.

In Cobourg's sixth Derry was called out on strikes and then chased out of the game by Umpire Kay for crabbing. Skitch was thrown out by Ansaldo Turpin however beat out a hit to short and Thompson also hit safely through short. J. Kenny's single to centre scored Turpin. Collins threw out Higginbottom.

Chalk went to right field for Cobourg while Jackson took up the catching burden. Collins got a life when J. Kenny dropped his easy fly. Legon singled to left but Collins overran second and was nipped off. Ansaldo singled over second Legon going to third and the hitter taking second on the throw to get Legon. Johnston singled to right scoring Legon. J. Kenny concluded at this stage that he was not a pitcher and First baseman T. Kenny replaced him on the rubber, J. Kenny going to first base. He ended the trouble for a while by getting Swanston on a fly to Thompson and causing Comolli to foul out to Jackson.

In Cobourg's seventh Drennan struck out and Ansaldo made a fine catch of T. Kenny's fly to short centre. Chalk drove a long double over Legon's head but Jackson was easy on a roller to Heckman.

For the Petes Heckman was thrown out by Turpin, Wolfe singled to third and was sacrificed to second by Helson but Collins was thrown out by T. Kenny.

In the eighth Skitch led off for Cobourg with a double on a drive down the left field foul line and Turpin got a lucky hit on a ball which bounded over Ansaldo's shoulder. Turpin stole second. Thompson hit to Helson and Skitch was out at the plate. J. Kenny drove a fly to right, Wolfe making a nice running catch and then doubling Thompson at the plate by a perfect throw to Swanston.

For the Petes after Legon had been thrown out by Drennan, Ansaldo doubled along the left field foul line and Johnston dropped a single in the same territory. Swanston's long sacrifice fly to left on which Thompson made a circus catch scored Ansaldo. Thompson also gathered in Comolli's foul fly.

Cobourg got a counter in the ninth. Higginbottom first up was thrown out by Ansaldo but Drennan beat out a roller to the same player. J. Kenny's crashing triple over first scored Drennan but Chalk and Jackson were easy on pop flies to Collins.

BASEBALL COMMENT

Saturday's win over Cobourg puts the Petes in undisputed possession of second place, half a game behind Belleville. The Grand Trunks play in Kingston today and if they win will be a full game in front. A loss on the other hand will leave Belleville and the Petes tied for the leadership. The standing today is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Belleville	4	2	.667
Peterboro	4	3	.571
Cobourg	3	4	.429
Kingston	2	4	.333

Games today—Belleville at Kingston.

Games Wednesday—Cobourg at Belleville; Peterboro at Kingston.

Games Saturday— Belleville at Cobourg; Kingston at Peterboro.

The batting averages of the Petes show that centre fielder Wolfe with a record of 13 hits in 22 times at bat in six games is leading the Solomon crew with the handsome average of .591, while shortstop Ansaldo with 14 hits in 34 times at bat in seven games and a mark of .412 is second. Of the other regular third baseman Helson is third with a .316 average. Ansaldo with nine runs to his credit and "Red" Legon with eight are leading in run-getting and also in stolen bases. As a team the Petes have the fine batting average of .294 which is many points ahead of last year's showing. They have made 72 hits and 48 runs in seven games indicating that the team has the old punch on the attack.

The Big Four pitching records are as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Cherry, Kingston ..	3	1	1000
Jahren, Cobourg ...	3	1	.750
Williams, Belleville	3	1	.750

Conspiracy Charges Were Stricken Out.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 18. — Canadian Press. — Conspiracy charges against officials of the Chicago American League Baseball Club, contained in the $400,000 damage suits of Charles Risberg and Oscar Felsch, were ordered stricken out on Saturday by Circuit Judge John G. Gregory.

The court recently sustained demurrers to the charges. The Felsch and Risberg actions are now for back pay and bonus and for $100,000 damages each, alleging slander and ruin of good names and reputations.

The conspiracy allegations charge that the deposed players were kept out of major league baseball. The suits arise out of the baseball scandday of 1920, when White Sox players were accused of deliberately losing games in the 1919 world series contest to the Cincinnati National League Club.

QUAKERS-SCOTS PLAY TO A DRAW

A fast football game between the Quakers and Thistles played at the Oval Saturday afternoon ended in a draw with the score 1 to 1 after the Scots had come from behind to tie the score in the last few minutes of the game. With good weather prevailing a fair crowd was in attendance and the game was close and well played throughout.

The Thistles won the toss and played with the sun at their backs. The opening exchanges were even, with each team testing the respective goal keepers. A foul against Summer for tripping G. Logan caused the Thistles a lot of worry but Foster missed by inches. Richmond forced the play to the other end to get a fruitless corner. McMillan then crossed to Burgess who tested Griffin with a high shot which he saved nicely. The Quakers transferred the play to the Thistles goal where Foster gave Stott a hard one to handle and Craig came back with a rocket shot in below the bar for the opening score.

The Scots tried hard to even up the count but the Quaker defence held them in check until the interval after which had the advantage of the wind at their backs.

On resuming play both teams tried hard to score and from a nice effort by Russell, Griffin was kept busy for a while. The Quakers raided again but offsides spoiled a great opening. Two fruitless corners gave the Thistles no result and the same happened with the Quakers. Play ran from end to end with each team making many determined attacks on each goal keeper. A cross from Russell was put over the bar. Richmond tested Griffin from two yards out and on a beautiful cross from Burgess the Thistle centre evend up the score, giving Griffin no chance to save.

From the centre Pellow beat down the wing to send Stot to his knees t osave. The Quakers peppered the Thistle goal without avail until the whistle sounded for full time. Quakers 1, Thistles 1.

Goal scorers—Logan and Richmond.

The player were:

Quakers—Griffin, goal; J. Willshaw and R. Willshaw; full backs, W. Logan, Hepburn and Crofts; half-backs, Pellow, Montgomery, G. Logan, Craig and Foster, forwards.

Thistle—J. Stott, goal; Rae and Ralston, full backs; Jackson, Richmond and McAlpine, half backs; Summer, Williams, McMillan, Hutton and Burgess.

Referee—J. Russell.

A ROUSING RALLY SATURDAY NIGHT MR. BRADBURN

Last Week's Campaign Reviewed and Found Satisfactory and Heartening to the Candidate.

(Contributed.)

Despite the warmth of the evening and the attractions of the lights along the way and other distractions the rally at Mr. Bradburn's committee rooms had a fine attendance on Saturday night. The open doors, gatherings inside, and the general air of comradeship brought in many who looked to see what was going on and so stayed.

A good deal of interest was shown in the statements made by speakers and the outline of his position as made by the candidate in his own behalf. First to speak was Mr. Burnham, who made some explanations as to what he knew was the relative positions of the U.F.O. and the Progressives. Both separate and distinct and with different aims and objects. He pointed out that Mr. Tooms was running as a Progressive and the hope was that Labor and the Progressives would mix and form a respectable strength in a political way. Not so, for in no particular were the interests of Labor and the Farmer identical. Both stood for certain things and these things never would get mutual support. If the Progressives gave up everything to Labor, then all would be well from that, the Labor, point of view. But Labor would never consent to sacrifice anything to the Progressives. So Mr. Tooms' claim of working together was a subterfuge.

In laying down the statement that very heavy additional taxes had been imposed by the Drury government such as the addition to transfers of real estate which is a heavy tax on the sales of property, on every house, whether of the poor or rich man, In all, Drury and his government has imposed on the people of Ontario more debt and expenditure than any government since the province was organized after Confederation. Drury and his friends want to stay in office and continue to spend, but they will on June 25th get a cold douche. No farmer, no U.F.O wants any more of Drury, though the farmer does need in the House a number of able farming men to look after his interests. The compensation coming to any man who gives of service to the States is that he is doing something for the State. You can get men to be candidates, but cannot always get fit men to be representatives. In the case of Mr. Bradburn you have both a candidate and a representative who will do credit and give efficient service.

Mr .Bradburn reviewed the work and his activities of last week, and said that he had to congratulate the party on the fine support he had met with everywhere. He was specially pleased and gratified by the success of the meeting at Young's Point, the largest political gathering ever held in the village. Bridgenorth and Selwyn both gave meetings with considerable enthusiasm, and heartened the friends accordingly. Friday night, at the Town Hall, North Monaghan, brought together a fine crowd, and gave evidence that the township would do its duty right royally.

He asked the friends that during the next week, a week of working days, to get the shoulder to the wheel and make things hum. Particularly was it helpful in the case of lady workers who could do so much to roll up the majority the party was looking for. From all reports his election was now assured, but we should bend all energies to make the success a bigger one that would be commented on all over the province.

He appealed to the farmers of the riding, many of whom were living on farms in which he was interested, and on which they hoped to continue to live and would not do so unless they were treated right. The farming community in the riding would always engage his interest, whether elected or not, but as the sitting member he could promise that he would watch their interests just as faithfully and try to do for them as efficiently that which was needed as if they had given support to any other man, who would not have the same feeling and interest. As for Mr. Tooms, he was not interested in anything but Thomas Tooms, and his Socialistic fads and fancies had no stake in the community, and held no real interest save that of an adventurer.

Mr. Bradburn appealed to the Liberal farmers of the Riding, who knew his record. Born in Peterborough ,grew up with the town and city, shared in all its trials, hopes and progress. Contributed practically to accomplish what the city had achieved. Was an Alderman for five years, Mayor of the city for two years, at unanimous request of the ratepayers. Now the Utilities Commission and looking after the public services. Chairman of the County and City organization to raise the Victory Loans in three successive campaigns, and helping to make a success of each appeal. He would, if elected, in fact he would even if not elected, stand four-square to all and give absolutely fair and honest treatment.

Mr. Roland Denne added a few remarks, reviewing the situation as it stood in West Peterborough, and said he thought that Mr. Myers, while a notably good citizen, was too mature in years to take on the duties that would be entailed in assisting to handle the affairs of the province for the next four years.

PRINCE DOES NOT PINE TO BE CALLED ROYAL

LONDON, June 18 — (Associated Press).—Lady Astor likes to bring people together at her dinners. At one of her recent entertainments she had among her guests the Prince of Wales and Will Thorne, the socialist labor leader and member of Parliament. Thorne now tells this story:

"I said to the prince I would doubtless be unpleasantly criticized by some of my constituents for putting my feet under the table with royalty.

"The prince smilingly replied: 'I object to royalty, Mr. Thorne, but I don't mind being called the Prince of Wales.'"

ERECT SCHOOL ON GROUND OF P.C.I.

providing a building for vocational training, the committee is simply an advisory one in the real meaning of the term. That is to say, while they may discuss plans and specifications for a vocational school and possibly suggest alterations, any decision reached by them must be subject to the Board's approval always. And so, Mrs. Morris claims, that when the Industrial Advisory Committee, at a meeting in May, voted on a motion by Mr. J. W. Worth to approve of the Board's project to erect a combined academic and vocational addition to the Collegiate Institute, which vote resulted in a tie, that committee exceeded the powers vested in it by the Act.

A New Member.

Another factor which may affect this whole question is J. W. Worth's retirement. For the proposition to proceed with this combined school addition was only carried by a majority of one, and Mr. Worth's withdrawal from the Board leaves its personnel evenly divided, for and against the scheme. The Board will name a successor to Mr. Worth, to fill his unexpired term until the end of the year. This will be done at the July meeting of the Board of Education, and should that new member not be in sympathy with the combined school project, the opposition's hands will be strengthened by a majority of one, and a new complexion of the whole situation eventuate.

MOUNT ETNA HURLS

ly hour Sunday morning with a terrific explosion as though the end of the world had come. The whole top of Etna appeared to have blown off. Then followed a rain of lapilli and ashes, which fell steadily for many minutes afterwards. The population of Villandes, at the foot of the mountain, rushed from their homes and gathered in the streets, chattering excitedly. Women with babies clasped to their breasts rushed about hysterically. They sought aid in the churches. Many fell on their knees and prayed. All about them fell lapilli and hot ashes, while a thick pall of impenetrable smoke hung over their heads so that they could not see what threatened.

Belching Fire.

When the winds blew from the mountain's face the great black cloud there was Etna belching red hot lava, but with an aspect far more terrifying than ever before, for five new flaming mountains had opened in her sides. From these apertures the steaming, flaming lava seeped swiftly towards the doomed village. A flight of terror began. Castiglione and Lingua Glossa lay in the path of the destructive masses. These towns quickly emptied themselves of inhabitants, and by forenoon they were destroyed. Great clouds of smoke seen by the fleeting people who glanced over their shoulders told first of the destruction of the pine forest of Lingua Glossa, then of the town itself. Then the lava reached the railroad and the station was buried. Darkness came on, but there was no cessation of the lava's advance. By this time people from all the surrounding country were in flight.

The Earth Shook.

Just before midnight a strong earth shock was felt, adding its terrors to those of the eruption. Houses trembled on their foundations and the roads along which the inhabitants of the destroyed villages were escaping rose and shook beneath the despairing cavalcades. A new mouth was seen to have opened in the volcano's side. It was near a spot named Mount Nero, after the dead Emperor of ancient days, and from this new hole the most terrific flow of lava come racing ahead of the other streams. The Prefect of Catania was informed of the disaster and hurried to the vicinity of Lingua Glossa. He was accompanied by a deputy and by the local authorities. Later Bishop Acireal arrived and gave what comfort he could to the population. Relief trains were ordered to proceed to the stricken district, and troops were dispatched to lend what aid they could.

The eruption continues.

NO CRUELTY USED TRAINING ANIMALS.

Animals Only Punished For Acts They Know to Be Wrong.

By JACK JUNGMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—Under the cry of cruelty to beasts, the Santa Barbara Humane Society has initiated a move to bar all animals from motion pictures. Now because of seeming public demand for more films featuring animals, this is regarded as a serious threat by many producers.

On the issue of "cruelty," A. C. "Curly" Stecker, veteran animal director and trainer for Universal films, who has handled wild creatures in circuses and for pictures for over 20 years, rises in defense.

"The movement to eliminate animals from the movies," says Stecker, "is founded on a misconception of what constitutes cruelty as well as of training methods.

"Only wanton hurt or torture inflicted upon beast or man, when it is neither deserved nor understood, is cruelty. Punishment for willful misbehavior, when deserved, is entirely different. Such retribution is recognized—the necessity of it as an educational deterrent—in the training of children, in law, and religion. It's the cornerstone of morals.

* * *

Few people seem to realize that the rudiments of what we call morals reside in the more highly developed animals. And few animals trainers either try to make them do what is beyond their comprehension or punish them except for what the animals themselves recognize as "wrong." Certainly I adhere rigidly to that principle in making them perform.

"I never punish a beast until it has first attached me or plainly indicates that it's about to. And that occuring seldom, cannot be constructed as cruelty, for animals as well as humans understand that attack must counter-attack. Only the universal bully, whether a bad cat or a bad man, immorally seeks encounter that's all one-sided, unless the kill of hunger.

* * *

Stecker recited two instances in which attack nearly cost his life, once by a lioness he'd raised on the bottle, and recently by Charlie," the huge Universal elephant, who almost gored him to death.

"'Ethel,'" the lion, charged without apparent reason when I entered the cage," he explained. "She clawed me badly, and because there was no apparent reason I retaliated with a sound beating.

"For two weeks I pondered that attack. She must have had a motive. Examination proved that she had been stung by a bee just as I entered the cage. I removed the stinger from the still festered sore, and both of us apologized satisfactorily.

* * *

"Charlie," the elephant, hurled me to the ground while we were waiting to go on with a movie performance, tusked me to the tune of several fractured ribs and sent me to the hospital. Case of mistaken identity. I had on the clothes of a man against whom he had a feud, that day naturally I didn't punish him for that, for he didn't know it was I whom he had attacked. And even deserved punishment is inhumane when not inflicted at the time of misbehavior."

"Charlie" extended a tenative trunk as we talked. Lions stared in grave dignity. Joe Martin, simian star of the pictures, stroked his russet beard affably.

"When humans no longer take puppies and calves from their mothers, send chickens to market in crates, wear plumes and furs, not to mention their treatment of one another, then it will be time to talk about 'cruelty to animals' in the movies, said Stecker sententiously.

A GOOD RALLY SATURDAY FOR J. W. MEYERS

Messrs. G. N. Gordon and R. R. Hall Were Among the Speakers.

(Contributed

"If we accept what Raney and Ferguson are saying about each other it would save us a good deal of trouble," declared Mr. R. R. Hall K.C. at a successful Liberal rally held on Saturday evening in the Committee Rooms of Mr. J. W. Meyers. Continuing Mr. Hall stressed the need of economy in any government. Each government in Ontario since the last Liberal regime has raised the provincial debt in spite of the fact that with the exception of the large cities the smaller towns and the country has suffered a decrease in the population. Premier Drury was hardly sworn into office when he resorted to patronage.

Referring to Drury's invitation to point out one or more items of extravagance, Mr. Hall bought up the question of two million dollars which he said was spent on useless commissions. "It is true," said Mr. Hall. that he acquired this habit from the previous administration. The speaker pointed to this as evidence of cowardice on the part of the government or inability to conduct its own affairs.

Mr. Hall described Mr. Ferguson as incompetent, ignorant or dishonest in his relation with the administration of the province.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., said the breakdown in the Drury government was largely due to lack of experience and lack of knowledge He referred to bond issues made by Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer at an excessive cost to the provincial. In one issue alone the sum of over a million dollars was lost. This is not a case of party but of business said Mr. Gordon. It is a case of responsible government.

Other speakers were Mr. W. Y. Scollard, Mr. John Dewart and Mr. J. W. Meyers.

THE HUMAN MULE

Don't get impatient with the human mule who opposes progress of new ideas. Maybe he's a pathological case, a victim of mental disease known as neophobia.

The Scientific Monthly says: "The neophobic patient shows marked aversion and resentment at the sight of anything new. The disease is very prevalent and there are no drugs known that will cure it, except poisons. We all seem to carry about the germs of it, for any of us is liable to manifest mild symptoms, and in certain countries and certain centuries it has been epidemic."

Anyone who has ever tried to put over a new idea or introduce a new device or method, will realize that much of the difficulty encountered can be classed as neophobic.

Most people are suspicious of anything new, though in fairness it must be admitted that this is partly because they have been stung so many times by the new.

The Scientific Monthly points out that the first printed books had to be sold as manuscripts because of the prejudice against printing. The learned men of Italy sneered at the invention as barbarous German innovation.

When bathtubs were invented, about 80 years ago, prejudice rose so violently against them that Virginia levied a tax of $30 a year on each tub and Boston passed a municipal ordinance making bathing in a bathtub unlawful except when advised by a doctor.

Some of the foods you eat daily found their way to the average table only after a hard struggle. Parmentier, to introduce potatoes had to resort to getting the society folks of his day to eat them at banquets. The apes copied them.

Seneca, fighting waterworks and heating systems when they were introduced into Rome, orated: "Believe me, that was a happy age before the days of architects, before the day of builders." Seneca would have had a stroke if he could have seen the woolworth building.

Thomas Creevey, fighting in the English parliament in 1825 against the bill for the construction of the first railroad, denounced its backer as insane. He raged at "the locomotive monster, navigated by a tail of smoke and sulphur coming through every man's grounds between Manchester and Liverpool."

Clear cases of neopobia—mental derangement that causes an aversion to anything new. On the other hand is another type of mental unbalance, not quite as clearly defined— a craze for perpetual experimentation, a chronic aversion to anything old.

The Scientific Monthly puts this cracker on its discussion; "Neophobia in the material world is now practically non-existent. Neaphobia in the domain of ideas is as virulent as in the Middle Ages."

LONDON PASTOR GEORGE STREET

Thoughtful Sermons at Both Services—Referred to Union.

Rev. G. Stanley Russel, pastor of Grafton Square Congregational Church, London, England, preached at both services yesterday at George Street Methodist Church.

Rev. Mr. Russell proved himself a preacher of exceptional ability, with an eloquent and striking manner of delivery that made his thoughtful utterances very impressive.

The morning text was taken from Genesis, and was based on God's command to Abraham to go out and count the stars, if he were able The speaker emphasised the necessity of living our lives in the light of the really important issues and facts of existence, rather than stressing, as the majority do, the unimportant aspects of the daily round, and of seeing more of the real background, instead of only the foreground of existence. The Bible itself could be better understood if it were studied in the light of the great eternal principles it expresses, and the life of humanity generally, should be considered in the light of those great forces which express themselves in life. A knowledge and acceptance of the eternal verities is necessary for a hopeful and successful existence.

In the evening, a verse from Ecclesiastes, "Say not that the former times were better than these, for thou dost not ask wisely in this," formed the subject matter of the sermon, in which the speaker illustrated the fallacy of the popular idea that other times are better times by describing the life and manners of three great eras in the history of the world, which are often referred to as being so much better than our own days. The first mentioned was the era in the world's life during which the power and culture of Rome and Greece were paramount.

Rev. Mr. Russel showed how the other side of the picture, the slavery, the degradation of womanhood, and the poverty-stricken soul of religion of those days, belied the assertion that they were the best of all.

The second era, that of the Middle Ages, when "Merrie England" boasted of its chivalry and knighthood, had also its drawbacks.

The third period dealt with was that of hte Victorian Age, so often referred to as the golden age of the world, and pre-eminent in science and political endeavour. It had its black marks in its pitiless spirit manifested in industry, and its self-complacency.

In our own day, the speaker emphasised the spirit of new freedom and new liberty which was manifest, and said that idealisation of the past was always wrong, as the world was steadily progressing toward better conditions.

Rev. Mr. Russel, in the morning service, referred to the proposed union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches of Canada as one of the epochal events of history, and a concrete example to the world of the possibility of a united Christianity. He spoke of the gradual tending in England in Non-Conformist circles toward the crystallisation of sentiment in favour of a similar union of religions.

Mrs. M. H. Park sang at both services yesterday, with the choir music conducted by Mr. J. H. Renwick.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Carrying a baby during the hot weather is a greater trial than in the winter. One is uncomfortable enough at best and the heat only adds to the burden. It is easier, though, at this time to keep the skin active and the skin is a valuable eliminative agent. Daily baths are necessary, but after the first month they had better be sponge baths than tub baths, as infection may come from a tub bath.

The usual household tasks are not harmful unless the doctor in charge has forbidden even that much exercise. If the mother is careful to keep away from strenuous tasks that demand heavy lifting, and any exercise which agitates the abdomen too severely, there should be no bad effects. Walking is good. Lying around, leading a lazy, inactive life, is not to be thought of. Women in the habit of driving had best allow someone else this duty during the last three months. Swimming may be indulged in with the doctor's permission only.

Stick to a good wholesome diet no larger than you are used to. Get over the notion that you are eating for two. If your body's needs are supplied by your diet the baby's will be also. You do need an abundance of lime at this time and as this is a mineral whose lack is quite universal be sure that you drink a quart of milk a day in addition to your regular meals. Plenty of green vegetables, whole grain breads and cereals will supply a lot, but the milk makes it certain that you will get sufficient. The healthy condition of your teeth is dependent on having a sufficiency of lime daily.

A buttermilk diet for a day, milk of magnesia or plain soda are all helpful for heartburn. Keep down your allotment of fats for a more permanent relief.

For varicose veins use a rubber bandage put on before you step out of bed in the morning. Raising the leg higher than the body trunk will help swollen feet and relieve the pain of the varicose veins.

Have all clothes loose and the weight hanging from the shoulder, never from around the waist. Wear hose supporters like the children's, never round ones. Wear a good fitting maternity corset, it offers just the needful amount of support.

Wear low-heeled shoes and low ones are preferable to high ones. Your ankles may turn easily and give you a nasty fall.

Above all keep a sanguine disposition. Don't whine. Everything is going well, and this condition won't last forever.

SALAD DRESSING

Four Sporting Organizations of the Queen City in Motor Town.

OSHAWA, June 18. (Special.) — sports day with Toronto and Oshawa, for no less than four sporting organizations of the Queen City were represented here with a fifty-fifty break for Mayor Maguire's representatives. Fou r rinks of Withrow Park Bowlers played afternoon and evening games on the local greens, Oshawa being tied up at the end of the games.

Don Valley Football Club lost a Toronto and a district league game to the local team by 2-0; Leaside lacrosse club put the skids on the local team in the intermediate series by 11-4;;; and Karry's girls' softball team won a ten innings affair from an all star aggregation from the local football league.

CHANGE SCHEDULE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Dates Re-arranged For the Northumberland County Organization.

WARKWORTH, June 18.— A meeting of the executive of Northumberland County Baseball League was held in the community hall here on Friday June 15.

The following clubs were represented: Mr. Dafoe for Trenton; Chas Davidson Campbellford; Mr. Campbell, Harwood; C. Varcoe, Roseneath; F. Hawkins, Hastings and K. Zuefelt for Warkworth.-

The president J. W. Dixon presided. A communication was read from secretary of O.B.A.A. re schedule of the League, stating same must be concluded by August eighteenth and winner declared.

The schedule was re-arranged as follows:—

From August 15:

Trenton at Brighton, Aug 3
Hastings at Roseneath, Aug 4.
Warkworth at Harwood, Aug. 6.
Orland at Colborne, Aug 6.

From August 22:

Orland at Hastings, June 23.
Roseneath at Harwood, July 14.
Brighton at Campbellford, July 20
Warkworth at Colborne, July 30.

From August 29

Harwood at Brighton July 9.
Colborne at Roseneath, July 28.
Campbellford at Orland, July 30.
Hastings at Trenton, Aug. 6.

Postponed games from May 16 to be played as follows:

Brighton at Trenton. June 29.
Campbellford at Hastings, July 14
Roseneath at Warkworth, July 21.

It was decided that the protested game played at Harwood on May 30th, Harwood vs. Hastings, be settled at this meeting by the executive.

After hearing the evidence of both teams Messrs. Dafoe, Davidson, Zuefelt and Mr. Varcoe adjourned to reach a conclusion. The decision was that each team pay half expenses of the protest and the game be awarded to Hastings.

TOM GIBBONS HAS CHANCE TO WIN

SHELBY, Mont., June 18. — No one thought Jim Corbett, the pale looking bank clerk, had a ghost of a chance to beat the great John L. Sullivan. Corbett did it.

After Corbett became the superman of his time, Bob Fitzsimmons wasn't considered in his class. Fitz did it, too.

No one thought Criqui would beat Kilbane as he did.

The odds were seven to five on Kilbane like they are on all crown holders. Little or no Criqui money was in sight.

Kilbane had been out of the ring for two years since he risked his title.

It was a case of ring idleness that beat him.

Kilbane probably knew as much when he fought Criqui and lost the title as when he fought Abe Attell and won it in 1911. Malbe he knew more. But he didn't have the stuff in his muscles to put it over.

No matter how hard a fighter may try to keep in shape by boxing in the gymnasium it doesn't give him the certain SOMETHING that it takes to win.

That only comes from actual fighting.

It is like laboratory work compared to real experience.

Ducking blows in a gym. is a different racket than ducking them on the roped-in rostrum where the other fellow is shooting at your credentials.

Dempsey has not had a fight that extended him since he flashed the iron mitten to Jess Willard's heart and later to his paw for the big Toledo SITDOWN

Being out of the ring made a difference with Jeffries.

Idleness made a difference with Kilbane

Will it make a difference with Dempsey?

Some say it will. Others think it won't.

Gibbons has fought himself right up to where he is at this moment—the most logical contender to fight Dempsey, outside of Harry Wills, possibly.

Another thing. The last opponent which Gibbons knocked for the well-known ash can, Chuck Wiggins, has hardly had time to cool.

After that Jack the Terrible isn't so terrible.

If Gibbons is there at Bell Four, anything may happen.

FIFTH TEAM IN THE E. P. LEAGUE

George Street Club Admitted and New Dates Set For Games.

George Street Team was admitted to the East Peterborough Baseball League at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday night. To complete the first half of the schedule George Street will play one game with Lakefield, Keene, Cognawaga and Keene and will be the visiting team at each game. The remaining games in the first half will be:

June 18—Lakefield at Cognawaga.
June 21—Cognawaga at Mackey's.
June 21—Keene at Lakefield.
June 25—Cognawaga at Keene.
June 28—Keene at Cognawaga.
June 28.—Lakefield at Mackey's.

George street will play Mackey's and Lakefield on dates to be arranged. during the next two weeks and thtir games with Keene and Cognawaga will be played the first week in July, when the second half games will also commence. If a final championship game is necessary the contest will be played at Riverrside Park.

In regard to umpires, it was decided that the official for the home team be umpire-in-chief for 3 1-2 innings and the official for the visiting team be umpire-in-chief for remainder of the game.

The home team will be required to place flags on the playing field to show the foul lines.

British Flyweight In America

NEW YORK, June 18 (Associated Press).—Jimmy Wilde, world flyweight champion, who will defend his title in a 15-roundmatch tonight with Pancho Villa, the Philippine mite, at the Polo Grounds, has been called the perfect fighting machine.

Master of all the tricks and punch of the trade, Wilde has had the greatest boxing career of any living pugilist of the British Isles. In more than a dozen years in the ring he was knocked out but once. Pete Herman, former world bantamweight champion, sent Wilde down for the count in the 17th round of a picturesque fight in London in January, 1921. Wilde has been idle since that defeat.

Born in a hamlet near Cardiff, Wales, 31 years ago the twelfth of last month, Wilde entered the pugilistic game when a mere strip of a lad. He soon became a wily, clever boxer, fashioned in the English mold. Then taking a lesson from the American game, he developed a punch.

He won half of his contests by knockouts. Bantams and flyweights alike fell before him. He whipped everything in the British Isles and on the continent within ten pounds of his own weight and came on to America sev-years ago. Joe Lynch, the present world bantamweight champion, Pal Moore of Memphis and lesser known American small men were defeated by him. Jack Sharkey, New York bantam, Wilde's first opponent in the U. S. in a 10-round no-decision contest in 1919, was credited by some boxing writers with a shade the better of the milling.

Wilde is a clean-cut chap, typically British in manner of dress and an entertaining conversationalist. He is married and has two sons.

The boxing records have gathered statistics on 127 of Wilde's pugilistic engagements. He is credited with 63 knockouts, 50 victories by decisions, three draws, two lost decisions, one loss by a knockout, five no decisions and three exhibitions.

His fighting weight is 112 pounds, the actual flyweight limit. He is a little broader of shoulder and stiffer of jaw than Villa and has, perhaps, the harder punch. In other respects they are about on a parity.

Dempsey-Gibbons Bout Saved From Collapse.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 18. —(Canadian Press). — The Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons heavyweight championship fight, sagging at the knees and ready to collapse, was shoved abck on its feet Saturday night with the new executives in charge and Jack Kearns, manager of the champion. happy with the receipt of a $100,000 draft, the second installment due on the $300,000 guarantee.

The fight will be staged as scheduled in Shelby on the Fourth of July in the afternoon. Payment of the $100,000 was made by George H. Stanton, President of the Stanton Trust and Savings Bank early last night. The story of the raising of the $100,000 is one of the rarest tales of financing in the history of boxing. Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, 60 years old, was individually responsible for raising $76,000 in less than twenty four hours. while Great Falls business men raised the balance

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

(By John T. Bartlett.)

Your Personality in Want Ads.

If you wish a demonstration of the possibilities of personality in selling, attend a country auction and observe the "colonel." A successful auctioneer always has his following — people who will go far just to watch him in action, laugh at his jokes, be entertained by his tilts with the crowd. His personality wins them.

Personality isn't donned, like a new suit—it's given us when we're born. It can't be simulated for use in Want Ads—the advertiser must possess it. Every little while, though, someone with appealing personality reveals that personality, in original manner in his Want Ads. And he profits, because, like the individual ways of the good auctioneer, his personal Want Ad interests readers, makes them smile, draws them nearer to him.

A certain storage and moving man has Want Ads which always "stick out" from others because they are in amusing verse form. The advertiser indulges his bent for versifying. The meter is far from perfect, but the man's comment on local affairs, the weather, etc., always with a tie-up with the service given in storage and moving, makes a hit.

A business chance advertiser always takes several lines at the top of his detailed listing with matter of an inspirational nature. One Want Ad had this: "Garner up pleasant thoughts, for pleasant thoughts make pleasant lives. John Wilkins." In his city, this man is an "old-timer." He is known for his philosophical outlook on life. The inspirational matter he uses is in keeping with his personality. He uses, incidentally, the slogan, "The Pioneer and Acknowledged Leader. Established 36 years."

In many other ways than these the Want advertiser can put personality into his Want Ads. I have observed that earnest, sincere men and women, whose Want Ads "ring true," reflecting personality, get good results with Want Ads. The world likes to deal with earnest, sincere people.

How to Rent or Sell a "Sticker."

A very old business principle, practiced by successful business men since trade began, is "When you fail to find a customer, modify your terms." Make a different proposition. Perhaps the new offer will find a buyer where the old one did not.

This is a good plan to bear in mind when you get ready to advertise for rent or sale a "difficult" piece of property. Merchants sometimes refer to articles which simply refuse to move as "stickers." Sometimes in a house a parallel situation exists—the owner has a "sticker" on his hands. The location of the house, or some other feature, makes it undesirable to nearly everyone. Weeks pass, and it remains unrented, unsold.

If you face a dilema like this, consider Want Ads used by other owners equally perplexed. Here are several samples:

"For Rent—5 room house, modern except heat, at 6446 Downing street. Free rent for first three months, if you will lease for year; very reasonable terms.

"Free rent for six months of my 7-room brick house at 26 Pine street, for tenant who will decorate and make small repairs."

"Easiest possible terms for a permanent tenant of my 320 acre farm at Flagler. No rent first year, if you will break 50 acres new ground, and put fences in repair."

"No payment down, like rent monthly payments, takes my dwelling house on Girard street. 5 rooms, modern, three lots."

"I will take flivver for first payment on my 4-room house, nicely painted, sleeping porch, water, lights at 244 Rhodes. Balance like rent."

When you have a hard to rent or sell house, insert a Want Ad in which you make terms very much easier than most owners. Free rent for a short period may turn the trick, or no initial payment. Offer to accept services, a flivver perhaps, in lieu of rent or first payment. One of these plans should win success.

LACROSSE

This evening's practice will be at Riverside Park from 7 until 8 o'clock. Mr. R. M. Glover has secured both Friday and Monday at that hour at Riverside for lacrosse workouts, and it is hoped the team will take full advantage of this accommodation.

The scratch game between the Strathconas and Athletics that was to be played to-night at Central Park has been postponed for some other evening so as not to conflict with the Riverside workout.

Lacrosse players are especially requested to attend the general meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Several important matters must be disposed of to-morrow night and it is essential that the players should be largely represented.

First, however, don't forget to-night's practice.

Motorman Watched Game Forgot Load People.

CHICAGO, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—A motorman of an elevated train yesterday held up "L" traffic on the north side for thirty minutes when he abandoned his train full of passengers to take a peek at the Chicago-Philadelphia ball game at the Cubs' park. He got interested in the game and forgot to return to his cab. When trains became badly blocked a search was made and he was found deeply absorbed in the game.

FRANCE FORGING AHEAD

LONDON, June 18 (Associated Press) —The British authorities have been criticized of late for their failure to promote radio communication on a world scale, and with permitting France, Germany and the United States to occupy this field to the exclusion of England.

It is pointed out that France is planing a great station at Pondicherry, India, and that in July she will open a high power station at Buenos Aires. Later in the year two other stations will be ready in South America. These will be in direct communication with the French station at Saint Assise, with Nauen in Germany, and with Long Island, New York.

From Saint Assise France by radio will reach India, China and Japan on the east, and North and South America on the west.

Seeing her before breakfast is often a cure for love sickness.

BROADCASTERS CAUSE MOST OF THE TROUBLE

Official observations made by eggineers of the Bureau of Standards for a period of seven months, and still being continued today, point to the fact that it isn't the amateur who causes most of the interference to reception of concerts from broad-casting stations, but the broadcasting stations themselves.

Centering their observations on two broadcasting stations—one KDKA at Pittsburg and the other WLB at Minneapolis—the engineers sought to discover the effect their messsages had on nearby and distant receiving stations. They conclude that "the reliability of signals from a given station first decreases and then rises as we increase the distance" from that station.

In their reports from between 200 and 1000 receiving stations, monthly, the engineers were able to classify the sources from which interferences were being experienced. After tabulating these sources, they showed that an average of 30.9 per cent of the interference came from other broadcasting stations, while amateur with spark sets furnished 3.5 per cent of the trouble, and those with C.W. sets only 2.3 per cent.

Other forms of interference recorded and the percentage of their mischief were:

Static, 18.1; fading, 13.5; Oscillating receiving sets, 5; commercial stations, 2.1; power lines, 1.2.

Of all the stations reporting, 23.2 per cent experienced no interference whatever.

GIANT ZEPPELINS MAY SOON CROSS ATLANTIC

LONDON, June 18 (Associated Press) —Details of the first Atlantic airship service between Spain and Argentina have just been made public by the London Daily Chronicle, which says that it may be soon possible to bridge the 5,000 miles between the two continents in three and a half days. The service will operate between Seville and Buenos Aires, and Zeppelin aircraft will be used.

There will be terminal airdromes, mooring masts, repair sheds, and hydrogen factories at Seville and at Buenos Aires. In addition, emergency Canary Islands and at Cordoba in the Argentine.

On the American side of the Atlantic the hangers will be made on a revolving principle, because of the veriability of the wind. Four airships are being built to inaugurate the scheme, and it is anticipated that service will begin next summer. It also is probable that arrangements will be made to link up Seville direct with London by an airplane service.

The airships, fitted with nine engines, each developing 400 horespower, will carry 40 passengers and 11 tons of mails and merchandise. There will be two simulanteous flights a week in each direction, and the time taken to cross the Atlantic will be three days and 16 hours. Passengers will have all the comforts of an Atlantic liner, without the disadvantage of sea sickness.

The ships will have a speed of 82 miles an hour. Zeppelin pilots who have not less than 1,000 successful flights to their credit will be engaged to operate the craft. Each airship will carry six pilots and a commander.

Powerful wireless sets will be fitted into each ship, thus it will be possible to keep in touch with 45 weather stations on the coasts of Spain, Africa, America, the Canary Islands, Cape Verde and Fernando Noronha, as well as with ships at sea.

U. S. HELPS AUSTRIA

GENEVA (United Press). — The last obstacle towards the floating of an international loan of 650,000,000 gold crowns, whereby the League of Nations hopes completely to re-establish Austria's financial situation, has just been removed by an official notification to the League by the American unofficial delegation on the Reparations Commission that the United States has agreed to release her claims on Austrian assets awarded her under the Treaty of St. Germain. These assets will be used temporarily as security for the League's new loan.

About all you can say for the groom is that he holds a responsible position.

POSTAL CLERKS MAY ASK WAGE INCREASE

EL PASO, June 18 (Associated Press). —Dust stirred by Don Juan Onate on his way to settle Santa Fe more than three centuries ago will be on the heels of delegates here to attend the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks' convention September 3 to 7. Every state in the union will be represented.

Congress may be asked to increase the pay of postoffice clerks, if the high cost of living does not go down in the meantime, according to officials of the federation who are here making arrangements for the convention. Other legislation which will come up for endorsement includes:

Credit for one hour for each 45 minutes worked at night.

Double time for Sundays and holidays.

An annual vacation of 30 days.

Although the federation now has seven vice presidents, it is claimed the rapid growth of the organization demands the addition of from four to eight more, and this question will be voted on. Under the present rules the large cities, such as New York and Chicago, are entitled to a maximum of five delegates and as many votes, while a postoffice with a half a dozen men may have one delegate and one vote. The larger cities are asking for a different basis of representation.

MAJESTIC BEATS RECORD

LONDON, June 18 (Associated Press).—The liner Majestic made a record run recently up the Channel between Casquets and Cherbourg, travelling at one time at 29.7 knots an hour. The engines devevoped a speed of more than 25.5 knots and, with the tide running in her favor at between four and five knots, the liner was able to accomplish a performance no other liner has ever equalled.

On a recent trip from New York the liner beat her own previous record for a day's run, doing 603 miles in 23 hours.

SCIENTISTS REDUCE DANGER OF DEATH FROM NOXIOUS GAS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 18—(Associated Press).—Carbon monoxide gas poisoning, the nemesis of workers in mines, mills, garages, tunnels, and other industries, as well as the occupant of the home, is the subject of an important discovery just made by experts of the Pittsburgh station of the United States Bureau of Mines. The discovery affords a quick and sure method of determining the presence of carbon monoxide poison in the blood and, according to the experts, will not only prove a boon to sufferers from the dreaded gas, but will be useful in a legal way in that it will prove conclusively the cause of such deaths.

Dr. R. R. Sayers, and W. B. Yant, chemist of the bureau, made the discovery, and after months of research work and actual tests upon human beings, they have reported that their simple system could be operated by anyone, and that within 15 minutes after the test is made the amount of carbon monoxide poison in the blood of the subject could be determined, thus insuring the right and prompt treatment for the patient. Heretofore, doctors treating carbon monoxide cases have had to wait from 24 to 48 hours for a blood test before they could begin proper treatment.

The Sayers—Yant discovery came as the result of work in the Hudson river tubes in New York. While the Bureau of Mines experts were engaged in the problem of ascertaining a proper ventilating system for the tubes under the river so as to render automobile gases harmless to those passing through, they struck upon the new method of determining the presence of carbon monoxide in the blood.

Discussing the value of the discovery to mines and mills, Mr. Yant pointed out that heretofore rescue workers have been hampered in treating stricken men because they did not know whether the patient suffered from shock or carbon monoxide gas. Likewise, this was true in garage and tunnel accident cases. The patients are always given oxygen but it required an entire day or more to determine if they had carbon monoxide poisoning. With the discovery at hand, Mr. Yant said, rescue workers in the Industries will know whether the victim of an accident has carbon monoxide poison in his blood; will know the exact amount of such poisoning, and can proceed to give proper and prompt treatment within 15 minutes after the patient comes into their hands.

Living is expensive, but worth it. Trouble with feeling sorry for yourself is everybody else does.

Woman Claims She Is Mysterious Mrs. Marone.

BAND, Mo., June 18.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. R. B. Keys, wife of a telegraph operator, yesterday sent Mrs. Bula Croker a cablegram that she was the mysterious Mrs. Guy Marone prominently mentioned in the Richard Croker, Sr., will case. She said she married Marone in 1911, and they were divorced two years later.

CHILD ACTOR SHOWS WISDOM ABOVE YEARS

Jimmy Lapsley, in Cast of "Who Are My Parents?" is Advocate of Safety First

Fox Special Production Directed by J. Searle Dawley From Story By "Mr. X."

Jimmy Lapsley, the clever youngster who has a prominent part in the Fox serial production, "Who are My Parents?" shows a wisdom far beyond his years. A striking example of this was given while Jimmy was waiting for the director, J. Searle Dawley to start a scene. Several dogs were used in filming the picture Jimmy had prevailed upon Mr. Dawley to use the pet pup of the Lapsley household in the screen drama.

Jimmy came up to Niles Welch, an other member of the cost dragging his pup on a rope heavy enough for a tug-boat hawser.

"Mr. Welch, will'yu please take that rock out of my bloodhound's mouth? I'm afraid he'll swallow it and get sick."

Always kindly and mindful that he too, was once a boy who had a penchant for dogs. Welch stopped and extracted the stone.

"There, my little man, that was easy. Why couldn't you do it yourself"

"I could, but I didn't want him to bite me."

"Who Are My Parents?" is the attraction at the Royal Theatre, where it will be shown or three days' engagement starting to-day.

ITALIAN ARMORED CARS ANNIHILATED REBELS

MALTA, June 18. — (Canadian Press.)—Italian armoured cars raiding south-east of Benghazi in the Libyan desert, have annihilated several large parties of rebel Arabs. Near Birbilal the cars were unable to proceed in the shifting sands and were attacked by rebel cavalry, sniping from behind dunes.

Five bayonet charges were made by the Italian troops, who retreated to Marsabrega after blowing up their cars to prevent capture. Operations against the Arabs continue.

TWO CASUALTIES DRAGOONS' CAMP

Troopers Collapsed at Exhibition Grounds Owing to Excessive Heat.

Two casualties occurred at the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons' camp in the Exhibition grounds this morning, when the excessive heat caused two troopers to collapse. They were reported fit for duty this afternoon.

The shooting on Saturday was quite satisfactory, the men showing good marksmanship.

This forenoon was spent in mounted squadron and troop drill, and the afternoon was taken up with dismounted troop drill, squadron drill and rifle exercises. Strenuous efforts are being made to bring the two squadrons up to the highest pitch of excellence in preparation for the inspection on Thursday. Chief Paymaster Colonel Foulkes, of Kingston, well known in tennis circles, will visit the camp to-morrow.

The Y.M.C.A. canteen is a favourite resort for the troopers, and is very efficiently conducted by Douglas Loomis, physical director of the "Y." The camp officers praise very highly the work he is doing, and all ranks appreciate the cinema exhibits given by the Y.M.C.A.

The following are now on the camp strength:

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON—ROBINSON.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at 1:45 to-day, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Northey, 576 George street, when their niece, Zetta L. Robinson, R.N., of Chicago (formerly of Peterborough, was united in marriage to Garfield Anderson, of this city. Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D., pastor of Murray street Baptist church, performed the ceremony. Witnesses to the signing of the register were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robinson, the former a brother of Miss Robinson.

The bride wore grey canton crepe, with hat, gloves, shoes and stockings to match, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Robinson wore sand crepe, with hat of the same color, and bouquet of Columbia roses.

Following the ceremony, a dainty luncheon was served, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson leaving later on the 3:50 train for Toronto and other points. The bride's travelling suit was of blue tricotine, trimmed with grey, with grey hat and shoes. On their return, they will reside in the city.

Many beautiful presents were received, testifying to the high esteem felt for the young people by a large circle of friends. A number of beautiful and costly gifts were presented to the bride by associating nurses at the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanitarium of Chicago, where Miss Robinson held the position of head nurse during the past winter. The bridegroom was the recipient of a cabinet of silver from the shipping department and office staff of the Canadian Packing Company.

MULLIGAN—RYLEY.

LINDSAY, June 18— The Baptist church was the scene of a fashionable wedding on Saturday afternoon when Miss Isobel Ryley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ryley, was united in marriage to Dr. Clifford V. Mulligan, M.C.

Guests were present from different points in the province. Those from Peterborough were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mulligan and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Mulligan.

The groom is a son of the late R. J. Mulligan, ex-Reeve of Omemee, and Mrs. Mulligan, of Lindsay, and nephew of the late Sir John Eaton, of Toronto.

CUMMING—SLOAN

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon when Marion Edna eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Sloan was united in marriage to James Cumming, of Niagara Falls, son of the late James and Mrs. Cumming of Peterboro. The couple were attended by Miss S. Cumming and Mr. M. Sloan.

Rev. W. E. Morrow officiated.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Wm. Tanner, sang very sweetly "All Joy Be Thine".

After a buffet luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Cumming left, amid showers of confetti on the 3.50 train to spend the honeymoon in Buffalo. On their return they will reside in Niagara Falls. Ont.

WHITE—WALKER.

A very pretty wedding took place at 10 o'clock this morning at St. John's Church, when Miss Pearl Walker, of Toronto, became the bride of Frank White, of the Cycle Sports, Limited, of this city. Rev. Dr. Blagrave performed the ceremony, and the Wedding March was played by Mr. R. J. Devey. Mr. George E. Chandler, in excellent voice, sang "O Promise Me." The People's Chimes rang out as the wedding party left the church

The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. David Binny, of Toronto, was charming in white georgette over white silk slip. She wore the conventional veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids were Miss Florence Harrison, of Petersboro, and Miss Lily Mantle, of Toronto, gowned in mauve and pink georgette, with large hats to match, and bouquets of Columbia roses. The dainty little flower girl was Inez White, of Peterboro, niece of the bridegroom, carrying a basket of roses and carnations, and dressed in cream lace over white silk, with pink silk hat. The best man was a brother of the bridegroom, Mr. Albert White.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver White, where decorations were carried out in roses and bridal wreath.

Mr. and Mrs. White left later by motor for a honeymoon in Detroit. They will reside in Peterboro. The bride's travelling dress was of sand canton crepe, with hat to match and brown fox fur choker.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a handsome white gold wrist watch; to the bridesmaids, rings of onyx and pearl; to the flower girl, a gold bracelet, and to the best man, a gold watch chain.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

PUBLIC FIGHTS SHY.

NEW YORK, June 18 (United Press). — Rather definite indications that the public is fighting shy of the stock market, the feared reaction of the latest big failure in the street, came in the market this morning. Prices showed a sagging tendency in both the rails and industrial groups through the first hour, and some new lows were made. Atchison, a strong point in an import phase of last week's market, yielded a point of its recent point gain, and New York Central half a point. Sinclair broke to a new low for the year of 24, and Chandler at 57 1-2, while Studebaker reached a new low on the current movement.

But the decline was accompanied by a small volume of trading, reflecting the lack of demand for even the light offerings presented rather than urgent selling.

Some scattered liquidating orders which accumulated over the week-end gave the industrial list a heavy tone in the initial trading. American Can. dropped a full point on the opening transaction, while Studebaker lost 5-8. In the absence of definite news development the speculative community continued in a waiting mood, accounting for the sluggishness of the early trading.

The opening prices to-day showed the following: United States Steel 94 1-2, Studebaker 107 5-8 off 5-8, New York Central 103, Southern Pacific 89 7-8, Baltimore and Ohio 51 7-8 up 1-2, Sinclair 24 5-8 off 1-8, Erie 12 7-8, General Motors 14 1-2 off 1-8, Newhaven 17 1-2 up 1-4, American Can 95 1-2 off 1, California Pet. 23 3-4 off 1-8, Consolidated Gas 61 1-2 up 1-2, Pan-American 70 3-4 off 1-4, Bethlehem B. 51 1-4 off 1-4, Corn Products 131 1-2 off 3-4, Mexican Seaboard 15 3-8 up 1-4.

LEEKS ON TOAST
By Bertha E. Shapleigh

Leeks, the member of the onion family which are green and white stalks the size of asparagus stalks, are delicious to serve as a vegetable. Many use them only in soup, but in the spring try them cooked as follows:

Trim the stalks leaving about three inches of the green part—and wash. Cook until tender in boiling salted water, drain and place on piece of toast. Moisten the toast with a little of the water in which the leeks were cooked. Then melt, by placing over water, some butter; add salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Pour this over the leeks and serve.

OLD FRIEND OF DRURY KILLED BY MOTOR CAR

BARRIE, June 18 (Canadian Press). — Samuel Dunsmore, aged 62, Crown Hill, five miles from here, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital this morning from injuries which he sustained yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a motor car driven by John McGarrow, a former North Bay man, bnt now resident in the United States, in front of his home.

He was returning from Crown Hill Methodist Church, and had just alighted from a motor car to enter his house when he was struck by the car and thrown forty feet, having one leg fractured, three ribs broken, and his lungs punctured.

He was an old friend of Premier Drury, who spent yesterday in the hospital with him.

BANTAMS PLAY ON THURSDAY

Regular Games For Midgets and Bantams Soon Under Way.

Rotary and Kiwanis teams in the Bantam series will open the League race at King Edward School grounds on Thursday evening at six o'clock. A committee of the P.A.A.A. has received permission to use playing fields at the public schools, and, commencing next week, all the teams in the Midget and Bantam divisions will be playing under schedules which will be drafted this week. Practically all the players in these leagues attend the city schools.

Alex. Kay is having a diamond such as is authorized by the O.B.A.A. for Bantams and Midgets, laid out at the grounds of the Prince of Wales' School, where the games will be confined to these two leagues. A similar diamond will be laid out at King Edward School grounds, where games in the two leagues will also be played.

QUIZ CORNER

CANADA'S IRON AND STEEL INDUSTRY.

Q.—What is the extent of Canada's iron and steel industry?

A.—There is invested in the iron and steel industry in Canada nearly $650,000,000, and the annual value of the products nearly $640,000,000, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. From 1870 to 1920, without a great increase in the number of establishments in Canada, there was an increase from $9,000,000 to $642,000,000 in the invested capital; and from $38,000,000 to $640,000,000 in the production.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S INDUSTRIES.

Q.—What is the extent of manufacturing in British Columbia?

A.—There are now 2,600 industries in British Columbia with an annual output of $250,000,000 worth of goods, according to a bulletin issued by the Provincial Department of industries. The Provincial Government has been very active the past few years in promoting new industries for the province, and has advanced large sums of money to new companies.

PLEADED GUILTY TO A CHARGE OF THEFT

Pleading guilty to a charge of theft in police court this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley an eighteen year old girl was remanded until to-morrow for sentence.

This girl was charged with breach of the O.T.A. by the Provincial Police at the time of the Hiawatha investigation in January, but the charge was withdrawn by them. About that time she disappeared from the place where she was employed, taking with her a grip. A few days ago she again appeared in the city and was arrested by Detective W. Carey .The grip was left in Toronto. A charge of vagrancy was also laid.

VILLAGES WIPED OUT.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 18.—(United Press.)—The Ometepe volcano, located in the Granlago, a Nicaragauran Island, is in eruption. Natives are fleeing from the surrounding islands, while showers of stone and mud have wiped out villages on the volcano's slopes.

CASES BEFORE WORLD COURT AT THE HAGUE

Three in Number and They Include Russo-Finnish and German Polish Disputes.

COURT ADJOURNS

THE HAGUE, June 19.—(Special).—The world court, which opened its third session Monday has adjourned until later in the week.

Stately, solemn, with pomp and ritual, the jurists began their public session in Andrew Carnegie's peace palace, whose functions were in 1914 so rudely interrupted by the world-war.

With a Dutchman, chief justice in the lead, ten judges clad in black robes edged with purple, assumed their positions on the bench of the court room of the Carnegie Peace Palace.

The leader announced that the court would consider their cases in the following order:

1—The Russo-Finish dispute in regard to Carlia a territory north east of Baltic, where frontier territory is claimed both by Moscow and Helsingfors and where clashes and border incidents have occurred.

2—The case of the ship "Wimbledon". This British vessel carrying arms to Poland was refused admission to the Kiel Canal by Germany.

3—The German-Polish dispute regarding property rights. Conflicts have arisen over the position of German subjects in Poland.

It was also announced that some Franco-British disagreements over Morrocco and Tunis had been amicably settled on May 24.

ROUMANIA HAS RECOGNIZED THE NEW BULGARIAN GOVT.

Youthful Ruler, King Boris, Becomes Engaged to Princess Ileana of Roumania—Greek Government Continues Relations With Bulgaria

BELGRADE, June 19 (United Press). — King Boris, the youthful ruler of Bulgaria, restored to prestige by the overthrow of Stamboulisky's peasant Government, has become engaged to Princess Ileana, youngest daughter of the King and Queen of Roumania, according to a Bucharest advice.

Roumania consequently has recognised the Revolutionary Government of Bulgaria, which has the young king's approval.

Recognition of the new Government, which at first was regarded with suspicion by Bulgaria's neighbours in the Balkans, is said to have been granted for "dynasty reasons."

The Greek Government has instructed its charge d'affairs at Sofia to continue diplomatic relations with Bulgaria.

GOOD PROGRESS OF BANKING ACT

When House Adjourned This Morning a Dozen Sections Had Passed Committee Stage.

OTTAWA, June 19. Canadian Press. — The debate in the House on the banking act has got off to a vigorous start. Almost the whole of the first day was spent in the discussion of one section, and it was marked by some warm passages. In the end after the sitting that lasted until shortly after two o'clock in the morning, all the provisions of the Bill extending bank charters for ten years was carried, and the Progressive amendment for extension for a single year was voted down by 65 to 27.

In spite of the long debate on one section, however, good progress was made with the bill. When the House adjourned a dozen sections had gone through the committee stage. It is true that there are 160 sections in the bill, but the majority of these are noncontentious, and debates are expected to centre around a few matters which were subjected of extended discussion.

Just before the House rose notice was given by G. G. Cote, a Progressive, of amendments to two other sections of the bill, and it is regarded as likely that a number of the amendments will be presented.

Extension of bank charters for one year only, which was the subject of the debate all day yesterday, is one of the chief matters on which the Progressives were anxious to secure action. They desired a year in which to consider rural credit plans in relation to the Bank Act.

WOUNDED HER HUSBAND KILLED TWO DAUGHTERS

OWENSBORO, Ky., June 19 (Canadian Press). — After having seriously wounded her husband, Mrs. Cleveland Daugherty killed her two daughters, three and five years old, with a razor, and drank poison at her home at Glendean, in Breckenridge County. She will recover.

EARTH TREMORS ADDED TERRORS

Six Little Towns That Nestled at the Base of Mount Etna Are Wiped Out.

CATANIA. June 19.—(Special).—Between fifty and one hundred thousand persons are homeless as a result of the terrific eruption of Mount Etna, Sunday and Monday. The flow of molten lava from low fissures opened in the volcano's sides continues and earth tremors are adding their terrors to those that drove the people of towns at Etna's base in to frantic flight. Six little townships nestled at the end of the mountain have ben wiped out by fiery streams of lava, molten rivers thirty and firty feet in height that poured relentlessly down upon them. A new lava stream advanced to-day towards the the Giarre, a town of twenty thousand inhabitants which is doomed unless some event impossible to foresee, intervenes. Rumbling and muttering beneath the earth over a large area of eastern Sicily continued incessantly this morning. Refugees were thrown into further panic by these demonstrations. Fifty thousand at least, are housed here, or huddled helplessly in streets and fields, while it is estimated close to an equal number have fled elsewhere. Relief work is being pushed in the outskirts of the stricken localities and all possible aid is being rendered the refugees by order of Premier Mussolini.

King at Naples

King Victor Emmanuel is reported to have gone to Naples and to be coming here aboard a battleship to direct the relief in persons. But for the moment, beyond seeing that these who fled from the fiery molten dragons that crept relentlessly over their farms and homes are sheltered and fed, there is little the authorities can do. For Etna's unrest continues its devasting, while hot metal streams that scorch to a cinder everything within three hundred feet still pour down the sides of the Giantess.

On Knees in Prayer

With eyes filled with tears some times on their knees in prayer the helpless peasants watch their farms and vineyards being swallowed up by the rivers of lava, remaining as close as possible to their possession until the terrific heat drives them away.

During the night, the second of terror since the most violent explosions tore the top from the volcano that had long been a muttering menace to the safety of the nearby villages, the spectacle was described as awe-inspiring by authorities who approached to render what help they could.

Like an immense Brazier, Etna loomed over the villages.

Helpless Homeless

A wave of lava from violent eruption of Etna is advancing steadily on Lingua Glossa, despatches from Catania state. Lava is flowing across the railway and has reached a point only a few hundred yards from the towns. Castiglicne also is menaced. Violence of the eruption is increasing. The Minister of Public Works left Rome for Catania today, with the object of visiting places damaged or threatened. Civil, military and ecclesiastical authorities are rendering all possible help to inhabitants let homless.

TRAGIC PLIGHT DOOMED TOWN NEAR VOLCANO

Molten Lava Only 125 ft. Distant, and Houses Are Crumbling From the Heat.

INHABITANTS FLEE

Lingua Glossa, a Sicilian town directly in the path of the lava flow from Mount Etna, which yesterday was reported destroyed, faces destruction hourly, with the molten, white hot stream forty yards from the city gates.

The following brief report was sent via special correspondent to the United Press from the very edge of the lava:

LINGUA GLOSSA, Sicily, June 19).—The situation here is tragic and desperate. The lava is only 125 feet away. Houses are crumbling, the heat from the lava is unbearable and repeated earth tremors shake buildings from their foundations. Many inhabitants have fled, soldiers have come in with trenching tools and are working desperately in the hope of diverting the lava from the city proper.

One of the richest and most fertile districts of all Sicily lies beneath an expanse of molten lava.

ETNA'S ERUPTION HAS NOT ABATED

CATANIA, Italy, June 19. — Canadian Press. — The eruption of Mount Etna, continues unabated. One stream of lava is now threatening Giarra, a city of twenty thousand inhabitants, at the base of the volcano, and the population is beginning to leave.

About fifty thousand persons have already been made homeless in the area surrounding Etna. Ashes, cinders and stones emitted by the volcano are so thick as to darken the sun.

Professor Ponzi, of the University of Catania, has gone to Etna to ascertain whether a new crater has opened on the eastern slopes that was active in 1879.

King Victor Emmanuel is leaving for Sicily to inspect arrangements made for taking care of the thousands made homeless by the eurption of Mount Etna.

The lava stream threatening Giarre is two kilometers wide and 50 feet in depth.

Cardinal Francisca-Nava, the Archbishop of Atania, has communicated to the clergy in the stricken area the faithful and paternal interest of the Pontiff in the sufferings of the population.

He has also received instructions to do all that he can in relieving the refugees.

RAILWAY EARNINGS

MONTREAL, June 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending June 14, 1923, were $4,789,103; being an increase of 647,490 or 16 per cent. as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways from January 1, 1923 to June 14, 1923, have been $102,953,560, being an increase of $13,909,838 as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

RAIN IS NEEDED VERY SOON TO SAVE FORESTS

Over Two Thousand Men Are Fighting Fires in the Timber Lands of Ontario.

TIMBERS MENACED

TORONTO, June 19.—(Special.)—Rain is needed within a day to save the Ontario forests, says Chief Ranger Zavitz. Over two thousand men are now fighting forest fires.

A RISING WIND.

NORTH BAY, June 19.— News that the rising wind is driving the bush fires in the vicinity of Timmins still further in the direction of the town, was contained in a message received by Chairman George Lee of the T. and N. O. railway to-day. According to Mr. Lee, all tank cars in the service of the railway have been ordered to stand by and assist in case of emergency, while citizens of the town, are organizing themselves into squads to fight the flames should they approach within a menacing distance. There is no panic, however, and the possibility of serious developments is being faced calmly.

QUEBEC SITUATION.

QUEBEC, June 19.— The forest fire situation in Quebec was reported as having greatly improved at the Forestry Department, it was said this morning. It was announced that Abitibi was the only section where new fires had been reported Generally, all other fires were under control. Several days of worry by relatives of residents of the township of Temiscouata were advised to-day that no loss of life had occurred.

HOLD FLAMES IN CHECK.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—Virtually the entire population of International Falls is stationed just outside the town holding in check a forest fire that threatens the place, according to advices to the State Forester Officer here. Latest advices however, were that unless unfavorable conditions arose there would be no further danger.

Peat fires along the International border, burning for some time, were fanned into menacing proportions by the high wind yesterday and spread into the forests. A number of houses near the village of Frontier were burned and the post office and general store at Manitou were destroyed.

VIOLATED TREATY

LONDON, June 19. — (United Press).—Foreign office officials explain that the Turkish transport seized Monday by a British destroyer while transporting arms from Thrace is charged with violating article thirteen or the Mundania pact By this pact Turkey was permitted to bring only a limited number of men and munitions into Europe.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature at noon was at 89 degrees in the shade. This is the highest point this season up to the present time. Conditions were favorable for the development of a good thunderstorm. A combination of high temperature and humid atmosphere usually brings a display of heavenly fireworks, which we much in evidence this afternoon, accompanied by a heavy fall of rain.—W. P.

LINER MAJESTIC REACHES NEW YORK PORT BONE DRY

But It Required Best Efforts of Her Passengers to Consume Wet Goods With Which She Left Cherbourg

NEW YORK, June 19 (Canadian Press). — The liner Majestic arrived to-day after a record run from Cherbourg, bone-dry, except for 36 gallons of brandy required by the British law for emergency medical use.

Although she started with her usual smoke-room supply of liquor, and, in addition, private stocks which some passengers had ordered in England, the entire supply was gone at 11.30 last night before the three-mile limit was reached, and there was none to be thrown overboard.

"It took the best efforts of the passengers to do it," said one ship's officer.

Members of the crew said the prospect of a dry voyage home was "terrible," but they said it with smiles that indicated they had hopes of one sort or another.

LATE SEASON AFFECTS FRUIT

Domestic Strawberries Are Not Yet Ripe, and Lull in Shipment of Imported Fruits.

The late and backward spring has its effect on the fruit and vegetable markets, as well as on many other aspects of life. For the next few days, there will be somewhat of a lull in shipments of fruits, particularly of strawberries, as the Canadian berries are not yet ripe enough for consumption, and the imported berries are strongly affected by the sudden heat. Fresh berries brought in this morning required to be picked over by noon of to-day. It is rumoured that berries are beginning to redden locally.

From Grimsby comes a report of commencement of shipments about the beginning of next week, with prospects of a fine crop of good quality. Local fruit stores are already handling strawberries from Leamington, with fresh cabbage and green peas from the same place.

Little hothouse tomatoes come in carefully packed in individual wrappers. The fondness of the public for luxuries of this sort is evidenced in the report of one fruit dealer, who sold over 800 pounds' worth of hothouse tomatoes at an average price of 50 cents a pound, during last week.

New Potatoes Late.

A late arrival of domestic new potatoes, with a fortnight's slower growth than other years, is also laid to the door of the backward spring season. It will probably be the end of July before the Canadian new potato makes its appearance locally. The imported spuds are selling at from 75 cents to a dollar a peck. Number One brand from the shores of East Virginia are not offered in Peterborough this year. Their price is prohibitive.

Bananas Delayed.

From Central America comes rumours of wind storms that delay shipments of bananas. The fruit is loaded on lighters and the equinoctial storms have a certain bearing on their shipment and arrival in far-off centres.

From Georgia and the Carolinas come the cantaloupes that are selling at 20 and 25 and 30 cents in the stores.

Dairy products had a drop in price last week. One grocer offered dairy butter for Saturday bargainers at 28 cents a pound, and eggs at 25 cents a dozen.

The hog market shows a certain decrease also, with similar reports from Toronto and other districts.

Prices of dressed products stationary, but porkers on the hoof have been lowering in value during the last month. Since the first of the month, there has been a drop on the hundredweight for "thick, smooth" of $1.75 and on the "select graded" of $1.90.

FELL OUT OF AUTOMOBILE.

DUNDALK, June 19 (Canadian Press). — The sixteen-months-old daughter of Elmer Munro, a farmer living near here, fell out of her father's automobile yesterday while he was turning it around, and received injuries from which she died a few hours later.

OFFICERS GAVE DINNER IN CAMP

Other Branches of the Service Were Guests of the Dragoons at Exhibition Park.

The officers of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons in camp at Exhibition Park entertained a number of officers of other branches of the service at the regimental dinner Monday evening. Tables were set beneath the mess marquee, and the band of the 57th Rangers discoursed a programme of light, tuneful music that greatly enhanced the pleasure of the occasion.

The guests were Major Winterbottom and Lieutenant Walter Worth of the Rangers Col. Miller, Major Fraser and Capt. Copp of the 4th Machine Gun Brigade. Capt. W. Stevenson of the artillery and Major Sutton of the Field Ambulance. And the hosts included Major Hills, Major Hughes, Major W. T. Rogers, Captain Sisson, Captain Abraham, Captain Loomis, Captain E. H. Wood, Lieut. C. H. Stuart, Lieut. M. R. Sloan. Lieut. Dix. Lieut. Johnston, Lieut. Webb and Lieut. C. H. Stuart.

At the conclusion of the dinner which was dispensed with the open-hearted hospitality and generous bounty of the cavalry a short toast list was honored. Major Hills acted as mess president in the absence of the commanding officer Lieut. Colonel T. D. Johnston, the Conservative candidate in East Peterboro, who after the day's routine was out on the hustings in the country. The first toast to the King was proposed by the president and responded to in the usual way.

Major Winterbottom, Major Fraser and Major Sutton replied to the toast "Our Guests." Col. T. J. Johnston who was a special guest of the evening responded to the toast to the Regiment, and Lieut. L. J. Stuart did the honours in the toast to "The Ladies."

Major Winterbottom offered a toast to the officers of the Dragoons to which Major Hughes replied. A feature of this postprandial programme was the presentation to Col Tom Johnston of a case of pipes as a token of the respect and warm fellowship in which he is held by the officers of his old cavalry unit. Col Johnston is now on the retired list, and has been succeeded by his nephew Col. T. Dalton Johnston. The presentation was a happy surprise and called forth reminiscences of the Dragoons and the part they had played in preparedness. To the younger officers who have passed from active service to the administration of the local cavalry in their peace time training Col. Johnston commended the old traditions of the unit, the maintenance of its efficiency on the highest plane, and the officers' care and personal interest in the welfare of the men.

Reference was made in the speeches to the advantages of camp life, the gratifying interest which the men

KNOX CHURCH EXTENDS CALL NEW MINISTER

Congregation Invites Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, M.A., B.D., to Assume Pastorate Here.

CALL UNANIMOUS

At a largely attended meeting last evening in Knox Presbyterian Church, this city, a hearty and unanimous call was extended to the Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, M.A., B.D., formerly of Hallville, Ont. The congregation became vacant just two months ago, when its minister, the Rev. J. A. MacKenzie, was called to the large and important charge of Chalmers' Church, Guelph. It was felt when Mr. MacKenzie left that his place would be hard to fill. Judging by the heartiness of the call extended to Mr. Mackinnon last night one would conclude that the members believe they have secured in Mr. Mackinnon a worthy successor to their former minister.

Rev. Pogue Moderator.

The meeting was opened by devotional exercises by the Rev. R. Pogue, who is acting Moderator during the vacancy. After calling the meeting to order he explained the purpose for which it was called. He recounted the action of the committee which was appointed by the congregation to select a list of suitable men to preach as candidates. He stated that from the list of applicants received eight names were selected and invited to preach with a view to a call. Two of these withdrew their names, not wishing to be considered as candidates. All the other six were men of high qualifications, and any one of them would have done good work in Knox Church.

The congregation enjoyed the preaching of all six. This made the selection of the one whom they wished to be their minister all the more difficult. When the time came to take a vote the Moderator explained that if, on the first ballot, any one name secured more votes than all the others combined he would declare that one elected, and he would then ask the congregation to make their choice unanimous. On the first ballot the name of the Rev. M. C. Mackinnon received a majority. The majority was so large and the people so pleased that they broke into hearty applause, and by a standing vote made the call unanimous. The Moderator then called upon them to sing the doxology, which they did with the greatest heartiness.

The Salary.

The salary decided upon was $2,300.00, which is three hundred dollars in advance of what the former minister received. But in view of the difference in the cost of living as compared with a few years ago, and in view of the desire of the congregation to secure the man of their choice, the above amount was voted quite heartily.

Highly Recommended.

The Rev. Mr. Mackinnon comes with the very highest recommendations. He did a remarkable work in his first charge at Hallville. Two years ago, when he decided to go to

KNOX CHURCH

Scotland to take special post graduate studies, his congregation, in their desire to keep him, raised his salary from $1,800.00 to $3,000.00. He went to Edinburgh and returned, but, desiring to prosecute his studies still further, he resigned and went to Hartford, Connecticut, to take a special course in religious Pedagogy this last winter. He has just completed this course. When he has written his thesis he will receive the degree of Ph.D. in this special department. Mrs. Mackinnon is also an educationist of high attainments. She is a graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, as well as of the Deaconess Training Home in Toronto. In addition, she took with her husband, special studies in religious Pedagogy this past winter in Hartford. If Mr. Mackinnon accepts the call, and it is earnestly hoped he may, he will be a great addition to the religious and educational forces of this city.

LEFT-OVER DISH

Left-over fish may be served with oil and vinegar or lemon juice as a salad, or may be warmed up in an egg sauce which is drawn butter or white sauce with egg added.

SOUP STOCK

In preparing tock for soups gravies and dressings, remember that it should not stand in a covered receptacle after it is strained unless the cover is perforated.

WASHING BLACK FABRIC

Thought salt is excellent for putting into the water when washing colored materials, it should not be used for black fabrics, which must be dipped into a lather containing two or more teaspoonfuls of borax.

PRICE THREE CENTS — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1923 — PRICE THREE CENTS

THOUSANDS RENDERED HOMELESS BY MOLTEN LAVA FROM MT. ETNA

Farms and Villages Wiped Away By Hissing Stream of Lava—Lingualossa in Danger But May Be Saved.

NO LIVES LOST.

CATANIA, Italy, June 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Etna, or "The Mountain of Fire," as the Saracens called it, has shaken its colossal shoulders, and all its base, covering 90 miles in circumference, has trembled. One of the refugees from Lingualossa thus described the first symptoms of the vast eruption.

The earthquake was accompanied by terrifying rumbles and explosions, followed by a rain of ashes and cinders and clouds of smoke which almost choked the inhabitants.

"Then suddeniy," continued the narrator, "the doors of an inferno opened from the side of the volcano and a new yawning, burning chasm began throwing out fiery torrents of incandescent lava. It seemed to us the end of the world."

While the town of Linguaglossa is about 10,000 feet distant from the old crater, the eruption from the new crater was about 1,000 feet nearer, thus making the danger more imminent. Lava 30 feet deep and a mile and a half wide came rolling down on the doomed villages in its path, sweeping over orange and lemon groves which at this time of the year clothe t he mountain slopes with gold, and burning up the forests, which crackled fiercely, sending forth clouds of sparks in all directions.

The most serious loss to forestry has been the magnificent pine grove, which was the finest in Italy after the famous grove at Ravenna. The hamlets of Piccilo, Pallamelata and Ferro were completely burned, but it is thought that all the inhabitants and cattle escaped.

Carabineers, Fascisti and National Militia hastened to the scene of the catastrophe in full force with a large number of lorries and aided in transporting the inhabitants and their most valuable household goods. Even the railroad tracks were torn up to save them from being buried under the advancing stream. Yesterday afternoon the main body of lava was half a mile from Linguaglossa, having been broken into various rivulets by the outstanding spur of the mountain upon which the people had erected a statue of their patron saint. This spur seemed to form a kind of bulwark, checking the advance of the lava, and thus some hope is entertained that Linguaglossa will yet be saved.

The new crater is vaster than that formed by the last eruption in 1919; the ashes and cinders were so abundant that they were carried by the wind as far as Messina and Reggio, to the north, and Catania, Taormina and Syracuse to the south.

At night Mount Etna offers a fantastic spectacle; it is like an enormous brazier, from which cyclopic stones are hurled into space. A colossal mass of smoke, made brilliantly red by the fire in the interior of the crater lights up the sky, and beneath this are roaring flames.

Catania is filling with refugees, including most of the inhabitants of Linguaglossa and many from Randazzo, Bronte, Francavilla, Castiglione, Giardini and Fiume Freddo.

The people of Catania are extending every hospitality to the refugees, most of whom have been received into private houses, while the municiaplity has put at their disposal schools, covered markets, hospitals and theatres. Food supplies are being collected and there is not much danger of famine among the sufferers.

According to the latest news, the earthquake shocks continue with increasing panic among those inhabitants who have not yet made their way out of the threatened region, but there has been a still further sub-division of the lava stream and Linguaglossa is considered almost out of danger. The panic stircken people are raising prayers to St. Egidio, patron saint of Linguaglossa, who according to legend, in 1864 stopped the flow of lava at the very gates of the town.

One report estimates that 30,000 people are homeless in the stricken area.

FARMERS ADVISED USE MODERN IDEAS

Co-operation and Getting of Cost Systems Accurately and in Detail Necessary If Profit is to Be Shown.

OTTAWA, June 19.— (Canadian Press.)— That farmers in Canada would be far more prosperous if they kept in mind that the production of a heavy yield is the basis of retaining the lowest possible cost of production, was the contention of Edgar T. Archibald, Director of Dominion Experimental Farm before the special committee on Agricultural conditions yesterday.

He added that grading is a very important factor. If the farmers kept this in mind, calcuiated their costs on the basis of a unit, adopted the best methods of producing animal and field crops, used cow-testers and every means of knowing their business ,and kept sets of books to show losses and profits, there was no reason why they should not show profits.

In reply to Hon. S. F. Tolmie, former Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Archibald gave it as his opinion that if every farmer in Canada aimed at running his farm on what he described as an "ideal" method—co-operation and the getting of cost systems accurately and in detail — it would tremendously increase the products of agriculture in this country.

R. Gardiner, Progressive, Medicine Hat, here suggested that the result would be the production of so much more for the actual outlay of labor that they would have to place their products on the markets at a loss.

"I would just like to take a chance at that just once," exclaimed Dr. Tolmie.

Live stock, declared Mr. Archibald, was the basis for the greatest progress and greatest permanency. It was a source of year round work and year round income.

No Admission to the Delorme Trial.

MONTREAL, June 19.— (Canadian Press.)— Large cards bearing the words "No Admission" are being printed by order of Sheriff Lemieux to be affixed to the doors leading to the court of King's Bench, where the trial of Rev. Father Adelard Delorme on a charge of slaying his half brother Raoul, will open Wednesday.

The following official statement was issued yesterday by the Sheriff:

"Apart from principals in the case, court officials, jurymen and newspaper representatives, no one will be admitted to the Delorme trial. No special favors will be granted to anyone and this rule will be strictly applied to the public in general."

CONFERENCE ON MOROCCO WILL BE CALLED SOON

The British, French and Spanish Interests Seek Control of the Northern Gateway to Africa.

BRITISH ATTITUDE.

LONDON, June 19.— (Canadian Press.) — At the instance of the British Government, discussions will soon be started here by British, French and Spanish experts in an effort to discover whether a basis exists for the summoning of an international conference on the Tangier question.

It had been hoped to hold these discussions this week, but the non-arrival of delegates from Spain forced Foreign Secretary Curzon to defer them, If the experts reach a preliminary agreement, a full conference will be called at an early date. It is probable the Sultan of Morocco will be invited to attend the meeting.

The issue to be settled is the future international status of Tangier, the gateway to northern Africa. As Tangier lies opposite Gibraltar ,important British military, naval and financial interests are involved, and since Germany's withdrawal from Moroccan affairs, France has been anxious to secure a predominant position there.

The supreme authority is Tangier at present is the Sultan of Morocco. While the British do not question his sovereignty, they are not ready to admit that France, which maintains a resident general in Morocco, shall enjoy a position of suzerain power by acting through the Sultan. Great Britain favors internationalization and naturalization of Tangier, with the open door for all nations.

G. HOWARD FERGUSON PAYS A TRIBUTE TO A LOCAL LADY SPEAKER

Large and Attentive Audience Heard Conservative Leader Last Evening — Campaign Issues Discussed.

TIMBER DEALS.

A large and enthusiastic gathering filled the Grand Opera House last evening to hear Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative Party and other speakers.

Mr. E. A. Peck presided and in a brief address commended Mr. W. H. Bradburn, the candidate to the electors of West Peterborough. Mr. Peck apologized for the unavoidable absence in Toronto of Mr. R. Denne, President of the West Peterobrough Conservative Association.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn briefly reviewed his association with the municipal life of the city. Launching into provincial affairs Mr. Bradburn referred to what he characterized as an extravagant administration. Dissecting some of the large sums spent by the Drury administration, the speaker. was interrupted by a man in the audience, who said that some of the money was spent to widen the narrow roads built by previous governments.

Mr. Bradburn said he was in favor of good roads, but did not agree with the spendthrift policy of Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Highways.

"Did Mr. Tooms appoint a returned soldier when a local vacancy occurred," enquired the speaker in a reference to what he termed the "patronage system" of the last Government.

The Peterborough Normal School, Workmen's Compensation, Hydro electric, votes for women and prohibition. were things claimed by Mr. Bradburn for the Conservative Government of the past.

Singling out prohibition, the speaker said, it would remain on the statute books until the people indicated a desire to have it repeated.

"Mr. Drury has said he will not give the people an opportunity of repealing the O.T.A."

"That is the people's right." asserted the speaker.

Mr. Bradburn concluded with the following quotations and an appeal to the electors of West Peterborough.

Mr. Drury's opinion of Mr. Ferguson, as quoted by Mr. Bradburn, reads as follows:

Speaking at Grand Bend on August 18th, 1922, Mr. Drury gave the following statement, as reported in The Farmer's Sun: The Premier added:

"I am not making any charge that Mr. Ferguson ever benefitted to the extent of one dollar. Personally, I don't believe he did. I believe, personally, he's clean and never administered for his own benefit."

Mr. Hay's opinion of Mr. Ferguson, taken from Globe of March 30, 1922:

"From the knowledge I have of my hon. friend from Grenville, I am satisfied there was no personal interest in any of his transactions and that whatever action he took he believed to be in the best interest of the Province and of the department over which he presides."

What Drury said about the Liberals at Fenelon Falls, June 25th, 1920:

"Between the U.F.O. and the dead, defunct and discredited Liberal organization, there can be neither amalgamation, unification or endorsation."

"The Next Premier."

Mrs. Howard Fallis said she was deeply conscious of the honor of speaking on the same platform as the "next premier" of Ontario, the Hon .Howard Ferguson.

Women are not usurping man's work, they are simply taking their rightful place in the sun and completing some of the work left undone by the men, said Mr. Fallis. Men laughed at women's first active participation in public life, but now many of them regard the new order of things as a calamity. Mrs. Fallis said that though she was a farmer's wife she could not support the U.F.O. organization. The speaker lost interest in the U.F.O. once it became a political organization and subsequently seized the reins of government and proceeded to frame the laws for all. Had the farmers remained banded together as a non-political organization they could have been a power for good and forced the hands of any government. We must wake up to a realization of fact, said the speaker, that we are staggering under a heavy load of debt and return a government that will bring the country back to a state of normalcy.

Mrs. Fallis credited Hon. Peter Smith, provincial treasurer, with evolving a system of book-keeping that was guaranteed to show a surplus in spite of the tremendous deficit that might exist.

The speaker charged F. Wellington Hay, leader of the Liberal party, with passively agreeing to the reckless extravagance of the Drury administration during the four years that he sat in office and to-day both Mr. Drury and Mr. Hay are denouncing each other on the public platform.

The speaker said that on two previous occasions the Liberals while in power declined to put into operation a temperance referendum that had been endorsed by the people.

At the conclusion of her speech, Mrs. Fallis was presented with a bouquet of carnations.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

The first point of attack by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson was the failure of the Drury Government to live up to its promises in regard to cutting down expenses. The keynote of all the promises made by Mr. Drury was the trimming of expenditures, he said. During the preceding government the expenditure had grown to $19,000,000 but after three years in the hands of the Drury Government it had been trimmed to $38,000,000. "Mr. Drury came to my nomination meeting and charged me with sharing in this reckless expenditure," the speaker said. "He claimed that the civil service was overstocked with decrepit party hacks. He was to clean this out and replace the so-called decrepit old men with young men who would give service for what they received."

The speaker quoted figures showing that the expenses for civil servants had greatly increased under the Drury regime. Hon. Peter Smith was charged with losing money through his inexperience in dealing with New York and other brokers. He asked advice about the province's selling of bonds from the men who were buying, Mr. Ferguson said. Three weeks after the province sold certain bonds at $92 the brokers to whom they had been sold made resales at $100.

Ontario Highways.

The originator of transportation improvements was Whitney, the speaker declared. The average citizen wanted better transportation facilities and Whitney evolved a scheme based on conditions in England, France and United States whereby 460 miles of trunk highway would be constructed through the province with laterals leading to all parts of the province. The contemplated expenditure was $30,000,000.

This scheme has been multiplied 400 per cent. "I do not complain of that" Mr. Ferguson said. "We are anxious to see the province developed, and there is nothing that will help towards the development more than good roads." The speaker did take exception to the expenditure of $47,000,000 in three years, according to the latest figures given out by the minister. Some roads cost as high as $95,000 a mile.

The marker contract was another point of attack, the speaker criticizing the government for letting a contract at 23 cents when a bid of 11½ cents had been received, merely because of a wrinkle or twist on the marker. This wrinkle cost the province $30,000.

The company which got the contract was headed by Dr. J. L. Wright a dentist in Calgary who moved to Hamilton to incorporate the Canadian Color-Type Company Limited, and special facilities were given him to get the charter. "I do not charge for a minute" Mr. Ferguson said, "that Mr. Biggs had a personal interest in the contract, but I think he had a mighty interest in Dr. Wright for some reason or other."

Increased Taxes Result.

The increased expenditure has been passed on to the people of the province through taxation, the speaker declared. "The Prime Minister will tell you that not a dollar is coming out of your pockets, but we have not only exhausted every legitimate source of money but have raided the municipal field. We are also taking money from the race track, and race track gambling is one of the cess pools of vice in the Province of Ontario. We are partners in the business." Condemning the practice of taking profits from spirits sold for medicinal purposes, Mr. Ferguson exclaimed "if we are going to do that let us admit that we are in the business. This government says it is the embodiment of the virtues of temperance yet it is getting thousands of dollars out of the vices that they say are eating the heart out of the people."

Continuing his criticism of the extravagant expenditures of the Drury Government, Mr. Ferguson characterized the commissions as in-

CONFERENCE AT LAUSANNE WILL CEASE TO EXIST

Everything Adjusted Except Concessions and the Ottoman Debt—Deadlock on These Subjects.

TURKS CAUSE DELAY.

LAUSANNE, June 19.— (Canadian Press.)—The Near East Conference shows signs of dying from inertia. The Conference has practically ceased work; everything has been adjusted except concessions and the Ottoman debt, but the solution of the latter is not in sight. Otherwise, the treaty is set in type.

The delegations are simply sitting around waiting for something to happen; the Allies admit that the treaty may never be signed unless Turkey meets the Allied views on the payment on the interest on the debt. The Allies feel they are being forced into presenting a treaty to Turkey with a demand that it be signed, but apparently fear to adopt an ultimatum attitude because they are not sure that it would be effective. They remember that the Turks refused to sign in February when this was done, and no one wants the responsibility of a rupture, particularly as the Turks and the Allies are really not far apart.

The Allies assert that Turkey is diverting into its treasury revenue that should go to the Debt Council to pay interest and that what little funds reach the Council are eaten up by the cost of maintaining the Council.

M. Venizelos is also worried, fearing that peace between Greece and Turkey may become impossible if a general treaty is not signed. Venizelos and Ismet Pasha are exchanging mutual reproaches, charging that each is guilty of offences against the other's nationals.

GENERAL STRIKE MAY RESULT IN GERMANY FROM LOW CURRENCY

Third Session of International Court.

THE HAGUE, June 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The third session of the Permanent Court of International Justice, formed under the auspices of the League of Nations, was formally opened in the Peace Palace here yesterday, presided over by Dr. B. J. C. Loder, of Holland. The agenda for the session includes discussion of the status of Eastern Karelia, in dispute between Finland and Russia, after which a decision will be given in the case of the steamship Wimbledon, involving the right of transit through the Kiel Canal, and finally the question of the status of certain German property in Poland will be considered.

The new judge of the Court, Dr. Wang Chung-Hui, of China, and Professor Walter Schuecking, appointed by Germany a temporary judge to sit in the Wimbledon case in accordance with the Court rules, were duly installed.

Four-Year-Old Child Died From Exposure.

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., June 19. (Canadian Press.)— Word was received here yesterday of the death of an unknown four-year-old child as the result of Saturday night's storm, when the home of a settler four miles north of Sceptre was demolished. The child was not found until 11 o'clock Sunday morning and died a few hours later as a result of exposure.

New Low Price For the Mark and Feeling of Unrest May Cause Serious Industrial and Political Troubles.

FINANCES LOW.

BERLIN, June 19. — (Canadian Press). — Berlin was buzzing last night with talk of impending outlaw strikes after the mark had suffered a relapse which once during the day, saw it selling at 160,500 to the dollar among unofficial dealers. There was scarcely a household in the city last night where the question was not raised as to how far the German unit can or will fall. One newspaper answers the question with the simple statement: In Russia the dollar brings 100,000,000 Soviet rubles."

The new wave of depreciation has intensified the feeling of unrest among the laborers who have become accustomed to repeated increases in retail prices, which virtually keep pace with the exchange rate, while wages follow tardily.

The trade unions have already inaugurated negotiations with Chancellor Cuno and the Ministry of Labor with the object of remedying the wage difficulties due to the mark's depreciation but, there is wide-spread fear that the rank and file of the workers faced by still worse conditions, will get out of hand and strike.

It is currently stated that the trade unions' funds are so reduced by the collapse of the mark that the organizations could not in any case fiance legitimate strikes for any length of time.

Both labor leaders and Government officials are searching for some stable measure upon which wages can be based. Labor is said to be divided into two groups; one seeks a straight gold basis while the other favors the use of some other standard to estimate by, such a the price of some essential commodity, believing that the adoption of a gold stand ard would be impracticable unless applied simultaneously in all channels of the nation's life.

NEXT WINTER'S FUEL.

The question of next winter's fuel supply may be a very seasonable one in this month of roses and June brides, but it is nevertheless a problem about which there should be constant agitation.

Ontario has a fuel controller, and in most of the municipalities of the Province, including Peterborough, there are local controllers.

What are they doing at present?

How many of them are keeping in touch with the fuel situation? How many of them know what the conditions will be next winter? How many of them are considering what action can be taken to ensure a fuel supply for the families of limited means?

Or are they all marking time, waiting until the arrival of winter brings another crisis?

Many people who have the necessary means are seeing to it that their coal cellars are ready for winter—there is no need of worrying about them.

Unfortunately, however, the majority of citizens are unable to lay their hands on the funds required for the immediate purchase of the fuel they will need when Jack Frost comes into his own again.

They are perforce compelled to trust to finding coal available when they need it.

Are any steps being taken anywhere by fuel controllers to ensure that when the pinch comes there will be at least some reserve with which to meet it?

KILLING THE GOOSE.

The building trades in the United States seem to be determined to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, for plasterers, carpenters, bricklayers and painters are so greedy in their demands that many people have decided that their contemplated building operations can wait until the present wages topple down again, as they will have to topple when there is no work to be done.

Mr. E. S. Statler, well-known hotelman, whose new hotel in Buffalo has just been finished, has had an experience that shows how unreasonable are the demands of the building trades.

Examiner readers will doubtless be interested in the conditions described by him.

"Our new Buffalo hotel," says Mr. Statler, "has been building for two years, and I am glad that it is up. We began paying plasterers eight dollars a day on that job. They then demanded ten dollars a day, and we gave it to them; and then they followed this up by another two dollars, making twelve dollars a day.

"The union restricted plasterers to a five-day week in Buffalo, but the men demanded work on Saturday. They got it at double pay for overtime. Then they demanded to be put at work Sunday. We put them to work at double time for overtime. The plasterers got forty-eight dollars for the two days' overtime and earned one hundred and eight dollars a week.

"Unskilled labour, which began at thirty cents an hour on the new hotel, is now receiving seventy-five cents, an increase of a hundred and fifty per cent. in two years."

No wonder building operations across the line are beginning to slow down. Wages like these are impossibly high, and are putting a check to what under usual conditions would be a record building season.

PROTECTING THE FORESTS.

The action of the Provincial Government of New Brunswick in prohibiting all forest travel in the eight northern counties and the prohibition of all bush and slash burning seems to be a case of locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen.

The loss from the fires which have been raging in the virgin timber forests of the Province is already estimated at $5,000,000, and the flames are still continuing their havoc.

It is considered certain that these fires were caused either by the carelessness of the some woodsman or by a slash fire getting beyond control, hence the decision to eliminate risks of this kind by closing a number of counties to travellers and by making it an offence to burn brush.

New Brunswick's experience and the conditions existing in Quebec make it imperative that fishermen, campers and hunters in Ontario should see to it that no action on their part will expose the forests of this Province to the devastating effects of a bush fire on a large scale.

It is not a desirable step to have to close the forests to sportsmen, but it may become necessary unless they show by their actions that they are to be trusted.

The true sportsman, of course, takes pride in observing the rules of woodcraft, and among the most important of these is to be careful about camp fires.

The Examiner is sure that Peterborough people will live up to the standard in this respect.

INCONSISTENT ECONOMY ADVOCATES.

The best defence of the vast expenditures made by the Drury Government is that advanced by the Provincial Secretary, the Hon. H. C. Nixon, in addressing his constituents on Saturday.

Mr. Nixon declared that the expenditures of the Government were only those demanded by the people.

This may not be a complete explanation of the huge outlay of the U. F. O. regime, nor is it likely to be accepted as such by the majority of the electors, but Mr. Nixon has nevertheless touched upon a condition that exists not only in Provincial, but also in Federal and municipal politics.

Everywhere in Canada the people are crying out for economy in Government expenditure.

They complain of the burden of taxation and bitterly declare that the municipal administration and the Provincial and Dominion Governments are extravagant.

Yet these very people are always willing to lend their assistance to enterprises demanding aid from one governing body or another.

They are ready to demand of the Federal Government that large sums be spent on unnecessary public works in their immediate vicinity.

They urge the Provincial administration to make outlays for a score of different purposes, many of them of no great importance.

Of their City Council they ask special grants for one thing and another.

Always demanding economy, yet always suggesting expenditure, these citizens are the essence of inconsistency.

No doubt that is what the Provincial Secretary had in mind when he choose that line of defence for the Government of which he is a member.

THE FUEL PROBLEM.

An adequate provision of fuel must be assured to the Canadian people before the first snow flurry of next fall, says the Montreal Star. They must enter the winter free from the haunting dread that any day their supply may be cut off. This is only possible if Canadians consume Canadian coal, for continued dependence on a foreign producer can mean nothing else than a precarious supply.

Yet in Quebec and Ontario, Canadian cannot compete with American coal. These two great industrial Provinces have practically no fuel supply of their own and must, if they wish to free themselves of the Pennsylvania yoke, ship from Nova Scotia or Alberta. But the long train haul has hitherto kept supplies from the latter coal-field at a prohibitively high figure. It is therefore the Government's duty to solve the problem of transportation and so arrange matters between producer, distributer and consumer that Alberta coal can find a profitable market in Ontario and Quebec. It is satisfactory that the Government are now investigating this question as well as that of the economic use of other species of fuel. Stubborn adherence to anthracite as the only furnace fuel is largely due to ignorance and superstition.

THE FISCAL PROBLEM.

When members of Parliament begin to talk of the possibility of political union with the United States, there is no need to underline the gravity of the situation, says the Montreal Star. The fiscal problem which must confront any Finance Minister of whatever party, is perplexing, if not appalling. He has a yearly deficit to face which can only be met by multiplying taxation or by piling another mortgage on the national estate. There is no other alternative.

Yet to make taxation in Canada conspicuously higher than it is across the border in the United States, is to doom this country to sure and certain ruin. It will be just as bad to be taxed to death as to be assassinated—financially—in any other way. Sir John Macdonald was wont to declare that we must make Canada a cheaper country to live in than the American Republic. It may not be necessary to do this today; but it is necessary to make sure that it is not dearer by reason of notoriously higher taxation.

There is just one policy for us to pursue if we would win through to safety—as we most emphatically believe that we can and will—and that is to "carry on" until an increased population convert our inexhaustible natural wealth into legal tender.

To do this, we must continue to borrow money. This is the justification of the new loan proposed by Mr. Fielding. We hope that the Canadian public will see clearly that under present conditions this cannot be avoided, and that it therefore becomes a patriotic duty to support Mr. Fielding in floating his new cargo of securities. The greater the proportion of these new bonds that are taken in Canada, the better will it be for the Dominion. We shall then have our national debt more completely in our own hands, and the interest paid on this Canadian-purchased paper will stay in the country.

ONLY HALF TOLD AND STILL ASTONISHING.

Marvel is added to marvel as the story of the Mary Beatrice's voyage from Havana to New York is slowly dragged out of the Chinese who survived the amazing battle with the remnant of her crew, says the New York Times. But there are added mysteries at least as many, and it is perfectly evident that the whole tale has not been told. Perhaps it never will be, for much in it might be dangerous to those who now are doing just the amount of talking that seems safe to them, and the remainder may be not less closely locked behind the lips of the cautious fifteen than it is behind those of the four and the five—and the possibly more—who are maintaining the proverbial reticence of the dead.

What is certain, however, is that one would have to go far back in the chronicles of the sea, or to the Far Eastern waters, to find the like of this gory narrative. Michael Scott and Captain Marryat decribed fights on ships' decks and in ships' cabins that were sufficiently savage; Stevenson and Clark Russell drew from imagination like desperate encounters between desperate men, and even Conrad occasionally has intruded physical tragedies among those of the mind so much better liked by him. But not one of the sea historians or romancers has been able to surpass the horror of what happened as dusk came on and bloody war broke out on the little Nassau sponger.

That the Chinese gave an unexpectedly good account of themselves in the affray is obvious, and their assailants—if they were assailed—must have been vastly and terribly surprised to discover that, unlike the wolf, it would have been judicious for them to count the supposed sheep before attacking. From present indications, the fifteen living Chinese are in the fortunate position of those who present their own side of a case and have nobody to contradict it. Whoever will may doubt, but who can deny? If the fifteen hang together, there seems to be no likelinood that any of them will hang separately.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough voters had a chance to hear Mr. Ferguson last night, the Premier was here two weeks ago and Mr. Hay comes tomorrow night. By Thursday they should be able to come to a decision.

Its an ill wind, etc. British and French steamship companies may be forced by the United States dry regulations to use a Canadian port as a depot.

Trade figures for the month of May show that Canadian exports and imports are both larger than for the corresponding month last year. The figures are welcome.

With 1,300 Londoners holding home-brew permits, the Forest City people evidently do not believe that prohibition begins at home.

As usual, with prorogation in sight, the House of Commons is substituting action for talk. It would be a grand thing for the country if this policy were adopted from the beginning of the session.

What were you paying, Madam, for EGGS?

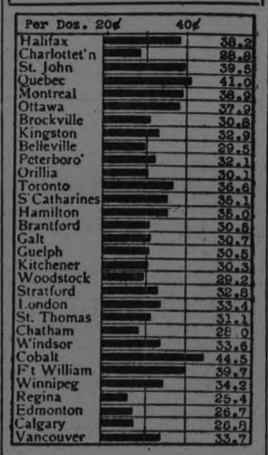
The Department of Labor at Ottawa says these were the average prices for May.



How do prices in your locality compare with other cities? Are you paying more or less than average? These prices are for average good quality "delivered" goods. Watch for the changes in this chart next month.

To-morrow:—Milk.

League of Nations Existence Justified.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 19.—(Canadian Press.)—The existence of the League of Nations was justified if it merely remained as a final court of appeal in a time of national emergency such as occurred in 1914. This was the opinion expressed by Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden at the annual meeting of the League of Nations Society held at Ottawa yesterday. He dwelt on the horrors which would ensue as a result of a new international war and stressed the importance of the business man realizing that the League was the only existing agency to prevent increased taxation and commercial confusion.

FRY IN DEEP FAT

In cooking remember it is really cheaper to fry things in deep fat than to use only surface fat, removing it as it becomes absorbed. The same deep fat can be used a number of times.

GENERAL STRIKE

At any rate, it is asserted the workmen appreciate that their wages cannot be put back to the pre-war level. but at most merely placed on such foundation that they may automatically rise witr the rate of exchange. This has already been attempted to a certain extent by the use of the Government's index figure as a basis, but depreciation has become so rapid that labor has become dissatisfied with this system, especially as the index figure is announced only fortnightly.

Some quarters regard the rumblings of outlaw strikes as one of the causes of the mark's new slump; Other continue to attribute it to German's political prospects abroad and the heavy demand lately among German industrialists for foreign currencies.

Vorwaerts declares that the slump was due largely to the considerable quantities of Germany currency dumped on the market to-day for the account of Knauth, Nachod and Kuhne, the New York firm, which recently went into bankruptcy and which had close relations with some German concerns. The drop in exchange was met with a quick reflex in the stock market, where shares soared usually.

The Dollar officially was 147,630 to 148,370 as compared with Saturday's 114.712 to 115.288. Late in the afternoon the Dollar reached 160,500 unofficially. The rumor was circulated on the Bourse for a time yesterday that hereafter the mark would not be given official quotation in New York.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BIRTHDAY, CAVAN

Capacity of the Methodist Church Taxed For Anniversary Services.

MILLBROOK, June 19.—The anniversary services of Cavanville Methodist Sunday School were held on Sunday, June 17th, morning and evening, the church being taxed to capacity at night, and an unusually large number gathering in the morning congregation. Rev. S. T. Tucker of Millbrook, exchanged pulpits with Rev. S. G. Rorke for the first service, while Rev. A. J. Langford, of Trinity chuch, Peterboro, was the speaker at night. The special music prepared by the choir for the day was much enjoyed, the evening selections including the anthem, "Sing unto the Lord a New Song", with a solo by Miss Annie Tinney, and the praise number, "'Tis Wondrous", after the sermon.

The text chosen was from 1st Corinthians, 3rd chapter, verses 21-23: "All things are ours; Whether Paul, or Appolos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours; and ye are Christ's, and Christ's is God's." The divisions in the church at Corinth led the apostle to write the letter from which text was taken and Paul is trying to give them a bigger outlook than were demoninationalism and bickerings over the question of leadership. "All things are yours," he says; a wonderful assertion, suiting some natures which in unreasoning selfishness would grasp, and hedge about for self alone, all material things. But for such a one the statement is not literally true; only for those who have the broad outlook of the Spirit of God, and see the universal brotherhood of man wrapped up in the Fatherhood of God; in that sense every child of the Father can say, "All things are mine, for I am Christ's, and Christ is God's." No church, or sect, has a monopoly of any truth which it especially emphasizes; every real spiritual fact which nourishes the soul, as food does the body, no matter where found is the personal property of the Christian in the Lord Jesus. It was meant for the heart and mind of man the wide world over to lift heavenward and Godward.

"The world is yours," says Paul, and again the selfish man is gratified with such a gospel; but self is the great usurper of the rights of Christ, and such a nature can never come to the crown for which God created individual souls. Desire the world to exploit it for God—to be a co-worker with Him in the service of your fellowmen, then it becomes yours in a very real sense as one with your elder brother or his inheritance.

Life Is Yours.

"Life is yours" again Paul is saying. O to be sure of that, is the cry of many a heart. And one can be sure; the apostle is not uttering deceptive words in his assertion. If you can further say, "I am Christ's" life is yours here and still will be yours when the call comes and you have passed into the Master's presence. The future will be a continuation of growth in usefulness and knowledge if through faith we have made it secure in Christ. Human life is a continual expenditure, only as we live by faith, we turn it into continual investment.

Death is Yours.

Speaking on the amazing thought, "death is yours", the minister gave such words of comfort and illuminating comment that his hearers gained a new vision; one which will long remain in their hearts bringing refreshment in times of trial and sorrow as a well in the desert gives new life to the thirsty traveller. "We are death's", is the usual viewpoint; "he is master no man may say him nay; none can escape his call, nor stay his coming." How then mine? The only way of possession is through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. While unregenerate in nature there is no hope, nor peace of soul. Lean upon this fact, "He hath made Him to be sin for us, who knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

We thoughtlessly say, "man has a soul"; whereas the correct statement is, "man is soul, and has a body," the latter the instrument used to give expression to thought, intention, and volition. But when that tool is worn out, returned to Mother Earth, the real "me" passes into the larger and more progressive life, furnished with a glorified body suitable for expressing the activities of that other world as long as eternity shall endure. And so "things to come" are yours; every day bringing brighter visions, fuller knowledge, greater love, in the joy of abundant life in the immediate presence of the Father. To this life, with the heart linked up with that of our brother man, beginning here the glory inconceivable of the riche life beyond, God calls us. "Add to godliness, brothery kindness, and to brothery kindness, love." All things are yours because you have sworn allegiance to Christ, and Christ is God's. "Father I will that they also whom Thou hast given Me be with Me where I am, that they may behold my glory, as Thou, Father art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us."

Words of Farewell.

Before the congregation was dismissed the pastor, Rev. Mr. Rorke, spoke a few words of farewell as the relationship of pastor and people has ceased to exist. Mr. Rorke retires from the ministry at the close of this conference year. The official relationship might cease to exist but the ties of warm friendship which had been formed during the past three years would never be severed, the speaker said, and the place which his people on the Cavan circuit had come to occupy in his heart could never be taken by any other. The beautiful hymn "Will your anchor hold?" was a most appropriate one for the conclusion of the service.

COUNCIL APPOINTED.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., June 19. — (Canadian Press.)— James E. McGlade, Barrister, has been notified of his appointment as counsel to the Royal Commission, appointed by the Dominion Government to investigate the granting of gratuities and other matters in connection with former officials of the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

LIQUIDATE 1914 FAILING

OTTAWA, June 19.—(Canadian Press).— The ilquidation of the Bank of Vancouver, which failed in 1914, has not been completed, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Conservative, Vancouver Centre, was told by the Minister of Finance in the House of House of Commons to-day. Mr. Fielding added that the claims of depositors who rank as ordinary creditors, were for $349,590 on which no payment has yet been made. The preferred creditors had claims of $463,388 which have not been paid in full.

PECULIAR PRANKS OF STORM IN WEST

Little Girl Was Blown From Her Parents' Arms and Lost For Ten Hours.

REGINA Sask., June 19.—(Canadian Press)—The nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rudd, of Uren, who was returning to her home from Chaplin with her parents was blown from the buggy just at the outskirts of Uren and was lost for ten hours. The buggy was upset just as the child was torn from her mother's grasp. In the inky darkness and raging wind and rainstorm the little one could not be located by the frantic parents who shouted and sought in vain.

Provincial police officers organized a search before 1 o'clock and assisted by residents of the district found the little girl sound asleep in in a deserted shack a mile and a half from the point the buggy upset. The child appeared none the worse for the experience.

Stanley McDuff lost everything he owned in the storm, house, barn, granary and garage. He had driven to his place from his father's home and drove into the garage for shelter When the storm cleared he was sitting in his car on the spot where the garage had stood very much dazed but uninjured.

With mile of telephone wires down it is impossible to determine accurately the extent of the storm swept district. It is believed to have stopped two miles from Uren and about four or five miles west of Morse.

WOMEN MAY SOON ENTER MINISTRY

Feeling in England That the Anglican Church is Slowly Moving Toward Ministry of Women.

LONDON, June 19.— (Canadian Press.) — The Anglican church is slowing moving towards definite recognition of the ministry of women.

At Sheffield Cathedral Sunday Bishop Burrows formally admitted several women, including his own wife to the office of women messengers in the diocese. What exact status is conferred is not clear but apparently it does not include any authority to preach or take ministerial part in the services actually held in the church. The ceremony of initiation, however, was clearly intended to demonstrate that these women were called to a special vocation. The Bishop asked before the whole congregation if enquiry had been made into candidate's "life, conversation and knowledge of the scriptures" and from the candidates themselves he required individual affirmation to "observe the order and discipline of the Church of England and endeavor to frame your lives to be a wholesome example to the people among whom you live."

The Bishop added: "The uncertain prospects in this world which the ministry of the established church here now offers its ordained male members has caused such a dearth of curates as practically to force the Anglican communion to bestow more attention upon the ministry of women."

Preaching in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday Canon Alexander declared that the church as a whole was wanting in originality and imagination and regarded those qualities with suspicion.

YOUNG'S POINT NEWS.

Laxative Syrup Pepsin Helps Nature Give Relief

Try it when a Laxative is needed and see the wonderful results

IT is not necessary to take a violent physic for so simple an ailment as constipation. Yet many thoughtless parents give mercury in the form of calomel, and coal-tar in the form of phenol when a natural vegetable compound like Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin will do the work equally well and without danger. People should realize that mercury may salivate and in certain conditions loosen the teeth; that phenolphthalein, by whatever name known and however disguised in candy, may cause dermatitis and other skin eruptions; that salt waters and powders may concentrate the blood, dry up the skin and cause lassitude.

You can take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin yourself or give it to a babe in arms, as thousands of mothers do every day, with the confidence that it is the safest and best medicine you can use for constipation and such complaints. A teaspoonful will relieve you over night even if the constipation has been chronic for years. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is a compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, and does not cramp or gripe. Every druggist handles it, and bottles are so generous that the cost amounts to only a cent a dose. You buy it with the understanding that if it does not do as claimed your money will be refunded. The names of all the ingredients are on the package.

Mrs. Geo. Reeve, of Galt, Ont., uses Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin with good results and is greatly pleased with it; and Mrs. K. Jennings, of Toronto, Ont., finds it very satisfactory. Bring a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin into your own home and let the family use it for constipation, biliousness, wind, gas, headaches, flatulency, and to break up fevers and colds.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE

Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try my Laxative Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 23 Caldwell Building, Toronto, Ont. Do it now!

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, June 19.—Cobourg Town Council at a special meeting held on Wednesday evening decided to hold Civic holiday on Monday, August 6.

A by-law was passed fixing the rate of 42 mills on the dollar. This is the same figure as last year and considering the heavy expenditure for the paving of King and William streets is quite satisfactory to the ratepayers. Hitherto it had been necessary to pay the first instalment of taxes on town properties in July, but citizens are given until the first of August this year to make the first payment.

Picnics Every Day.

Notwithstanding the unseasonably cold weather picnic parties assemble every day at Victoria Park, and have their luncheon or supper at that beautiful spot.

Yesterday the Cobourg Farmers' Club held their annual picnic at Gore's Landing Park, Rice Lake.

Thirty Cases of Liquor Seized.

Thirty case of liquor were seized at Pickering by officers from the Department at Toronto who got their tip from Cobourg to be on the scene. The same day that speed, traffic officer Wilson was seriously injured by colliding while riding his motorcycle with a car on the Provincial Highway, he informed License Inspector George Gooderich here that he had seen two cars pass through about a half hour before, that he suspected were carrying liquor. It was too late to take up the chase from here, but Inspector Gooderich telegraphed to Bowmanville and District Inspector Bumpstead who was in town, communicated also with the head office, Toronto. The result was that officers started out from the city and met the cars at Pickering. Thirty cases of liquor were seized and three men placed under arrest. Neither of these cars, however, was the one that the traffic officer was following when he met with his accident.

Music Study Club.

At the annual meeting of the Cobourg Music Study Club held at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Stone, the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. A. J. Gould; vice-pres., Mrs. J. J. Kerr; secretary, Mrs. J. E. Stone; assistant secretary, Miss Feir; treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Skidmore.

Popular Presentations.

As Mrs. Wilson, wife of Rev. J. S. I. Wilson is leaving town shortly, occasion was taken to present her with a vase and beautiful flowers. Mrs. Wilson has been a useful and valued member of the club during her residence in town. Mrs. J. J. Kerr, the retiring president, was presented with a beautiful boquet of flowers as a tribute to her capable and faithful service.

Afternoon tea was served and a very pleasant social hour followed the regular session. Among those who contributed to the programme were: Mrs. J. J. Kerr, Mrs. J. S. I. Wilson, Mrs. Gould and Miss Allen. The latter not only sang, but gave a much enjoyed paper on the musical festival recently held in Toronto.

Aged Resident Passes.

Mrs. Behan, widow of the late John Behan, and before her marriage, Mary Joice Watson, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nelson in Hamilton township, and her funeral took place on Thursday to St. Michael's church and cemetery here. Mrs. Behan was one of the oldest, if not the oldest resident of Hamilton township. She had been in failing health for some time.

Injured Man Recovering.

Wilbert Graham, who had his collar bone broken, when his motorcycle collided with a car at the corner of King and George streets and was taken to the Cobourg Hospital, is improving.

Automobiles Collided.

Thursday evening a collision occurred here between an Overland car driven by Mr. Gouden and a Chevrolet driven by T. Burnett, Jr. at the corner of Division and Havelock streets. Both cars were badly damaged, but none of the occupants were seriously injured.

Masonic Officers.

At the last meeting of St. John's Lodge A.F. and A.M. the following officers were elected: W.M., J. W. Spragge; I.P.M., Mr. A. Hewson; S.W., H. S. Denton; J.W., Dr. F. R. Dreury; chaplain, J. W. Bickle; secretary, M. A. Hewson; treasurer, T. J. Stenhouse; tyler, P. Duncan; auditors, J. F. McCullogh and Hugh Cameron.

The installation is to take place on Thursday, June 28.

Social and Personal.

Miss F. Jennings of Pittsburgh is in town visiting her friends, Mrs. David Dick.

Dr. P. McNoughton, medical superintendent of the Ontario Hospital and Mrs. McNaughton left last week to motor to Detroit, where Dr. McNaughton will attend the Phsychiatric convention. They will also visit other places and will be absent for about a fortnight.

Major Nealon, formerly of Haldimand township was in town on Friday and is removing his effects to Toronto where he will take up residence.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kay have returned to their country home here for the summer season after spending the winter in Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank White have left for a trip of two or three months duration to England, Ireland and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Fitzhugh have returned to town from Washington for the summer.

Mr. Thomas Mitchell has left for Chicago, where her brother will join her and they will go on to Vancouver and Seattle.

AT YOUNG'S POINT.

Miss Hazel Bullock visited friends in Peterboro on Wednesday.

Master Bernard Johnston of Lakefield, nephew of Miss Laura McFarlane, entertained a number of his small friends to a birthday party on Friday at the Carleton House.

The many friends of Rexford Wilson will regret to heart that he is suffering from the effects of a very bad fall, his wrist being badly sprained. He also suffered a serious shaking up.

The ideal soap for toilet and bath. Soothing to even a baby's skin. Try it to-day.

INFANTS DELIGHT IT'S WHITE TOILET SOAP

Commencing FRIDAY, June 15th and until further notice, Steamer will leave the Lake in the Morning, and will leave Lakefield on arrival of the Noon Train for the Lake.

G. HOWARD FERGUSON

had been personally convinced of the practicability of burning over bush land while snow was on the ground to prevent standing timber and seedlings from being destroyed, but he could not persuade the lumbering concerns to carry out the scheme. The Shevelin Clarke interest promised to put this plan in operation, and the system if carried out throughout Ontario would mean a saving of millions of dollars. There is four times as much timber lost through burning as is cut, he said. Following the investigations and commissions appointed by the Drury Government the Shevelin Clarke interest were literally held up and compelled to pay a figure which was in excess of the value placed on the timber in that locality either before or since that time.

Regarding the charge that Allan McDonald was selected for the important business of cruising and reporting on the timber in certain limits, Mr. Ferguson said this was false. Mr. McDonald was only a pacer, a subordinate in the party. He had nothing whatever to do with the measuring of timber. James Noult who had spent all his life in the bush, who knew all about timber, who had made 15 cruises in this district and who was expert in valuation of timber, was the man appointed to cruise the limits in question. McDonald was his helper. The commission, Mr. Ferguson charged, confined Noult's examination to three minutes, when he was dismissed. McDonald was called on to give evidence about the timber when he knew nothing and was expected to know nothing about it. The crown was aware of this fact, the speaker said. "Do you think that that is British justice?" he asked. "Do you think that is a fair attitude for the Attorney General to take? I have nothing to apologize for. It is the darkest blot that ever stained the escutcheon of Ontario's law department, that men are driven and coerced for political purposes."

The O.T.A.

"No law can be properly enforced unless it is backed by public opinion" said Sir James P. Whitney, and this, Mr. Ferguson claimed, is the only spirit in which the O.T.A. can be successfully enforced. This legislation was introduced as a war measure to turn the money that was being expended on liquor into channels which would benefit the men at the front. On their return it was again put to the people and by 400,000 they voted for its continuation.

"You said you wanted it continued" the speaker said, "and it will be continued, because it is your legislation and not the act of any parliament. I don't agree with Raney in his methods of law enforcement. I agree with the Whitney policy and with Hanna and to a certain extent with J. J. Morrison. If you can not create sympathy for a law you cannot expect respect for it. Raney boasts the amount he has taken in fines under the O.T.A. and thinks it is a great thing. I think it is the greatest sign of depravity we have." (applause.) Mr. Ferguson continuing, criticized the system that sends 15 year old boys and abandoned women with money to solfcit men to buy whiskey. "That is a splendid class of people to have control of the legislation of the province" he said. "If you want that kind of law enforcement vote for Mr. Tooms. You will never get it from me. I believe in British traditions of law enforcement."

Business Policy Needed.

"When you have considered seriously just what the condition in the province is today you will reach the conclusion that there must be a change in the business policy of the province" the speaker said in his quiries to furnish brains for the government. Twenty-six Royal Commissions were appointed by the Drury Government in three and one half years, at a cost of $1,017,000.

The Timber Commission.

Answering charges made by the Federal member for West Peterboro in connection with the timber deals with the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co. and the Abitibi Co., Mr. Ferguson produced a paper which he said contained proof that the statements of Mr. Gordon were not correct. He claimed that the Minister of Lands and Forests transferred on November 20, 1922 to the Abitibi Company the land which Mr. Ferguson is said to have given them some years before. On April 16, 1923, the Minister transferred to the Spanish River Company 5,000 miles of timber limit which Mr. Ferguson was stated to have given away four or five years before. "That" Mr. said, "is some evidence of the work and the political attitude of the commission who were investigating the affairs of the province."

The Shevelin Clarke Deal.

The speaker explained that the motive behind the Shevelin Clarke deal was not the transfer of timber land but an experiment in preventing forest destruction by fire. He concluding remarks. "If men of capability and experience are not to isterest themeselves in the business affairs of the province, it is facing direct taxation. That can be avoided by sending men who are trained in business matters to represent you."

Long-Distance Race Was Won By Memory.

HALIFAX, N.S., June 19.—(Canadian Press.) — A cable received here from Bermuda states that the yachts in the race from New London, Conn., to Bermuda, crossed the finish line at St. George's in the following order:

Memory, Seafarer, Malabar IV., Ladona, Caroline, Damaris, Flying Cloud, (schooner); Flying Cloud, (sloop); Black Hawk, Bagheera, Sunbeam, Surprise, Mary Ann, Dainty, Sea Call, Whistler.

Five boats have yet to come in.

The time allowances have not yet been finally worked out, but Memory, owned by R. N. Bavier, wins the race, receiving six hours and beating scratch boat. She crossed the line Sunday morning.

Some very close finishes were made. Three boats crossed within a minute and a half of each other. The weather on the passage alternated between squalls and calms.

TASSEL TRIMMINGS.

Very long tassels of silk or jewels are frequently seen on the most expensive frocks. Sometimes the fringe of the tassel is long enough to reach from the waistline to the hemline.

For the Summer days

Light, wholesome, satisfying—all the meat of the whole wheat cooked by a process that makes it 100 per cent digestible—topped with red-ripe strawberries, or other fruits and served with cream. You might eat a full course dinner and not get as much real food as you get from two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with berries. Contains just enough bran to keep the digestive tract clean and healthy. Shredded Wheat is ready-cooked and ready-to-eat—a wife-saver in the Summer days.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat cracker—a real whole wheat toast—eaten with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

FOR more than two weeks Mrs. Harold Van Neiss, of Hartford, Conn., had been a guest at the smart hotel of a resort frequented by the punctilious in the late Spring and early Summer. She had telegraphed for her suite in advance and it had awaited her.

She had comported herself with those outwardly recognizable marks of breeding and wealth that no one senses more shrewdly and surely than the clerk of a hotel that is the rendezvous of the elect.

She hadn't "mixed" to a conspicuous extent, she hadn't flirted, she had revealed her boredom through an affectation of affability, she had tipped generously but not flamboyantly, she had dressed cleverly and strikingly, but not stunningly; she had received few letters and no telegrams or long-distance calls, (in which she stood distinct against the showgirl and sporty blonde element that couldn't be barred, but wasn't encouraged), and she paid her bills not too promptly, yet without taking too much grace, with her own checks on a Boston bank.

The urbane chief clerk, Monty Lephont, thought her a humdinger. He had an eye for the ladies and a remote but persistent dream that some day a wealthy widow—or a wife willing to go to Reno

That Was the Last That Monty Saw of Mrs. Van Neiss, of Hartford, Conn.

—or a love-impulsive heiress—would give him a second look, and a third, and elope with him across the front pages of a nation, casting to the breezes the conventions of society and snobbishness for him, the man of her heart.

He was a handsome chap, was Monty; most chief day clerks are.

The waitresses, the stenographers, the town girls and the tramps who haggled about their room-rates, annoyed him with languishments and blandishments. He was out of luck, though, with the mistresses of the millions. They chatted with him, liked him—some of them even openly admired him—but it never clicked to substantial results.

Just such a party as the subdued, distinctive Mrs. Van Neiss was Monty's heroine of the fantasies that he unbottled only in the seclusion of his own upstairs-rear room and his own upstairs-front fancies.

He knew class when he saw it across the glass-topped social barrier that was the register desk. He had rated too many rococo climbers and near-rich four-flushers not to single out the silk-lined goods from the cut of the cloth. The very best had registered with him—registered every way you want to apply the term. So had ex-saloon-keepers and their wives and daughters—even less legitimate companions; so had school teachers going in over their heads, and brash vamps breezing in on speculation; but they didn't bamboozle Monty Lephont for a minute. They got a formally courteous reception, yes; he was a professional greeter and he had a prop smile for every patron. But he had certain manifestations that he reserved for those who could appreciate them—such as Mrs. Van Neiss, of Hartford, Conn.

He had divined that she would want 207-A. He had felt it when he read her telegram ordering rooms—that was just how she had expressed it, "rooms." Not "suite," not "adjoining rooms with bath," no traveling salesman trade terms—just "rooms." She had presumed the rest. And she had presumed correctly, for she had presumed, probably, that the message would fall into the hands of a Monty Lephont. He, who opened and scanned many demands and requests for accommodations, saw at one glance that the telegram ran twelve words and wasn't night-lettered or day-messaged, but sent "straight." That meant more than just wealth. It bespoke a regal quality that only one familiar with telegraphic psychology can appreciate.

He had imagined her about as she turned out to be. "Mrs. Harold Van Neiss" might be the name of a middle-aged widow or a superannuated dowager. But, no. He had it in his vibrations when he marked "207-A" across the yellow face of the typewritten dispatch that she was young, alluring, slender, smart but snappy.

He was, in truth, excitedly in love with her before he had ever seen her. He rolled over the name in his mind—it was such a tony name. And Connecticut is such an established, conservative little state. New York might mean anything from the 400 to a prizefighter's sweetie. Chicago, while it had many gilt-edged society families (as did St. Louis, Kansas City, Baltimore, California, and even Milwaukee), didn't spell the "goods" prima facie. Boston? Very tony, but had so often proved disappointing. But Hartford, Conn.! He had never been in Connecticut, but it was historic ground; it was such a small state that it really hadn't much room for undesirables; it—well, it rustled like our best people.

And a "Van" meant something. Yes, it meant almost everything. Connecticut—he had a faint schoolboy memory—had been settled by the British, whereas the Vans had emigrated to New York. But some of the Vans, surely, must have left vulgar Manhattan when too many foreigners crowded in and too many roughnecks got rich. And where would a Van gravitate to rather than Connecticut?

When Mrs. Van Neiss had walked to his desk—crossed the vast lobby very simply and without fanfare or fuss—he looked up over his book, put on his very topplest smile, and said, "How do you do, Mrs. Van Neiss?" And she had bowed—didn't seem at all surprised that he should know her; didn't seem half as surprised as he himself realized he was. She didn't inquire whether her message had arrived or anything else—she was accustomed to service and never feared that it would not await her. She had asked no questions at all. Monty simply handed the key to 207-A toward a luggage-boy as she wrote, in unstrained backhand, her name and her city and state, and that was all of that episode.

That was all except the flurry and the flutter under the immaculate white shirt of Monty Lephont. That was all except the flush on his well-trained cheeks. That was all except the tremble of his hand that spilled a blot of ink on the register sheet that it was his pride to keep as unsoiled as his shirt. That might have been all there was to it for her; but for him, oh! For him there was infinitely more.

Monty didn't see her again for hours. During those hours he was absent minded of all else but her. He hoped she would have occasion to address him again. He almost hoped her rooms would displease her, though that would have been a direct assault on his own perfect judgment, refined taste and expert execution, so that he might exchange sentences with her.

But 207-A seemed to suit Mrs. Van Neiss of Connecticut, for she never piped a peep. Only when he saw her enter the lounge after dinner, gowned exactly as he had prophesied to himself she would be, did he again catch a glimpse of her. He watched her steadily, though discreetly, until, after a short half hour during which she watched the buzzing resorters with an impersonal survey, she entered the elevator and disappeared for the night.

Monty had seldom been affected quite as deeply as Mrs. Van Neiss had penetrated. He knew, of course, and he considered it bitterly, that he could not offer any advances, even the most diplomatic kind, such as he might had he been a guest, even though a total stranger. Here was he, the only man under that roof who had spoken to her, and the only one who under no circumstances dared speak to her again unless by some divine accident or some providential inspiration she should address him.

Monty frequently fraternized with guests. Many of them rather courted his company. But these were not Van Neisses and they came from localities nowhere near Connecticut. He knew that he had manners that not even a head waiter could outshine, that he was more favored of looks than most of the sublimated shipping-clerks and Scotch-shocked rich men's sons who wafted so freely about the lobbies and links. He knew that outside that hotel his address and personality would ingratiate him with almost anyone. Yet he knew that he was against the wall of professional ethics and at the mercy of whimsical circumstance in the matter of Mrs. Van Neiss, who might never again chance to look his way.

He saw her from time to time within the next several days and evenings. Each sight seemed to make her more infatuating. She dressed with simplicity yet individuality, and with each change of costume she displayed to his scrutinizing eye some new charm, some distinctive something that kept her always fresh and new as well as continuously fascinating.

The luck of the gods was running consistently against Monty. Once when Mrs. Van Neiss seemed as though she were heading directly for his desk and him she stopped abruptly as though taken with a suddenly remembered purpose and turned and walked off at an angle toward the news-stand. Again, when he passed her on the bridle path and raised his proper skimmer at a most elegant angle, her animal got a temporary pawing fit and her eyes were down at the reins and bit until he had passed. He pulled up his own horse and waited—hoped; if her mount had only run away or bucked! It would have been a golden opportunity, for Monty, who rode daily (deadhead), would have rescued her. But no; the perverse beast responded to her gentle cooing and her velvet touch, and trotted off as amiably as a cow.

When the great moment did arrive, however, it caught Monty with his back turned, unprepared, off his balance. He was punching the time on a charge-slip when a silvery voice called "Mr. Lephon-n-nt," and he came about in his everyday manner only to suddenly drop his jaw and awkwardly recover when he saw it was Mrs. Van Neiss of Connecticut.

That she addressed him by name had no pointed significance. There was a little brass sign in view with his name in the slot under "Clerk on Duty." Still, she had noticed it; she at least knew his name. Most guests just called him "Beg Pardon."

"Y—yes, Mrs. Van N-n-eiss-s-s-s," he contrived to answer. "How can I be of service?"

"I want a check cashed, please."

Lephont mechanically turned his eyes toward Willimer, the cashier, a bald and acidulated gentleman who tolerated guests only because he was required to, who viewed everybody as a potential and probable dead-beat, who suspected every check he handled was either a forgery or an N. S. F., and who could preach convincingly on the theory that when folks leave home and become strangers they should carry either good U. S. currency or indisputable commercial letters of credit.

Instances of dishonored checks were extremely rare in the history of his administration at that hotel. Bue he felt that his demeanor had done as much as any other influence toward keeping them so.

Mrs. Van Neiss smiled.

"Oh, I have spoken to him," she tinkled. "He asks me to have my check o. k'd by the manager."

"Yes, Mrs. Van Neiss. That is a precaution that the rules of this hotel require. Of course, in your case——"

"Oh, I don't want to be an exception. Where will I find the manager?"

"I'm afraid he's out just at present. He usually does his nine holes at about this time."

"But I want some money—I need it."

"You shall have it. What is the amount of the check, please?"

She gave it to him—it asked for a hundred dollars.

"With pleasure, Mrs. Van Neiss," said Monty.

He had never done a thing like it before, but he crossed to Willimer and whispered to him. No, his o. k. wouldn't do; no, his endorsement couldn't be accepted; his I. O. U.? Well—now——

Monty got the hundred. He signed a voucher for it and pocketed the check. Mrs. Van Neiss was charmingly much obliged for the accommodation. Monty was tickled speechless at the chance. When the manager returned he scribbled his sanction on the check without even reading it, and Monty redeemed his note and felt like a hero—a man who had risen to an extraordinary emergency with boldness, finesse, genius.

Thereafter, Mrs. Van Neiss always smiled when she came within range, and she began to stop at the desk to chat with Monty. There wasn't much progress on any one occasion, but day by day the talks became longer and friendlier without seeming to, yet without doubt or resistance.

She discussed her golf, her reading matter, and even commented lightly on some of the other guests. Monty let himself out at all times, and as he saw her becoming more chummy and chatty he cut loose. He worked in every word of more than two syllables at his command, he worked toward something more personal than bunkers and bystanders, and ventured on the thirteenth day out to observe that her sport outfit was the niftiest get-up he had seen that season. She acknowledged the compliment with a smile. Monty tore in after that, and in two days more was telling her that she was the most beautiful creature he had ever seen—and she didn't run away or throw an inkwell!

Monty could see himself talking to her some time—some time soon it had to be because three weeks was usually about the maximum stay at that resort—without the broad register shelf between them. He was maneuvering toward it. And well he knew how, for he had been a maneuverer of parts with women more approachable than Van Neisses, and he now found that a Van Neiss was subject to about the same technique that accomplished the progressive results with Smiths, Browns and Johnsons.

He noted that each evening now, before she retired, she sat in a certain corner of the veranda. It was at an hour when the porches were not heavily played, as the jazz band was functioning in the lobby and those who weren't dancing were ogling. He determined that he would watch for her. And that very evening he strolled up as casually as he could, and she looked up startled but not displeased, and he drew up a wicker rocker. It was against the rules. Monty knew that even though there was no rule on that particular spot at that especial hour. He was hotel clerk enough to know that the manager would have frowned had he seen him there, though his general instructions were, of course, to be as hospitable and ingratiating as possible at all times.

When Monty staggered off, after twenty-eight minutes of dizzy dialogue, he would have bet his month's salary that within two more such he could have slipped his hand over on hers without a shriek for the police.

And when Mrs. Van Neiss came up to him, smiling and informal, next day at two, and said she wanted to have another check cashed, Monty would have blown the safe to get her the money. This one was a bit of a whopper—a thousand. It was at the time when the manager was out on the links again. Monty gulped and tried to assure her with an expression of his face that he would be glad to arrange such a simple matter. And he started for Willimer.

The cashier anticipated him with a negative shake. The hundred, yes, in a moment of weakness. But a thousand! Monty talked furiously. He pleaded. He had been with the hotel seven years. Surely his credit was good for a thousand. At last Willimer yielded. He gave Monty ten one hundred dollar bills and Monty gave him one I. O. U. for the sum. With trembling hand—he had never held a thousand dollars at one time before—he gave her the bills while making a supreme effort to seem entirely calm about the little transaction. She gave him a smile that made him almost jump—it meant as clearly to Monty as it meant anything at all: "To-night—on the veranda—you know!"

He saw her give one of the bills to her maid as she, turning to radio him another benign twinkle over her rounded shoulder, wafted toward the elevator. He saw the maid take the bill to Willimer and go through the motions of paying something. As she left the window he called her.

"Are you paying Mrs. Van Neiss' account?" he asked. The girl nodded that she was. "On a Tuesday?" The girl reaffirmed it. "You—she—you're not checking out?" The girl said they were—everything was packed and they were making the afternoon train.

That was the last that Monty Lephont saw of Mrs. Harold Van Neiss, of Hartford, Conn. Oh, yes—she was Mrs. Harold Van Neiss, of Hartford, Conn., wife of a piano-player in one of Hartford's best cabarets. The thousand-dollar check was no good. Not that it was a forgery or a swindle—Mrs. Van Neiss had eleven dollars in the bank.

Had the hotel cashed the check, she would have been criminally liable. That is a statutory provision for the especial protection of hotels. Monty was only an individual, however, and he had only a civil claim. The thousand was taken out of his salary in installments over a period of two years. He sent the matter to a lawyer, who reported that the Van Neisses were judgment proof and had left Hartford for that vulgar town, New York. Monty hasn't contrived to get service on her yet. If he ever does she will go into bankruptcy. She has since worked the same racket on seven other susceptible chief clerks, after ascertaining just when their managers are out. Her maid is her sister-in-law. The police can't touch them.

But if she ever drops the "Van" from her name——!

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

PREPARATION OF MILK.

When the baby is seven months old he should have one bottle feeding a day of milk diluted with vegetable water. He needs this, not only because the average mother will be glad to depend on the loss of that one nursing period, but because the baby will be immeasurably benefited by both the milk and the minerals in the vegetable water.

This one bottle should be as carefully prepared as when the baby is on all milk. If he does not take all the milk, do not save it but empty the bottle, rinse it with cold water, wash in hot soap suds and scald. The nipple should be rinsed and washed and boiled about once a week. On other days after rinsing and washing, it should be put in a jar of soda water, one teaspoon of soda to a quart of water. Boiling nipples any more frequently makes them soft and unfit for use. Always use the nipples which can be reversed and washed thoroughly on both sides.

During the hot weather the mother can feel safer if she boils the baby's supply of milk. He may have orange or tomato juice daily to offset any bad effects of boiled milk, and the precaution is a wise one in the city, even when one is using good pasteurized milk. Milk which is kept in poor ice boxes at a dangerously high temperature soon becomes unfit for use.

Remember though that when milk has been boiled it must be cooled quickly. Cold running water is the best way to accomplish this, and then the milk must be kept in a cold place. There is no danger to the baby in milk which is boiled, well cooled, kept in a cold place and handled in a cleanly manner. Have sufficient bottles and nipples for every meal, so that none need be reused the same day.

GREAT WHEAT PORT

VANCOUVER, B. C. (United Press).—Grain shipments from Vancouver this season will amount to 20,000,000 bushels as against 7,500,000 bushels last year and 500,000 bushels in 1920, according to official estimates. Elevator accommodations will be increased from the present capacity of 1,250,000 bushels to 4,250,000 bushels by the time the 1923 crop is ready for movement.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE GALLOWS

Italian Poet's Thoughts Concentrate on Invention in the Interests of Humanity.

NEW ORLEANS, June 19.—Unselfish altruism comes even from the shadow of the gallows.

Joe Bocchio, 24, Italian poet and mechanic, sits in his cell in the death row at New Orleans Parish Prison here, awaiting the hangman's coming.

But his thoughts are not of himself. Twice the courts have decreed he must die. He protests his innocence, but accepts his fate philosophically.

Thinking of others, day after day, he bends over his blueprints, working on an invention which he believes will be a blessing to humanity in this great mechanical age.

* * *

Bocchio and five other Italians soon must pay the penalty the state exacts for the murder of Dallas Calmes, restaurateur of Independence, La. They were convicted on purely circumstantial evidence. Intervention by the federal Supreme Court is all that can save them now.

Joe contends he never was in Independence. He maintains:

That neither he nor his five companions were there on the night Calmes was slain while attempting to rout bandits looting a bank near his lunchroom.

That there is a conspiracy on the part of the real murderers and their friends to shift the blame upon others' shoulders.

* * *

But to return to the invention—Joe had been in jail only a few days when he learned that Captain Archie Rennyson, prison warden, had a wide knowledge of technical mechanics. To him, Bocchio confided his secret of an electric motor upon which he worked two years prior to his arrest.

Regarding it only as another sly move on the part of a condemned man to gain sympathy, Captain Rennyson was skeptical at first.

But he soon saw Joe was sincere. He went to the district attorney and asked that the young Italian be given permission to complete his invention.

Nothing could be done. The law holds no tools or implements with which he might end his life can be given to a condemned man.

So Bocchio was forced to rely soley on drawings and data. He will place these in the hands of his counsel with instructions to turn them over to his brother, of Novara, near Milan, Italy. The brother, Bocchio says, is chief electrician in the submarine division of the Italian navy.

* * *

"I got the idea," relates Bocchio, "while I was a student at the academy in Italy. I thought it out for some time, but it was not until I came to America seven years ago that I had an opportunity to make a working model. First I lived in New Orleans, then in Chicago.

"I cannot tell you much about it, for it is not yet protected by patents. But it will operate through application of magnetism with electricity being applied less than five per cent of the time.

"Then came a letter telling of my father's death. He was chief engineer in charge of powder, alcohol and match plants of the Italian government for 32 years. I had expected to get advice from him.

"My mother, too, was longing to see me, so I planned a return to the old country. I had only $350 and my beloved model. That I destroyed, for I feared the secret would be lost because of the customs inspections to which it would be subjected.

"I went to New Orleans. A friend promised help in getting me a job on a boat, so I could work part of my passage.

"He invited me to a christening at Tickfaw. We were arrested on our way up, after our car had broken down. You know the rest of the story—what the state claims, anyway.

"If I have to die for a crime of which I am not guilty, I want to leave something for posterity to respect me for."

* * *

Bocchio also writes poetry to while away the dull hours when he's not studying his blueprints. He handed the interviewer a little piece of blank verse entitled "Condemned."

"Take it," said Joe, "as a souvenir from Joe Bocchio."

And he turned to his writing table—a steel cot—across which the specter of a rising gallows falls.

"My lady of death," he muses, pointing to it significantly.

"She will be with me on that long road which wends into the shadows. But I go unafraid."

Why People Become Nervous and Run-down

Prominent Health Official Explains

By G. M. Lipinski, M. D. Former Member of Philadelphia, U. S. A. Health Department

"The reason why persons who are weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down have gotten into that condition is because they are so constituted that they use up their vital energy and nerve force quicker than their bodies can replace it."

"Their systems fail to extract from the food they eat and retain in sufficient quantity those mineral elements without which the body is absolutely unable to create vital energy and nerve force. And so they go on expending, day by day, their vital energy without adequately replenishing the supply until their systems become completely run-down, their blood gets impoverished and their nerves are unstrung. The mineral elements which are essential in the creation of vital power are particularly calcium, potassium, sodium, phosphorus and iron. And these elements must be administered to those patients whose systems do not extract them in sufficient quantity in the natural way from their food That is why I always recommend Wincarnis for weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down patients. For Wincarnis contains all of these vitally necessary elements in a form that enables the system to readily assimilate them and which is acceptable to the most delicate stomach."

IMPLEMENT AND TOOL MISUSED AND NEGLECTED TOO OFTEN BY MANY FARMERS

When Tools Were Really Valued—Neglect is Criminal Waste—The Jointer Plough — Half-Acre Garden Gives Good Results.

With the advance of agriculture the increase in farm tools, implements, and machines has been great. A century ago, an axe, a scythe, a spade and a saw formed a large part of the equipment of many farms. These few simple tools were probably the most useful in working the small areas of land under process of clearing. The development of the farms brought improvement in tools and a gradual development toward the modern type of farm machines.

When Tools Were Really Valued

Tools were valued in the early days because such were hard to get. There was no waste of farm equipment then; the spade and the scythe were valued as much as the shotgun. Conditions have changed during the past century. The progress is now marked by an abundance of tools, implements and machines for every purpose in agricultural production and harvesting—in abundance of machines so great that we see waste on every hand. Ploughs, tillage machines and harvesters neglected and exposed to the weather, rust and wear out before giving half service. The waste of tools, implements, machines and articles of farm equipment amounts to many thousands of dollars each year.

Neglect of Implements and Tools Is Criminal Waste

Neglect to put machines under cover, to apply weather-proofing paint, to keep sharp all cutting parts, to oil or otherwise lubricate all bearings is reducing the efficiency and shortening the period of usefulness of equipment in which many millions of dollars of farmers' money has been invested. The machine or tool is not the only loss, since the power, either horse, motor or man, is also reduced through having to work with a tool or implement not in the best condition. This double liability, while fully appreciated by the most efficient or business type of farmer, is a matter that should be understood by all who own or work with farm tools.

The Life of a Grain Binder

In the hands of good men a grain binder has been known to last and do 100 per cent efficient work for thirty years. In the hands of careless men grain binders have been racked to pieces in less than five years, through such treatment as neglect to oil and to keep belts tight. The reqward for efficiency might here be expressed as the price of five binders over a period of thirty years.—L. Stevenson, Sec. Dept. of Agriculture, Toronto.

THE JOINTER PLOUGH

The jointer plough was developed through the appreciation of plough makers of the necessity of mixing vegetable matter with the soil during the ploughing operation. The jointer is a miniature plough attached to the main plough beam in such a position as to cut and roll a small furrow slive into the bottom of the furrow and just ahead of the furrow slive turned by the plough mouldboard. This arrangement permits the turning of a wider furrow slice and puts all vegetable matter well under the cutter of the turned furrow slice. Jointer ploughs are equipped with a shorter mouldboard that is shaped to invert the furrow slice; more curl or steeper are the terms generally used to describe the jointer plough mouldboard. A wheel and a landslide designed to keep the plough straight of uniform depth and steady are also part of the jointer plough equipment. Shorter handles, shorter beam, and shorter mouldboard are characteristics very pronounced when the jointer type of plough is compared with the Scotch or long plough type.—L. Stevenson.

SOCIAL REFORMERS TO MEET IN BUENOS AIRES

By HENRY WOOD

GENEVA (By mail to United Press).—The International Bureau of Labor, which was created under the Treaty of Versailles along with the League of Nations, today officially published the project of Don Eduardo Sanz Marti y Escortin, Conde de Lizarraga and President of the Spanish Institute of Social Reforms, for the holding at Buenos Aires of an International Congress of Social Institutes.

This would be the first of a series of annual international conventions of all such societies and organizations.

By the inclusion of the project in its official publications the International Labor Bureau gave its full endorsement of the plan.

The project originated with the Spanish Institute of Social Reform which at once took it up with the Argentine Social Institute and the Argentine Employers' Association, both of which gave their immediate approval.

SURPRISED AT RESULTS IN SUCH SHORT TIME

Another striking victory for Dreco, the famous herbal remedy. One bottle effects marked improvement in condition of Mrs. Wm. Bonaney.

Mrs. William Bonaney, of Aldershot P.O., Hamilton, Ont., was greatly worried over the condition of his wife, who had suffered for years with stomach, kidney and liver ailments. These organs simply would not do their work properly, resulting in many distressing and weakening symptoms. How readily these symptoms yield to the corrective influence of Dreco is typified in the case of Mrs Bonaney.

"For years my wife has suffered from stomach, kidney and liver trouble," declares Mr. Bonaney. "She was very constipated and had rheumatism in joints and muscles. She lost her appetite and found it almost impossible to get a good night's sleep. Everything she ate would sour in her stomach causing gas. She had pains across her back from her kidneys, her joints ached and she would get stiff with rheumatism. She had a sallow complexion and at times would get dizzy spells.

"She tried almost everything, but nothing seemed to help and she continually became weaker, until she heard about Dreco and decided to try it. She had only one bottle, but we are surprised how different she looks. It is doing worlds of good for her and she is much stronger."

When the digestive system gets out of order, it means that food values are not properly retained and distributed to nourish the system, nor is waste matter cast off. Such a condition rapidly undermines the strongest constitution. Let the corrective properties of Dreco, compounded from Nature's own medicinal herbs and roots, tone and regulate the organs to their proper functions. The end of a rigorous winter finds thousands in need of a tonic and restorative. This need is met perfectly by Dreco.

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

A Thought

The hoary head is a crown of glory, if it be found in the way of righteousness.—Prov. 16:31.

I think that to have known one good old man—one man, who, through the chances and mischances of a long life, has carried his heart in his hand, like a palm branch, waving all discords into peace—helps our faith in God, in ourselves, and in each other more than many sermons.—G. W. Curtis.

FRENCH GIRLS, DESERTED, CANNOT GET DIVORCE

By JOHN O'BRIEN

PARIS (By mail to United Press).—Several hundred French girls, who married Americans during the war or immediately afterward, thereby acquiring American citizenship, have applied to the authorities here for reinstatement as French citizens, owing to the fact that their husbands have abandoned them. But the French laws prevent the granting of their request, because they are not divorced. As they are not French citizens, they cannot apply rfo divorce here. Many of them resided in America in states where mere abandonment does not constitute a valid ground for the breaking of the marriage bond.

The problem was brought to the attention of the Minister of Justice by M. Boissard, a member of the chamber of deputies and an international law expert. He emphasized the hardship imposed on these women who find themselves prevented from making another attempt to find marital happiness. M. Boissard asked the Minister of Justice if something could not be done for them. Minister Colrat replied that his hands are tied by the laws of the country. Unless they are modified the women must continue to be regarded as foreigners.

Many a man spends all day getting out of a morning's work.

GOVERNMENT MAKES BRICK

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press).—The Argentine Republic is now working as a brickmaker. In order to help alleviate the scarcity of homes in Buenos Aires, the Government has decided to take every possible measure, and the Department of Architects of the Federal government has undertaken the manufacture of bricks. The present plant produces now 2,500,000 bricks per month and the output may be increased soon to 4,000,000 bricks per month.—It is believed the construction of buildings will be greatly stimulated by this government enterprise.

Salt will keep grease from smoking. Nothing will keep a boy.

FOUR DAYS BARGAIN FESTIVAL

At The New Store

Just three months ago we opened our doors for business, introducing our new plan of selling direct from factory to home, which means better goods at lower prices. We are delighted with the way the buying public have appreciated this plan, and have taken advantage of it. Our business for the three months being more than double our estimates, to celebrate this we are giving our customers some extra special values during this 4-Day Bargain Festival Sale.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He makes friends with Gus Briskow, who has struck oil in Ranger, and meets Ma Briskow, Allegheny, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Bob Parker, daughter of Tom Parker, comes home from college and goes into the land business. She buys and sells for Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker. Gus Briskow tells Gray of a trick that Henry Nelson works on him to beat him out of the sale of some land. Gray offers to take a hand against Nelson, who is his enemy.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

"You know them Nelsons?"

"I know—Henry."

"He's hard-boilder 'n his old man. They got a lot o' money behind 'em—too much money to act like he done with me. I sure hate to see him git that Evans lease for next to nothin', after the way he done. I'd call it cheatin', but—well, I can't han'le it."

The man at the window wheeled suddenly and his face was white, his brows were drawn down. "By God!" he cried, tensely. "He won't get it. Where's that option?"

"I got it right here." Briskow handed over a paper. "An' I got the hull title abstrack, too. Had it all ready for Nelson."

When he had swiftly scanned the document, Gray said: "This deal means little to you, Briskow, but it means much to me, and I'll make it worth something to both of us. At first I thought the time was too short, but—I work best when I work fast. You've had your chance and failed. Now then, step aside and let a man run who knows how."

Mr. Roswell, president of the bank where Gray had first made himself known, was a shrewd, forceful man who had attained a position in business and arrived at a time of life when he could well afford to indulge his likes and dislikes.

Roswell had liked Gray upon their first meeting, and that liking had deepened. Owing to that fact, he had neglected to secure a report upon him, assuring himself that there was always time for such formalities. He was cordial today when Gray strode into his office bringing Gus Briskow with him.

The banker listened with interest to what he was told, then he studied the map that Briskow spread upon his desk showing the location of his own and other near-by wells.

"That looks like a sure thing," Roswell said, finally. "As sure as anything in oil can be. What is on your mind?"

"I'd like to get the opinion of the bank's oil expert," Gray told him.

This was a matter easily disposed of; the expert was summoned and he rendered a prompt opinion. He knew the property; he coosidered it a cheap lease at a thousand dollars an acre. It was proven stuff and within thirty days it would probably treble in value. When he had gone, the banker smiled.

"Well, Gray," said he, "I knew you'd land something good. You're a hustler. You'll make a fortune out of that land."

Gray handed him Gus Briskow's option, and the assignment thereof, the ink upon which was scarcely dry. "There's the joker. It expires tomorrow night and—it will go to the Nelsons. They've double-crossed Mr. Briskow."

"Then don't let them get away with it. Take it yourself."

"It is now three o'clock and this is the golfing season in New York," Gray told him. "I couldn't reach my—associates and get any action before Monday."

"No funds of your own available?"

"Not enough, at such short notice."

"Well?"

"That lease is worth one hundred and sixty thousand dollars, isn't it?"

The banker nodded. "I'm going to sell it before six o'clock for—eighty thousand. I know people here who will take it, but I've come first to you. Get together a little syndicate right here in the bank, and buy it. I'll agree to take it off your hands within thirty days at one hundred and sixty thousand dollars."

"Is your guaranty any good?"

"That is for you to determine. Assume that it is not, and I'll better my first offer. I'll undertake to sell off the land in twenties right here in Dallas, double your money, and divide the profits thereafter with you. It is a safe speculation and a quick one. You know I can put it through."

Mr. Roswell considered briefly before replying. "There's no use denying that we've made money on deals like this—everybody has. So it's nothing new. There's a big play on Ranger stuff and we couldn't lose. But I know nothing about you except the little you've told me. When I go into a deal I put my trust more in the man than the proposition."

"And I trust my own judgment of human character more than that of strangers," Gray said, quickly. "So do you. Thirty days is a long time with me, and the oil business is just my speed. Permit me to remind you that time is flying and that I have given myself only three hours in which to turn this property."

"WHAT ARE YOU TALKIN' ABOUT?" SHE ROUGHLY DEMANDED.

"I like your energy," the banker confessed, "and I'm inclined to bet some of my own money on you. Now"—he pushed a button on his desk—"let's see if there are any others here who feel as I do."

It was early evening when Gus Briskow returned to his wife's and his daughter's rooms at the Ajax. He slipped in quietly and sank into a chair.

"Mercy me! I thought you was run over," Ma Briskow exclaimed.

"I feel like I was," the nester declared, with a grin. "Say! Mister Gray sold the Evans lease an'—we got more money than ever."

"Then mebbe you can afford a new suit," Allie told him. "You look like sin."

Her father nodded, but his mind was full of the incidents of that afternoon and he began at once to recount them. He told the story badly, but in a language that the women understood. He had not gone far, however, when the girl interrupted him to exclaim:

"Wait! Why, Pa! You mean to say Mister Gray 'ain't got no money?'

"He had less 'n a hundred dollars. An' him livin' here like a king with everybody bowin' an' scrapin'?"

Ignoring the effect upon Allie of this intelligence, he continued his recital. "All I done was set around while him an' them bank people talked it over," he said, finally. "Then they got their lawyer in an' he examined the title papers. Seemed like he'd never git through, but he did, an' they signed some things and we come out, an' Mister Gray told me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars."

"Goodness me!" Ma Briskow's eyes widened. "Why, that Evans place ain't wuth the taxes."

"It's more'n likely wuth a million. But think! Him tellin' me I'd made forty-eight thousand dollars! It give me a jolt, an' I says I didn't make it. I told him I'd fell down an' turned the hull thing over to him. 'It's you that's made forty-eight thousand,' I says."

"What?" Allie inquired, sharply. Then when her father had repeated himself, she asked with even greater intensity: "What'd he say to that? He didn't take it, did he?"

"He laughed kinda queer an' says all I got to do to give him a good night's rest is to wire Henry Nelson the deal's closed. An' him with less 'n a hundred dollars!"

Allie spoke again in great relief. "Lord! You give me a turn." Her expression altered, her lips parted in a slow smile. "So! He's pore, eh? Pore as we was. Well, I declare!" She rose and turned her back upon her father.

"No, he ain't pore," Briskow said, irritably. "Not now he ain't. I says it's his deal an' his money, an' we got plenty. An' I stuck to it."

Allie wheeled suddenly at this announcement. She uttered a cry of protest; then, "What are you talkin' about?" she roughly demanded.

"We had some argyment an' I got kinda r'iled. Finally he says if I feel that way we'll go pardners. He wouldn't listen to nothin' else, an'—that's how it stands. He made twenty-four thousand an' I—"

"You— You fool!"

Gus Briskow looked up with a start to find his daughter standing over him, her face ablaze, her deep bosom heaving. He stared at her in frank amazement, doubting his senses. Never had Allegheny used toward him a word, a tone like this, never had he seen her look as she did at this moment.

"Allie—Allie!" the mother gasped. She, too, was aghast. "You—you're talkin' to your pa!"

"You give him twenty-four thousan' dollars? Give it to him? Wha'd you do it for? Wha'd you—"

A harsh exclamation burst from the girl—to the astonished parents it sounded like an oath, but it could not have been—then she swung herself heavily about and rushed blindly into the next room, slamming the stout metal door behind her with a crash that threatened to unhinge it.

"Well, I be—darned!" Gus Briskow turned a slack, empty face upon the partner of his joys. "I—I never s'posed that girl would turn out—greedy."

CHAPTER IX

An Electric Wiggle Stick

OF all the oil excitements, that which occurred in North Texas was perhaps the most remarkable; at any rate, the world has never witnessed such scenes as were enacted there.

The strike at Ranger lit the fuse, the explosion came with the first gush of inflammable liquid from the Fowler farm at Burkburnett.

"Burk" was a sleepy little town, dozing amid perched wheat fields. The paint was off it; nothing much more exciting than a crop failure ever happened there. The main topic of conversation was the weather and, as Mark Twain said, everybody talked about it, but nothing was done. Within sixty days this soporific village became a roaring bedlam; every town lot was leased, derricks rose out of chicken runs, boilers panted in front yards, mobs of strangers surged through the streets and the air grew shrill with their bickerings.

Naturally a little country town like this could not hold the newcomers, therefore Wichita Falls became their headquarters. Here there were at least a few hotels and some sort of office quarters—sheds beneath which the shearing could take place—and there the herd assembled.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Looking Forward to Garden Party—Epworth League Met—Two Deaths.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 19. — Mr. Walter G. Davidson, Fish and Game Warden, Tweed, and Mrs. Davidson and little Miss Leolo, and baby Gerald, motored here and spent Sunday with friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wenman of Lindsay and Miss May Muffitt, of Campbellford, motored to Belleville and spent the week end with Miss Jessie Tuite.

Mrs. M. A. Reynolds is visiting friends in Peterborough and will remain until Mr. Llewelyn Reynolds, who is in Nicholls Hospital, is able to come home.

St. Andrew's Garden Party.

St. Andrew's annual garden party, which will be held to-night, promises to be the best ever staged by the church. The Northumberland Regiment Band will furnish music, community singing which was so much enjoyed last year, will be an interesting feature ,and the songs will be screened. Balloons will be sent up, and last but not least, the ladies have prepared an abundance of good eats, as they have always done on former occasions.

Mission Circle Meets

The regular meeting of the Mission Circle of the Methodist Church will be held at the home of Miss Eva Martin on Thursday evening. Miss Gladys Plumpton, who was a delegate to the recent Missionary Convention in Cobourg, will give her report.

Epworth League

The regular meeting of the Epworth League was held on Monday evening and in the absence of the President, Miss Verna Sanders, 2nd Vice-President conducted the opening exercises, after which Miss Myrtle Forde took charge.

Miss Jessie Lisle gave a reading "Uncle Caleb's Courtship," which was heartily encored when she responded with the "Inventor's Wife." A quartette, "Behold, a stranger at the door." by Mrs. C. W. Turner, Miss Alice Rutty, Misses Ruth and Jennie Taylor, was sweetly rendered and thoroughly appreciated. The 23rd Psalm was then repeated in unison,; after which Mr. S. A. Maguire gave a very helpful paper, "A Bundle of Habits." (

It was decided that as next Monday evening is the closing night for the summer, all members be cordially asked to be present. A special attraction will be in store; the rest a secret. The league closed with the league benediction.

Girls in Training

Following the league the Canadian Girls in Training met. Papers which were very helpful were read by Mrs. C. W. Turner on "Punctuality"; by Miss Alice Rutty on "Thrift" and by Miss Sanders on "Cleanliness". The girls will hold a picnic on Saturday afternoon at Ferris Grove.

Late Thomas Irven.

There passed away on Friday at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Andrew Oliver, Maple street, after an illness of a couple of days, Mr. Thomas Irven, at the age of 69 years. The late Mr. Irven, who was born in Sydney township, had resided in Campbellford for the past twenty years, and was a man of quiet manner, but one who had a host of friends. His wife predeceased her husband six years ago. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are a son and daughter, Walter, and Mrs. Andrew Olivar, both of town, also three brothers and a sister, Walter and Emma in Manitoba, Frank of Stirling, and Albert of Murray township. The funeral took place on Monday, conducted at the home by Rev. C. F. McIntosh, assisted by Rev. H. S. Bennett, and the remains were laid to rest in Mount Pleasant cemetery. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in their irreparable loss.

Late Charles Parcels.

Death came with startling suddenness to Mr. Charles Parcels, Maple street, on Saturday night. The deceased, who was 49 years of age, retired in his usual health and was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage during the night, dying instantly.

Surviving is his wife and two sons. The funeral was held on Monday, conducted by Captain Ding and Lieut. Hawkins of the Salvation Army, the remains being interred in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Less Pot-washing

SMP Enameled Ware has the smooth surface and polish of fine crockery—without the breakage. And it is so very easy to clean—just like china, and therefore makes light work of pot washing.

Try this test. Take an SMP Enameled Ware sauce pan and an all-metal sauce pan of equal size. Into each pour a quart of cold water. Put on the fire at the same time. The SMP sauce pan will be boiling merrily when the water in the other is just beginning to simmer.

OBITUARY

JOSEPH FORSTER.

The death occurred last evening at his residence, 554 Bolivar Street, of Joseph Forster, a pioneer resident of Peterborough County, and a citizen who had devoted many years of his life to municipal service. For many years he served on the Township Council of North Monaghan, and in the County Council was twice Warden of the County of Peterborough.

Born in North Monaghan eighty years ago, he lived in that township all his life, until twenty-two years ago, when he came to Peterborough to reside.

He was one of those interested in the founding of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, now succeeded by Trinity Methodist Church. In politics he was a Conservative.

He is survived by a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Haroid Baptie of Springville, and by two sisters, Mrs Ames of Brussels and Sarah of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from 554 Bolivar Street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF FATAL SHOTS

Coroner's Jury Charged Herschell Stewart With Shooting His Wife.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., June 19 (Canadian Press). — A coroner's jury at Allanburgh yesterday afternoon required but a few minutes to arrive at a verdict formally charging Herschell Stewart with fatal shooting of his wife, Lilian, at Allanburgh, on Tuesday morning last.

The evidence of the parents and one brother of the deceased pointed quite clearly to the verdict, which was simplified greatly by the submission of the statement from Herschell Stewart, in which he admitted killing his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun owned by himself, and declaring that jealousy was the sole motive for his act.

The statement was taken by John Goodwin, police magistrate of Welland in the Welland County Hospital on the day following the tragedy, after attending physicians had declared Stewart to be in a dangerous condition from an attempt to kill himself with the same gun.

Since then he has recovered considerably and the word from the hospital yesterday afternoon was that he would live to face trial for murder.

Mrs. Charles Stewart,, mother of the accused, tearfully gave her testimony indicating that the crime had been premeditated. She had gotten her husband off to work about 4.40, and observed Herschell, who was already up and dressed walk out into the kitchen and on to the side of the road, "as if to see that father had gone." She saw him return. Several minutes elapsed before she heard one of the two shots. Going to the door of the bedroom, after rousing her two other sons, Mrs. Stewart testified: "I then got to the door of the bedroom, but my son pushed me back when I noticed Lilian."

It seems as if we have trusted the sugar trust too long.

The secret of sucess often consists of keeping it a secret.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC ARM OF THE GOVT.

Premier Drury Stressed This Assertion at East Middlesex.

POND MILLS, June 19. Canadian Press. — "The time has come when the fact must be asserted that the Ontario Legislature is a trustee of the municipalities, and that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is but an arm of the government."

This was the declaration of Premier Drury in the course of his address at East Middlesex, U.F.O. picnic yesterday.

The premier dealt extensively with Hydro-Electric and other publicly-owned enterprises, as well as Sir Adam Beck's candidature in London.

"The people of Ontario turn in the direction of London," he said, "to behold a strange spectacle, Sir Adam Beck, a public servant, seeking election in opposition to the government to whom he owes his salary and his position. It is a strange condition. I wonder what Canada would think if Sir Henry Thornton, president of the National Railways, elected to hold that post, decided to run for Federal Parliament?"

CANADIAN LIGHTWEIGHT EIGHT ROUND DECISION

PHILADELPHIA, June 19—(Canadian Press).—Lew Tendler, contender or the lightweight crown, decisively defeated Pal Moran, New Orleans, in an eight-round bout here last night.

Clonie Tait, Canadian lightweight champio, won the decision over Ray Mitchell, Philadelphia in eight rounds.

DISEASES OF CIVILIZED MAN UNKNOWN TO SIMPLE RACES.

Races not in contact with civilized habits are free from flu, tuberculosis, cancer, pneumonia, appendicitis, etc., because they live upon natural foods. The wonderful human body was developed to what it is through ages of feeding, by our ancestors, upon foods just as nature produces them, whole grains, milk, eggs, vegetables and fruits. The simple races still live upon these, thus keeping their blood normal, their organs unstrained, and their bodies healthy. Civilized races have refined out their chief foods, the grains, their most valuable elements, the alkaline salts and growth and repair substances, turning the blood acid, preventing repair of body wear, lowering vitality, and inviting diseases which simple races avoid.

A return to enatural, unrefined grain foods goes far in protecting civilized man from the ravages of self-inflicted flu, tuberculosis, pneumonia, etc.

Roman Meal is the only non-acid whole grain cereal. It keeps the blood non-acid, promotes growth and repair, protects the vital organs from strain and lengthens life. Roman Meal is 400 parts in each 1,000 "Excess Alkali," alkaline enough to correct, the excess acids of white flour, other cereals, fats, meats, and sweets, called "Excess Acid" and "Deficiency" foods by food scientists. Because Roman Meal keeps the blood normally alkaline (opposite of acid) it keeps the body and mind "cool," vitalized, and vigorous in hot weather. It can be served most delightfully as icy cold BROSE-O, CHOCOL-O and JELLE-E, any of which can be prepared in ten minute. A real hot day treat, served with milk, cream, honey, preserved of fresh fruits. Recipes on package. At grocers.

QUIZ CORNER

HELPING ARMENIAN BOYS.

Q—What is being done in Canada for Armenian refugee boys?

A—The Armenian Relief Association of Canada has purchased a farm of 135 acres near Georgetown, Ontario, and will bring out to it the first of fifty Armenian boys, who will be trained in farming and fruit growing. Another party of fifty will be brought out later if friends of the Armenians supply the necessary funds. All the boys are orphans whose parents were killed by the Turks.

PEACE RIVER WHEAT.

Q—What was the wheat production in the Peace River district in 1922?

A—Wheat weighing 64 pounds to the bushel and grading for the most part No. 1 and No. 2 has been shipped from Peace River district in fairly large quantities. Some of the finest grain produced n Albertai in 1923 came from the North country.

CANADA' LEADING TELEPHONE CITY.

Q—Which is Canada's leading telephone city?

A—Calgary's reputation as the leading telephone city on the North American continent, with one instrument in use for every 4.10 persons, will, it is claimed, be maintained during 1923. The circulation of telephone directories in Calgary is approximately 32,000 and 1923 shows an increase of about 2,000.

EDDIE PINCHOT WON DECISION IN TORONTO

TORONTO, June 19.—(Canadian Press).—Eddie Pinchot, Charleroid, Pa., won the judge's decision over Teddy Joyce, Toronto, at the end of a ten-round bout here last night. Pinchot weighed 123 pounds and Joyce 131. Joyce started out with his characteristic touring in tactics swinging wildly wit both hands, but after a minute or two Pinchot had fathomed him and he was on the losing end for the remainder of the battle.

Want Ad Tips by John T. Bartlett

A REGARD FOR APPEARANCE.

An old proverb runs, "You can't judge a horse by the harness." The language of practically every race contains a saying to the same effect. Nevertheless, whether people should be influenced by appearances or not, most are, at least somewhat. The horse well groomed, with good harness, brings a better sum than the same horse otherwise. No seller through the Want Ads sells most efficiently unless he heeds the importance of appearances.

Appearances are going to help him or hinder him. And he should see that they do not hinder him.

A typewriter in running order, cleaned and oiled, will bring a better price, naturally, than the same machine in dusty, ill-kept condition, sans ribbon.

A washing machine set up where used in the basement or shed will sell better than the same machine with cobwebs of the attic on it.

A matron in clean housedress will get a better price for the phonograph than the lady who has been too busy to escape from boudoir cap and soiled apron.

Not that some of these unfavorable circumstances make any difference necessarily in the intrinsic value of what one has to sell. People, though, are influenced by appearance. A house shown by the owne white-collar style looks more attractive than the same house shown overalls style. The clean dog in a neat kennel looks a better dog than the same animal summoned up from tin cans of a back alley.

When you come to sell goods through Want Ads, appearance will surely impress people one way or the other. Don't let them hinder you.

A WANT AD SALE OF HOUSE HOLD GOODS.

Most of the secret of a successful Want Ad sale of household goods—the contents of a home—is a sufficiently detailed Want Ad. Its size will get for it favorable attention among other ads, thereby insuring that most will read. A curious psychological trait of the public enters, too. A large Want Ad indicates a "big" event. So people want to go to it, and because they do it really becomes a "big" event.

Another principle enters. A shrewd lawyer, who had occasion frequently to use Want Ads as an administrator, was known for the uniform great success of his sales. He had simply discovered that the bigger his Want Ad, and the more detailed his listing of articles, the greater the number of people who attended. He abandoned, "Contents of one home," "other articles too numerous to mention," etc., and specifically named the articles.

"It only takes a single article to make a person visit a sale of household goods," he explained. "The more different articles you mention, the more people are thus attracted. The average woman comes for one particular article, perhaps two—she has seen them listed in the Want Ad. Then, while she is at the house, she buys others."

Mention first in your Want Ad the newest, most popular pieces of furniture—that recently bought overstuffed parlor set, for example; the splendid phonograph, the dining suite you have been so proud of, the modern range. Put the most desirable offerings first. Then list numerous other articles.

Remember, as the lawyer was wont to say, it only takes one article to bring a buyer to a sale. When the buyer is there, she will, if an average person, at least consider, very likely by, more.

One man replied to a household goods Want Ad because he had seen a crosscut saw listed. He brought home, besides the saw, a tent, a fishing rod and tackle, and a dresser. That's typical. That's why it pays to list many even small articles in household goods Want Ad.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

KING IN DOG WORLD.

PARIS, June 19.—(United Press).—The "Peke" is King of the Canine World in Paris. He has dethroned the Pomeranian and even the blue-tongued Chow. The old house-dog, without which no real Parisian, some years ago, thougnt life worth living, has practically disappeared. Little bunches of silky hair and legs like matches make up 90 per cent. of the exhibits at the Dog Show at the Tuileries.

Women are responsible, according to the breeders. The janitors have a certain amount of responsibility also. How can anybody expect to keep in the good graces of the lord—or lady—of the front door of the apartment house if the household dog comes yelping down the stairs, leaving traces of his claws on the polished floors?

The "Peke" is worth anywhere from $14 to $60.

AN APPEAL BY PREMIER DRURY

Declaration of Future Policy Should Ontario Government Be Returned to Power.

TORONTO, June 19.—(Canadian Press.)—Premier E. C. Drury yesterday handed to the Press an appeal to the "Electors of the Province of Ontario," in which he set forth achievements of his government since taking office in 1919 and a declaartion of his policy for the future if the government is returned to power on Monday next.

The Premier's manifesto which ran into fifteen hundred words, stressed the purpose of the government to maintain the Ontario Temperance Act and to enforce it in future as vigorously as in the past, to give every possible support to publicly-owned enterprises where such projects give promise of being self-sustaining, to continue construction of permanent highways, not only as a benefit to residents but as a means of developing tourist possibilities of Ontario. In this connection it was announced that the government intended to carry out its proposal of a year ago to assist in improving hotel accommodation of the province.

The manifesto defends the increase in public debt on the ground that it was incurred wholly on account of the development of public ownership projects, such as Hydro-Electric power, greater assistance to education, expenditure under Mothers' Allowance Act and in carrying on necessary services of the province. Mention was made of the government's intention to develop Northern Ontario and the mining regions of Cobalt and Sudbury.

It was claimed that the expanding debt had not entailed any substantial increase in the burden of the taxpayer. Increased revenue, it was stated, had been derived from race tracks, amusement tax, increased succession duties and by taxing activities which "cannot be reached in ordinary way of municipal bodies." It was the government's intention, it was added, to avoid direct tax upon property and incomes.

AMERICAN STATE BANK HAS CLOSED ITS DOORS

WICHITA, Kansas, June 9.—(Canadian Press.)—The American State Bank, one of the strongest State banks in Kansas, closed its doors this morning following the discovery of defalcation of one and a half million dollars by Phillip Drumm, cashier, Wichita clearing house announced.

The cashier used the bank funds to invest heavily in oil properties, bank officials stated. Relatively large defalcation was explained by the fact that the bank held what was said to be in excess or a million dollars in Wichita school bonds.

BENEFITS OF THE MOTOR CAR

By H. A. BIGGS
(Vice-President The Studebaker Corp.)

The automobile industry has no parallel in business annals. No other industry has had such a dramatic career—none has grown so great in such a short span of years. The explanation is simple enough. It is to be found in the automobile itself—in the contribution which the motor car has brought to the world in improved standards of living, increased happiness and health, greater personal and business efficiency.

The automobile industry has leaped to the fore and assumed its present commanding proportions and the industry will keep on growing because there is no substitute for the automobile as a means of individual transportation.

One cannot discuss the automobile and the automobile industry without becoming reminiscent. It seems but a few short years ago that the first "horseless carriages" were in our midst—crude, erratic and generally unreliable vehicles that enlisted laughter for themselves and ridicule for their creators. These vehicles lacked everything the present-day motor car has—beauty, quietness, comfort, speed, flexibility, power and dependability—but they would travel and that was sufficient consolation for their inventors.

A little over twenty-five years ago, there were but two automobiles in the country and one of them was a curiosity in a circus sideshow. Today there are about 12,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States. When one compares the first horseless carriages with the marvelous mechanism known as the motor car of today, or the automobile "industry" of that day with the automobile of today, the contrast is striking, but even more amazing is the fact that so great a transformation could have been wrought in a little over two decades.

From virtually nothing twenty-five years ago, the automotive industry has become the second largest industry in the world. The motor car industry, furthermore, has had a powerful and stimulating effect upon the steel, copper, aluminum, leather, petroleum, rubber and wood industries and has been practically the making of others. With such close co-ordination and interrelation with so many industries, we can easily appreciate why the motor car industry has assumed so important a place commercially.

Yet the real reason for the tremendous growth of the automobile industry lies in the automobile itself and what it means to the people of the world. In some states, notably Iowa, Nebraska and California, we find one motor car to about every four people, or an average of one to a family. The general average for the whole country is better than one car to every ten people.

Owning an automobile is second nature with the people today. It is a habit, and a good one. The benefits which the automobile has brought to the world are incalculable. The motor car, a creation of men with vision, increases the vision of everybody owning one. No single article or product has been instrumental in doing so much or anywhere near so much in aiding the good roads movement and forever banishing the isolation of farm life. The automobile has annihilated distance, bringing the farmer to the city and taking the city man out into the country.

The automobile has been the greatest quickener of business the world has ever known. Business and professional men cover ground more quickly with the motor car, widen their radius of activity and make themselves more valuable alike to themselves and their communities. That Americans have gained a world-wide reputation for their progressiveness in doing things on a large scale is due in large measure to the advent and widespread use of the automobile. And, it may be added, the industry itself, by reason of its progressiveness, along lines of design, production, and manufacturing efficiencies has set the the pace for other industries in which manufacturing operations play a part.

Nations and individuals are incomparably better off because of the motor car and the industry which produces it that's why practically everybody either owns an automobile or hopes and expects some day to own one.

PREDICT MACHINES WILL REPLACE HAND LABORERS

CLEVELAND, June 19 (Associated Press).—A new industry revolution is going on in America without America generally realizing it, according to several leaders foundrymen of the country who were here recently to attend the convention of the American Foundrymen's Association, the technical organization of the foundry industry.

The return to prosperity, coupled with the restriction of immigration and the present shortage of labor, is bringing about an overturn in the iron working trade, a change destined to dislodge hand labor in the next ten years and largely to eliminate the old fashioned small foundry in favour of the foundry of mass production, the foundrymen claim.

Leaders in the foundry industry foresee common labor growing more and more scarce; they foresee labor saving machinery developing to degrees never imagined before; the automobile industry calling for greater mass production, and the engineer and trained technician taking the place of the old rule of thumb bosses who have managed the foundries for years.

Albert E. Howell, of Somerville, N. J., a newly elected director of the association, predicted that in the new era of the machine on foundry practice, the old fashioned all around mechanic was disappearing.

"Molders and laborers are both very scarce in the east," Mr Howell said. "Fewer young men are going into molding, partly, I suppose, because they fear their places are likely to be taken by machinery. Foundry workers are becoming specialists, trained to handle special pieces of machinery The all around man in the foundries is going the way as the all around man in many another metal working industry."

CUPID'S STOCK EXCHANGE IS BOOMING IN GERMANY

BERLIN, June 19 (Associated Press).—Fewer babies are being born in Germany now than before the war and fewer people are dying, but the marriage license clerks are doing more business than during 1913. The Germans say there is a boom in the marriage market "after every war."

The state of Hamburg lived up to its name of having the most attractive "fraulens" in the republic. It chalked up a wedding record of about 15 to every 1,000 inhabitants. Schaumburg-Lippe, a little to the south of Hamburg and in romantic proximity to Steinhuder Lake, ran a close second with 14 to every 1,000 Saxony's proportion stopped at slightly over 13, while Berlin city's was only 12.8 The most timid bachelors on all Germany appear to live in the mountainous state of Waldeck, on the Weser basin, where there have been only about seven weddings to every 1,000 residents. And yet the Waldeck boys have not such faint hearts as before the war, when their average was only 5.4.

The statistics for Wuerttemburg, Mecklenburg-Schewerin, and Mecklenburg-Streltiz have not yet been received at official headquarters here; not including these three states, Germany's mariage rate the past year was 10.9 for every 1,000 inhabitants, compared with only 6.6 in 1913.

Babies appeared in the states reported at the rate of 23 for every 1,000 as against a proportion of 28.9 before the war. Most of the births were registered in Upper Silesia and the least in Berlin. The former's proportion was approximately 32, the latter's less than 12.

Germans have been dying at the rate of 12.5 out of each 1,000 the past 12 months, while in 1913 death was taking a proportionate toll of about 15. Upper Silesia, which had the highest birth-rate, also led in the ratio of deaths.

BARON KATO DEFEATS ALL JAP POLITICIANS

By CLARENCE DOBOSE

TOKYO (By mail to United Press).—The "Little Candle Stub" has won one of the prettiest political fights ever staged in Japan—or anywhere else, for that matter.

The "Little Candle Stub"—so nicknamed, affectionately, by the people, because he is such a little runt physically and because, by his unceasing energy he burns the candle at both ends—is Premier Admiral Baron Kato.

Kato's strategy, as Fleet Commander's chief of Staff, won one of the zippiest naval battles in modern history in the Russo-Japanese War. Then he created and almost executed, Japans "Eight-Eight" program of battleship construction—and went to the Washington Conference and agreed to tear up this program that represented his life's work.

After that, unwillingly, he had to become Premier of Japan, for the simple reason that he was just about the only "big man" available for the job. Every politician in the country began to camp on his trail. Kato said nothing—which he does with supreme skill—and stuck to the job. He is not a politician. He belongs to no party. It is said he was never voted. He is just a fighting sailor. But he has walloped all the politicians of all the parties in Japan combined—and having done that, he may resign the Premiership any cold day. He doesn't want the Job. But the politicians blustered that they were going to kick him out—and the "Little Candle Stub," not being accustomed to such unceremonious treatment, and being as stubborn as a missouri mule when you ery to crowd him, decided to show th politicians who's boss. And he has shown 'em.

BAR ASSOCIATION BITTERLY ATTACKED

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 19 (Associated Press).—Now, at the very apogee of the achievements of the Constitution of the United States, when its blessings are apparent to the most casual observer, it is being most bitterly attacked from many quarters, condemned and even execcrated as an instrument of oppression and injustice, R. E. L. Saner, of Dallas, Tex., Chairman of the Citizenship Committee of the American Bar Association today told the Tennessee Bar Association meeting here.

"The Constitution that is being attacked is the one under which this government has endured for 133 years, has grown in wealth, power, extent of territory and intelligence of its people beyond the wildest dreams of its founders," Mr. Saner said. "No other people since the dawn of time has been as happy. Under this constitution we have survived the greatest civil war in history, we have fought four great foreign wars and carried them to triumph and a just and victorious peace, we have become the admiration and envy of the whole civilized world.

"But from many quarters is it being assailed. The criticisms come from various classes. From below, the anarchists, who would tear down all government, assail it with open violence. This is the least of our danger, however. We can cope with the anarchists.

"There is another element, the parlor socialists, who combine, with half-baked educators on a more insidious propaganda. Many of them are people of wealth and position, some of them with humanitarian ideals, some with simply lunatic notions, but they have the power to invade our schools and in our schools, all the way from the first grade up to the highest collegiate institutions, we find here and there a half-baked professor who insidiously instills into the minds of our youth these socialistic ideas.

"They would infuse into the mind of America the same ideas of government that prevails in Russia. They are filling our schools with text books that contain this propaganda. It is so elusive, so skilful, that it is hard to reach.

"But above all, the chief danger lies in men highly placed, men in the Senate and House, lawyers who should know their constitution and its fruits. These demand that the safeguards of the constitution, the interpretation by the Supreme Court, should be withdrawn; that the legislative branch should be sole judge of the constitutionality of its acts and their conformity to the Constitution. The moment this is done the judiciary and the executive would be prostrate at the foot of the majority in congress. But they even go farther than that. They demand that the decisions of the court shall be submitted to a vote of the people upon constitutional questions.

"These two proposals, urged by a minority bloc in congress would as effectively destroy this Constitution as anything that the anarchists or secret socialists could do; and still if these two proposals were submitted to the people today they would find thousands of advocates.

"The truth is we have so long enjoyed the blessings of freedom, that we have grown indifferent to them. The founders carefully protected the rights of the minority by this written constitution. It was the first time in the history of the world that certain fundamental rights of the individual and minority were guaranteed them by a written instrument superior to the legislative power or the will of the majority. It is an astonishing thing that intelligent people should deliberately attempt to tear down these safeguards and turn the country over to mob rule.

"The American Bar Association has started a work of education, realizing these dangers. A committee is working through every organization that will assist, through the great fraternal and beneficial organizations, through women's clubs and the League of Women Voters, through patiotic societies and above all, through the American Legion.

"A close scrutiny will be made of the text books used in our schools and colleges to eliminate this dangerous and treasonous matter. In this way we hope to check the propaganda. It is the duty of every one of us to repeal by every means within our power these assults upon our government."

POWER INDUSTRY FACES BIG EXPENDITURE

CHICAGO, June 19 (Associated Press).—The sum of $602,143,000 represents the total of new generating plants, additions of transmission and distribution systems of the electric light and power industry of this country to be built this year, according to a survey just completed and announced by the Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information.

The expansion of the industry in the Middle West is expected far to exceed that of any other section of the United States, as building programs in the Central West call for expenditures aggregating more than one-third of the total for the entire country.

The total value is $278,127,000 greater than the estimated expenditures in 1922, and $387,325,000 greater than the 1921 expenditures.

The building plans in the central states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas call for an expenditure of $206,180,000. Of this 45.2 percent will be expended for extentions of transmission and distributing systems and 54.8 percent. represents new and additions to, generating plants.

CURIOSITY

Radio broadcasts singing by canaries. The program interests many thousands who would throw a shoe at any real canary perching on their windows and starting to tune up. The radio fan is interested in the wizardy of radio itself rather than in the actual programs.

A similar situation in movies. Critics keep raving about movie plots. But the average person in the audience probably cares less for plot than for being able to sit and watch the private affairs of screen characters—like hearing gossip or listening to catch the argument next door. Not to mention, that enjoying a movie requires no thinking.

CAMPAIGN

Wiseacres in Washington see prohibition and foreign relations as the big campaign issues of the next presidential election. They are wrong. Both of these are important matters, but the average pocketbook will be the issue that will get or lose votes.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION ISSUED WARNINGS

NEW YORK, June 19 (Associated Press).—Aware that the summer season brings the peak of automobile travel and increased highways hazards, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has issued a warning to twelve million motorists:

The cautions total seven:

1. Would you willingly injure a child?
2. Drive reasonably.
3. Put your city on the Safety Roll.
4. Remember you are at times a pedestrian.
5. "After you" is courtesy on the road, as well as in the doorway.
6. Keep the brakes in perfect condition.
7. Haste makes havoc.

A small percentage of the motoring public causes the thousands of motor accidents and fatalities which occur every season. It is the aim of the automobile world in 1923 to stimulate this havoc-making minority to eligibility in the Sane Drivers' Club.

Cost of living, wages, rents, taxes and governmental red tape will do the deciding in the ballot box. If Henry Ford is ever going to run for president, he'll never have a better chance.

They say Chinese is spoken by 400,000,000 people. This probably includes all the babies in America.

MARRIAGE

Applying for a Civil War widow's pension, Mrs. Catherine A. Wheeler of Union, Okla.) tells the Pension office that she was the wife of veteran Wheeler 73 years and over. The Pension Office says this is the longest peroid of wedlock which it has ever officially encountered.

Seventy-three years is a mighty long time to live with anybody. Young people inclined to marry hastily, should keep this Wheeler case in mind. A great many people believe that marriage is for eternity....

BARKERS

At the Fort Berthold Indian Agency in North Dakota, the red men decide that no indian in that territory can have more than two dogs, and that these must pay $1 a head license yearly. Each Indian was trying to keep at least six, and something had to be done.

In some white sections you still can tell how poor a man is by the number of dogs he keeps.

The person who wastes too much affection on mongrels is apt not to have enough left for humans.

William W. Keen, Emeritus professor of surgery, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, in "I Believe in God and Evolution," (Lippincott): "I hope to dispel the fears of some earnest Christian people that 'Science and the Scriptures' are incompatible. Every year in a very long life, devoted especially to scientific teaching and writing, has only strengthened my belief in both."

NOSTALGIA

The dawns that rise on city streets
Are smoky dawns and grey,
Not like the dawns that rose above
The meadow grass that lay
In drowsy fragrance underneath
Some trees I used to know:
But that was long before today—
Far off, and lon g ago!

The nights that cloak the city streets
Are nights grotesque and mad:
Like some strange mask a clown might wear
To hide tired eyes and sad:
Somewhere, I know that other nights
Draw deep the kindly shade
About a little garden path
That love and hope once made.

L'Envoi.

The city's spell is less than naught
Against a memory;
It cannot bind the rover's feet
Nor make his eyes to see:
It cannot stay a wanderer,
With days and nights to fling
Away in prodigality.
Through every reckless Spring!

—E. A. CHAFFEE.

William J. Locke, in a foreword to "The Designers of Our Buildings": "Between the public and the architect unfortunately, yawns a great gulf from which arises a strange mist. The most ignorant man sees a picture and he knows that some one man has painted it; he hears a piece of music and he knows that some one man has composed it; he reads a book and he knows that some one man has written it. He sees a building rear itself, stone by stone, at the corner of a familiar thoroughfare and it never enters his silly head to realize that some one man designed it."

COMPARISON

I know a silent avenue
Whose houses are all silent, too;
Around them perfect lawns are kept,
And yet it is as if they slept
With shuttered eyes, lest one should share
The secrets of the dwellers there.
Prosperity they radiate
In care and form and splendid state,
But if adventures in them lie
They are secure from passer-by.

I know a little crowded street,
Where neighbors gossip as they meet;
Where children romp and shout and play,
And tears and laughter sound all day;
And when the lamps are lit at night
From open windows shines the light.
No shades or curtains ever hide
The cozy shabbiness inside,
And evening on a shadowed "stoop"
Will find a happy family group.

And sometimes when I wander through
The wide and silent avenue,
I let imagination roam,
And change its house to a home,
But there within the walls may be
The treasures that I cannot see;
Those quiet houses may possess
Their share of life and happiness.
How could I judge them if I tried,
For I can only stand outside?

But often it is good to go
To crowded streets whose ways you know,
Whose tragedies forever plead,
Whose little stories you may read,
Whose laughter to your smile will call,
Whose sadness on your heart will fall.
Their warmth is like a friendly hand;
Their faults we learn to understand.
Though avenues with wealth are blest,
I like the crowded streets the best.

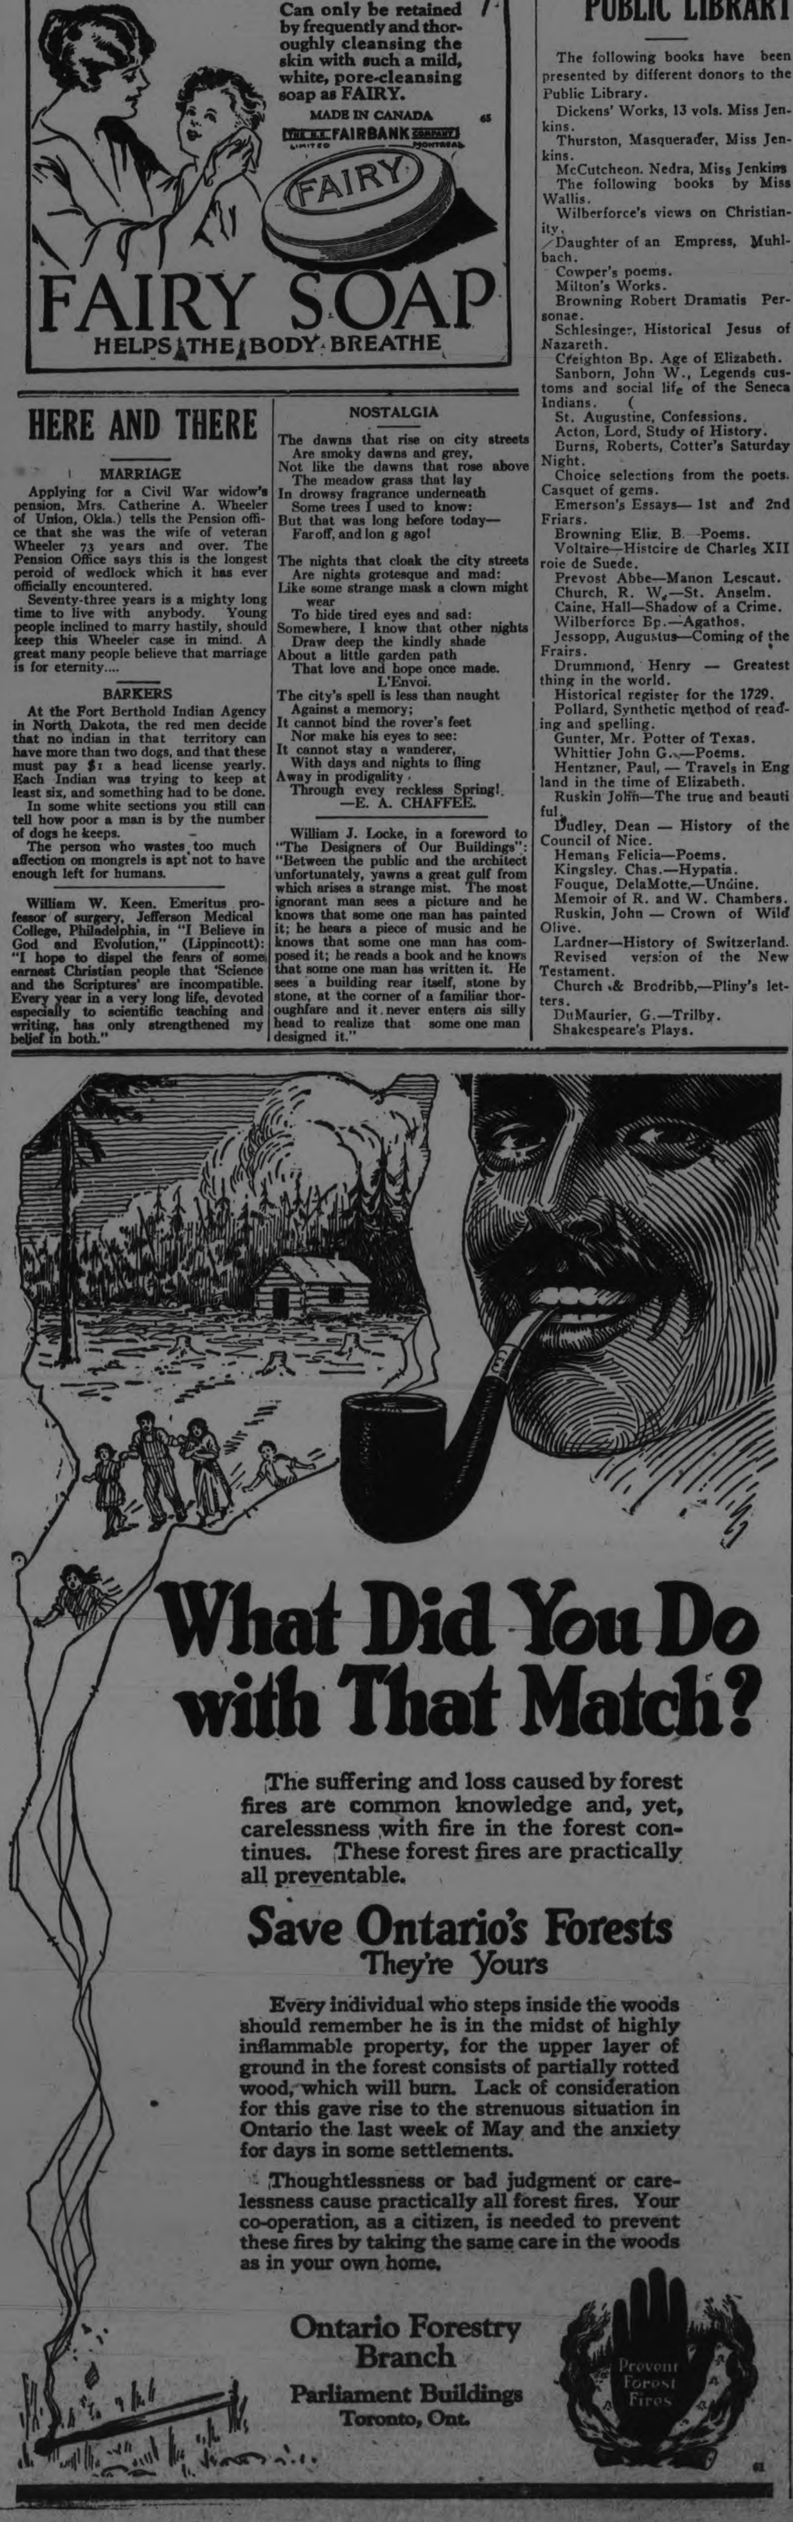
SOUTH CLAIMS THE CALCULATING CHAMP

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 19 (United Press).—Eugene Claverie, a resident of this city, is believed to be the champion rapid calculator of the South if not of the entire United States that is, for a youth of 16. He has won thirty-three gold medals and three silver cups in rapid calculating competition.

In a recent contest the problems set for the competitors were: Eight additions —six figures wide and ten deep; eight subtractions, eight figures wide; eight multiplications, six figures multiplied by four. Eugene finished the problems in five minutes and 20 seconds. The former record was 8 minutes and 22 seconds for the arithmetical solution. Since that time Eugene has clipped considerable time off his own record.



What Did You Do with That Match?

The suffering and loss caused by forest fires are common knowledge and, yet, carelessness with fire in the forest continues. These forest fires are practically all preventable.

Save Ontario's Forests
They're Yours

Every individual who steps inside the woods should remember he is in the midst of highly inflammable property, for the upper layer of ground in the forest consists of partially rotted wood, which will burn. Lack of consideration for this gave rise to the strenuous situation in Ontario the last week of May and the anxiety for days in some settlements.

Thoughtlessness or bad judgment or carelessness cause practically all forest fires. Your co-operation, as a citizen, is needed to prevent these fires by taking the same care in the woods as in your own home.

JEWELERS' IDEA

CHICAGO, June 19 (United Press).—What jewelry is necessary in the attire of a well-dressed man?

Arthur A. Everts of Dallas answered this question at the annual meeting of the National Jewelers Association here.

"The correct man has a collection of cuff-links and stick-pins for different costumes and occasions," said Everts. "Both cuff-links and pins are set with stones of various colors mounted in gold, platinum or white gold and either harmonize with his clothes or give a striking note of color contrast. Stick-pins which were considered good form a few years ago have come back into pronounced favor.

"He must have at least one watch but preferably two, one for his pocket, the other for his wrist. Frequently he wears both at the same time. The strap watch is an essential for the outdoor man.

"Personal taste rather than any fiat of fashion governs the chain. There has been recently a recrudescence of the watch charm. With the Egyptian note dominant in styles of all kinds, amulets have become popular as watch charms. Fobs are especially adapted for the waistcoatless costume of summer.

"The will-dressed man has in addition a ring, usually a fraternity, lodge or society badge or button, cigaret case, card case, gold or silver belt buckle and tie-clasp."

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Relieved Her of Headaches

Headache seems to be habitual with many people, and some, if any, are seldom free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In all cases of headache the treatment should be directed to the removal of the cause, and with the cause removed the headaches will vanish.

It is impossible to find a better remedy for headaches of every description than can equal B. B. B., acting as it does on every organ of the system.

Mrs Douglas Riseborough, 280 McKenzie St., Sarnia, Ont., writes: "Having suffered from severe headaches for a considerable length of time I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and found that it helped me wonderfully. It relieved the headaches, and I noticed a decided improvement in my health."

Burdock Blood Bitters is a remedy that has been on the market for the past forty-four years, so you don't experiment with some new and untried medicine. It is put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

NEW IRRIGATION PLANS

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., (United Press) —Official opening of the new Lethbridge Northern Irrigation district bringing 105,000 acres under water for farming will take place June 15, according to an announcement by the provincial government. The new irrigated district lies between the old Man and Little Bow rivers north of Lethbridge. Until recently farmers in the area have followed dry farming methods and individual holdings have been about 640 acres. Under irrigation, it is believed, more intensive methods will be used, reducing individual holdings to an average of 160 acres and opening the remainder to new settlement.

DRESSING FOR TENNIS

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, June 19 (United Press).—The tennis outfit should be chosen for it's simplicity and durability. Since the game of lawn tennis necessitates clothing that allows entire freedom of motion, there should be binding whatever about the body by one's clothing.

If one prefers the skirt and sweater type of costume, the skirt should be made with an elastic band about the waist and should be heavy enough material so that no petticoats will be required to make them shawdow proof.

Without doubt, the most comfortable as well as the most attractive garment for tennis is the one-piece frock with a round neck and short sleeves and it is accepted by most players today. It can be made of any serviceable material such as linen, drill, pique, poplin or washable flannel. Certain fulness is required for the skirt and this fulluess may be set in at the hips in pleats or gathered evenly about waistline, confined by the elastic band. Sleeves should be very short so that there be no strain at the arm pits.

The Headband

Headbands of colored georgette, which Mme. Langlen brought into vogue, have been taken up by tennis players the world over. This year we see them made of batik in vivid colors as well as the plain georgettes.

Fine cotton hose or lisle hose are more appropriate for the tennis court than sheer silk hose, as they launder easily aand do not turn yellow from grass stains, as do the silk stockings. Canvas shoes are likewise preferable to kid or buckskins for the same reason.

While most of the tennis stars prefer white to vivid colors, one may vary the white costume with tuxedo sweaters of color which are usually slipped off just before the game.

The very full accordian pleated skirt is found a sensible for the tennis court as well as for all other sports.

FASHION NOTES

This summer one buys several inexpensive hats to match the different gowns with which they are worn in preference to one or two expensive ones.

* * *

Tine round edged handkerchiefs of colored voille edged in lace dyed the exact shade of the handkerchief may be purchased in the shops. They are lovely with the cotton gown.

* * *

A stunning semi-sport jacquette worn at a smart Long Island restaurant was made of brocaded metal cloth of silver with a design of soft, pastel colors. This glistened in the sunlight like a coat of armor and was wornwith a pleated skirt of gray crepe de chene. A draped turban of gray chiffon carried out the silver tones of the jacquette.

* * *

Many of the young women about town are wearing little hats made of taupe, gray or black tulle. The soft crown has but two thickness of tulle, thus permitting the hair to show through it. Small folds of net drape about an upstanding band which fits snugly to the head. There is no trimming whatever on these hats, but they are bound to be flattering to any face.

JAPAN HAS JURY LAW

TOKYO (By mail to United Press).—Japan now has a jury law—theoretically. There has never been a trial by jury in Japanese courts, but the recent session of Diet (parliament passed a bill creating a jury system.

But the Japanese jury will be something like Volstead refreshment—no kick.

The new law provides that judges may or may not adopt the verdict of the jury. The discretion of the judge is the sole and only determining factor, just as it now. If the jury happens to return the same sort of verdict the judge had in mind, all well and good. If not, the judge will tell the jury he's sorry—but, the verdict is thus and so.

"We admit that the new law is rather invertebrate," observed one of the Japanese newspapers, "but still it is a step in the right direction.

Japanese newspapers fought for the jury law—although they wanted a stronger one than this—and they have been long clamoring for reform of court procedure. Japanese courts operate upon exactly the reverse of the American system. Here it is assumed, in most criminal cases, that the accused is guilty, and the trial consists of the accused having to prove himself innocent —instead of an assumption of innocence until guilt is proven.

LACE CAPES.

Evening capes of pleated lace, sometimes lined with georgette or chiffon, have little warmth, but much charm, and are shown for midsummer wear.

NAVY BLUE.

Grays and tans have predominated this season for sport and tailored wear, but rumor has it that navy blue is on its way back and will be one of the leaders this fall.

BLUE BAGS.

Handbags of sapphire blue pleated taffeta are very effective with white costumes of those of beige or grey.

SEVEN-YEAR—OLD FROG THAT CANNOT SWIM

SALOME, Ariz., June 19 (United Press).—"Where she danced," is the way Wick Hall, gasoline man, philosopher, and entire population of Salome explains how his town got its name

Dick Wick Hall is the editor and publisher of the mimeographed 'Salome Sun.'

The "Salome Sun" contains the latest news about Hall's celebrated Solome frog—the waterless frog of the desert. "Seven years old, and though he can't swim yet, it isn't his fault," is the way Hall describes his frog. "He never had a chance but lives in hopes.

"Three years ago Fourth of July, Palos Verde Pete set off a box of dynamite, and the frog thinking it was thunder, chased the could of smoke ten miles down the road, thinking it might rain."

Hall uses the frog as a cloak for his quiet desert philosophy.

RECIPES

(By Bertha E. Shapleigh, of Columbia University.)

Get one young roasting chicken, three to four pounds in weight.

Split the chicken and prepare as for boiling. Lay breast up, in a casserole and spread with three tablespoons of butter which has been creamed with one tablespoon of flour, salt, pepper and one teaspoon of paprika.

Pour over this one cup boiling water, cover closely and cook in the oven until tender, that it, about one hour.

Add one cup cream and two cups fresh mushrooms which have been fried in butter for five minutes. Cook 20 minutes.

Beecham's Pills

Sold everywhere in boxes

When food is only imperfectly digested, it gives rise to fermentation, clogs the bowels, and renders the blood impure. This results in dull eyes, muddy skin, blotches, pimples and other disfiguring marks. Beecham's Pills act immediately on the stomach, liver and bowels; regulate them and keep them in a vigorous condition. They are mild, harmless and dependable. They are compounded of remedies of vegetable origin having great medicinal value.

NO OPERATION FOR HER

She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Escaped the Operation Doctor Advised

Louisville, Ky.—"I wish to thank you for what your medicine has done for me. I was in bed for eight or nine days every month and had a great deal of pain. The doctor said my only relief was an operation. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines and tried the Vegetable Compound and the Sanative Wash, and they surely did wonders for me. I feel fine all the time now, also am picking up in weight. I will tell any one that your medicines are wonderful, and you may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. ED. BOEHNLEIN, 1130 Ash St., Louisville, Ky.

Backache, nervousness, painful times, irregularity, tired and run-down feelings, are symptoms of female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken whenever there is reason to fear such troubles. It contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they may work in a healthy, normal manner. Let it help you as it has thousands of others. It is now selling almost all over the world.

ROSE COVERED ISLAND IN DISPUTE AT LAUSANNE

BUCHAREST, June 19 (Associated Press).—On the agenda of the Lausanne conference is an item which has baffled the world's statesmen who are trying to reestablish peace in the Near East. It is the question of the "Kadi of Ada Kaleh." At first nobody knew whether Kadi of Ada Kaleh was the name of a man, a geographical term, a state of mind, a mystic Turkish phrase, or a specie of banana. Inquiry by the peac delegates, however, showed that Ad Kaleh is a delightful little island in the Danube near the "Iron Gates," with only a few thousand Mohammendan inhabitants who grow roses and extract the essence from the leaves. The minaret of the only mosque on the island is a well-known landmark on the Danube as the boats pass through the Iron Gates.

Ismet Pasha claims Ada Kaleh for Turkey, while Rumania insists it is hers by reason of the Trianon treaty. Before the treaty Ada Kaleh was in Hungarian possession, although the Budapest government always recognized the nominal sovereignty of the sultan over the isle.

The victories of Kemal Pasha reawakened Turkish nationalism among the peaceful rose and tobacco planters on the picturesque "isle of Roses," and they sent a petition to Angora asking Kemal to reestablish the ancient Turkey sovereignty over the island.

Mustapha Kemal dispatched a Kadi, or judge, to Ada Kaleh, and the Rumanian government, suspecting nothing and regarding him as only a harmless Turkish visitor, granted visa to Kemals emissary. Now Ismet Pasha pretends that the granting of the visa is equivalent to the recognition of Turkey's rights to the island.

When the Rumanian authorities learned that the newly-arrived Kadi had taken over the administration of the island they immediately asked him to leave Ada Kaleh, and, with all honors due to Kemal's governor, the Kadi has has very politely been deported from Rumanain territory.

CROOKS

Bulgaria, excited by rising prices, gets ready to whip profiteers in public. The humiliation, not the lashes, is what would be effective, and it could be meted out in better ways than by the cat-of-nine-tails. China for instance, makes profiteers parade their home neighborhood ringing a bell and carrying a banner advertising their crime.

Trouble is, so difficult to decide what is profiteering and what not. Where to draw the line? Profiteering is giving less than we take. On this basis, if all the profiteers in our country were whipped until they coundn't stand the streets might look rather deserted.

An Unfailing Way To Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.

REALTORS TO DISCUSS MODERN FINANCING.

CHICAGO, June 19— (Associated Press).—Six thousand real estate men from 475 cities are making plans to cruise, motor or go by special train to Cleveland for the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards June 27-30. Governmental, legislative, financial, architectural and other questions of importance in real estate development, and especially fullest utilization of modern financing possibilities to meet the present business acceleration in real estate, are to be discussed.

What is known as the "Indiana plan" of checking extravagance and preventing possible graft in official expenditures will be explained by Judge William A. Hough, chairman of the Indiana state board of tax commissioners, which has been given power to review all tax levies and bond issues in Indiana upon complaint of ten taxpayers.

A proposal for a national land policy, covering utilization of lands in every state according to sound economic principles will be outlined by Dr. Richard T. Ely, director of the bureau of economic research of the University of Wisconsin.

The Pennsylvania law authorizing building and loan associations to lend on second mortgages will be discussed by Samuel A. Stern, of Philadelphia.

Brig. Gen. H. M. Lord, director of the federal budget, will speak on how the federal government handles its finances and real estate.

The Chicago real estate board and boards from other nearby cities will go to Cleveland by boat, and the boat will be used as a hotel during the convention. The Minneapolis and the Buffalo real estate boards also will go by water.

SOLDIERS MAY NOT SHAVE

CEUTA, Morocco, June 19 (Associated Press).—Orders have been issued by the Spanish army authorities commanding all officers and soldiers of the regular army to grow moustaches with long or short hair according to the wish of the owner or his ability to cultivate it.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

MONTREAL, June 19 (By Canadian Press)—Doctors from all over Canada were gathering here today for the 54th, annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Association. The convention will last for three days. Three important guests of the association will be Dr. W. J. Mayo, of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., Sir Robert Jones, Liverpool, probably the most famous orthopaedic surgeon today, who was in charge of that work for the British Army during the war, and Sir William Taylor, Regius Professor of Surgery in Dublin University. More than two thousand doctors are expected to attend the meetings of the association.

In connection with the meetings the Canadian Society of Anaesthetists will hold its third annual meeting and the Canadian Society of Radilogy will hold its fourth annual meeting. The speakers at the former will be F. E. Lloyd, of McGill University; G. S. Foster, Manchester, N. H. ; T. K. Kruse, of the University of Pittsburg; E. C. Levine of Montreal, and C. J. Wells, of Syracuse, N. Y. The annual dinner will be held and a banquet has been planned jointly with the Canadian Medical Association.

The Canadian Radiological Society will hear four distinguished physicians from Toronto, Messers, Tovell, W. H Dixon, G. E. Richards and H. H. McIntosh. In addition Dr. G. Sutherland of the Mayo clinic will speak on a study of 7,000 roentgenologic examinations of the stomach. Arrangements are being made for a special visit to the new radium institute endowed by the Provincial Government and installed at the University of Montreal.

One of the main features of the meeting will be hospital clinical week. The four main hospitals of the city will be open to visitors for clinical experiments throughout the convention. Notre Dame Hospital, Royal Victoria and Montreal General Hospitals and Hotel Dieu will hold special clinics demonstrating practically every branch of medical science and accompanied by lectures from some of the most prominent of the visitors.

Under the grouping of the main meeting, the eye, ear, nose and throat section will hear E. Fulton Risdon, and Edmund Boyd of Toronto, Luther C. Peter of Philadelphia and J. S. Fraser of Edinburgh.

ASPARAGUS

Allow six stalks of asparagus to each serving. Trim the stalks, cutting off all the hard part, to be used in soup. Remove the scales, a long process but one which pays, making the stalks much more delicate. Steam the stalks until tender, cool and serve with the following sauce.

One-half cup olive oil; three tablespoons vinegar; one hard-boiled egg, finely chopped; one-half teaspoon chopped onion; one tablespoon chopped green pepper; one tablespoon chopped red pepper; one teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon paprika; one eighth teaspoon black pepper.

Mix all the above ingredients together, place in a cold place until ready to serve. Beat for a minute before pouring it over the asparagus.

Heavy London fog necessitated the invention of a lamp that would be powerful enough to pierce it and let the driver see where he is going. This lamp therefore, has been made to be attached beneath the running board and controlled from the dash. Its rays are directed along the side so that the driver can keep sight of the curb.

It is against the fire laws to chain a car to a post, but even where this can be done with impunity, it is not a sure safeguard against theft. For the experienced auto thief has his tools with which he can easily remove the chained wheel, substitute a spare wheel and drive off.

Dry, Dull Hair Made Glossy and Beautiful By Olive Oil Shampoo

Tens of thousands of women now have beautiful hair that was once dry, dull, brittle. They have learned what all hair experts know; that olive oil must be used in the shampoo to leave hair soft and gleaming. You can prove this on your own hair. For you can use a delightful olive oil shampoo cheaply, at home. Get a bottle of PALMOLIVE SHAMPOO at any drug or department store. Follow the simple directions. You will be more surprised than anyone at the rapid improvement in your hair. For this gentle shampoo brings the loveliest softness and sheen to your hair.

A SURVEY OF CONDITIONS IN THE BRITISH AREA OF COLOGNE

Germans Revealed as Unprincipled and Coarse Bavarians Show a Higher Moral Standard

It is not generally known that since 1919 in Cologne and its adjacent districts, in the area where the British Army of occupation is stationed, there are upwards of 20,000 children born claiming British fatherhood. It is true that there are quite a number of marriages taking place between German girls and British soldiers, but the more than 20,000 children above referred to, have not the advantage of possessing parents who were too particular about formalities such as wedlock.

There is not the slightest doubt, that the sympathetic character and impressive bearing of the British soldiers as distinguished by the more haughty behaviour of the French, plays an important part in befriending the German populace, and strange as it may seem, a great deal of the favor bestowed upon the British is also due to the more satisfactory international relationship existing between Germany and Britain.

The consequences of the continuous nail-sticking policy of France is by no means confined to political and military repercussions but have a very marked influence on the demeanor of the German people. For a father or a friend to see a German girl in tho company of a Frenchman, would be equal, to say the least, to desecration. Britishers on the other hand, are received gladly in the bosom of German family circles.

When all allowances, however, have been made for the superior personal charms of the British and for their more or less pro-German political orientation it is difficult to escape the the conclusion that the predominant cause for this favoritism of the foreigner is an economic one. What is a comparatively modest pay from the British point of view, appears quite a considerable income when it is expressed in marks and is to be spent in Germany. It is for this reason that British soldiers are in a position to indulge on the luxury of giving German girls a good time.

Apart from this, quite a good proportion of their money finds its way towards helping needy Germans families and half starved children. The food parcels coming in their multitudes from their British homes are almost invariable handed over to German friends. It does not require too much imagination to see that these actions are bound to make their effect on the impressibleness of the people, especially as all this is done with good heart and without the slightest suggestion of any superiority. Little wonder therefore, that the gifts are received with alacrity by the people, seeing that ugly circumstances have forced them to live on less than half rations, as compared with pre-war times. When it is remembered that native men even of the better official and professional classes are eating less than is necessary for rational subsistance, it will be understood that the struggle of existance claims too much of their attention, to be able to muster sufficient ambition for the pleasurable pastime of femal companionship. Or perhaps I would be nearer the truth, if I said that the ambition exists right enough, but the power of financing such a project is sadly missing.

Freuleins like Tommies

So that the British soldier, enhanced in appearance by his becoming simple uniform,blessed with attractive physical attributes thanks to his sporting training, and last but not least, endowed with the all important worldly means that enables him to provide help, diversion and pleasure, wins easily as a very desirable object for the reception of friendly attentions. Moralists may be induced to condemn the very materialistic conception of these affairs of love but the frailness of human nature has also claims to attention.

It should not be overlooked that in the occupied area there are no German soldiers, so that any homage which patriotically minded girls could pay to the decorated atlar of Germans uniforms, is still born. The liking for men adorned with color schemes is for some curious psychologist reason so great, that foreign uniforms often prove an effective cure ofr the wildest species of chauvinistic hatred.

Thanks to this gregarious instinct the Russians form amongst themselves a close community and are practically isolated from the German residents. This isolation is not due to aany haughtiness on the part of the Germans but curiously, to a feeling of superiority amongst the Russians culture, culture, the Russians certainly justly. If the Germans can boast a higher claim a more attractive physical appearance which especially in their women-folk—owing to their excellent taste in dressing—finds an undisputed expression. Russian women who stray into places frequented by the Germans are instantly recognized by their dignified appearance and elegant style of dressing.

In the early days of the Russian invasion of Berlin, this physical and undoubted superiority of dressing created quite a forore amongst the German wives with all the attendant scenes of jealousy for which their husbands supplied more pertinent reasons than the feeling of any inferiority on the part of the German women.

I am fearful at the thought of becoming in any way unfair towards the German male sex, but in fairness to truth, I must put on record that next to the economic reason, I do not know of anything more demoralizing than the lack of principles and the bad conduct of the German men and especially that of the Berliners.

Any feeling of superiority on the part of the Russian men in this repect is not only justified, but it is refreshing to know, that it is due to their higher moral bearing that the social life of the Russian community is such a great success, and that their women are shuddering at the thought of having anything to do with Germans.

It is true that in the earlier days before this flourishing community developed, a number of the Russians girls became victims of the circumstances which they were too ignorant and helpless to control. In this respect they have shown the same lack of resisting power to the pressing demands of the desire of self preservation as that of the Germans girls living under like conditions. The comparison/ is, however, not complete without pointing out, that while the Russians have contrived by social working together to eradicate the blot on their Nationals as far as this was possible, the Germans are showing indifference—if not connivance —to the subject matter.

Adventuresses at Large

This picture would not be complete of the Berlin conditions, if I left out that aspect which confronts the sympathetic foreigner, interested for humanitarian and psycholohical reason in the subject. Wherever he may be, foyer of a hotel, restaurant, cafe, or a Variety show, he will rencounter the species of women (generally German), who fortified by a self sufficiency and confidence due to a degree of refinement and attractive ladylike appearance, as a rule makes for those men whom they scent—invariably correctly—to be foreigners, hailing from lands of undepreciated currency. What appears to the observer at first sight a reserved and proud table companion, developes by degrees into a skilled adventuress. They play on human sympathy of men by the narration of often rehearsed stories, and inexperienced men find it quite embarrassing and difficult to part company with them without sacrificing something on the financing of their fraudulent objects.

The women in the so-called Nacht locals (night localities) the evening dressed section of the species are conspicuous not only by their bad taste in tne choice of their elaborate dresses, but by thier inartistic make up, and last but not least, by their crude behavior which lacks the slightest degree of discretion, and is bereft of the smallest trace of any remnant of good taste, which must have been one time or other their natural share.

These localities are not confined to people of a licentious mode of living; in fact, they are equally, if not predominantly visited by respectful families, and therefore one is disturbed by the presence of the girls, who carry on as if they were dominating the place. No doubt they are in league with the owners and waiters of the pplaces in question and they are relied upon to increase the revenue of the establishment. A code of signs and exchange of looks between waiters and girls govern to a large extent the pleasure of the unsuspecting victim, and one may be forgiven for gloating on the exploitation of an individual who chooses his pleasure in the company of so much unmitigated coarseness.

It is true that this method of dissipation and robbery is not confined to Berlin or Germany, and that it is a time-honored friend we meet constantly in France—yet one can forgive the French method on account of its greatness finness and subtlety, but one cannot forget the clumsy vulgarity of the German interpretations of what constitutes night life on Berlin.

When all is said about Berlin, one has said the worst about the whole of Germany, as even other towns like Hamburg which aspire to emulate the example of Berlin fall considerably short in the achievement.

There is, however, quite another side to the picture.

Bavarians' Superiour Morals

Munich and other Bavarian places not only show pre-war conditions in respect of the subject matter in hand, but such great vigour and severity is used officially in suppressing the evil that especially Munich can be considered to be as decorous and clean in its bearing as an American city. The main source for this is of course to be found in the greater self-sufficiency and prosperity of the Bavarian Nation, the higher moral standard of its men and women, and their greater economic independence.

The same superiority of conduct of the Bavarians is also observable in their post war commercial moral bearing, a fascinating subject, which I only mention in passing in order not to encumber the sex aspect of the question.

The few samples I have given are sufficient, I believe, to formulate an idea of what is going on in Germany. In judging however, allowance must be made for the fact that my description refers to larger places, especially the capital where there are numerous reasons operating not to be found in smaller communities. Consequently, the moral life is very much cleaner in these smaller places.

It is a fact throughout the world that small places under the watchful eye of fellow inhabitants, through lack of opportunities, and through assured means of existance, generally succeed in divesting themselves of conditions that bred the evil. This is also true in regards to the thousands of small communities throughout Germany.

The task of remedying the worst feature of the question is an enormous one. It has not only gone too far, but the international preocupation of Germany, coupled by its uncertain economic conditions preclude —for the present at least—the possibility of a State action to rid the country of this illicit sapping of energy.

No great hope can be entertained for a social alleviation of the problem in the next generation or two as long as educative or evolutionary influence does not put a higher value on women in the eyes of large number of German men.

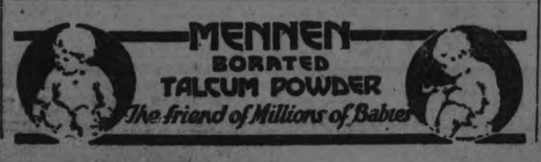
An official estimate made as to visiting motorists to Canada, their length of stay in this country on the average and the daily expenditure of the individual for the calendar year, 192, is that the largest number of visitors stay for seven days, and spend $25 daily per car. The smaller number stay thirty days and spend $20 per car.

Counting everything from cotter keys to motor blocks, the average automobile has approximately 4,000 parts.



Drury Government Is Worthy of Support of East Peterboro Electors

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

As the Government candidate and supporter of the Premier, the Hon. E. C. Drury, I again ask your influence and support in the coming election in the interests of good government.

FOUR YEARS OF PROGRESS.

Real progress has marked the past four years of the Drury administration. Progress which is now criticized by its opponents as too advanced, but which in session they criticzed as too moderate.

NO GENERAL TAXATION

Without imposing any general taxation, the Government, since 1919, has increased the annual revenue by eighteen million dollars. This came from recovered timbermonies, stumpage dues on Crown lands, race tracks, and succession duties on very rich estates, etc. This increased revenue enabled the Government to give to the people larger grants for Education, Hospitals, Mothers' Allowances, etc.

EXPENDITURES CURTAILED

Of the expenditures some seventy-one millions had to be spent in completing the undertakings of the previous Government in the Chippewa and other hydro developments. The big radial project, however, after investigation was rejected by the Government, saving the Province at least two hundred millions expenditures. This huge debt our opponents urged, although they now cry economy. In fact taking out mainly hydro, charities and education, the Drury Government expenditures can be proved to be $60,541 lass than before.

EDUCATION ASSISTED

Recognizing the burdens of municipal taxation for school purposes in the rural districts the Drury Government has rendered great assistance. In East Peterborough the Government's school grants to the townships have been more than doubled in most instances. The village schools, contrary to any class legislation, have been even more favorably dealt with. The grants to Havelock Public School have been increased from $189 in 1919 to $1818.00 in 1922; to Norwood P. S. from $130.04 to $1,576.00; to Lakefield from $176 to $1,490.00. The Continuation and High School grants to these villages have also been largely increased, all of which has assisted greatly in keeping down the taxes in villages and townships. Electors in village and country will make no mistake supporting a Government which looks after their interests.

COLONIZATION ROADS

The expenditure on Colonization roads has been put on a business basis and $100 value is given now where $100 is spent. East Peterboro is securing splendid grants of this money.

TEMPERANCE

Premier Drury's stand on the Ontario Temperance Act is well known and all the electors who wish to play safe for sane administration as in the past four years will vote for the Drury Government.

GOOD ROADS

Our opponents in their vain endeavor to secure power are criticising the Good Roads system which they themselves advocated years ago.

"If Tory friends had built those roads
We'd have to keep as meek as toads
(They'd be the roads the Tories built)
There'd be no kick about the tax
And things would be as smooth as wax.

The Drury Government, however, has wisely capitalized the fees from motor licenses at twenty-five millions of dollars to provide a fund WITHOUT OTHER TAXATION to finance road systems. The railway magnates got their millions, why not a little money to keep up our own roads upon which we can ride FREE?

I might go into the benefits enacted by the Mothers' Allowance Act, the raising of the Cattle Embargo, rural credits, etc., but space will not permit.

ALL ELECTORS WELCOMED

In the short time I may not see you all personally but I just as sincerely ask your worthy support for sound, honest government. As in the past four years it will be my endeavor to keep closely in touch with all the electors in every part of the riding and no matter what your past party affiliation has been you will be cordially welcomed. Believe me,

Faithfully yours,

E. N. McDONALD

Unsolved Mysteries

PETER THE "GREAT"

Although immortalized in history by the title of "The Great," Peter I of Russia has attained a fame to which many historians declare he is not entitled, and some Russian writers go so far as to say that the qualification "great" should be followed by "scoundrel," and that was only for the sake of brevity that Peter's accepted title was used.

Born on June 9, 1672, the brother of Ivan declared himself Czar in 1696, as the former Emperor had left no sons. His reforms began almost immediately and took the form of attempting to uproot the republican ideals which then had a firm hold on the people. He abolished the election of officials and judges, violated the freedom of the Church by substituting a synod controlled by the Czar with the authority of the patriarch and finally crowned his efforts toward reform by making the peasants slaves to the nobility—a move which led to a rebellion that Peter quenched in a sea of blood.

Because the Czar objected to the wearing of long beards and a certain type of boot, a rule which his subjects resented, 8,000 of them were sentenced to death. Peter's ministers competed for the prize to be awarded to the one who should execute the greatest number, and this was finally won by the Czar's favorite, Menshikov.

In addition to his crimes against his country, Peter's reputation as a ruler can hardly be said to have been improved by the history of his private life. Tired of his first wife, Eudoxia, he fell in love with the daughter of a saloonkeeper in Moscow and imprisoned the Czarina in a monastry. Later Peter met the daughter of a poor Lithuanian workman and eventually married her—a step which proved his undoing for she, under the name of Catherine I, became one of the greatest as well as one of the most mysterious of Russian rulers. Because the Czarevitch Alexis opposed this marriage, Peter sentenced him to death, a move which made it comparatively simple for Catherine to depose him and supposedly accomplish his own end through poison.

The rule of him who was surnamed "The Great" was so hated throughout Russia that there was little surprise at his death and no inquiry whatever as to its cause was made, for it seemed an unquestioned blessing to the people whom Peter had oppressed for so many years. How Peter I. ever received the surname by which he is known in history is one of the minor, but nevertheless extremely interesting, riddles of Russia.

REVERSIBLE COATS.

Reversible coats are quilted white silk on one side and figured Paisley silk on the other—it is hard to tell which is most lovely.

HATS AND BELTS.

A smart French designer is making colorful sport hats of coarsely woven fabrics with narrow belts to match to be worn with white silk sports costumes.

BLACK AND WHITE.

Despite the fact that color is seen everywhere this season, some of the most distinguished dressers are appearing almost exclusively in black or in combination of black and white.

SUFFERED SO FROM HEART AND NERVES LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Mrs. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont. writes:—"I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me.

A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also took these spells in the night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of

ANNUAL OUTING LOCAL ENGINEERS

Peterboro Branch Engineering Institute Will Excurt to Campbellford

The annual outing of the local branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will be held on Saturday June 23rd., when members, visiting members and friends of the local engineers will proceed by train or auto mobile to Campbellford. While there, visits of inspection will be made to the plant of the Canada Paperboard Company and the new Hydro-Electric generating station at Ranney's Falls. This station which has now been in operation for some time is the last word in modern power plant construction and this visit should prove one of great interest to all. While at Ranney's Falls a group photograph will be taken.

A soft ball game between the teams of Chairman R. L. Dobbin and Vice-Chairman E. R. Shirley has been scheduled for 3.30 p.m. It is rumoured that negotiations are under way for the purchase of valuable prizes for presentation to the winning team. Plans of a standard soft ball diamond have been prepared by some of the C.G.E. engineers and a party of surveyors under Mr. A .E. Caddy of Campbellford has already made the preliminary survey for the diamond. At 5.30 p.m. supper will be served at Long's Restaurant. Mr. Paul Manning was in Campbellford on Sunday conferring with the local committee there, consisting of Mayor Meyers, Mr. A. E. Caddy of the Trent Canal and Mr A. L. Malcolm of the Hydro. Accommodation will be provided on the courts adjacent to the ball diamond for those wishing to play tennis. They are asked, however, to provide their own racquets.

Those travelling by train will leave the G.T.R. station at 12.15 o'clock and returning will leave Campbellford at 6.58 p.m. In order to secure a club rate members are asked to communicate with M. W. E. Ross at the C.G.E.

Accommodation will be provided for such as desire to travel by automobile and they are requested to communicate with Mr. P. Manning at the C.G.E., or with the Secretary R. C. Flitton at the Wm. Hamilton Company.

GENERAL ELMSLEY AT CAMP THURSDAY

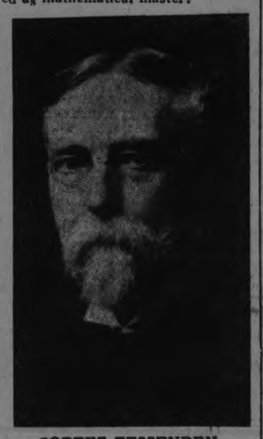
Some of Tents in the Cavalry Camp Were Blown Down This Afternoon.

This afternoon's driving rain storm, with a snappy electrical accompaniment, upset the day's schedule of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons in their camp at the Exhibtion Park. Some of the tents went down before the turbulent wind. The sergeants' mess tent was flattened out, and the officers' marquee was badly dented by the breaking of a ridge polt. Two or three of the bell tents along the men's row were also toppled over, and as soon as the storm passed the squadrons were converted into repair parties and went to work to put the camp in order again.

Lieut.-Col. J. F. Foulkes, of Kingston, district paymaster, is expected to arrive to-day, and will muster the men in the morning. General Elmsley is due on Thursday for inspection of the force Thursday morning.

Cortez Fessenden

The death took place in the city yesterday of Cortez Fessenden, well known in educational circles in Canada and for many years Principal of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. The son of the late Elisha Fessenden he was born in Romeo. Michigan, on March 11, 1852. His parents came to Canada when he was very young, and he received his education at Knowlton Academy, McGill Normal School and Trinity University and took his degree in 1875. The next year he took the principal ship of Brampton High School. Five years later he accepted the position of principal of the High School at Napanee, and in 1890 he came to Peterborough to take the position of Principal of the Collegiate Institute. He was most highly recommended by the Board of Education for this position. In 1893 records show that great progress had been made under the new principal, results in departmental examinations showing notice able advancement. M. Fessenden retired in 1908 and since then has served as mathematical master.



CORTEZ FESSENDEN

Among his other notable achievements he was the author of several school text-books, including "High School Physics" and "Elements of Physics." Many professional men who have made successes in their spheres of work owe much to the tuition received at the hands of Mr. Fessenden. A noteworthy fact is that many who served on his staff from time to time have advanced to higher positions. He was esteemed by all who had the pleasure of working with him on the Collegiate Institute staff, and was highly respected for his extensive knowledge of all matters pertaining to education.

Throughout the city and country there are hundreds of boys and girls who received their education under Mr. Fessenden, now grown to manhood and womanhood, who will receive with deep regret the news of the passing of this friend of their youth.

In 1878 Mr. Fessenden married in Brampton, Ethel, eldest daughter o the late Thornhill A. Agar, by whom he is survived.

Of their children Lieut. Col. John Hampden Fessenden, D.S.O., of the Southern Command at Poona, India; Capt. C. V. Fessenden is at Kitchener, Ont; Mrs. Rettger, wife of Professor William Rettger of Cornell is in Ithaca N.Y.; and Mrs. S L. Watton lives in Bristol, England. Mr. Fessenden leaves also four grand children.

His son Lieut. Col. J. H. Fessenden was mentioned in despatches in 1915 by Sir John French, and in 1916 he was Commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy by the King of Italy.

The remains were taken to Toronto this morning and the funeral will be held there from the Mortuary Chapel to St. James' Cemetery.

FIERCE WINDS HARD ON TREES

Severe Storm Passed Over the City This Afternoon

Peterborough streets, after the elements got through with them today, presented the appearance of a very untidy household, where a lot of unruly children had been having a real good time. The calm that followed a fierce display of eelctrical manifestation, combined with a high wind and a rushing downpour of rain, revealed every thoroughfare strewn with leaves and limbs of trees. On Stewart street, above Brock, an entire tree was down, split off clean by the fiery bolt, and effectually blocking the causeway. As far as can be learned, damage to trees was the principal effect of the storm's fury.

Many telephones were temporarily out of commission after the storm, and power was shut off for about fifteen minutes. Street cars remained stationary at their posts, with the elements raging about them, and bicyclists on George street made detours to avoid wandering shingles ripped loose by what was more than a mere passing breeze.

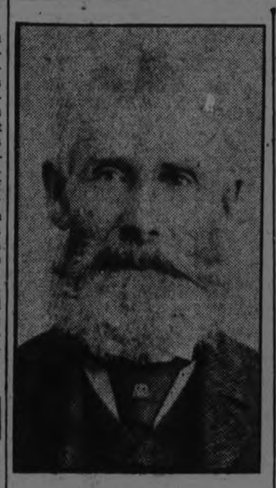
SHARED SIXTY-FIVE YEARS STRENUOUS PIONEER LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. James MacAlpine of Stanwood, Seymour Township, Made Their Way to Affluence and Raised a Family of Eleven Children.



James MacAlpine.

Mrs. James MacAlpine.

STANWOOD, June 19.—The pioneers of Ontario had their hardships and struggles and outstanding among these was the difficulty of getting from one place to another owing to the lack of roads and other means of transportation. Survivors of the advance body of settlers still talk of the days when young men walked through the darkness of the primeval forest after nightfall, undismayed by the prowling bears, wolves and wild cats to call on the girls who afterward became their partners for better or worse.

Probably the record for long distance courtship is held by James MacAlpine of this place, who in his eighty-eight years has the distinction of being the oldest Mason and Orangeman in the district. In the days of his courtship Mr. MacAlpine, on several occasions, walked from here to Camden township, a distance of 75 miles, to visit Miss Sarah Jane McKeown. Two days was the time the ardent young lover allowed himself to make the trip one way. The two were married in 1858 and in the 65 years of their wedded life, shared the toil of pioneer life together, made their way to affluence and raised a family of 11 children, eight of whom are still living. They celebrated their golden wedding in 1908. Mrs. MacAlpine died last winter, aged 83, leaving the husband to make the rest of life's journey alone.

Born in Glasgow

Mr. MacAlpine was born in Glasgow, Scotland, in 1836, one year before the late Queen Victoria ascended the throne. When he was five years old his parents came to Canada, crossing the Atlantic on the sailing ship Constitution. The trip lasted seven weeks and the family landed at Bath, near Kingston, later moving to Camden township.

Becomes Support of Family

The father was killed by a falling tree at a chopping bee when James, who was the oldest of the family, was nine years old. The boy had to leave school and take his place as the head of the household. We has always regretted the lack of opportunity to secure an education but he remedied this lack as far as possible by pursuing his studies at home until he was as well grounded in the fundamentals as the average country boy of those early days.

Moved to Stanwood

Not prospering as they wished in their new home the family moved to Stanwood in 1854, settling on the farm on which Mr. MacAlpine has occupied ever since. The country at that time had just been cut over by the pioneer lumbermen who removed all the marketable timber. A man had squatted on what is now the MacAlpine homestead, living in a shack that had been left by the lumbermen. Young MacAlpine gave this settler $100 for his possession rights and later secured a deed from the Crown for the timbered acres which is now one of the finest farms in Seymour township. Two years after his marriage he built a log house which is still standing, an interesting landmark, vastly different from the commodious brick residence by which it has been replaced.

Hard to Buy Flour

One of the trials of the pioneers was the difficulty they had in securing a supply of flour. Mr. MacAlpine relates how, in 1855, he went to Stirling with money in his pocket to pay for two barrels of flour which was worth $11 a barrel. The miller refused to sell him a pound, saying that all the flour he could produce was contracted for by the British Government to feed the soldiers engaged in the Crimean War. Like their neighbors the MacAlpine family were obliged to live on corn meal as the chief article of their diet.

Stirring Times in Campbellford

There were stirring times in Campbellford and surrounding district when the American Civil War broke out in 1861. A public meeting was called in the former place and a huge crowd gathered from all parts of the townships. Cal. Meyers, founder of Meyersburg where he operated a grist mill, and who was one of the early military figures of this community, addressed the crowd from the balcony of one of the hotels. He told them that 75 men were required for military service. If they volunteered everything would be all right, but if they did not that number of the more eligible would be drafted under the old Militia Act, to repel a threatened invasion.

Col. Meyers, by way of explaining the necessity for this warlike preparation, read an extract from a bumptious editorial in an American paper which boasted that after the South had been brought under the military heel of the North, the American soldiers would, while their hand was in and their fighting ardor still hot, cross the border and annex Canada some morning before breakfast.

That was one occasion in Canadian history when the draft was not needed. With a patriotic yell the sturdy young farmers of Seymour township, Mr. MacAlpine among them, crowded up to the front to offer their services.

The names of 75 were taken just as the young men presented themselves, and they were told to return home and report a week later for medical inspection.

Out of that bunch only one man was rejected. He had lost some of his front teeth and the authorities decided he would be unable to bite the cartridges which were used in the army in those days, this being a necessary part of the loading of guns. The young man, when he learned his fate, wept like a child but the officers could not be moved.

Were Not Needed

As it turned out, however, this company of recruits was not needed. The Northern army was finding its resources taxed to the utmost in dealing with the South and after the battle of Bull Run the danger of an American invasion vanished. The 75 recruits were never trained but were instructed to remain at home ready to answer a call to arms in a day's notice. Every 24th of May, while the American War lasted, they were required to report at Campbellford for inspection.

Six Brothers Volunteer

Among the volunteers who offered their services were J. Wilson and his six sons. The officers refused to take the father's name, advising him to remain at home, but the boys were all enrolled. The descendants of this devoted patriot and father of patriots, are still living on the Wilson homestead, near Pethrick Corners.

His First Wheat Crop

Mr. MacAlpine's mind is stored with reminiscences. His faculties are all unimpaired, his health is excellent; he reads without glasses. His first taste of prosperity in his new home was when he raised a crop of wheat. Sowing eight bushels he threshed with a flail 200 bushels from his field. He sold 30 bushels of this for seed at $1.52 a bushel and disposed of the rest among his neighbors who had it ground into flour.

The Pioneer Church

The first religious denomination to hold religious services in Stanwood was the Bible Christians, preachers coming here from Campbellford to preach in the log schoolhouse. This was in 1869.

The Methodists came next, holding services in the same place, but a dispute arose over the place of meeting, both denominations wishing to use the building at the same hour. Later the Methodists put up a meeting place of their own. The building is still standing and is used as a garage by the Stanwood cheese factory.

In Fraternal Societies

Mr. MacAlpine is a veteran Orangeman and Mason. In the early days before the local lodge of Orangemen—which he was instrumental in founding—was organized, he belonged to the lodge at Marmora and used to walk alone ten miles through the woods to attend the meetings. He has been a member of the Conservative party all his life and for three years was in the Seymour Council, retiring of his own accord as he had no time to spare from his private affairs.

Eight Children Survive

Mr. MacAlpine's eight children who are still living are as follows:—Robert J., on the homestead, Thomas of Owen Sound, Mrs. James B. Peoples of Havelock, Mrs. David Aikins of Havelock, Mrs. Alex. Leason who resides near Peterboro, Mrs. Wesley Oakley, near Hastings, Mrs. Robert Bonar of Belmont, and Mrs. Charles Bales of Toronto.

Those Good Old Days

In those good old days the true community spirit prevailed among the settlers who were always ready to help each other in logging and building operations. These bees were always followed by a dance at night when the long distance and endurance records were often in danger. Whiskey cost 30 cents a gallon if purchased in three gallon lots and high wassail prevailed at all gatherings. There was little sickness among the pioneers, an occasional attack of ague being the most prevalent ailment.

Mr. MacAlpine never acquired the tobacco habit. Once in his youth he hugged the delusion that to smoke was a manly accomplishment, but after a six week's trial he gave it up and has abstained ever since.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchange — And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(Special.)—Pessimism saturated every strata of speculative thought following Monday's severe break in the stock market and other areas at the opening of the stock trading to-day. The list was under the influence of apprehension resulting from the lack of inside support.

Although the industrial average at the previous close was still above the November lows, it was below the bottom figure touched on the break which was checked late in May. Baldwin had a further sharp drop in the initial dealings, selling off 1 1-4 to a new low for the year at 122 3-4. Chandler showed some signs of support, 1,000 shares changing hands on the opening sales at fractional advances. Generally speaking, however, the market was heavy at around the low levels on the current decline. Saner counsel prevailed toward the end of the first hour regarding the flood of unreasoning rumors which swept over the financial district following the recent failure of a stock exchange house.

Prices showed a decided tone around 11 o'clock. Bearish activities had made little headway in issues like Atchison and New York Central and these stocks were the first to recover, rallying a point each.

Wall Street was still puzzled over the ability of professional operators to obtain in long advance the proposed cuts in Crude Oil and Gasoline prices. Since the cuts in Oil began over two months ago, Wall Street has had the information in advance. Early this month the report that Pennsylvania crude would be cut 25 cents a barrel was sent broadcast. Official announcement was made Monday. These cuts usually come in an unsettled stock market. One young millionaire is credited with cleaning up $10,000,000 on the short side in the Oil stocks. Word came from Findlay, Ohio, that the Ohio Oil Company has reduced Wooster Crude 15 cents a barrel to $1.90.

WANTED ON A MURDER CHARGE

TORONTO, June 19.—(Canadian Press)—Routine proceedings which the Attorney General's department is conducting for the return of Sydey Murrell from California where he is being held for the theft of an auto to London, Ont., where he is wanted on a charge of murder were penetrated yesterday when a wire was received from California Authorities asking for particulars of Murrell's war record. The reason of the request was stated to be that Murrell has been posing in California as a war hero suffering from persecution by the country which he had served overseas. So far as General Williams head of the Provincial Police has been able to learn, however, Murrell did not see overseas service with Canadian forces.

ENFORCE BETTER RESPECT FOR LAW

VICTORIA, B.C., June 19 (Canadian Press). — The Doukhobors issue may come before the British Columbia Legislature at its next session, Premier Oliver is convinced that strong measures must be taken to enforce better respect for the laws by the Doukhobor colonies.

"We intend to see that the laws are obeyed regardless of the consequences," he declared yesterday.

Other settlers resent the presence of the Doukhobors, and are frankly hostile to them, he added. They point out that members of the sect maintain no record of marriages or births, that practically none of the girl children attend school, and that the Dominion and Provincial laws are being evaded.

LIGHTNING SPLINTERED TREE.

Lightning split a big Manitoba maple in front of the house at 73 Aylmer street, during this afternoon's storm, and two big branches that were almost torn from the main trunk were thrown across a telephone cable, bearing it down close to the road. Other trees in the south end were "knocked" for some of their branches, the willows coming off worst.

CHANGES MADE IN RUGBY RULES

Rules Committee of the Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Union Made Several Important Changes.

MONTREAL, June 19.—(Canadian Press)—Running interference on the line of scrimmage from touch line will be permissible in inter-collegiate rugby matches in the Fall. This decision was reached at a meeting of the Canadian Inter-Collegiate Rugby Union held here Saturday, attended by representatives from McGill University, University of Toronto, Queen's University, Western University, Royal Military College and St. Michael's College. Only the men on the line of scrimmage at the time the ball is put into play will be allowed to take part in the interference, which means that half-backs will not be allowed to come up to assist in making openings. The three yard limit for the play on the line was unaltered.

There was a considerable reduction made in penalties. For the running interference any infringement will result in the loss of possession of the ball, instead of the customary 15-yard penalty and the loss of a down as heretofore. The penalty for off-side was reduced to the loss of a down only and no distance—the fifteen yard penalty being eliminated in the case of the team holding the ball, though the team not in possession will be penalized distance. All penalty distances have been reduced from 15 to 10 yards.

These changes to the rules were agreed to at a meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Committee last December but at the meeting of the Rules Committee of the C.R.F.U. held subsequently but at the parent organization. Adoption of changes at Saturday's meeting means that the inter-collegiate next season will play upnder their own rules and the question arises as to whether the C.R.F.U. will accept the inter-collegiate body into affiliation. The changes will be tried for one year to test their effectiveness, it being pointed out that in the case of the running interference from touch to touch the committee has only legalized a play that has been worked for the past ten years in games despite the old rules.

Bob Isbister of Hamilton, was reappointed to referee the six inter-collegiate games next season, with Harry Glassford, former Tiger player, as umpire. Col. Constantine of the Royal Military College will be asked to act as head linesman in all the fixtures.

EXAMINER TEAM WON FIRST GAME

Nosed Out the Packers By One Run in Game at the Oval Last Evening.

The Examiner baseball team broke into the win column last evening by nosing out the C.P.C. nine by a score of 10 to 9 in a six inning scrap at the Oval. The game was originally scheduled for seven frames but was delayed by numerous disputes regarding decisions of the umpire and the matter of the correct score, and had to be called on account of darkness.

Scates and Taylor did the hurling for the Examiner while Larmer was the mound artist for the Packers. The Packers had one big inning in the third frame when they sent six runs across the pan and began to look like winners. The Printers however came back strong with three in their half of the third and added four more in the fourth to tie the score. In the fifth frame Baker's triple to deep left sent Johnson home with the winning counter.

The players were:

Examiner—Baker, lf; Outram, ss; Taylor, 1b, p; Scates, p, 1b; Long, 3b; Collins, c; Dunkley, cf; Johnson, 2b; Murray, rf.

C.P.C.—Oxley, B. Pearson, Davidson, J. Pearson, H. Ranger, Downer, Heard, Larmer and B. Ranger.

C.G.E. Girls Won Fast Game From Woollens.

The C.G.E. girls added another victory to their credit in the Girls' Soft Ball League by defeating the Woollens 15 to 7 in a fast game at Central Park last evening. The game was remarkably well played and an unusually large crowd was in attendance.

An unpleasant feature of this series which has sprung up during the past few games is the tendency on the part of a few of the spectators to pass personal comments regarding the players. These actions, which are far from gentlemanly, are not in the best interests of the game and the officials of the league are considering what steps can best be taken to eliminate them.

Bailieboro Juniors Astonished Fraserville.

BAILIEBORO, June 19. — The junior boys of Bailieboro astonished the Frazerville baseball team in a seven-inning game at Wallace's Point on Friday evening, when they held the Frazerville boys down to 9 runs. The school youngsters themselves scored 5 well earned runs.

The line-ups were:

Bailieboro — Herb. Dean, c; Roland Johnston, p; Aylmer Dawson, 1b; Archie Deyell, 2b; O. Finley, 3b; F. Dawson, lf; C. Barnard, rf; K. Barnard, cf; V. Jewison, ss.

Frazerville — E. Karl, p; K. Larmer, c; H. Cardwell, 1b; C. Kidd, 2b; A. Hewett, 3b; C. Ingram, rf; F. Cook, lf; C. Wood, cf; H. Karl, ss.

Do you know Baseball?

by Billy Evans

Questions.

One — Is there any limitation as to the weight of a bat in baseball?

Two — Team takes its position in field, pitcher delivers ball, and the batter singles. It is then discovered that centre fielder has not returned to his position. Does hit count?

Three — When two teams play a game on neutral grounds, how is the choice of innings decided?

Four — How many balls is a pitcher privileged to throw in warming up prior to the start of an inning?

Five — With count three and two, umpire calls balk on pitcher, who delivers ball which is wildly pitched, going to the grandstand. Runner on third scores, and batsman dashes to second? What about it?

Answers.

One — There is no limitation as to the weight of the bat. It need only be made of hardwood and not be more than 2 inches long, or over two and three-fourths inches in diameter at the thickest part.

Two — team must have nine players in the field. Since there were only eight, the hit was illegal, and batsman must be made to hit over when centre fielder has taken his position.

Three — Usually by toss of the coin, captain winning the toss taking his choice, and he usually selects the field.

Four — Pitcher is entitled to five warm-up balls prior to the start of each inning.

Five — When umpire calls balk, ball becomes dead and play is suspended. Runner on third is entitled to score, but wild pitch has no effect on status of batter. He continues at bat with count three and two.

Walter Smaill Coach Cartierville Paddlers.

Walter Smaill, well-known Montreal hockey referee and former Wanderer hockey player, has been engaged to coach the Cartierville paddlers. Probably very few of the local paddlers will remember Smaill in his palmy days, but he was one of the best paddlers of the time, and participated in many Canadian championships under the Cartierville colours. With his assistance the club should figure well in the championship regattas. — Toronto

SHIELD PRESENTED TO FOOTBALL ASSN.

Trophy Donated By the G.W.V.A. to Help Funds For Injured Players — Charity Cup Draw.

At the regular meeting of the P. & D.F.A. held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Sidney Whatley announced on behalf of the G.W.V.A. that the organization was prepared to present a Charity Shield to the Football Association. This shield will be played for on the cup draw principles and all services including those of the referee and players must be absolutely free. The proceeds of the games are to go toward a fund for the purpose of assisting injured players. The trophy will be for perpetual competition to be held for one year by each team winning it.

A committee consisting of President J. Cairns, W. Nicholls and S. Whatley was appointed to arrange the dates for the game. The draw for the games will be:

First round—G.W.V.A. vs Thistles
Semi-final—Quakers vs. Woollens.
Semi-final—C.P.C. vs winners of G.W.V.A.-Thistle game.

The draw for the Phelan Charity cup was also arranged with the following results:

Tuesday, July 3—C.P.C. vs Woollens.
Saturday, July 7.—Thistles vs G.W.V.A.
Smi-final—Quakers vs winner of C.P.C.-Woollens.

It was unanimously agreed that H. Mann be barred from playing football until he appeared before the board on his return from his visit to the Old Country.

FOOTBALL NOTES

A special meeting of the C.P.C will be held tomorrow evening after the practice game.

A social evening to which all players and officials of the G.W.V.A. Football have been invited will be held immediately following the training period on Wednesday evening.

HARD HITTING WON FOR PITTSBURG

Maranville and Barnhart Featured at the Bat — New York - St. Louis Game Delayed By Rain.

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Pittsburgh won the opening game from Boston yesterday, due chiefly to timely hitting by Maranville and Barnhart. Maranville connected safely four times out of five trips to the plate, while Barnhart slammed out a homer in the fifth with Carey on base. In the seventh inning he hit a three bagger with the bases filled. Catcher Gooch was injured by a foul ball and was relieved by Mattox. Score:

Chicago 9, Philadelphia 3.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(Canadian Press.)— Chicago bunched its hits off Behan and Hubbel, driving them off the mound, and defeated Philadelphia 9 to 3. The batting of O'Farrell, who made three hits, including a home run, driving in six runs, was a feature. Tierney also hit a homer with a man on. Score:

Philadelphia	..100 000 020	3	5 1
Chicago..	..000 240 12x	9	17 2

Behan, Hubbell, Mitchell and Wilson; Aldridge and O'Farrell.

Cincinnati 6, Brooklyn 3.

CINCINNATI, O., June 19. — (Canadian Press.)—The Reds got back on their winning stride again yesterday, defeating Brooklyn, 6 to 3. Dickerman was hit freely after the second inning, four hits and three stolen bases giving the home team four runs in the sixth. Rixey was taken out for a pinch hitter in the fifth and Keck received credit for the victory. Score:

Rent Question is Getting Serious.

LONDON, June 19.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A deputation of Labour commissioners, headed by Ramsay McDonald, chief of the Labor party appeared before Viscount Novar, secretary for Scotland, yesterday afternoon, seeking his intervention with a view to checking the eviction of tenants, particularly in Glasgow. A strong point was made of the fact that under the new Housing Bill the rent of a house is decontrolled when a break in tenancy occurs and the strong suggestion was made that many landlords, notably a certain class in Glasgow, would move heaven and earth to force a break in tenancy wherever they can in order to reap the financial advantage.

The simplest way to make a break in tenancy was to bring a case of arrears in rent into the Rent Court and obtain a ejectment order. Mr. Macdonald foreshadowed possible serious developments if the operation of the law in this respect was not suspended and added that a similar movement on the part of landlords was beginning in Londo.

Lord Novar replying sympathetically, undertook to discuss particular points with Neville Chamberlain, the Minister of Health, and promised to enquire into the allegations that some houseowners in Glasgow demanded payment in excess of rent due as a condition for refraining from enforcing the decree of ejection

In presenting his case Mr. Macdonald said that poverty caused by unemployment and low wages in Glasgow accounted or the fact that between April 1 and June 8 there were 6528 case, of arrears of rent brought before the sheriff's court. 759 decrees of ejectment granted of which 163 were actually carried out.

Neil MacLean, a member of the deputation, said that big demonstrations in protest were taking place and that the Glasgow labourites were exceedingly anxious to avoid disturbances.

JIMMY WILDE KNOCKED OUT

Pancho Villa Won World Flyweight Title at the Polo Grounds, New York

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, June 19. Canadian Press. — Pancho Villa of the Philippines knocked out Jimmy Wilde of England, world's flyweight champion, in the seventh round, of a 15 round match last night with a right to the jaw.

Villa, who was dethroned as the United States flyweight title holder but a few months ago, rose to the world's champion heights in a battle that was spectacular from start to finish, despite its one-sidedness

The crowd estimated by the promoters as 40,000, and which paid about three hundred thousand dollars, witnessed the second world's title change hands at the Polo grounds within a few weeks.

Rushing and slashing with a terrific assault, that had Wilde groggy and reeling in the first round, Villa's victory was one of the most decisive in the annals of the world's championship history.

Only Wilde's marvellous gameness and the heart of a master ringman enabled him to last as long as he did. He stood up under the most deadly of attacks for six rounds bleeding from cuts about his mouth and cheeks and with his right eye practically closed.

Sensing victory in the seventh round, Villa sprang from his corner like a wild cat. He drove rights and lefts to Wilde's head as the Britisher gave ground slowly, still trying gamely but ineffectively to fight back.

Filipino, amazed that his opponent could stand up under such an assault, drew back, and then shot over a right cross as Wilde's guard dropped momentarily. The "mighty atom" fell like a log to the canvas and never quivered as he was counted out. Heldpless he was carried to his corner and there it took strenuous work for a few minutes to revive him. He was carried to his dressing room, where still dazed and blinded, he was unable even to recognize his wife who rushed to him.

OTHER BOUTS

Harry Gordon, Philadelphia lightweight outboxed Carl Tremaine Cleveland Bantam in ten round bout and received the Judges' decision.

Frankie Genaro, United States flyweight champion, was introduced in the ring before the Wilde-Villa fight and challenged the winner for world's title.

BELLEVILLE LOST TO KINGSTON 6-4

Each Team Figured in a Fast Double Play—Neck and Neck Till 6th.

KINGSTON, June 19. (Special.)— Kingston 6; Belleville 4. Kingston jumped into the lead in the first innings in last night's game against Belleville and held the Trunks out till the fourth, when two hits and a wold pitch gave them a run. The teams went neck and neck till the sixth, when Gerow's bunch on a triple by Ross got two walks; a fielder's choice and another single tallied twice, and gave the fans heart trouble.

In the seventh, the Batstone crew came through when Twigg and W. Evans singled, and Rice tripled, tieing the score. In their eighth, W. Mills singled, went to second on J. Mills out to Daly and scored when Meagher singled.

With one behind the locals went into the eighth frame and Nicholson singled, went to second when Batstone was deliberately walked after Daley had gone out to J. K. Williams and Teepell had flied to Armstrong. Twigg accommodated with a beautiful home run into left centre, giving Kingston the edge of a 6-4 score.

After Gallagher and Cherry had singled Jack Williams relieved Oulette and he forced Rice to ground to first for the last out.

Belleville went out without any fireworks in their ninth. Moore pitched all the way, fanning seven, walked one, allowed ten hits, and had no errors behind him.

Oulette fanned eight, allowed eight hits, walked one, hit one, and had five errors behind him. Each team figured in a fast double play.

Umpires, Butler at plate and Large on the bases.

COGS IN LEAD, GAME CALLED

Darkness called a halt to the Cognawaga-George Street game in the East Peterborough League at King Edward School grounds last evening, the contest being called in the sixth, with Cognawaga indulging in a rally that, with one out, had netted six runs. The score reverted to the fifth, when the count stood 3 to 3. The early stages of the game was largely a pitchers' battle between Delahaye and Vannest, the latter "fanning" the side in order in the third and holding his opponents back when they loaded the bags in the third, after two were out. Vannest also struck out the side in the fourth after Shields had singled. George Street got their first run in this frame, when Shields singled, stole second and third, and scored when the catcher allowed a third strike on Bates to get away. George Street scored two runs in the fifth, after R. Miller had fanned. Doubles by Elliott, Thornton and C. Miller tallied the counters. Shields went out on a fly to centre and Miller was doubled at second.

Dick Bates camped under two high flies, R. Davis and Grose sent up to start for Cognawagas, but Allen was safe when McCall dropped his fly. Delahaye then fanned D. Davis. After two were out in the second, errors at first, second, left field and the plate, allowed Cognawaga to score twice. Three singles in a row scored a run in the third. A passed ball, three errors, three singles and a double gave Cognawaga six runs in the sixth, but the rally was wasted, as the umpires put an end to the game.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

The C. P. C. football team will practice to-night at 6.30. Will all players kindly turn out, as there will be a special meeting at 8 o'clock. It is important that all players be at the meeting as it will be decided whether we still carry on or drop out of football altogether.

GREAT RACE IN BIG FOUR GROUP

Kingston Will Meet Petes Here on Saturday Afternoon.

The victory of Kingston over Belleville last night leaves the Petes and Belleville tied once more for the leadership, while Kingston and Cobourg are also tied only a game behind the locals. So close is the race that as a result of to-morrow's games when Cobourg plays in Belleville and the Petes visit Kingston, a four-cornered tie could eventuate. The standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Peterborough	4	3
Belleville	4	3
Kingston	3	4
Cobourg	3	4

Kingston will play here on Saturday and the game will have a lot to say about the winner of the first section of the Big Four race. After to-morrow each team will have four games to play and the Petes will have the edge inasmuch as only one of their four games has to be played away from home. Belleville, on the other hand will have to play three out of the last four games on the road, meeting Cobourg, Peterborough and Kingston. Of Kingston's last four games two are at home and two away and Cobourg is in the same position.

Saturday's game with Kingston at Riverside Park should be one of the most exciting of the season as the Batstone crew are playing good ball and will be hard to beat from now on.

EXTEND CHARTERS BANKS 10 YEARS

Clause Five of Act Adopted by Canadian Commons

OTTAWA, June 19.— (Canadian Press.) — Clause five of the Bank Act, which provides for extending charters of Canadian banks for a period of ten years, passed the committee of the House of Commons shortly before two o'clock this morning. The clause was adopted, following defeat of a Progressive amendment to limit the extensions to one year, by a vote of 65 to 27. The Progressives present voted solidly in favor of the amendment.

TOM POGUE HOME FOR A VACATION

Made a Splendid Record in His Work in Chicago College.

Mr. Tom Pogue, son of Rev. Robert Pogue, of this city, returned from the Y. M. C. A. College in Chicago on Saturday, where he has been studying the department of physical education for the past two years. Tom Pogue will be remembered by the basketball fans particularly as one of the star forwards on the Peterborough "Y" team which won the Ontario Intermediate basketball championship two years ago. He has recently won distinction at the Y.M.C.A. College by winning the all-around championship in gymnastics, swimming and athletics. In athletics his best records were those made in the high jump in which he jumped five feet four inches, and the pole vault, at which he cleared the bar at 10 feet six inches. The other athletic events in the competition were broad jump, shot put, discus throw one hundred yards, one-half mile run and hurdles.

In the swimming competition demonstration had to be given in the breast, side, back, trudgeon and crawl strokes, and for five different dives. In addition to this there was a speed test in breast, back and crawl strokes.

In the gymnastic competition the tests included advanced balancing calisthenics and advanced club swinging and the following apparatus: horse, high bar and parallel bars. In the gymnastic competition Tom finished third with but three and a half points separating him from the first place. In the swimming events he won third place and in all three competitions he secured the highest number of points.

The attendance at the Y.M.C.A. College during the past year was in the neighborhood of two hundred students, among whom were six Canadians.

The accomplishment of an old Peterborough boy should be gratifying to the citizens of the city, as his early training was received in the local Y.M.C.A. as a member of the Junior Leaders' Corps. Special attention was given to apparatus work in this group. Tom was an outstanding athlete in the Hexathlon competitions, and assisted materially in the winning of ninth and seventh place in two consecutive years for the local association in Class "A" associations in North America, winning over such associations as Chicago, Buffalo and New York City and other associations numbering over one thousand members in their boys' department.

Tom will return to Chicago in the fall and complete his four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Physical Education.

Converse With Entombed Miners

When a local mine shaft near Bicknell, Ind., caved in, three men were entombed. It took 79 hours to rescue them. But they were not cut off from communication. The man, apparently sniffing the earth, is in reality talking to the buried men through a tube. Conversation was not the only thing poured down, as the bottle near the right might testify.

OWE SUCCESS IN AIR TO THEIR PERSONALITIES

DAYTON, June 19 (Associated Press) —Lieutenants Oakley Kelley and John A MacReady, regarded as the country's premier airmen since they bettered the world's endurance record and made the first successful non-stop transcontinental flight, owe their success as a flying team as much to their contrasting personalities as the their admitted superiority as pilots, in the opinion of aviators at McCook Field here, the home station of the men. They predict that the ability of the two men to work together in trying situations will bring further aerial honors to the Unites States Army.

Kelley's enthusiastic and impulsive nature gives the combination the necessary "punch," while MacReady, more staid and quiet, furnishes the "balance" which is a necessary element in carrying through many difficult situations, according to the belief of those who have observed the men working and flying together during the past two years.

A striking illustration of the divergent characteristics of the two fliers is given by Lieutenant Harold R. Harris who, in a speedy plane, overtook the pair as they passed over Dayton on their recent transcontinental flight. Harris, getting a late take-off, pursued the big ship for some miles before overtaking it. As he came abreast, he says, the man in the cock-pit carelessly threw up an arm. "That's MacReady," Harris says he decided as he observed the action. For a moment the second passenger of the T2 did not appear. Then from the depths of the fuselage a bundle of blankets suddenly appeared and was waved frantically in the wind. "That was easy," said Harris, "I knew it was Kelley, without giving a second glance."

Credit for the working out of the transcontinental flight plan is given almost entirely to Kelley by his brother aviators. As chief of maintenance of planes and engines at the mammoth flying center, Kelley in the face of ridicule, opposition and statements that the air service had no ship which had even a chance of flying across the continent, has worked, talked and lived on the plans for the coast to coast flight, during his two years at the field.

For some time no plane appeared that seemed capable of carrying out Kelley's plans, but finally the T2, a Fokker ship originally designed as an eight passenger transport was brought to McCook Field. Kelley recognized the possibility of long distance flights in it, officers say, and he immediately started work. With a rebuilt fuselage and a new Liberty engine Kelley and MacReady started from the coast last fall only to be forced down at Indianapolis through a mishap. Undaunted Kelly, aided by Lieut. E. W. Dykeman, an expert in the engineering department of the field, continued his work on the plane and after further improvements had been made Kelley, in company with MacReady, realized the ambition he has held for almost two years.

McCook Field aviators say that one of the best testimonials to the flying ability of Kelley and MacReady, is the fact that neither has had a serious mishap during more than five years of air service. Both have been fliers since 1917.

Both Kelley and MacReady originally were Californians and both received their training at Rockwell Field at San Diego. Kelley's family, however, now reside at Groves City, Pennsylvania. Neither is married.

MacReady has had a picturesque career. Graduated from the University of California, he was admitted to the bar and subsequently became a rancher, a justice of the peace in a small mining community, and early in the war entered the air service where he has remained ever since. He has earned a reputation as a boxer in the service.

Kelley, somewhat younger, entered the service after completing his schooling.

FORMER TENNIS STARS

LOSANGELES, June 10 (Associated Press).—Golf enthusiasts hereabout are keeping an interested eye on two former tennis champions whose recent achievements on the links give promise of their possible triumphant return to the spotlight of national sports as winners of the highest golf honors.

They are Maurice McLoughlin, former national singles champion, and Miss Mary K. Browne, twice winner of the national women's singles title.

McLoughlin, "The Comet," sensation of international play ten years ago, will be remembered to tennis fans throughout the country as the first exponent of the hard-driving fast net game to appear on eastern courts. He has not given up tennis but says he much prefers golf today.

In contrast to many others who have come to the front on golf, McLoughlin is essentially a professionally taught player. His swing resembles that of a "pro" rather than that of an amateur, and he has a long game that is the envy of many Southern California players.

McLoughlin has come to the front so fast that his game is still erratic, particularly on the green. Now and then he will putt with the cool precision of a master. Again he will tighten up and take three putts where he might have taken one.

Another year, some experts predict, will see McLoughlin playing a game that will warrant his entry in a national championship. Today he plays to a four handicap and is ranked as one of Southern California's most promising players.

Miss Browne has shown such aptitude for golf that she is already recognized as one of the leading players of the Pacific Coast, and there are many who believe that were she to enter a national championship her play would be the sensation of the tourney.

Three times in the last year she has defeated Miss Doreen Kavanagh, state champion, in tournament play; and Miss Margaret Cameron, who made an excellent showing in the national championship last year, has met defeat at her hands at least once during that time.

Miss Browne is a natural player. When she drives she settles back on her heels, brings the club back well over her shoulder and then hits the ball 220, 230 or even 240 yards down the fairway. She is said to be the longest woman driver on the Pacific Coast today.

Through the fairway her play is good, but it is on the green that she does most of her spectacular work. She putts quickly before she has had a chance to lose sight of the line to the cup. When under fire she is particularly dangerous, her long tennis experience apparently having given her nerves of steel. Often she has run down fifteen and twenty-foot putts when a match has depended on it.

Her short game, close observers of her progress say, is her only weakness, and she is devoting much time to perfecting a pitch to the pin. She has mastered a half iron running approach that is deadly in its accuracy, but says she is anxious to develop a short pitch in which she can have confidence.

Brains

Miss Mabel Therese Bonney a young American woman, has been given a degree by Sorbonne University, France. Prior to that she had been awarded a scholarship to the institution. She is a brilliant student, and has translated several French plays for production in New York.

THEATRES

Capitol Entertainment

Proving itself to be a very entertaining production, the photoplay, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," was given a successful premier at the Capitol Theatre last night.

Lewis Stone, as Garth McBride, a Wall Street magnate, is in love with his wife, played by Leatrice Joy. McBride has the fight of his life on the floor of the stock exchange with a certain Russell Fenton. Fenton attempts to murder McBride when the latter ruins him financially and is arrested and imprisoned. At McBride's request he is pardoned by the governor. On a pleasure trip to the south, Garth starts a flirtation with one of the guests of his party. His wife resents this and returns to New York to resume nursing. The happy ending of the picture comes when Garth and his wife are reunited in the home of Dr. Saneck, where McBride had been taken after he has been seriously beaten by thugs, and where his wife is attendant nurse. The work of Miss Naldi as a different kind of a vamp deserves special mention.

The comedy, Larry Semon in "The Midnight Cabaret," contained some slap-stick, although not enough to spoil the reputation of these good comedies.

The Capitol Theatre is certainly living up to its slogan, "The Coolest Theatre," last night being a good example of a warm night outside and cool inside.

Mysterious "Mr. X" Now Under Contract to Write Exclusively for Picture Magnate

LATEST FILM A TRIUMPH

Acclaimed Everywhere As a Powerful Drama of Great Human Appeal

The mystery surrounding the identity of "Mr. X.," author of the William Fox feature picture, "Who Are My Parents?" is still as great as ever. Since the day he walked into the Fox scenario department and left the story, which was immediately accepted for production, his real name has remained a secret. A number of his stories have been bought by the Fox Film Corporation since the purchase of "Who Are My Parents?" and the scenario department is enthusiastic over the merits of the collection.

Ability to get at the heart of his subject and to make his men and women real human beings is the outstanding characteristics of this new author's work. "Who Are My Parents?" posseses this important element to a convincing degree.

The story starts off by bringing into strong contrast the natures of two sisters. One a society loving young matron who devotes her time and affection to her pet dog; the other a warm-hearted girl of eighteen who risks her father's wrath and marries the man she loves in spite of his poverty.

A quick turn in events sounds a tragic note which leads up to a powerful emotional climax. With the skill of a true dramatist, the author has provided well handled comedy incidents, and Drector J. Searle Dawley has introduced bits of illustrative business that bring out the them of the story with pleasing effect.

The cast is a specially selected one, Roger Lytton, Florence Billings, Ernest Hilliard, Robert Agnew, Adelaide Prince and Niles Welch have important roles. Peggy Shaw, a former Ziegfeld Follies favorite and a celebrated beauty, has made a great success of the leading juvenile part.

"Who Are My Parents?" at the Royal Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

Election News

TORONTO, June 19.—(Canadian Press.) — Hon. Howard Ferguson and W. F. Nickle, K.C., Conservative leaders, are in the city to-day in anticipation of the Conservative mass meeting in Massey Hall to-night. It is expected that Opposition leaders will reply in detail to the election manifesto issued yesterday by Premier Drury on behalf of the U.F.O.-Labor government. It is announced that Messrs. Ferguson and Nickle will do all the speaking to be done from the platform at the meeting to-night. There are ten Conservative candidates in Toronto ridings. They are to be seen at the mass meeting, but not heard.

To-day Mr. Ferguson is taking part in various conferences with Toronto Conservatives, arranging eleventh hour hour plans of local leaders for "holding their own" in Provincial capital and surrounding ridings.

Throughout the province the campaign is progressing vigorously in all contested ridings. Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, speaks in Stratford to-day, while Premier Drury is touring Essex and Elgin constituencies.

WILL SEND A TEAM

LONDON, June 19.—(Canadian Press).—The British Army Council has accepted the invitation of the United States army to send a team of British army polo players to the United States for a series of star international service matches.

Army authorities were enthusiastic in their approval of the plan and hoped the matches would become an annual fixture.

FLOOR COVERINGS.

Rugs and floor coverings should usually be several shades darker than the walls and should either be in plain colors or have small, indefinite designs. This makes it much easier to select the hangings and colors to be used in the room.

Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske, famous actress, in an interview: "The English language is neglected by our actors today, although it is the most important instrument of expression that they have as valuable as the violin to the violinist. One hears as slovenly English on the stage as on the street and the elder players are called pedantic by the younger generation simply because they speak correctly."

A Worth-while Reputation

THE head of one of this country's great manufacturing institution says:

"The man who builds and the man who buys are both beneficiaries of reputation. To the one it is a continuous spur and incentive-- to the other, the strongest of all guarantees that what he buys is worthy.

Patronize the manufacturer or merchant who has a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his customers. He must retain the good-will of the buying public. Without this, his business cannot succeed

Every time he advertises he puts his reputation in your hands. His products or the wares he has for sale must make good. His service must be advertised.

OBITUARY

MRS. M. E. CLEAR

The death occurred in Chicago yesterday of Mrs. M. E. Clear, sister of Mr. M. McFadden of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place to-morrow in Chicago.

ORVILLE CROWE.

The funeral of the late Orville Crowe, who was drowned at Stoney Lake on Sunday, 10th June, and whose body was recovered from the lake a week later, on Sunday, 17th June, took place at half-past three o'clock yesterday from the residence of his parents, at 376 Brock Street.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. B. Grobb, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, and Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of St. John's Anglican Church.

The pall-bearers were companions of the deceased young man, fellow-members of the Follis and Gliddon Orchestras: Paul Gliddon, Harold Follis, John Bryette, M. Drysdale, Weldon Fanning, and C. Thirnbeck.

The popularity of the late Orville Crowe, whose sunny disposition and cheerful ways made him a general favourite, was evidenced by the numbers and loveliness of the floral tributes heaped on his coffin.

Besides being a members of two local dance orchestras, he was also a member of the Belmont Club, the W.O.W., and the band of the Peterborough Rangers.

His twenty-first birthday, had he lived, would have been reached tomorrow, 20th June.

Survivors in a family left to mourn his loss are his father and mother, Alderman and Mrs. Joseph Crowe, four sisters, Mrs. Paul Epperson, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Mrs. A. W. Clysdale and Mrs. A. G. Metheral, and Miss Hazel, all of Peterborough, and one brother, Howard, of the Willys-Overland Company staff, of Toronto.

Read This and Know the Man Who Deserves Your Vote

LIKE WHITNEY — HONEST ENOUGH TO BE BOLD

"I Would Do What My Conscience Tells Me"

That sentence, considered with the circumstances under which it was spoken, lays bare the character of Alderman John W. Meyers, the Liberal candidate, so that every elector may know him.

After all, character counts with right-thinking men and women when it comes to choosing a man for public office. Character is the bed-rock of a man's moral make up, the one quality that can be depended upon in every emergency.

And in this election the characters and personalities of candidates are factors that are turning the scales. Right-thinking Conservatives are repudiating their leader, the Honorable G. Howard Ferguson, on his blemished record as the one-time administrator of the Ontario Department of Forestry and Mines, and right-thinking men who once supported Thomas Tooms are repudiating him because of the pledge he broke.

These desertions indicate the attitude of serious-minded electors as they approach the decision they will make on June 25th.

* * * * *

"I WOULD DO WHAT MY CONSCIENCE TELLS ME"

There is nothing sanctimonious about J. W. Meyers, the Liberal candidate; but there is rugged straightforwardness.

"Promises are made to be broken," is NOT the motto of J. W. Meyers in his appeal, as the Liberal candidate, to the men and women of West Peterboro.

Farmers of West Peterboro don't need to be reminded of the promise Thomas Tooms made to them, only to break it when the time came for fulfillment.

Had J. W. Meyers been merely a self-seeking politician with a quick and ready "Yes" for everybody, he would have handed a particularly smooth and ingratiating "Yes" to those forty farmers who attended the meeting in the W.O.W. Hall on June 2nd last.

But farmers themselves should be the first to understand that thirty-five years of farm life, stringing up "snake" fences, following the plow, pitching sheaves, milking cows, in short, toiling on a farm before many of today's machines were even dreamed of,—that this experience leaves an indelible memory and appreciation of farm needs and problems.

This is the permanent kinship of the soil that requires no snap promise from John W. Meyers of anything he can ever do to improve farm conditions.

* * * * *

"I WOULD DO WHAT MY CONSCIENCE TELLS ME"

In that reply the Liberal candidate spoke as a true Liberal. The Liberal party exacts no pledges from its candidates. They know the spirit and genius of Liberalism, and that is the basis of the candidature of J. W. Meyers.

West Peterboro Liberals are doubly happy in this campaign. While other parties have to work some apology or another, the Liberals are as proud of their candidate, John W. Meyers, as they are of their leader in Ontario, Wellington Hay.

* * * * *

In his country campaign Mr. Meyers has referred to his years on the farm; but he has also proved himself a good citizen of Peterboro. By dint of long hours and hard work he has built up a sound business, and he is as unassuming as a successful business man as he was as a successful farmer.

A plain man is the Liberal candidate, kindly and genial. An unsolicited letter came to him recently from a man to whom he was never introduced, but who speaks of his friendly greeting morning after morning before seven o'clock and again at the end of the day going to and from work.

These are the sidelights of the chararter of John W. Meyers that must appeal to men and women of West Peterboro who are anxious about this election that they make no mistake when they cast their vote next Monday.

Meyers and Hay are business men who will do their part in giving Ontario a business administration.

RECOVERY OF GERMAN MARK A GOOD OMEN

Indicates That Recent Efforts for Amelioration of the Ruhr Situation Progress Favorably.

FRIENDLY PARLEY

LONDON, June 20. —(United Press).— The notable recovery of the German mark to-day, showing a gain of over 100,000 to the pound sterling is an indication that recent efforts for the amelioration of the Ruhr situation are progressing satisfactorily.

While the formal interchange of notes between Baldwin and Poincare is moving with the usual diplomatic deliberation order, Current conferences between financial reprsentatives of the countries involved, including the United States, have been quietly held. The French Premier's note, while it is not expected to offer any direct opportunity for settlement will allow for the continuance of friendly diplomatic negotiations, while unofficial efforts at mediation are going on.

There is not an unbridgeable gap between the financial demands of France and Germany's willingness to pay but France demands as a first step the absolute abandonment of German passive resistance in the Ruhr, and British and Allied unofficial interests are endeavoring with some hope of success to provide a formula that will meet this condition.

Nine Men Missing in a Forest Blaze

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 20 (Canadian Press). — Unconfirmed reports reaching the village of Orr to-day stated that nine men, presumably forest fire fighters, have been lost near Reho Lake, shut in on all sides by fires in the National Forest Reserve, according to advices received at the State Forestry Headquarters here to-day.

DYNAMITE PLOT WAS REVEALED

Irish Republicans Planned to Blow Up Buckingham Palace and London Bridges.

BELFAST, June 20. — (United Press).—The outline of an alleged Irish Republican plot to attack and blow up Buckingham Palace, while bridges, railways and Government property were being simultaneously destroyed throughout England, was published here to-day by the Northern Whig.

The Unionist paper understands that the scheme was prepared before the recent round up of Sinn Feiners in London.

Women spies had made themselves conversant with every movement of the Palace guards, the paper alleges. It was planned at a given signal to rush the guards and overpower them. Carefully selected parties of men then would proceed to the destruction, while other bands set fire to railway stations and bombed the principal railways.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday's highest mark was 89 degrees; to-day at the noon hour it was 87, with the likelihood of reaching yesterday's high point. The rainfall yesterday in my rain gauge totalled .25 of an inch. Yesterday's severe thunderstorm did not extend far in a northerly direction. No rain fell at the filtration plant, nor north of Milburn's hill on the Chemong road. The ¼ of an inch of rain that fell in the north end of the city was but a small proportion that descended in the business section. There was probably at least an inch. I hear the Normal School annual excursion is scheduled for Friday. As this is the day that Jupiter Pluvius invariably uses his sprinkling can, it is pretty safe to venture a long range forecast, and say it will rain on Friday. If it does not it will be the first time for about fifteen years.—W. P.

ONE SUBJECT ON WHICH THE WOMEN AGREE

Wash Day Should be Thrown Into the Discard Next Monday in Election Interests.

ONCE IN FOUR YEARS

The various energetic women who are interesting themselves in the Provincial election, which has its climax next Monday, have one thing that is causing them a great deal of worry just now. It isn't the temper of their husbands, nor the health of their children, nor the condition of their homes during these more or less trying days of electioneering endeavor, and yet it is distinctly a domestic matter, the all-important question as to whether their sister-women are going to wash on Monday next, the fatal June 25th.

Not the supporters of Mr. Tooms alone, nor the rooters for W. H. Bradburn, nor the workers in the wake of J. W. Meyers. Not singly nor along party lines are they wondering about this important matter, but all together and collectively. It is the one subject on which all women are agreed, be they working for the Progressive, or the Conservative, or the Liberal candidate, that they unitedly present a solid front on the subject, and that is a large and collective "Don't Wash," addressed to the stay-at-home ladies whose vote and influence is respectfully requested on the first of the week next.

Monday has been called a "blue" day. To most women it is a "blueing" day anyway, and no woman who contemplates the spectacle of the unwashed clothes of her family and the weekly duty of making them clean and fresh again can be expected to view with equanimity the added labor and mental turmoil involved in a visit to a polling booth and a choice of a candidate to represent our fair city in the next Provincial Parliament.

To make an intelligent choice requires some deep thinking. The lady who averred at a previous election that she would vote for the handsomest man would be hard put to it in this instance. A consideration of the qualities and abilities of the three would take some little time for a careful woman to ponder through, and the other ladies who are spending time and energy in creating public sentiment in favor of their own particular choice are afraid that their sister-women are going to follow an immemorial custom and wash on Monday, June 25.

How can one expect a lady immersed in nice, warm, soapy suds, with a business-like mind divided between the wash-boiler's capacity, the soothing of the baby, and the making of a wash-day mid-day meal, to give undivided care and attention to the problem of who is to be the next man to occupy Peterborough's seat in the Provincial Legislature? Domestic matters, ere this, have ruined many a deep-laid undertaking, but how tragic would be the fate of the plans of political-minded women if they were drowned in a Monday's wash tub?

Why was Monday ever selected for voting day, anyway? It was a mean masculine choice, designed doubtless to interfere with the future success of a movement that would bring women into the political arena. But if the masculine element can neglect its work for a whole day and go a-voting, why shouldn't women do so?

So it is a universal plea, addressed from politically-inclined women of every shade and complexion to their sisters in the home; an energetic and stressful request to let the washing stay over for another day or else do it all up this week. And if the women of Peterborough must wash on Monday next, let it be a light affair, calculated to leave enough pep and vim for a cheerful visit to the nearest polling booth, and a hand firm in the marking of the mystic symbol which has so much to do with the fate of an all-important matter.

United We Stand.

"United we stand, divided we fall." The women of Peterborough, like women everywhere else, may wash on any old Monday—in fact, every Monday and some days in between, if they have a large family—but only once in four years are they called on for a different duty. The wash-tub, the wringer and the clothes-basket are always there. They will be there a hundred years hence, but the ability to vote may not always be there. It won't be if the ladies don't use the privilege they wanted in vain through so many long years.

DELORME TODAY ELECTED TO BE TRIED FOR LIFE

Prefers Trial on Capital Charge to Life Banishment in an Insane Asylum.

MONTREAL, June 20.—(Canadian Press).—Father Adelard Delorme today elected to be tried for his life in preference to life banishment in an insane asylum in connection with the murder of his half brother. Raoul Delorme, on the night of January 6 of last year.

Court Ceremonial

Amid unusual ceremony and pomp the case was ushered into courts. Preliminaries were superintendented by Acting Chief Justice Martin and required more than an hour. Then Chief Justice Sir Francois Lemieux, noted for strict adherence to court ceremonial, escorted by the sheriff in Royal Purple, Governor of the Jail in uniform, Chief of Provincial Detectives, Court Criers robed, and a platoon of minor court officials, assumed his place on the bench.

Immediately following came the priest and he entered the dock quietly and calmly. His long incarceration in the asylum and his several terms in prison had failed to leave a single mark upon him. He was his usual debonair self, evincing his peculiar air of detached interest in the proceedings

Appeared Amused

He appeared particularly amused when at the opening of the case Gustave Monette. said to be counsel for the Delorme estate and trustees, presented his plea that Delorme was mentally unfit. As the lawyer repeated the last phrase from time to time, a light grin crossed the Abbe's face and he would drop his head and chuckle openly.

Mr. Monette argued exhaustively and reviewed in detail insanity, proceedings and evidence of alienists upon whose diagnosis Father Delorme was last July pronounced mentally unsound.

Impartial Reports

Attempts made at the opening of trial to have the question of the Abbe's Sanity established failed The attempt was made by Gustave Monette, Counsel for Curator of the Delorme's Estate.

Chief Justice Sir Francois Lemieux ordered the case to proceed on its merits.

The Chief Justice called upon newspapers to confine all reports to strict impartial and uncolored records of the proceedings. He explained that he had undertaken this hearing at the request of the Montreal Chief Justice.

"I count, therefore,' he concluded, "on the courage and intelligence of the jury, the talent and good will of various counsel and as in all cases upon divine providence."

R. L. Calder, K. C., is represent ing the crown, assisted by August E. Angers, K. C., and accused is represented by Allin Taschereu, K.C. and C. H. Chasn, K.C.

AT THE ROYAL.

To-night is the last opportunity to see "Who Are My Parents?" at the Royal, a powerful human drama, with a strong emotional climax, which has been highly praised by local people who saw it on Monday and Tuesday. With the featuring a Western drama and two very good comedies.

It is not uncommon for glass blowers to drink twenty-five or thirty quarts of water a day.

Whites Threaten to Stage a Race Fight

ATLANTA, Ga., June 20 (Canadian Press). — Governor Hardwick to-day signed an order authorising Adjutant-General Lewis T Pope to establish military rule at Savannah, where a mob threatened the jail early to-day to capture the negro held on the charge of attacking a white woman, in the event that the situation demanded such action.

ENGINEER WILL MEET COUNCIL

Discuss Lakefield Bridge Project in Thursday Session of the County Council.

Discussion of the Lakefield bridge project was deferred by the Roads and Bridges Committee of the County Council this morning until Thursday, when the county's engineer, Mr. A. W. Connor, of Toronto, will be present.

The proposal to rebuild the bridge was broached at the January sessions by Reeve Strickland, of Lakefield, and endorsed by Deputy-Reeve Brown of Smith.

This morning Mr. Strickland urged that the Council proceed to call for tenders for the job. Reeve Darling of Dummer seconded the motion, but Deputy-Reeve Anderson of Otonabee submitted an amendment, suggesting that the cost of repairing the bridge be obtained, but with the coming of the engineer on Thursday it was agreed to postpone the committee's action until then.

Asked For $1,000 Grant.

B. F. Ackerman and John Edgar, of the Children's Aid Society, appealed for an increase in the county's grant to the society. They suggested that it might be raised from $800 to $1,000, in view of the heavier demands upon the Children's Aid funds. The monies that yielded a helpful revenue have been paid out for the Popham home, and it was felt that the county and the city should co-onerate in making up that amount. The request was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. G. Graham and Mr. B. O. Dench. of the Lakefield Agricultural Society, also asked for a grant from the county. The Finance Committee will also deal with this matter.

The Council closed up their desks for this afternoon to enable most of them to attend the funeral of the late Joseph Forster, of North Monaghan, twice Warden of Peterboro County, and for fourteen years actively engaged in the municipal affairs of his township.

Reeve Rye moved, seconded by Deputy-Reeve Lillico, that the Council appoint an official deputation to represent them at the funeral. Warden Clarke named three others to act with himself, and it was understood that most of the members would also be present. The others are off to the U.F.O. picnic at Indian River this afternoon.

GET PRICE FOR PAVING BRIDGE

Board of Works Willing to Have Work Done if Terms Are Satisfactory

If the Council can make satisfactory terms with John Carroll, who has the contract for the paving of George and Hunter streets, the paving of Hunter street bridge from Queen street to Burnham street, will be included in the existing contract.

Ald. Parsons strongly advised that the road over the bridge be paved, not only for the convenience of traffic, but especially for the protection of the bridge itself in preventing the see page of water through the earth filling.

The members of the Board of Works last night were unanimously in favour of undertaking the work. "Eventually, why not now," was their attitude, and the City Engineer was instructed, on Ald. Maher's motion to consult Mr. Carroll as to terms and report back.

The newest Arab state to have its independence recognized is Tranjordania, known in the east as Kerak. Its capital, now called Amman, was once Philadelphia, the ancient ancestor of a host of Philadelphias all over the world.

Twenty-odd centuries ago the city took its name from Ptolemy Philadelphus. It had existed as Rabbath Amman, almost from the days of Lot and his salty wife, of Bible fame.

The new state extends from the Jordan and the Dead Sea toward the interior of Arabia. It is a land of Nomads, although much of the region is a high plain, supporting flocks and in places capable of tillage.

After the eastern conquests of Alexander the Great the cities to the east of the Jordan were seat of culture. When Rome took over the land a huge amphitheater was erected to seat 7,000 people at Amman. It only takes five hours to ride by auto from the Jordan to the capital of the new state.

CHEESE RECORD FOR THE SEASON

On Peterboro Market 1012 Cheese Boarded—Price Rose From 16 to 16 1 2c.

A record for the season was set at the Peterborough Cheese Board this forenoon, when 1,012 cheese were boarded at a brisk session, during which bidding rose by eighths and sixteenths from 16 cents to 16 1-2.

F. Matthews ,buying for the Canadian Packing Company, took 641 boxes; G. Thompson, for the A. A. Ayers Co., Montreal, took 219 boxes, and G. A. Gillespie accepted the balance of 152 boxes. All sold at 16 1-2 cents.

The following factories sent cheese to be boarded: Young's Point, 127; North Dummer, 60; Killarney, 184; Warminster, 110; Warsaw, 160; East Emily, 50; Dunsford, 52; Star, 50; Cedardale, 60; Buckhorn, 135; and South Burleigh 24.

SMILING BANDIT POSED AS WOMAN

Arrested and Identified as Person Who Killed Man.

CHICAGO, June 20. —(Canadian Press).—Posing as a woman, Fred. Thompson was arrested yesterday as the "smiling" woman bandit that shot and killed Richard C. Tesmer. He was taken before Tesmer's widow and identified as the person who shot her husband.

At Mrs. Tesmer's request, Thompson, still in woman's attire, was told to speak and then smile. He was then positively identified. On being examined by Dr. Clara Seippel, he was ordered sent to headquarters for male prisoners and not confined in the women's quarters, as previously ordered.

British piano trade is now employing nearly 10,000 hands.

ALDERMEN GAIN POINT OVER THE CITY ENGINEER

WON SECOND ROUND

City Engineer Parsons' appointment of William Lytle as inspector of the street paving work at a salary of $48.00 a week was challenged by the Board of Works last night, and although the action of the City Engineer was formally approved, it was practically nullified by a subsequent resolution fixing the inspector's wage at not more than $35.00 a week.

"That kills it," remarked City Engineer Parsons, when asked by Ald. McIntyre what effect the lower wage would likely have on the appointment of Mr. Lytle.

Mayor Taylor opened up the subject with a query to Ald. Stocker, the chairman, "Who's the inspector on the paving?"

Ald. Parsons replied that it was his intention to put on Mr. Lytle this (Wednesday) morning. He had considered Joseph R. Metheral, Fred Bartlett, Lytle, and a man named Goodman, and had concluded that Mr Lytle had had the most experience, and would fight the best for the city's interests.

Ald. Phelan and Ald. Morrison contended that Mr. Metheral had been employed by the city as an inspector when other paving was laid, and on Mr. Parson's own statement had given satisfaction.

The discussion switched round to the Council's authority to appoint the inspector, and it was brought out that the Council could make the appointment if they wished, but in the past this selection had been left to the City Engineer.

Ald. Stocker said that City Clerk Armstrong had given him that information, and he concluded that Mr. Parsons was entitled by custom to name the inspector. For that reason he had not consulted the members of the Council.

Ald. Morrison: The chairman of the Property Committee could not get a flag pole painted without reporting back, but here's an important job to be filled, and there's no report. That's getting down pretty fine.

Ald. McIntyre: The City Engineer has always had the power in the past. Why not strengthen his hands now?

Ald. Phelan: I have nothing against Mr. Lytle, but Mr. Metheral

TRADES AND LABOR OPPOSE FASCISTISM

Local Council Endorses Action by the Anti-Fascist League.

A very well-attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held in the Labor Hall last evening. A number of new delegates were present and some important matters were dealt with.

Fascistism received some attention in connection with a communication from the Anti-Fascist League of North America, and after a long discussion it was decided to endorse the action of the Anti-Fascist League.

One of the delegates brought up the matter of amending the constitution of the Labor Council to make it conform more with present-day conditions, and it was finally made a motion, duly proposed and seconded, to be dealt with at the next meeting, on Wednesday, July 4.

Sympathy was extended to Bro. Crowe in the great loss which he has recently suffered in the drowning of his son.

A number of plans were suggested for increasing the use and influence of the Trades Council in the community, but nothing definite was done, it being considered in the best interests of all to give these matters further consideration at a later meeting.

COMPETITIONS IN THE CADET CAMP

Prizes to Be Awarded at Barriefield, July Second to Seventh.

1. Silver cup for the cadet company having the cleanest and tidiest lines during the camp. The cup to be held until next year by the senior cadet corps incorporated in the company. A daily inspection of the camp lines will be made by a committee of three senior officers who will deduct marks from a daily award of 200 marks, for untidiness, lack of uniformity or cleanliness. Banners will be given to the companies coming second and third.

2. Silver cup to a team of six cadets from a cadet corps with the highest scores at the service range and the miniature range.

3. Prizes for the best and second best shot in each company on both the service range and the miniature range.

4. Prize for the cadet in each company who makes the smallest percentage of errors in the judging distance competition.

5. Trophy for the battalion furnishing the smartest and most efficient guard during camp. To be held until next year by the cadet corps furnishing the guard.

6. Trophy for the best disciplined company in each battalion. To be chosen by the battalion commander. Points considered will be punctuality on parade, orderly behavior in the lines, marching and saluting.

7. Individual prizes for the winners of the inter-battalion baseball league, and inter-company league in each battalion.

8. Prizes for competitions in field sports, 100-yard dash, ¾-mile, tug-of-war, obstacle race, putting the shot, etc.

9. Certificates of efficiency in athletic events, signed by the camp commandant, will be given to deserving candidates.

Notes.—Sports to be under the Ontario Athletic Commission, recreation to be looked after by the Y.M.C.A., and instruction in swimming to be given by competent instructors.

THE FURY OF ETNA HAS NOT ABATED---STREAM OF LAVA OVER COUNTRY

Molten Stream 800 Yards Wide and 30 Feet Deep Advancing on Town of Linguaglossa.

SIX NEW CRATERS.

CATANIA, Italy, June 20 Canadian Press. — Great lava torrents from Mount Etna, bearing in their flow great masses of volcanic stone, are advancing inexorably, and have already reached the houses in the outskirts of the town of Linguaglossa. Green fields, orange groves, and vineyards, have been swallowed up and for miles around the atmosphere is suffocating with volcanic gases and a pall of smoke and ashes which is covering the whole countryside.

Several of the small houses in Linguaglossa have been shaken down by the frequent earthquake shocks, and the once smiling little town, which until the last was thought might be spared is now directly in the line of the lava and is doubtless doomed to destruction

The molten stream is travelling about 40 yards an hour, and therefore unless some miracle happens, Linguaglossa will go under during the night. Confronting it is a lava bed 800 yards wide and nearly 30 deep feet.

Smaller torrents of lava, diverted from the central stream, threaten the villages of Randazzo and Bronte from which so many tourists make the ascent of Etna, Francavilla, Castiglione, Giardini and Fiume Freddo.

The work of clearing the threatened towns is being carried out with the greatest energy and admirable organization discipline is necessary to induce the terrified inhabitants to abandon their beloved homes but their removal is being carried out with sympathy and kindness. Airplanes are being used for the first time to watch the progress of the eruption and special signalling stations have been established at various strategical points, giving confidence to the people that they are being protected.

Special units of the Red Cross with all supplies have been despatched to care for the homeless wanderers and provide food and shelter for them.

A new stream of lava on the western side Etna menaces the Giarre Junction on the Etna Railway. According to the leading vulcabologists six new craters have opened, only two of which however are of the first importance. In these can clearly be seen the lava in frightful turmoil being ejected in irregular spurts amid vast clouds of fumes and ashes, forming two streams of liquid death, one of which is rolling down on Linguaglossa, the other moving toward Sciaro Pass, but threatening no inhabited points, though causing immense damage to the vine yards and the nut plantations which constituted the wealth of the countryside.

The speed of the latter stream is so slow however it is hoped that it will not advance far, but rather form a kind of lake in one of the valleys.

Heartrending Scenes.

Numberless heartrending episodes are being enacted in this theatre around Etna. The affection of the peasants for their homelands renders their evacuation a difficult and a delicate task. In one case a woman refused to abandon her vineyard declaring that her whole life had been given over to its cultivation, that its existence was her existence and its death her death. They endeavored to carry her away but she rushed back to the trees and embraced and kissed them singly, calling them her children. When finally she was removed it was found that she had lost her reason.

The exodus of the inhabitants began soon after the first eruption and a steady line has been slowly travelling in the direction of safety for the past two days. When they started from their homes the people were loaded with their household treasures, but gradually along the road these have been abandoned. Many mothers, carrying their children or crowded upon little handcarts, are among the fugitives, and in numerous cases stalwart peasants carry on their shoulders aged relatives unable to walk, who otherwise would have been obliged to remain awaiting death in their abandoned homes.

Village priests bearing crucifixes or the statue of the patron saint accompany the sad procession and encourage their parishioners. The sound of chanted prayers rises above the rumblings of the eruptions, and the patter of falling stones and cinders; the stricken people seem in dumb despair, hardly conscious of whither they are going, invoking the saints and inquiring tremulously, "what have we done to be visited by this awful scourge?"

Service for Mercy.

A solemn service invoking mercy was held in the ancient beech forest at Castiglione. Owing to the shade of the trees and the darkness caused by the ashes, the light was too feeble for the reading of the Gospel and torches were utilized.

The nearness of the stream of lava was such that before the end of the service, the edge of the forest caught fire; the air was so hot and vitiated by sulphurous fumes that breathing was difficult, and some of the people were so alarmed at the daughter that they started to depart, at which the old priest officiating rebuked them and lengthened the service by adding prayers for the faint-hearted.

The news that King Victor Emmanuel is starting directly for the scene of the disaster to share their perils and direct the work of rescue has given much cheer to the people. Mindful of the Pope's orders all convents and other ecclesiastical buildings have been turned into huge shelters for the refugees, who crowd them. The monks throughout the area are helping in the salvage and giving spiritual and material help to the stricken.

Villages Wiped Out.

The fury of Etna has not abated; the country has been laid waste, and presents a desolate spectacle. The lava has spread almost to the sea at one point, between Messina and Taormina, and the intervening villages have been obliterated.

After a short cessation Monday night the flow of lava started again in full strength yesterday morning from several new fissures, one of which is nearly two miles around. At one point on the eastern slopes of the mountain the stream is a mile and a half wide.

Most of the population of Giarre have moved down to the seaside town of Riposto and the remainder are ready to leave at a signal from the watchers outside of the town. The glow of the eruption is visible from Naples, 200 miles away, while from Palermo, 80 miles distant, the flames can be seen shooting into the air.

The population of Piedimonte, southeast of Linguaglossa, carried a statue of Saint Anthony into the main square of the town last night while the bells in all the churches were rung. The statue remained in its place in the square throughout the night, the population imploring the saint against the advance of the lava. Before morning the statue had been almost covered with flowers presented as tributes.

Similar scenes occurred at Randazzo, Francovilla, Mascalli and Motta.

STEAMER AGROUND.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., June 20.— (Canadian Press.)— The steamer Palki, downbound, yesterday morning grounded at the lower entrance of the West Neebish cut, and for a time the channel was blocked to downbound boats. Later, however, she was swung around sufficiently to allow vessels to pass and tugs tried to release her. Their work was unsuccessful up to dusk last night and they returned to the Soo, leaving the steamer fast aground, but with about 200 feet space for passing vessels. Lighters in this section are busy on the Schiller, but it is likely efforts will be renewed to-day to effect the release of the Paliki.

STOCKS AND BONDS

There is a great boom in the mining industry. I have had many years experience in practical mining, both in Cobalt and Porcupine, and have a wide connection there. I am therefore in a position to get early and reliable information in both camps. I have made a profit for every one of my clients up to date, and shall be pleased to advise any one interested. There will be a strong market this summer and now is the time to get in.

MANY VOTES IN ADVANCE POLLS ON TEMPERANCE

Great Interest Taken in Vote to Decide on Liquor Policy of Province of Manitoba.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 20. — (Canadian Press.)— With the close last night of the advance poll in Winnipeg, more than 1,200 votes had been cast here on the Moderation League's bill to establish Government sale of liquors in Manitoba for beverage purposes, and a proportionately large vote in other centres where advance polls were provided. It is considered that a high degree of interest in the issue is indicated.

The general vote is on Friday of this week between the hours of 8 a. m. and 8 p.m., and the advance votes will not be counted until Friday night.

The campaign is closing with increased use of advertising space by the committees of both sides, and by numerous meetings in Winnipeg and throughout the province. Dr. Michael Clark of Red Deer, is to address a mass meeting here in the interest of the bill on Wednesday, but generally the speakers are local men. There are organizations of women both for and against the bill, and by the men on the street there is keen interest displayed in the disposition of what he calls "the woman's vote," which is claimed by both sides.

Adoption of the bill by a straight majority will instruct the government to appoint a commission of three members to put into operation a system for the sale of all recognized liquors through government stores; its rejection continues in force the Manitoba Temperance Act which has been the law of the province for some years. Under the bill breweries would have the right to deliver beer direct to the dwelling of a permit holder. All residents of the province, 21 years and over, and all visitors would require a permit to cost $1.00 and it would be produced for every purchase, either from the government store or the brewery. All purchases save in extraordinary cases would be delivered and not taken from the store by the buyer.

AT BAILIEBORO AND DISTRICT

Public Car Service to and From Peterboro and Port Hope.

BAILIEBORO, June 20.—A car has recent started to make two trips daily from Port Hope to Peterborough. It is a large vehicle holding from twenty-five to thirty people. It stops at each post office between those two places, and takes in passengers. This is a wonderful help to the residents of this district who do not own a car, as now they can step into a public car and spend a day in either Port Hope or Peterobro without driving eight miles to Fraserville, the nearest station from this village to catch a train.

Personals

Messrs. Wilbur Barnard and Edmund Dawson were members of the jury at Cobourg last week.

Among those from this district who attended the Rebekah picnic at Cobourg on Thursday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Isbister and Miss Kathleen; Misses C. and L. Barnard, M. White and Messrs James Johnston.

Fishing season opened on Saturday morning. There were a great number of fishermen on the job bright and early. Good success was reported by the majority. Several fine maskinonge and pickerel were noticed being landed in the boats.

DELORME TRIAL IS A PRECEDENT IN BRITISH LAW

He is Now a Person Without Legal Entity, Being Tried For His Life—Was Declared Insane.

TRIAL TO-DAY.

MONTREAL, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)— Father Adelard Delorme, indicted as slayer of his wealthy young half brother, Raoul, in facing his trial this morning, becomes the pivot of a new precedent in British and Canadian jurisprudence. He is a person with legal entity being tried for his life.

This situation is the sequel to the priest's interdiction which deprived him of legal status on the grounds of incompetency to stand trial. As he has now been committed to trial without the formality of a legal reinstatement he presents an anomaly for the court to disentangle.

Interest, as a result, focuses on the attitude the chief justice, Sir Francois Lemieux will take. Should he concur with the judge who ordered the priest to proceed to trial, a unique case will ensue. Should he dissent with the other judge, the entire fight based upon the prisoner's sanity or insanity will be staged anew.

OBITUARY

W. S. WARD.

BETHANY, June 20.—On Friday evening, June 15, there passed away at his late home here, one of the younger members of the community in the person of the late William Stanley Ward, at the early age of 26 years. About three years ago when returning from a week-end visit with friends at Pontypool, he became ill and was found in an unconscious condition a short time afterward near the car he had been driving and the motor which was still running. Medical aid was quickly summoned and after a long illness it was discovered that his right side was parlyzed and that he had lost the power of speech.

Stanley as he was familiarly called was recovered sufficiently to go out and around without any assistance, and was a favorite with all. About a week ago he took another bad turn when it was seen that the end was not far off.

A sorrowing mother, one sister, Mrs. Arthur Jamieson and one brother, Cecil, lately of Toronto are the immediate survivors. On Monday the funeral service was held in St. Paul's church, of which the family are members. The sermon was preached by the former rector, Rev. A .T. Weir, who took his text from the 39th psalm: "For I am a stranger with thee and a sojourner as all my fathers were. Rev. Mr. Templeton, the new rector, assisted. The pall-bearers were: Messrs. Frank Bigelow, Frank Hannah, Charlie Smith, Gerald McCartney, Harry O'Brien and Thomas Morton. Those who carried floral tributes were: Charlie Reynolds, Bertrand Monk, Lenord Driver, Leslie Challice and Hewitt Gill. Interment took place at St. Mary's cemetery, Manvers, in the family plot. A large number of friends and acquaintances gathered at both church and cemetery to pay their last respects to one who had been so well and favorably known.

EARTH TREMORS FELT.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Earth tremors were recorded from 5:52 p.m. to 6:50 p.m. yesterday on the Georgetown University seismograph, the intensity reaching a maximum between 6:11 and 6:14. The center of disturbance, according to Father Tondorf, in charge of the observatory, appeared to be Central or South America. He said the tremors were "rather severe."

ROCKEFELLER HAS ADVANCED SUM OF MONEY

Fifteen Hospitals in Canada and U. S. to Receive Aid For the Free Use of Insulin For Diabetes.

$10,000 EACH.

NEW YORK, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)—A gift of $150,000 to be distributed among 15 hospitals in Canada and the United States, to promote the use of Insulin in the treatment ofdiabetes, was announced last night by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The purpose of the gifts, Mr. Rockefeler said, would be to increase the number of free ward patients who would be treated with Insulin and to teach physicians in general to practice the propert methods of employing Insulin in the treatment of diabetes.

The period during which the sums should be expended was not specified, but was left to the discretion of the hospital authorities. The Canadian hospitals, which were selected by a committee headed by Dr. Simon Flexner, were named as follows:

Montreal, Royal Victoria Hospital; Toronto, Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto General Hospital and University of Toronto Banting-Best Fund.

With the exception of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York, which will receive $15,000, and the University of Toronto Banting-Best Fund, which will receive $5,000, the gifts were of $10,000 each.

MANY FISHERMEN AT TRENT RIVER

The Accommodation at Various Resorts Taxed—Visitors Over Week-End

TRENT RIVER, June 20.—The opening of the bass and lunge season brought a great number of visitors and the various resorts were kept busy finding accommodation for tourists

Mr. Charles H. Cassan and a party of friends motored from Toronto for the week end and were guests at "Cedar Isle."

Mr. and Mrs. Edmanson of Toronto and family motored here and were guests at the Cook cottage.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwards and daughters of Toronto, were over Sunday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Goodman at their Island cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose arrived from Toronto. Friday and are now occupying with their family their new bungalow "Ye Ole Mill."

Mrs. (Dr.) Fred Free and little daughter of Campbellford are spending this week with Mrs. Free's mother Mrs. George Dickson.

Miss Ruth Coates of Toronto, has been a guest with her friends Miss Ethel Rose at "Ye Ole Mill," and expects to return home to-morrow.

Messrs. Jack Christie and Fred Gain were down from Toronto for the angling opening and were guests at the Christie cottage.

Mr. E. H. Fairbrother, with Mr. Long of Toronto were here for the week-end at the former's cottage.

Mr. Bradford and a party of friends from Toronto motored here and spent over Sunday at the former's cottage "Rockwyn."

The playing of the "Iola Novelty" orchestra at Rivera Pavillion Friday night last was excellent and much enjoyed by the crowds who came from the surrounding vicinity.

Reports from most fishermen during the opening were many 'lunge caught but the majority were smaller in size.

Mr. A. Riendeau and family of Campbellford spent Sunday at their cottage.

GEYSERS ON THE JOB FOR YELLOWSTONE OPENING

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., June 20.—(United Press)—With the official opening of Yellowstone National Park today, intense activity in the Norris Geyser Basin is reported by rangers. This activity has culminated in the appearance of a new geyser. Recently this new geyser has been erupting to a height of 75 feet, and there are indications that is may continue to erupt indefinitely at intervals of about twelve hourse. Its eruptions are followed by great steam displays and loud roaring.

The Crater Geyser, sometimes called the Mud Geyser, also of recent origin, has been very active during the winter and has enlarged its craters.

During the spring rangers have been taking nots of the famous Semi-Centennial Geyser, fifteen miles south of Mammoth Hot Springs in the Roaring Mountain region, which first erupted with extraordinary violence on August 14, 1922. This Geyser is still inactive and it is uncertain whether it will erupt again ths year.

TROTSKY ADVISES BIG FLEET OF AIRPLANES AGAINST GT. BRITAIN

England is Blamed For All the Misdeeds of Europe By Soviet War Minister — Rapproachment With France.

SOVIET DIPLOMACY.

MOSCOW, June 20.—(Canadian Press).—An attack on Great Britain, hints of a Russo-French reapproche ment, and a plea for "more metal in our national character marked an address by Leon Trotzky, Soviet War Minister yesterday before the All-Russian Congress of Metal Workers.

"If an ultimatum is presented to us," he exclaimed, referring to the recent British notes. "let us create a detachment of airplanes. If a coup de'etat occurs in Bulgaria, let us build another detachment of airplanes, and if there is a coup de'etat in Persia, build more planes.

"The iron in our will must be transferred to the iron wings of airplanes then we can say, looking high above at our squadrons—'This is the coup de'etat in Persia,'—and soon if we transiorm the criminalties of the bourgeoisie into airplanes then perhaps we shall be able some time to bring an end to their criminalities."

M. Trotzky said Great Britain and Italy had according to information at hand assisted in the coup de'etat in Bulgaria, and the British had aided in the Nationalist overthrow in Persia. Declaring that Russia's losses in the world war were overwhelming greater than Britain's Trotzky added: "It was for this purpose, perhaps that Lord Curzon felt strong enough to deliver us his ten-day ultimatum; it was necessary that the blood of the Russian workers and peasants be shed. This account some day we shall present to the English bourgeoisie.

"England remains true to her traditional policy. In the international war her role was also dictated by her international policy. In reality hers was a provocative role. When the English proletariat opens the safes of the English diplomacy the records will, if they are not already destroyed show the real role of England in the world war.

"It is the same in regard to the Ruhr—if England had not wished France to do so there would have been no Ruhr occupation. To bring two peoples into struggle while they rest aside themselves, in order to be able to appropriate the results is the traditional policy of the English bourgeoisie."

Russia by yielding saved herself from falling into Lord Curzon's trap Trotzky said, finally forcing the idea into the souls of the British bourgeoisie that Russia wants peace.

"We have seen the English souls," he said. "They are good, thick, heavy leather souls. From such leather are built the skulls of the English Philistines, which one has to beat with a hammer for a long time."

Russia. he asserted, had again entered an alarming period in which threatened many complications similar to the British ultimatum and perhaps more serious.

In regard to a rapprochement with France the War Minister said some of the members of the French left and the petit bourgeoisie had told him they admired the Red Army and thought that if France were threatened with danger, it would be good to have such an army at the side of the French forces.

Trotzky declared that the Soviet diplomacy had torn to pieces the whole fabric of the bourgeoise plans and that Russia had again gained a certain respite for a short period at least. No full guarantee of peace was yet in sight however. There still remained the possibility of a gigantic revolutionary upheaval in the east and it was this that agitated England.

The British were greatly worried, he declared over the Soviet's new plan of giving further autonomy to the Russian dependencies in the east where, for example Bokara and Turkestan would soon have their own national armies.

"By this" he added, "we guarantee the inner strength of the Republic and the fighting ability of the Red Army and at the same time, without any intervention we will be able to inflict a deadly blow at English imperialism in the colonial countries.

Soviet Russia would gradually change to the militia system the war Minister said retaining one-fifth of the permanent army as a skeleton organization while the remainder would be made up of workmen and peasants who would be in training only part of the time.

Reduction of Duty on Sugar is Rejected.

LONDON, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)— The House of Commons yesterday rejected a liberal amendment to the Finance Bill calling for the reduction in the duty on sugar. The vote was 271 to 191.

* * * *

The House of Commons on Monday rejected by a vote of 257 to 153, a Labor amendment to the Finance Bill proposing the abolition of the duty on sugar. Herbert H. Asquith had previously urged a substantial reduction in the duty, saying he did not believe the country was so completely at the mercy of the New York speculators that the whole of such a reduction would go into their pockets. Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, cited an official statement of the American Government relative to sugar, made last February. He said it would be inadvisable to do anything now that would increase the consumption of sugar, which would be only playing into the hands of the "American ring."

Australian Treasury Has a Big Surplus.

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— It is announced that the federal treasury's surplus, calculated up to the end of the financial year (June 30) is estimated at £5,500,000. The surplus is largely due to increased imports and swollen customs returns.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING INCREASES.

LONDON, June 20.—(Associated Press)—The ship building industry of Great Britain is showing a marked contrast to the dullness prevailing a year ago.

The British India Company has let contracts for 16 oil-burning vessels, aggregating approximately 162,000 gross tons, including two steamers of 21,000 tons each. The entire fleet will be used for the Indian mail and freight service.

EDINBURGH STRIKERS RETURN.

EDINBURGH, June 20.—(Associated Press)—After a four months strike, during which 10,000 pounds was paid in strike money and 30,000 pounds was lost in wages, 500 paper workers in the Valleyfield mills have returned to work.

The strike was caused because one of the operatives tore up his union card, and the union called out all the workers.

SUNDAY'S VISITORS.

Local car owners who can place their cars at the disposal of the local branch of the Ontario Motor League for the hours between 9 and 10 o'clock on Sunday morning will be assisting the league in a very essential piece of work on behalf of Peterborough.

The Motor League has arranged to supply transportation from this city to South Beach for the party representing the Detroit Ticket Agents' Association who are to visit Peterborough on Sunday, coming on a special C. P. R. train.

It is of considerable importance that Peterborough in particular and the Kawartha district should make a favourable impression upon these visitors, who by reason of their position are constantly in touch with the travelling public and are likely to constitute themselves as unofficial publicity agents for this district if they are impressed with their welcome here and with what is offered in the way of charming scenery and good fishing.

A GOOD SLOGAN.

A Hamilton candidate has a campaign slogan that will commend itself to many electors.

It is short and snappy, "Less legislation; better administration."

This aspirant for office has put his finger on a weak spot in politics in Canada.

Not only in the Legislature, but in other governing bodies, including City Councils, there is a prevailing tendency to clutter up the statute books with all kinds of legislation, some of it needed, but the most of it uncalled for.

It is a common complaint that in Canada the people are being legislated to death.

Any legislator with a freak idea in his head translates it into the form of a bill, and often succeeds in having it carried.

There are scores of Ontario measures that are not enforced just as there are many city bylaws that are a dead letter. They are still in existence, but are never enacted upon.

And, as this Hamilton candidate expresses it in his slogan, what is really needed in this Province is not more laws, but better administration of the affairs of Ontario.

Much of the legislation already in existence might as well be scrapped—it should never have been passed in the first place and it has never been made effective by enforcement.

SPANKING THE SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Are school inspectors supposed to turn the young lady school teachers over their knees and spank them? Are there printed rules and regulations to this effect, or are inspectors supposed to use their own discretion? asks the London Advertiser.

The Kingsville Reporter, down in Essex County, tells of a teacher in South Garfield who used to send children home when they did not behave. When a youngster stuck a pin into the hopeful in the seat ahead, the offender was sent home.

When another lad chewed up a good lump of paper and used his ruler as a slingshot to hurl it across the room, he was punished by being sent home.

The result was that there was quite a procession homeward bound, for, strange to say, the children did not mind one bit being sent home.

So along comes Mr. Inspector to inquire why the young lady could not keep order in school. It may be he insinuated that she was a spineless young thing, quite afraid to strike out and assert her authority.

Just to demonstrate that she had some fight in her system, she slapped the inspector's face.

And just to demonstrate that he knew what discipline looked like and sounded like, the inspector put the young lady teacher across his knee and spanked her.

Yes, sir, he spanked her in the good old-fashioned way.

Since then, according to the Kingsville Reporter, things have been going along splendidly.

We pass this suggestion along to the London inspectors or to any others who may be courageous enough to consider it.

THE RECALL SYSTEM.

Miss Agnes MacPhail, M.P., is given credit for the statement that democracy will not be at its best until every representative is required to leave his resignation with his constituents.

The Examiner cannot see the force of Miss MacPhail's contention. Nor can it agree with her in the theory that democracy is best served by sending a members of Parliament to Ottawa or Toronto with a string attached to him and manipulated by a group in his constituency.

This plan carried out in a riding in which there was a three-cornered fight in which the winner failed to secure a majority over the other two candidates and was therefore a minority representative, would make the successful member merely a puppet responsible not to his constituency as a whole, but to the group under whose colours he was a candidate.

It would be quite possible that he might take a stand on an issue that would be acceptable to the majority of the people in his riding, but because such an attitude was displeasing to his own group the recall would be operated and the member would have to make way for somebody else.

That is not the British idea of representation, nor does the Examiner believe that the majority of Canadians would welcome such a system as part of its political machinery.

The old theory that a member's responsibility is not only to the people who elected him or indeed to his own constituency, but to all classes and to the whole country, is good enough for most people in this Province.

A COMMUNITY LOSS.

Old pupils of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, scattered throughout the world, as well as Peterborough citizens generally, have learned or will learn of the death of Mr. Cortez Fessenden with a deep sense of personal loss.

For nearly thirty years connected with the local Collegiate, the greater part of that time as Principal, Mr. Fessenden's keen brain, abnormal grasp of mathematics and physics and character have left their mark upon hundreds of students who now in many professions and in various localities find reason to thank him for a splendid start in life.

Many an ex-pupil will look back upon the years spent in the Peterborough Collegiate and remember with a lump in the throat and a suspicious moisture in the eye how Mr. Fessenden constantly sought to ensure that the time passed in school should count for something, how anxious he was that those entrusted to his care should have an opportunity of making something of themselves.

And, alas, too many of them will perhaps recall how in the exuberance of youth they not only failed to appreciate the interest shown in them by the Principal, but even were guilty of mischievous pranks that, as they now appear to a retrospective eye, must have caused him frequent moments of mental distress.

They had long ago learned to be ashamed of those things and to realize what a deep debt of gratitude they owed Principal Fessenden.

With them and with hundreds of friends and acquaintances his memory will always be kept green.

Mr. Fessenden was a splendid teacher, a man of sterling character and a good citizen.

His passing is a community loss.

THE DOMINIONS AND PREFERENCE.

The Prime Minister of Australia is definite in his statement of the proposals he will submit to the Imperial Economic Conference. "We must never," he said, "allow any of the Dominions to become more closely linked commercially to a foreign power than to the Mother Country." It was vital, he contended, to Great Britain and to Australia that they should increase production and exports. This could be brought about only by improved trade relations within the Empire and a well-considered Imperial economic policy.

From the Australian standpoint, Mr. Bruce insisted, trade relations with Britain were far from satisfactory. By giving Britain "an enormous preference" Australia was restricting its trade with foreign nations. The Australian preference had provided British workers with employment and British manufacturers with an outlet for their goods. But Australia had to compete in British markets against the goods of foreign countries. The Australian meat industry languished while London stores were packed with beef from Argentina. The British Admiralty had even made a contract for meat supplies with a foreign country which during the war had done nothing to assist the Allies. But if Britain were really concerned about the economic weaknesses of the Empire, she must give due weight to other considerations.

Mr. Bruce stated that certain foreign Governments had offered Australia trade treaties with a preference for Australian goods in return for reciprocal treatment in the Australian market. All these overtures from foreign countries had been rejected, but "the present state of affairs could not continue indefinitely." Australia asked for fair treatment, and was prepared to give something of real value to the Mother Country, but "desired in return an assured market." He pointed out that the migration movement within the Empire would make the Dominions, now the best, still better customers of Britain, and finally declared, "This economic question is one which vitally concerns every individual citizen of Great Britain and the Dominions. Our interests are identical. We are dependent upon each other. With this mutual interest and these mutual aims, surely it will be possible to mould a policy which will be beneficial to our citizens throughout the Empire and make us the strongest commercial combination the world has ever seen."

It is not easy to combat Mr. Bruce's arguments, but it is very doubtful if all that he demands can be secured. As yet there is no evidence that the Mother Country will tax food and food products. Indeed the British Government seems to be pledged against food taxes. But a preference for grain and wheat products is what Australia and New Zealand chiefly require. Moreover, while Canada does not demand this, the country would rejoice to have a preference for wheat, flour, cattle and other products in the British market. Unquestionably a British preference would stimulate the movement of British people to the Dominions and increase food production. Over a short term of years the Dominions probably would be able to meet fully the whole British demand for food products. But that time is not yet and "free food" is still a powerful watchword with the British people.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Ontario must expect a windstorm or two with the politicians getting their last words before the electorate.

When the shouting and the tumult die, the final word will be up to the man who marks his ballot next Monday.

The average man seems to be more interested in looking for cheaper home-grown strawberries than he is in the result of the campaign.

One of the mysteries that the election has not cleared up is the identity of those who attended the notorious last night party.

The license markers of many Americans States are to be seen daily in Peterborough, showing that the publicity being given the Kawartha Lakes is having speedy and important results.

The defeat of Jimmy Wilde proves nothing except that youth must be served.

NEW BATTING MARK.

CLEVELAND, June 20.—(Associated Press)—Tom Gully, who was released by the Cleveland Indians to the Lakeland (Fla.) team, hit safely in 34 consecutive games, establishing a record in the Florida state league, according to special dispatches received here.

Gully is right fielder for the Lakeland team. He was left in the southern city by the Indians, but they still hold an option on him. He heads the league in batting with 62 hits, 13 of which were triples, in 36 games.

TORONTO CATTLE.

TORONTO, June 20.—The market is holding steady to strong at last week's closing prices. Receipts were light, but sufficient for the usual Tuesday's requirements. Grass fed cattle are now coming in freely, but shippers are warned not be in too big a hurry with the thin cattle. Good quality well finished stock will be all right, probably for some time to come, but poor quanity thin cattle will not be wanted. Local butcher trade shows a good demand for light or medium weight cattle, but they must be of good quality and finish.

The export trade is good for choice heavy steers and bulls.

Small meats steady.

Dunn and Levack quote. Choice calves, $10 to $11; do medium, $8 to $9; do common, $5 to $6; choice sheep, $6.50; do medium, $4 to $6; heavy, $3.50 to $4; lambs, $16.50 to $17.

CASH GRAIN.

MONTREAL, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)—The tone of the market for oats was steady here yesterday. The flour market was featureless. Trade in mill feed was quite and demand for rolled oats slow. There were no new developments in the baled hay market. Egg prices were out 1 cent a dozen. The tone of the potato market was easy. Butter prices scored another decline of 1-2 cent to 5-8 cents per lb. Business was small.

CHICAGO CATTLE.

CHICAGO, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)—Cattle, receipts 10,000; beef steers and yearlings of value to sell at 10.00 and above, closing strong to 15c. higher; others slow, uneven, about steady; 17 head prime Iowa fed shorthorns averaging 1,460 pounds 11.50; within 35 cents of year's extreme top; next highest price 11.40; several loads 11.25 and 11.30; best yearlings 11.00; choice beef heifers, 10.00 and 10.10; better grades beef cows and beef heifers, steady to strong; lower grades slow; medium fat cows weak; bulls steady; vealers largely 50c. higher; stockers and feeders firm; bulk desirable veal calves to packers 10.00 and 10.50; upward to 11.25 and above to outsiders; bulk desirable bologna bulls 4.60 and 4.85; few heavies 5.00; few loads heavy fat bulls on export account around 5.50.

Hogs, receipts 26,000; generally 10 to 15c. higher; spots up more on better grades; closing dull; big packers bought sparingly; bulk good and choice 160 to 300 pound averages early 7.40 and 7.55; top 7.60 packing sows mostly 6.15 and 6.50; few good and choice pigs 6.50 and 6.75; estimated holdover 13,000.

Sheep, receipts 6,000; handweight sheep and desirable fat lambs active, firm; spots higher; others around steady; early top fat lambs 16.50; bulk 16.00 and 16.25; culls mostly 11.00; one double 102 pound Texas wethers 7.50; few handyweight native ewes to killers 7.00; heavy 3.50 and 4.00; bulk 2.75 and 3.00.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)— Although rains in the spring crop belt had a bearish influence on the wheat market yesterday, and December delivery touched a new low price record for the season, the effect was counter-balanced by liberal purchasing for Europe. The market closed unsettled at from 1-2c. net decline to 3-8c. advance, with July $1.07 1-4 to $1.07 3-8 and Sept. 1.06 5-8 to $1.06 3-4.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, June 20. —(Canadian Press.)—Enquiries are being received from British importers regarding eggs for fall shipment but no further business is reported. Cables at the present time show that prices in Great Britain are still several shillings below the cost of Canadian eggs in storage. Buying prices at Ontario country points are reported reduced to 20 to 22.

Toronto, local receipts much lighter, prices unchanged.

Montreal, carton extras 34 to 35, extras 31 to 32, firsts 26 to 28. Dealers report buying at 20 f.o.b.

Western markets unchanged.

Prince Edward Island country points straight gathered 22 to 24, retail Charlotte town 27.

New Brunswick country points straight gathered 24, jobbing St. John 26 to 27, retail 30 to 35.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)— Receipts 600 cattle and calves, 390 hogs and 33 sheep, and lambs.

With only a few good cattle on the market trading was inactive. The better classes of killing cattle sold under a liberal inquiry at firm prices. Good stockers and feeders were in demand at steady prices. Other grades were weak over Monday's prices.

The hog market was unchanged, thick smooths being quoted at $8.35 and select bacon at $9.18 1-2.

There was nothing doing on the sheep and lamb market.

LAKEFIELD LODGE HAD GOOD PARADE

Procession Was Led By the Salvation Army — Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, June 19.—The weatherman did his best for the I.O.O.F. "Day of Remembrance" and hundreds of people turned out to honor the memory of those members of Lakefield lodge who have passed on to the fuller life beyond the grave. The procession, headed by the Salvation Army Band of Peterborough and followed by the members of the local lodge carrying flowers, was impressive and conducted reverently as befitting the occasion. First to Hillside Cemetery where the grave of Milton Nelson was decorated and then through the village again to the Lakefield Cemetery, followed by scores of motor cars and pedestrians, where five graves were decorated—Gordon Roseborough, Wm. Cuny, A. T. Jory, Geo. McWilliams and Wm. Hamilton.

After the service of the I.O.O.F., Rev. P. L. Jull gave a brief address suitable to the occasion, which was much appreciated. There was a splendid turn-out of local members, forty being present, and the entire ceremony was carried through without a single hitch. Year by year a larger number of citizens have attended, until now it is no exaggeration to say that the entire village joins in honoring the deceased members of Lakefield Lodge, No. 358, I.O.O.F.

Hearne—Watson.

A wedding which has considerable local interest took place on Wednesday, June 6th, in Lindsay when Miss Estella Watson of Coboconk became the bride of Earl Hearne, son of Mrs. John Hearne of Peterborough, but formerly of Lakefield. Rev. Mr. Johnson performed the ceremony. Both young people have many friends in Lakefield and have many good wishes for their future happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Hearne are residing at 92 Gladstone avenue, Peterborough.

Union S. S. Excursion.

The Union Sunday School excursion of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian Sunday Schools was held on Saturday and was well attended. Messrs. A. MacDonald, K. Madill and A. J. Kidd were the members of the managing committee. The weather was fine, but decidedly cold for the month of June.

Fishing Season Opens.

The fishing season is with us and the disciples of Isaak Walton have been busy getting lines and poles sorted out and troll lines in good shape. No doubt fish stories will soon be the order of the day and local fishermen will vie with each other as to the size of their catch. Several optimists have already offered to supply their friends with a treat in the shape of a fresh bass or a bit of 'lunge. One wonders what effect the remarkably high water will have on the fishing.

Church News.

Beginning on Sunday, June 25th, the evening service in the Baptist Church will be held at 7.30, instead of 7 o'clock. This will continue for

FREE STATE NOW ON ROAD TO PROSPERITY

Collapse of the Republican Movement Has Resulted in a Stable Government —Irish Paying Taxes.

By CHARLES M. McCANN.

DUBLIN, June 20.—(United Press).—Ireland at last faces an era of peace, and Irishmen, official and unofficial, believe that the Free State is already on the road to prosperity.

After seven years of successive rebellion, truce and civil war, the problems of the country are those of ordinary government—finance and economics.

Eighteen months ago there was no Government in Southern Ireland. A year ago there was vicious civil war.

Today the Republican movement has collapsed, and a stable, able Irish Government is planning the country's future.

"During the last year," President Cosgrave said recently, "we have had to build up an army, mobilize a police organization and construct the fabric of government.

"When we took up the business of government there was little but a local government department and an army headquarters.

"Now, if the people change the Government the machine is there. Whether the new Government is a capital or labor one, or a combination of the two, the machine is there—one that will be loyal to whatever Government the people of the country elect."

The Government, its machinery established, has begun to face its difficulties, and to balance its assets against its liabilities.

There Are Many Unemployed.

There are tens of thousands of unemployed men and women. There are 15,000 Republican prisoners in Irish jails. There is an over-large army, whose surplus must be assimilated into civil life. All these classes of men and women must be absorbed back into industry.

There is a prospective deficit of from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 in the budget for the current fiscal year. A loan of $125,000,000 must be floated shortly. Rebuilding must be begun after the years of destruction of houses, factories and railways.

Those are some of the difficulties. On the opposite side of the ledger may be cited some of the brighter aspects of the situation as Irishmen here see them.

The budget deficit is caused by the past necessity for a big army, and by the payment of compensation for destruction of private property. Rebuilding is expectet to start immediately, and will help to absorb soldiers, political prisoners and unemployed. Only 60 per cent. of arable land is under cultivation, and steps which are already being taken to increase this percentage will increase employment. When bills are paid, Ireland will be practically without debts.

The Irish Paying Taxes.

But the most encouraging feature of the whole present situation is that Irishmen for the first time in their lives are willingly, even gladly, paying taxes.

According to Free State officials, 70 per cent. of taxes is being collected. Of between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000 of arrears of taxes, about $15,000,000 have been collected since the Free State started to function.

As to the loan to be floated, the Government hopes to place every dollar of it in Ireland itself. It will be used partly toward paying for the private property destroyed—the total bill for destruction has been estimated at from $125,000,000 to $200,000,000. When this compensation has been paid the loan itself will be almost Ireland's sole indebtedness—$125,000,000 for a nation of over 4,000,000 people.

TWILIGHT SLEEP.

By CARL D. GROAT

BERLIN (By mail to the United Press).—A new form of "twilight sleep" has been devised by Dr. Ernst Graefenberg, Berlin obstetrician.

This drug, giving absolutely painless childbirth, is claimed to be even safe and more satisfactory than the original "twilight sleep" which also was a product of German science.

Dr. Graefenberg reveals that the chief constituent of this new "twilight sleep" is "chlorethyl" (ethyl chloride), but the other ingredient he keeps secret. The drug, he says, produces no ill effects on either mother or child.

When you eat Bran for constipation be certain that it is ALL BRAN!

There is no time to fuss away trying to find out just what some mixed-up cereal with a small bran content can do to ward off the grave illness that constantly hovers over constipation sufferers. What your system demands is ALL BRAN! You must have ALL BRAN to give permanent relief! Anything less than ALL BRAN does not have the bulk that gives results! Your physician will recommend Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Kellogg's will do the work; it will give you permanent relief; it will remake your health if you will eat it regularly — because it is ALL BRAN! Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is wonderful for health. It sweeps, cleans and purifies, ridding the system of the dangerous toxic poisons. Yet it is simply a nature-food—nature's own remedy for constipation; nature's way of keeping every body-organ tuned true.

Eat Kellogg's Bran regularly to give permanent relief naturally—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; for chronic cases, with every meal. It is as beneficial as a preventive. Its nut-like flavor is delicious. You will like it sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal, or eat it as a cereal. Kellogg's Bran makes delightful muffins, raisin bread, pancakes, etc. It adds a fine flavor to soups and gravies. Have the whole family eat Kellogg's Bran and see the health of every member improve.

All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran.

LIGHTNING STRUCK BETHANY BUILDING.

The Orange Hall Suffered Damage During Tuesday's Electric Storm.

BETHANY, June 20.—During the storm of Tuesday noon the Orange Hall was struck by lightning. The bolt passed down the chimney, knocking off some brick, then down the edge of the roof, where the shingles and cornice were torn off, and some pieces of boards carried several yards away. No apparent damage was done to the inside of the building.

About the same time Miss Flory Sanders, who was standing at the station at Franklin waiting for the storm to pass, was lifted off her feet and flung upon the platform. Dr. Hamilton was called to render aid.

Personals.

Mr. A. H. Monk was a business visitor to Lindsay on Tuesday.

Master Ormand Wright returned home from Lindsay on Tuesday evening, where he was trying his Junior High examinations.

Mrs. W. H. McCartney and Miss Nellie Williams were business visitors to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Miss Stark, of Cavan, was in the village on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Bertrand Monk left Wednesday morning for Keene, where he expects to open a boot and shoe repair shop.

NEWLY WEDS GET SURPRISE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Meiklejohn, of Burnbrae, Recipients of Valuable Gifts.

BURNBRAE, June 20.—Rev. C. F. MacIntosh, B.D., of Campbellford conducted preparatory services at Seymour and Rylstone last Friday.

Mr. Murray of Chicago is visiting at the home of Mr. James Ketcheson at Monie.

Mac Oddie of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, Campbellford spent his holidays at St. Catherines and Beamsville.

Surprise Party.

The Young People of Burnbrae community surprised Mr. and Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn on Friday evening, on their return from their honeymoon trip, when they gathered at their home to shower them with many valuable and useful gifts.

The evening was one of the most enjoyable held for some time and some fine group singing, led by Mr. Harvey Donald was highly appreciated.

Mr. Malcolm Totton acted as chairman, congratulated the young couple and wished them much happiness in their new life on the old farm that has been the home of the Meeklejohn's for more than a century.

Recitations were given by Mrs. Frank Little of Menie and Miss Hazel McKenzie of Rawdon.

Other speeches of a congratulatory nature were contributed by George and Lindsey Anderson, Fred Barnum and Harvey Donald, to which Mrs. Meiklejohn, on behalf of his wife and himself very suitably replied.

Election Meeting.

Mr. Montgomery, the government candidate, supported by Mr. Dempsey and Mrs. Lochlan held a meeting in Lamb's Hall, Menie, on Friday evening, when he called upon the farmers of the community to support the Drury Government and to return Mr. Montgomery again at the forthcoming election.

HON. G. H. FERGUSON AT MASSEY HALL

Accompanied By W. F. Nickle, the Conservative Leader Was Critical of Administration.

TORONTO, June 20.—(Canadian Press)—Undaunted by sultry weather Toronto electors crowded Massey Hall last night to hear Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, give his reasons why he should be called to premiership of the province by the people on Monday next The leader's active Lieutenant, W. F. Nickle of Kingston, also addressed a large gathering and both received a good reception.

The whole list of issues raised in the present campaign were hastily reveiwed by two speakers. Mr. Nickle dealt particularly with the financial record of Hon. Peter Smith, Provincial treasurer, in his four years of office, alleging that it had been one of incompetency which had been costly for the Province.

Mr. Smith's surplus, he declared, was not one of fact, but a balance resulting from manipulation of records.

Mr. Ferguson was critical of Hon. Mr. Biggs' handling of the Public Work, Department, and charged that the Government had not been fair to Hydro enterprises, that it had not fulfilled its pledges to farmers, and that it also had been neglectful of needs of Northern Ontario and Mining country.

So far as the manifesto of Hon. E. C. Drury was concerned. Mr. Ferguson remarked that it was the "longest piece of composition I have ever seen, to cover least ground." There were in it some "amusing claims," among them being friendship of the Drury administration for Hydro. The government, he said, had declared but one direct attitude towards Hydro, and that was through the spending of half a million dollars of the people's money in an attempt to discredit public ownership in the minds of the people.

W. STARKE, KEENE LOSES 8 CATTLE

Killed By Lightning in Open Field — One Silo Overturned.

KEENE, June 20.—(Specail.) — Eight head of cattle were killed by lightning during a storm which swept down upon this section yesterday afternoon and passed on, leaving a trail of dismembered trees and fallen branches.

The thunder storm was accompanied by furious winds which overturned the silo on Mr. William Henderson's farm and did a great deal of damage elsewhere.

The cattle were owned by Mr. William Starke, 7th line, north of here. There were six cows and two young calves killed while standing in an open field.

No reports are available yet as to the damage to crops, but it is probable that this will be serious.

British Rulers Closely Guarded on Continent.

LONDON, June 20.—(Associated Press)—Americans who were privileged to see King George and Queen Mary off for Italy were struck by the number of secret-service men and guards who accompanied the king and queen relatively safe from the hands of assassins and evil-doers, but when they are travelling on the continent they are much more carefully protected than the president of the United States when he leaves the White House.

Dozens of picked detectives from Scotland Yard kept a vigilant eye on the British rulers while they were in Italy. While the police of each country through which the royal party travels are nominally responsible for the protection of their visitors, the British authorities are not satisfied with this protection and insist upon a big return of their own trained sleuths. They recall that it was on the continent that an assassin attempted the life of the late King Edward. Only the prompt intervention of one of the king's guard saved the monarch.

Since Premier Mussolini came into power the Italian police have managed to keep the anarchists well in hand. Next to Britain, France is probably the safest country in which kings and queens travel. The French police, like Scotland Yard, have most anarchists marked and watcher whenever a foreign potentate is on a visit. Queen Victoria declared she felt safer in France than anywhere else, even in England. She perhapa had in mind the fact that she was threatened several times in her own county, once by a madman with a stick, and on another occasion in Buckingham Palace by a lunatic, who entered the palace unobserved.

He presented facts

THE general manager of a large manufacturing concern asked his advertising manager why he favored The Mail and Empire when submitting his advertising plans.

"Because it has a circulation of 11,638 greater than the second morning paper," replied the advertising manager.

—"And the rates are the same. Besides," he continued, "its circulation reaches intelligent, prosperous people. I consider the buying power of its readers of great importance."

Needless to say, the appropriation for The Mail and Empire was promptly approved.

MEMBERS FOR SCOTLAND ARE VERY UNRULY

The Labor Representatives Caused a Lively Scene in the House of Commons Yesterday.

SHIPBUILDING.

LONDON, June 20 (Canadian Press Cable). — There was a lively scene in the House of Commons yesterday when the two Scottish Labour members, G. Buchanan (Gorbals) and D. Kirkwood (Dumbarton) persisted in putting questions in regard to three ships now building at Belfast for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company.

Even when the speaker called the next question the Scots refused to subside and there were loud cries of "Order," during which Kirkwood remained on his feet endeavouring to address the House.

Above the uproar Kirkwood was heard complaining that there were many unemployed on the Clyde who wanted a share of this work.

Members cried "name him," but Kirkwood shouted back that they could carry him out dead.

In spite of rebukes from the Speaker, Kirkwood, Buchanan, and J. Maxton (Labour, Bridgeton) repeatedly attempted to put questions.

Maxton protested against "the hooligan outbreak" on the other side of the House, but the Speaker reminded him that there was no noise until the Labour members remained on their feet when he (Mr. Speaker) rose.

The incident closed with Buchanan saying he would raise the matter again on the first opportunity.

Bares Strength of the Russian Army.

LONDON, June 20.—(Associated Press).—Much of the mystery and speculation which have existed concerning the strength of the Soviet Red Army is said here to have been cleared up by a military correspondent of the London Daily Mail who has just returned from Moscow. He says that at the beginning of 1923 the strength of the army had fallen from 950,000 to 800,000. At the present time there are 280,000 men in the infantry, 60,000 in the cavalry, 70,000 in the technical units, and 30,000 in the navy. The Cheka's frontier units contain 50,000 men, and its internal units 60,000.

The army has 2,000,000 rifles, 14,500 machine guns, 5,700 light machine guns, 3,000 cannon, more than 3,000,000 shells, and 1,000,000,000 munitions. The war establishment of a division consists of 15,000 men and 6,500 horses, comprising three infantry regiments, three squads of cavalry, three batteries of field artillery, three howitzer batteries, and the usual contingents of sappers, engineers, munitions columns, etc.

There are 23 airplane factories, but only five are now working. The aviation department, which is in the hands of a committee of three with Trotsky at the head expects to have 10,000 airplane in 1924, with corresponding personnel.

The correspondent adds that the Bolsheviks also have received many shipments of airplanes from Italy, England and Germany.

Realizing the necessity of producing officers from the working classes, the Bolsheviks have established many military schools. They are more numerous and better equipped, the Daily Mail's expert says, than similar schools in the United States and England. The schools embrace special classes in general staff work, engineering, infantry, cavalry and signals.

FOREST FIRES FORCE OWNERS VACATE FARMS

Men, Women and Children in Northern Ontario Are Fleeing Before Advancing Flames.

TRAINS HELD READY

NORTH BAY, June 20. Canadian Press. — Every train from the north is filled with begrimmed settlers, men, women and children, individuals and families, who have forsaken their farms and various small settlements, in the path of the forest fires in the Porcupine district, around Timmins and Porquis Junction.

It is stated that scores more are waiting at Timmins in a special train that was sent to l ig them out, but which has orders not to start unless an emergency justifies the clearing of the country.

Gale Slackened.

About midnight there was a slackening of the gale that was blowing fire and destruction over the territory, and the fire fighters were able to work with more effect on the terrible blaze.

The Temiskaming railway officials to-day say that immtdiate danger in Timmins and the South Porcupine districts is past.

NO SIGNS OF RAIN.

TORONTO, June 20. — Canadian Press. — Messages to the Canadian Press from Sudbury and North Bay this morning report that there has been no rain in the vicinity of these two towns in the last two days.

A North Bay despatch also states that theer were no indications of rain along the Temiskaming and the Northern Ontario Railway as far north as Cochrane.

Reparts from the fire rangers to Chief Forester Zavitz filed during the nightnight showed that staffs of fire fighters are weakening from the extreme heat and the long hours of working.

There is a fire south of Hearst and an airplane is leaving Cochrane today to patrol the district between the Transcontinental and the Canadian Pacific Lines. The district from the Queebc boundary to Port Arthur, about 70 miles in width, is said to be threatened by approaching fires.

NO SERIOUS INJURY TO ONTARIO CROPS

But Yesterday's Hurricane Inflicted Damage t Many Orchards.

TORONTO, June 20.—(Canadian Press). — Sweeping down the west side of Lake Simcoe, a furious wind storm, accompanied by terrific lightning and hail stones larger than marbles, wrought havoc in sections of North York and in the southern part of Simcoe County, yesterday afternoon. Orchards were damaged, shade trees dismembered, cattle were killed by lightning in fields, and at least one house was struck. In Newmarket plate-glass windows were shattered.

The storm followed a zig-zag path. Leaving a trail of fallen branches and levelled hay fields in its wake, it swept from Bradford South to Newmarket, east to Mount Albert and north again to Uxbridge and Cannington.

North of Bradford the most serious damage was reported. Cattle were killed on the farm of B. Roberts, and the house of John Gibbons was struck by lightning. Orchards suffered heavily, nearly every farmer reporting damage.

Citizens of Newmarket described the storm as a regular hurricane.

Farmers do not anticipate serious injury to crops, and it is early yet to estimate the damage done to orchards.

ASK EXCLUSION OF JAPS

OTTAWA, June 20.—(Canadian Press).—A petition from the Asiatic Exclusion League of Canada asking for exclusion of Japanese and the refusal of further naturalization to Japanese was presented in the House of Commons yesterday by E. G McQuarrie, Conservative member for New Westminster. The petition had 1700 signatures on it.

LABOR SHORTAGE PUTS TO WORK PIG'S SNOUT

CHICAGO, June 20.—(Associated Press)—The snout of the pig has been put to work by the farm labor shortage, and the saying that everything of the pig is used but his squeal no longer holds entirely good, says the National Institute of Progressive Farming.

The pig now drinks at automatic waters and manipulates self-feeders with his snout, formerly used to root up pastures and emit loud squeals. He need no longer root the ground or squeal when hungry, the incentive having been removed. A certain amount of time and labor also was eliminated by the more simplified way of feeding and watering.

The consumer, the Institute says, benefits materially with better pork products through the more general use of sanitary concrete wallows or baths and automatic hog-oilers which tend to decrease hog disease formerly contracted in the traditional mud-wallows. In fact the hogs readily take to the "concrete baths" in preference to the old mud puddles.

Another item which makes for a healthier and more profitable pig, says the Institute, is the more general advantage taken of the process whereby the hogs are turned into the corn fields and allowed to harvest while feeding themselves. Thousands of acres of grain are harvested in this way instead of carrying feed to penned up pigs. This also serves to reduce the farm labor problem.

Where this process is used, beans are planted with the corn to permit the pig to harvest a balanced ration to give a finer ham sandwich to the consumer.

Want Ad Tips
by John T. Bartlett

'HOW MUCH SHALL I SPEND?'
(By John T. Bartlett)

"How much," an inquirer asks me, "shall I put into Want advertising? I have this thing I wish to sell. How much of a Want Ad can I afford to run? How many insertions should I order?"

Though individual circumstances necessarily govern, there are certain principles which, borne in mind, will help you to decide these questions.

First what are you selling? Want advertising is selling cost, and what you can economically spend to make a sale depends on you article. Selling a farm or other real estate, running into several thousands of dollars, the advertiser easily can afford to use long copy and a lengthy series of insertions. Even though he does not sell until his Want Ad campaign, as projected, is nearly complete, his selling expense will still be very low indeed. Most real estate advertisers can afford, with profit, longer copy, more insertions, than they commonly use.

On the other hand, the advertiser of an article of small value can afford only brief copy, few insertions, because his sale will amount to only a few dollars at most.

A family advertising for roomers can afford to spent more for Want Ads than might seem the case at first glance. A proportion of guests secured will stay for fairly long periods. The sale made when an average roomers is secured rusn to a sizeable amount.

This is one side of the problem. The other side is the amount of advertising required to get results. Happily, the latter nearly always is in proportion to the size of the sale. The man with a small flock of chickens cannot afford an extensive Want Ad campaign—but none is needed, limited advertising getting results. On the other hand, the house for sale is sold satisfactorily usually only with heavier pressure—afforded, because the sum involved is large.

Getting ready to advertise, this is a good process to go through. Decide this: Your article considered, what can you afford to spend? Then, within this limit, write the advertising you deem required to make your sale. And if you err, let it be on the side of perhaps uneeded strength in your Want Ad rather than maybe fatal weakness.

WANT ADS FOR HOUSE TO HOUSE WORKERS.
(By John T. Bartlett)

Here is a method which brings success to house-to-house workers—"canvassers." Canvassers in general alway have had a rather difficult time of it. The average housewife's attitude is instinctively antagonistic. She is apt to listen not at all to the canvasser's sory—or to as little of it as she can manage.

This is principally because the canvasser is nearly always a stranger. If he is known, he gets, usually, a courteous hearing. And of the people who give him an attentive hearing, the percentage he sells to is always satisfactory, sometimes sevy satisfactory. This is where Want Ads enter.

A mechanic whose trade usually is dull in the spring has a sideline subscription business. To increase his sales, he uses want ads. Here is one:

"L. A. Stone, who takes subscriptions at lowest combination rates, representing 150 national magazines, farmpapers, newspapers, will call on you soon. Have your order ready."

Mr. Stone believes that Want Ads of this type account for much of his success. When he introduces himself, he says, "I am L. A. Stone, the Want Ad subscription man." He relates that if the party has seen his Want Ads. as is often the case, he almost invariably gets interested recognition, and a courteous hearing.

Also, people do, as he requests, "hace their order ready.' Something about, "Will call on you soon. Have your order ready," starts people thinking seriously about their subscription needs.

Anyone who sells house to house, either a part of his time, or all of his time, can use the same plan successfully at low cost. It will work for the man who sells freshkilled poultry, horse-radish or hulled corn; the lady who sells custommade corsets or soap. Thanks to the Want Ads, the canvasser when he calls is not a stranger. He is raised in esteem. He gets respect and courtesy. He sells.

And put in, "Have your order ready," or similar suggestion. It is an excellent sentence to use.

Meighen Disputes Ruling of Speaker.

OTTAWA, June 20.—(Canadian Press).—The decision given by the Speaker Monday in connection with the Banking Bill that under the closure rules adopted in 1912, there could be no debate on a motion to go into committee was brought up in the House of Commons this afternoon by Rt. Hcn. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition. Mr. Meigh en said that he did not wish to appeal against the ruling but that he desired to have the matter discussed as it might become a serious precedent. On the suggestion of the Speaker, the discussion was postponed until a similar motion was made on another day.

JUGO SLAVS INCREASE THE STANDING ARMIES

BELGRADE, June 20.—(Special). —The Jugo Slavs' standing army is to be immediately increased for the protection of the frontiers, as a result of the Bulgarian coup, it was announced in Parliament.

A NORTHERN ONTARIO TOWN LOST IN A FIRE

OTTAWA, June 20.—(Canadian Press)—Special despatch received here is to effect that town of Noren Bega, place of eight hundred inhabitants twenty miles north of Iroquois Falls was burned out last night by bush fires. People escaped with noth ing but their clothes, everything in place being destroyed, but no lives were lost. Flames have spread to Hughes on Canadian National.

CHOIR MURRAY STREET CHURCH HAD A PICNIC

Some forty or fifty members of the choir of the Murray street Baptist church held a very pleasant outing last evening, which took the form of a motor trip and picnic at Wallace's Point, where an entertaining programme of races and games was run off. Mr. Walter Kidd and the entertainment committee of the choir had charge of the arrangements.

Meyers Has Made Work Not Talked About It

THERE are no skeletons in the Liberal cabinet. No ghosts of broken pledges stealing out of the past, no scandals of reckless extravagance and bad administration of public affairs to resound in the electors' ears!
That's why the Liberals of West Peterborough are looking forward with confidence to the result on election day.

John W. Meyers goes before the people of this riding next Monday with a clean record, a record that any candidate might well be proud of.

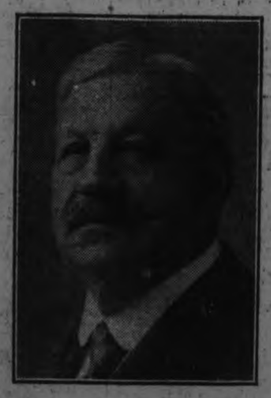
And behind him is a party that has kept faith with the people of Ontario, and a leader in F. Wellington Hay who embodies the traditions of Liberalism in this province that have been handed down from Blake and Brown and their successors to the present day.

Look at the men who have been sacrificing their time and effort for the cause John W. Meyers so well represents.

Glance back at last Saturday night's meeting for example! Merchants and mechanics side by side with men of the professions and trades, all united in the blending, embracing spirit of Liberalism.

If that was all John W. Meyers and F. Wellington Hay stood for in this election, as Liberals have ever stood for, they were worthy of the support of every man and woman whose intelligence shows them that the future greatness of this province of Ontario is bound up in the unity of its people.

THE LIBERAL PA..TY HAS NOTHING TO BE ASHAMED OF, NO APOLOGIES OR EXCUSES TO MAKE, WHEN THEY APPEAL TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF WEST PETERBOROUGH TO VOTE FOR JOHN W. MEYERS NEXT MONDAY.



J. W. MEYERS

IF you are one of those "silent voters" who are hearing the arguments in this campaign to guide you in your decision at the polls think of this:

The working men, Labor men, who are standing with John W. Meyers are just as anxious for the progress of Ontario along broad, modern lines, in short for a BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, as are the business men, professional men and merchants who are co-operating with them.

They know John W. Meyers, the man, from close contact with him. How could he be better known?

And these are the men who urge you to elect the Liberal candidate who is pledged with his leader, Wellington Hay, to give the province the BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION it needs.

John W. Meyers might have retired perhaps after his thirty-five years on the farm. Others have done it.

Instead he went into business in Peterborough, building up an enterprise which every resident has watched grow under his industry and ability from a comparatively small mill to one of the busiest in this part of the province.

No idler or peddler of fantastic socialistic theories is John W. Meyers. His contribution to the growth of Peterborough is a monument of brick and cement, and a payroll that goes into many homes that might not otherwise be here.

Personally, John W. Meyers does not ask much for himself. He is known in this city as a plain living man. Nothing assuming or pretentious about him. His earnings went into a business which has helped many other men. HAVE EITHER OF HIS OPPONENTS DONE AS MUCH FOR PETERBOROUGH AND ITS PEOPLE? No! There's no skeleton in the Liberal household.

HE HAS BEEN A DOER OF THINGS ALL HIS LIFE

The Season's Smartest Sports Clothes

The Sports Angle Dominates Vacation Modes

SECOND FLOOR

IT'S WONDERFUL to think of scurrying off to some lovely spot you've never seen, or to return to a familiar haunt that's filled with memories of past vacations. And that the realization of these vacation dreams may be as delightful as you anticipate, it's wise to make plans—wardrobe plans, particularly, so you'll have appropriate costumes for every vacation occasion without having to hurry around at the last minute.

Now Comes the Season When You'll Want a Sports Suit

Want it to travel in, to knock about in, to play in. Suits of Cream Flannel Twinklestone and Grassmere. They are so good looking that you can slip into one hurriedly and never a give second thought to the swagger of your appearance. One exceedingly smart number is of Cream Flannel, the Coat showing long tailored revere and double button fastening. The back of Coat is trimmed with three folds of self material patch pockets trimmed with folds to match back, size 38.

Price $32.00.

Woollen Sports Skirts Another Vacation Demand

If there is one thing about which fashion refuses to make compromises, it is the necessity of every smartly dressed woman including at least one Woolen Skirt in her vacation wardrobe. And to do so is indeed a pleasure, for these plain and pleated Cream Flannel and Knitted Skirts combine as attractively with sweaters to compose a glorified sports costume. Smart styles, showing link and link stitch, forming drop stitch stripe. All sizes.

Price $6.50.

Knitted Wear Is Just the Thing

To take off that early morning chill, there's nothing like a sweater, and made of finer yarns, they're smart enough to wear with silk skirts for afternoon. There is something so free and easy about these in pullover and coat styles in silk and wool mixtures. A lovely blue pullover of silk and wool, with long sleeves and V-neck, shows a neat block design as trimming. Other colors that may be obtained are Turquoise, Jade, Dove and Black.

NO MONOPOLY AMONG BANKERS

Declares Hon, A. K. MacLean in Debate on the Banking Act.

OTTAWA, June 20. — (Canadian Press).—Rapid progress was made with the Banking Bill in the House of Commons yesterday. The Progressives proposed many amendments, but time after time proposed changes were voted down. The chief debate of the day took place over the section regarding the rate of interest, to which J. T. Shaw, Independent, Calgary West, moved an amendment to enable a borrower who paid more than seven per cent. to recover excess by the action of the courts.

"I would not propose limitation," said William Irvine, Labor, Calgary East, "if there were no monopoly."

"There is no monopoly," declared Hon. A. K. Maclean, who was chairman of the Banking and Commerce Committee.

"We are putting a crown of thorns on the husbandmen of this country," said L. H. Jelliff, Progressive, Lethbridge, in this connection.

After the Shaw amendment was defeated G. G. Coote, Progressive, MacLeod, moved a similar one, fixing the maximum rate at 8 per cent. This was also defeated by a vote of 50 to 24 and the clause carried.

Unexpected support came from H. J. Logan, Liberal, Cumberland, for a proposal to authorize banks with less than $500,000 capital. He urged that the Maritime Provinces had lost their local banks, but Hon. A. K. Maclean and Hon. W. S. Fielding both held that larger banks were in the country's interest.

INDUSTRIAL ACT BEFORE SENATE

Motion to Have Minister of Labor Appoint Third Member of Arbitration Board Was Defeated.

OTTAWA, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)—The industrial disputes act which had been referred back to committee was before the Senate yesterday. Hon. Mr. Dandurand moved to strike out the clause submitted by Senator Lynch-Staunton and adopted which placed in the hands of the Chief Justice of a Province or if the dispute was interprovincial in the hands of the chief justice of the Dominion, the appointment of the third arbitrator, where the two interested parties would not agree with the chairman. Up to the present time this has been the duty of the Minister of Labor.

Senator Currie opposed the removal of this new clause as he thought that judges were better qualified to select the chairman than the Minister of Labor.

Senator Fowler suggested that the reason labor has accepted this law was because the Minister of Labor had the appointment of the third arbitrator.

Senator Robertson, who supported the amendment of Senator Dandurand, stated that during his regime as Minister of Labor not a protest had come from employers as to the selection of the third arbitrator but there had been numerous protests from employees.

Senator Casgrain claimed that the Minister of Labor as a member of a labor union could not be an unbiased judge in the selection of the third arbitrator.

Senator Beaubien claimed that the Minister of Labor was not a free agent and that the best way to secure confidence in the law was to place the appointment of the deciding arbitrator in the hands of the judiciary.

Senator Dandurand's motion was defeated on a vote of 35 to 25.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

59 Olive, Ave.,
Peterboro, 20-6-23.

Dear Sir,— Kindly allow me a small space in your paper on my behalf for what has happened lately, and for what took place at the football game last Thursday evening between the G.W.V.A. and the C. P.C. I was sent off the football field several minutes before the game finished for reasons unknown to me, but the P. and D. F. A. should settle all disputes of this kind. It has been drawn to my notice that this body has had two meetings since this occurrence happened, and I have never been notified to attend either, as I have a perfect right to attend one, and protect myself against anything that I had done. It seems to me that the public will think I am a coward in not attending one of these meetings, but I would have been only too pleased, and was ready to attend, had I been notified through our representative or a director or a phone call, one of which I did receive later on in the evening on business, so it is entirely no fault of mine whatever in not being present. I see by their report on their last meeting that I am barred from playing, having been sentenced, and had no chance to defend myself, which is unfair in every possible way, as had this body done their duty, this occurrence would have been settled and done with, but otherwise it may be months before it is settled.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, hoping I will receive my suspension in the proper way, and receive fair play, in the interests of football.

Yours truly,
H. W. MANN.

Ottawa, Ontario, 19th June, 1923
Wm. Tinker, Esq., Secretary-Treasurer, Canadian Woollens, Ltd., Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Sir,—I beg to acknowledge your letter of the 10th instant, a copy of which was sent to The Examiner, as well as a copy of a resolution purporting to have been passed at a meeting of the directors of Canadian Woollens.

I would like to draw to your attention that the condition of affairs respecting Botany yarns, which you complain of, has been in existence since 1906.

For ten years the Conservative Government continued this drawback of 99 per cent. on materials that were used in the manufacturing of sox; but because the Liberal Government, in its second session, does not change the law which the Conservative Party kept in force for ten years, you complain about lack of protection.

The Conservative Government, under Sir Robert Borden, and under the Right Honourable Arthur Meighen, maintained this drawback, and also increased its extent, and I never heard a word uttered by any one of your directors in criticism of the Conservative Governments; but I hear very loud complaint, when the Liberal Government is in power, when the very same condition exists, that was not only maintained during the whole period of power of the Conservative Government, but that Government in 1914 reduced your protection further.

In 1914, the Conservative Government then in power, under tariff item No. 1024, reduced the protection to the spinners, and extended the list of the yarns on which the drawback was allowed, which reduced very materially the protection offered to the spinners; so if there is any complaint about it, you should blame the Conservative Party, which reduced the protection to the spinners, like yourselves. Any trouble that was created was by the act of the Conservative Government in 1914, and not by the Liberal Party.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) G. N. GORDON.

MANY ASSOCIATIONS ADOPT CODE OF ETHICS

ST. LOUIS, June 20—(Associated Press).—More than one hundred and seventy trade and professional associations throughout this country have adopted standards of ethical practices for their members, Chairman Bert Scribner of Pueblo, Colorado, head of Rotary's Business Methods Committee, announced at today's session of the fourteenth annual convention of Rotary International.

"The first step for each is to establish for himself a solid basis of ethics," he said. "This basis, when fxed upon and accepted, will automatically go into effect in his social life.

"Directed effort, however, is necessary to build upon this ethical basis in the business life.

"Rotary is conducting a campaign for standardized methods in each and every vocation. Think of 90,000 business men in 26 different countries of the world giving simultaneous study to the raising of the ethical standards governing the relations between employer and employee! They are giving the same study to the three main contacts of business:

"Contact with those from whom we purchase.

"Contact with our competitors and allied professions.

"Contact with the public—both customers and the general public.

"This is a work of eliminating dual standards—the Rotarian is striving to govern his business relations by the same moral standards as govern his social relations with his fellows.

"Last year 107 and this year between 50 and 60 additional trade and professional associations adopted, and are today working to set down in clear, concise language, just what constitutes ethical, and what constitutes unethical, conduct.

More important still—these codes are being adopted and observed. Literally thousands of business men are declaring publicly what the Golden Rule means when translated into terms of business conduct."

In their craze for beauty, Parisian women are even having their noses "broken" and re-set in a different shape.

BARN RAISING AND DANCE, KING'S WHARF

KING'S WHARF, June 20. — A very successful barn raising was engineered by Joseph Goselin, on the farm of Thomas Morrisey here yesterday afternoon. About seventy men assisted in erecting the structure, the dimensions of which are 75 x 40 feet. In the evening 20 farm women served a sumptuous supper to the small army of willing workers. This was followed by a dance, some 120 young folks tripping the light fantastic until the early hours of this morning.

HIKERS' CLUB.

A group of enthusiastic hikers met last night, in spite of the weather, for the weelky hike of the Y.W.C.A. Indoor-Outdoor Club. Bacon and rolls and coffee and cake tasted mighty good around the camp fire. The club has found a favorite spot along the river bank above Auburn, and expect to enjoy an evening supper there quite often.

Next Tuesday is the "Y" camp birthday party, and the hikers will join in the big picnic to Crawford's Grove, each one bringing cake, sandwiches or fruit and also a gift for camp. Jam, pickles, canned goods, dishes, linen, etc., are all very acceptable and will be much enjoyed during the summer by the campers.

CONSERVATIVES CONFIDENT IN EAST DURHAM

A. J. Fallis Says Government Should Represent All Classes — Private and Public Honesty.

PARTY TRADITIONS.

MILLBROOK, June 20. — The town hall was well filled on Monday evening for the political meeting in the interests of A. J. Fallis, Conservative candidate for East Durham. J. N. McGill was the chairman, the out of town speakers including Mr. Joe Harris, M.P., for East York, Col. Arthurs of Parry Sound, and F. W. Bowen, M.P.

Mr. Fallis was the first speaker called upon and briefly addressed the electors stating his pleasure at being their nominee, as he was born in Millbrook, and had spent his early years there until removing to his farm on the Fallis line, where he had lived ever since. Being a practical farmer he would, if elected, endeavor to represent in a special manner, the agricultural interests of the country. He had no sympathy with the idea of any one class dominating the government, but felt it should be representative of all classes to function worthily.

Mr. Bowen, who followed Mr. Fallis, also expressed his pleasure in meeting the electors of his constituency. The late government at Queen's Park had made economy one of the chief planks in their platform previous to assuming office, but how far had they redeemed their pre-election pledges? The road construction policy of Hon. F. C. Biggs came in for some sharp criticism, the speaker stating that he was not at all opposed to good roads, but felt that too much money had been spent when there was need for retrenchment because of post-war conditions. Then too Mr. Biggs had favored unduly his own county in this matter, one instance being given of a contract for trucks, involving an expenditure of $117,000, having been let without tenders being called for. Mr. Bowen solicited the vote of the electorate for Mr. Fallis on June 25th, urging that Hon G. H. Ferguson was a leader worthy of support; efforts to slander the latter had failed. "They haven't a thing against him yet; he has a clean bill in spite of the opposition's tactics."

Mr. Harris then addressed the gathering, directing his remarks at first particularly to the younger men and women who would possibly be casting their vote for the first time on Monday next. The call to view the situation from a broad, Canadian standpoint was urged, the fact that the "great Conservative party has been hooked up with all the leading events in our country's history" being pointed out as a very real reason for giving it support. Confederation, the building of the C.P.R., the National Policy aiming to provide all kinds and classes of work for all kinds and classes of people; the war record of the party when in power; the assistance to education by reducing the cost of school books, the Hydro Power Development scheme, were among the things mentioned as being to the credit of the Conservative record. The U. F. O. party had no history such as this to look back upon for inspiration, no chart to refer to, no traditions to live up to. They had promised retrenchment but during their regime at Queen's Park every department had spent far too much of the people's money.

Take the Department of Justice, for instance: the expense of administration had risen from 12c per capita the first year they assumed office to 33c; then 40c; then 50c; until in 1922 it was 88c per head for every man, woman and child in the province.

The Civil Servict was another record of extravagance; with 790 permanent employees in 1919 costing $3,975,000, it had increased to 1290 permanent employees in 1922, costing $6,303,058—60 per cent. of an advance in three years. 'No wonder they had a 'little party' in the house to celebrate in the closing hours of the session. I don't blame them, do you?"

The speaker believed that the Progressive Party in the Dominion House, as well as in Provincial politics, had not minds big enough to grapple with national questions. The two party system is the only way to safely carry on the government of the country. Where did all the money come from? The people might not realize that extra revenue was raised from new forms of taxation—the banking system was charged more by the government, hence must charge the people higher rates; so likewise the insurance companies;; then you must buy two tickets when attending the theatre, for instance, one going to the Drury-Raney-Doherty administration in the Queen's Park; higher motor license fees were charged so it actually costs a man more to take his family into the country for an outing; the increased succession duties are another source for raising money, "robbing the widow and children after the death of the husband and father." $13,000,000 had been raised by these new forms of taxation, and if the money had been used to reduce the provincial debt, there would be little objection; but this was not the case; $4,000,000 was yet to be paid for uncompleted contracts in the road building program of the late government; as high as $80,000 per mile has been the cost of highways, and at that the back township roads which the farmers must travel most frequently had not benefited.

The speaker scored rather bitterly the statement of a leader in the late Government, "I'd rather have one native-born Canadian than a shipload of rubbish from some of the older countries," as his own parents had come to Canada from the Old Country, and such an utterance in connection with the immigration policy only emphasised the fact that those in power had not minds big enough to grasp the fundamental ideas of good government; they were not capable of administering the affairs of the country, and were lacking in business principles. There had been mal-administration from the outset, and a change was necessary for the sake of the welfare of Province and people.

Col. Arthurs was the concluding speaker, and began by asking the question, Is there any difference between private and public honesty? going on then to score the late Government for its failure to live up to its pre-election pledges. The U.F.O. had employed twenty-seven Commissions costing $1,500,000; concrete examples of unnecessary expense in this connection were given with the statement that this was the Government which had promised no more administration by commissions. The Hydro-Electric Commission, with fifty-eight employees and a huge bill of expenditure, is still in existence, its fate to be decided when the next Government assumes office. These commissions had meant the employment of much legal talent, some items from bills paid by the Drury Government being read to show that the amount spent in this way was a very large sum, coming from the people in the last analysis, of course.

The securing of Knox College to accommodate the increased staff of Civil Service employees was dilated upon, with the fact that it had been bought by a Mr. Mitchell when he heard the Government wanted it, for $150,000. The rental agreed upon is $20.000 per year for five years, and $25,000 for the following five years, the building to be vacated in good condition." Pretty good investment for Mr. Mitchell? What do the electors think?"

The speaker prophesied that of the fifteen seats in Northern Ontario, all except one or two controlled by the French will return a solid block for Ferguson. (Applause.)

Considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the Shevlin-Clarke timber deal, the Conservative leader being exonerated from any blame in the matter whatever his critics of the Opposition might claim. The Drury-Backus deal was gone into in detail and apparently proven to be an unsatisfactory transaction from the standpoint of the country's profit. The O.T.A. was referred to in Col. Arthur's closing remarks, though the speaker claimed the temperance issue should not be a political question at all. It is grossly unfair to charge Mr. Ferguson with favouring the wets, since the temperance legislation on the statute books of the Province was put there by the Conservative Party, and if returned to power they will not attempt to make any change except as demanded by the voice of the people. There were no "specimens of the genus, boatlegger," in the Hearst regime; they belong to this later period. The speaker claimed that he did not think any law should be on the statute books which required ex-jail-birds, women of low character, thugs, or boys in their teens, to aid in its enforcement. A safe and sane administration might be looked for when the Conservatives are returned to the confident prediction being made that after the 25th this would be the case.

Commencing FRIDAY, June 15th and until further notice, Steamer will leave the Lake in the Morning, and will leave Lakefield on arrival of the Noon Train for the Lake.

Election News

TORONTO, June 20. Canadian Press. — Although the Conservative mass meeting in Massey Hall in this city last night was well attended the hot weather prevailing in all parts of the province is driving some of the political speakers to the street to find their most receptive audiences, in many of the big cities and towns.

Enthusiastic Liberals in Toronto last night organized counter attractions of outdoor variety to the "Tory" meeing and gathered large crowds at prominent corners and in the parks.

Reports of big outdoor gatherings come also from Ottawa, London and Hamilton. The Laborite candidates especially favor this method of reaching the ear of the voter.

Premier Drury and some of the other members of the government are continuing the campaign in southwestern Ontario to-day, Mr. Drury speaking at Petrolia and Dresden. Wellington Hay, Liberal leader, left his own part of the province to carry the war into Central Ontario, at Peterboro.

Messrs. Ferguson and Nickle, the Conservative leaders, fresh from enthusiastic acclaim of party meeting in Massey Hall last night, are speaking to-day in Barrie and Galt respectively.

On the average every man, woman and child in Gerat Britain pays a little more than $100 a year in taxation.

HYDRO-POWERLINES AT CAMPBELLFORD SUFFER FROM STORM

Fifteen Main Transmission Poles Levelled Yesterday, and Power and Light Service Out of Commission — Cattle Killed in Seymour Township.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS

CAMPBELLFORD, June 20.—On Tuesday afternoon quite a severe wind and electric storm passed over the town and township. The Water and Light Commission, who have not had any mishaps to their plant or transmission line heretofore this season, were hit rather bad, when it was found that about fifteen poles on their main transmission line between Crow Bay power house and Dam No. 11 were blown down. Manager R. W. Scott quickly got his men on the job, but were unable to get the line repaired in time to give service last evening. They hope to have the current on to-day.

Valuable Cattle Killed.

During the electrical storm yesterday afternoon, three valuable pure-bred Holstein cows belonging to Mr. P. B. Nelson, who lives about a mile west of the town, were killed by lightning. The cows took refuge from the storm under an apple tree and all were killed at the one time.

Mr. Harry Bedford, who lives in Seymour East, had five cows killed by lightning yesterday.

Bert Hay's fine residence in Seymour East was struck but little damage was done.

Political Meeting.

A political meeting in the interests of Mr. Wesley Montgomery, U.F.O. candidate, will be held in the Opera House, Campbellford, on Thursday evening, June 21. The meeting will be addressed by Prof. Sisson, of Victoria University, Lieut. Rutherford, Wesley Montgomery and others.

Train Kills Three Cows.

Mr. Edward Rannie, of Seymour East, had three valuable cows killed last week by the train. The railroad crosses Mr. Rannie's farm, and in some way the cows got on the track, where they were struck.

Moves to Larger Quarters.

Messrs. Lofchy and Wise, who have for some time conducted an up-to-date store in the Wallace block, have decded to remove, in the near future, to more commodious quarters in the Keir block, in the store recently vacated by the Heintzman Company.

Garden Party.

The garden party held last evening on the spacious manse grounds under the auspices of St. Andrew's Church was an unqualified success. The weather was ideal, and one of the largest crowds ever seen at a local garden party was in attendance.

The electrical storm in the afternoon, which put the electric lights out of commission, was a great disappointment to those in charge, but they rose to the occasion and succeeded in getting the grounds beautifully illuminated by gasoline lights. The Northumberland Regiment Band, without which no garden party is a success, conducted by their efficient leader, Mr. R. T. Cowell, rendered, as usual, charming music, which all thoroughly appreciated and with which they were most generous.

The Pierrott Troups, in true pierrott costumes, and in charge of Mr. Fred. Wigglesworth, entertained the audience with comic songs, quartettes, jokes, etc. Those taking part were: Dr. Watson, Messrs. O. H. Gledhill, Walter Henson, E. C. Dolman, Fred. Wigglesworth, Mrs. D. W. Douglas, Misses Emma Meiklejohn, Hazel Atkinson, Mary Watson, Gertrude Maynard.

The ladies in charge of the tea-room well sustained their reputation for the serving of good things in abundance, and so great was the demand for ice cream, soft drinks, etc., that the booths were all sold out long before the time for homegoing.

Those in charge of the various booths were as follows:

Candy Booth — Misses Florence Shannon, Verna Hay, Dorothy Milne, Bessie Locke.

Flower Booth—Mrs. John Shand, Katie McArthur.

Ice cream—Gerald Connor, John Storie, James Storie, John Shand.

Soft drinks—Jack Haig, Gerald Bailey.

The full proceeds of the evening are not yet known, but it is anticipated that they will exceed all previous records. The pastor and congregation are to be congratulated upon the grand success of their annual garden party.

Personal Mention.

Dr. and Mrs. E., V. Frederick, of Toronto, motored down and spent the week-end with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Frederick, Sebastapol Street. Mr. Frederick returned with them to spend a few holidays in the city.

Mrs. Bullock, of Toronto (nee Frances Lawrence), is visiting her friend, Mrs. (Dr.) A. Haig, and other friends in town.

Mrs. (Dr.) Glenn Wood and child, of Syracuse, are visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Atkinson, Rear Street.

STORM OVERTURNS SILOS, SPRINGVILLE

Yesterday's Fierce Wind Left Trail of Damaged Fences and Trees.

NORTH MONAGHAN, June 20 — Yesterday's wind storm caused a degree of consternation in this district. In its wake were left broken fences and broken trees. Its damaging caprices were shown when it blew over two silos, the property of Messrs. H. Butler and Lewis Whitfield, both on the Springville Road.

Land that was just recovering from the last storm received a fresh supply of water, much to the digust of farmers.

The river has lowered considerably in the last few days, though some residents along its banks, are still unable to find their land, which is still inundated.

Summer is coming! The wild strawberries are ripe and the tame ones are following slowly but surely in their path. Despite gloomy forecasts this year's crop promises to be a good one.

PROMINENT CANOEIST DEAD

TORONTO, June 20.—(Canadian Press).Death occurred in Toronto General Hospital yesterday of Allen Johnson, youngest son of the late Chief G. H. M. Johnson of the Mohawk Indians on the Grand River and brother of the late Pauline Johnston, Canadian Indian Poetess. In earlier years he was prominent canoeist and lacrosse player.

TWIN DUCKLINGS.

MILVERTON, June 20—(Canadian Press). — To get 34 perfectly healthy ducklings from 33 eggs was the unique experience of Mrs. Dame Otto 14th line of East Zorra. She set the 33 eggs under several hens and when the eggs hatched there were 34 ducklings. One egg was apparently of the double yolked variety and both yolkes hatched producing twins.

SESSION AT COBOURG.

COBOURG, June 20.— Members of the County Council of the United Municipalities of Northumberland and Durham, met here yesterday afternoon at 2.30 for the most important session of the year. When Warden Smith called the meeting to order 20 members answered, when Counties Clerk Neil F. MacNachtan went ov the list of names. Among those present were Reeve Anderson and Deputy Reeve Wilkinson of Campbellford, Reeve Van Volkenburg and Deputy Reeve Nelson of Seymour, Reeve Wood of Millbrook, Reeve Fowlds of Hastings and Deputy Reeve Stinson of Manvers. Reeve Hermiston and Deputy Reeve Nelson of Percy, Reeve Alex. Anderson of South Monaghan, Reeve McCamus and Deputy Reeve Bland of Cavan arrived later in the afternoon.

Invitation to Banquet.

Clerk MacNachtan read an invitation to the members, extended by Warden Smith, to attend a supper which he will tender his colleagues in the new Dunham House Friday evening. This is a new departure, as the custom for years has been for the Warden to give an excursion at the June session to Rochester by lake steamer.

Clerk MacNachtan explained the change of programme. The two ferry boats plying between Rochester and Cooburg were in collision recently and were obliged to take turns in going to the dry dock for repairs. On this account it was impossible to charter a boat for the annual excursion.

"That being the case," added the Clerk, "the Warden had to resort to the custom of fifty years ago and give a dinner.

Communications Read.

The bulk of the communications read by Clerk NacNachtan dealt with school matters in the two counties and all of these were referred to the committee on schools, of which Reeve Fowlds, of Hastings, is chairman. The Clerk loaded him down with an armful of documents and Reeve Fowlds called a meeting of his committee, of which Reeve Anderson of Campbellford, is a member, for 8 o'clock last night.

The report of Inspector R. Boyes, of Campbellford, was noted for its brevity. "All the schools were inspected during the year," was the sum total. Inspetcor Boyes had submitted a detailed report of his inspectorate at the January session.

Trustee Moore's Resignation.

A communication from Secretary Stephens of the Campbellford Board of Education, informed the Council that S. J. Moore, appointed at the January session, had resigned and that his resignation had been accepted, thus creating a vacancy.

Aged Inmates Succumb.

Superintendent McMillan of the House of Refuge, reported that owing to the epidemic of flu last winter the mortality rate had been high in the institution. Thirteen inmates have died since the beginning of the year. Of these all but two were over 80 years of age and the two exceptions were 77 and 78 years old.

Villages Want Help.

A communication was received from the Council of Perth County asking the Council of the United Counties to join them in a request to the Ontario Government for help to small villages that are anxious to secure Hydro. The communication set forth that the cost of building transmission lines to these places is often prohibitive. Owing to the low prices for farm produce the farmers along the lines are unable to invest and the Hydro refuses to build these unless three customers are secured for every mile in the country.

What is proposed by the Perth Council is to have all the County Councils join in asking the government to defray the cost of a transmission line to any village that contracts to take at least 50 horse power.

This communication was referred to the committee on legislation and by-laws, of which Deputy Reeve Wilkinson of Campbellford is a member.

Equalization Committee

The most important committee of the year, the one which will be charged with the task of equalizing the assessment was appointed on motion of Reeves Semple of Cobourg and Wood of Millbrook. It will be composed of all the reeves these to have power to select their own chairman.

Adjournment Until Wednesday

On motion of Deputy Reeve Elliott of Murray and Reeve Wood of Millbrook, it was decided to adjourn until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning to give the various committees a chance to dispose of the matters referred to them. The school committee met last night, the equalization committee was called for 10 o'clock this morning, the committee on roads and bridges for 11 a.m., the county property committee for 2 p.m. and the finance committee for 3 o'clock this afternoon. Reeve Wood is chairman of roads and bridges and Reeve Van Volkenburg of Seymour of the committee on county property.

Of Interest to Campbellford

Several matters of interest to the town of Campbellford will be brought before the Council by Reeve Anderson and Deputy Reeve Wilkinson. Among these is the appointment of a member of the Board of Education to succeed S. J. Moore resigned. Reeve Anderson will nominate Charles Benor for the position and this means his election as the recommendation of the Reeve of the Municipality interested is usually accepted.

Mr. Benor, who is a well known business man was a school trustee for years, dropping out of his own accord at the last municipal election His attitude on the question of a new High school is well known.

Another matter is the flooring of the bridge across the Trent River and serving a grant for lighting the same.

There are about 300 yards of the County Provincial Highway inside the corporate courts yet unfinished and Reeve Anderson will ask for the grant required to complete the work.

Deputy Reeve Wilkinson will have a report to make on the Wilson Island bridge of which he is commissioner.

Increased Grant For Fair

Alex. Hume, president and J. Nelson Stone secretary of the Seymour Agricultural Society, together with a delegation from the directors of the Warkworth Fair, are expected here to-morrow to ask for an increase in the annual county grant to fairs. The amount now paid yearly is $1000 and it is proposed to apply for the allowance of twice this amount. The directors claim that owing to the expansion of these fairs they are now entitled to receive more financial support from the county.

The representatives from Percy and Seymour townships and from Campbellford are, it is understood ready to support the applicat ion.

The Question of Equalization

The question of equalizing the assessment of the various municipalities is sure to furnish material for a lively dicussion this year just as it did at the June session of 1922. Reeve Foulds of Hastings is one of the most active advocates of a readjustment. There has been no equalization of the assessed values of the various municipalitie for the past 20 years according to Reeve Fowlds. In that time the assessed value of the townships has increased while that of the town of Campbellford and some of the villages has remained practically stationary. A few examples will show the discrepancies: Cavan township asessed for $1,559,115. equalization, $1,931,765; Manvers assessment $937,900; equalization $1,441,300; South Monaghan assessment $672175; equalization, $766,150; Seymour, $1,131,168, equalization $1,613,206; Campbellford, assessment $1,526,730; equalization, $702,000; Cobourg, assessment, $2,763,496; equalization $1,347,500; Millbrook assessment $272,630, equalization $191950; Hastings assessment, $312,074, equalization $179,300; Colborne assessment $350,651, equalization $301,180; Bowmanville, assessment $2,138,179, equalization $907,500 Newcastle assessment $231,173; equalization $181,000.

The cost of a new equalization is the chief argument used by those opposed to a change. The County Judge would be required to enquire into the assessed value of every municipality with the assistance of the reeve of each and the expense would amount to several thousand dollars.

Stable Struck By Lightning and Badly Damaged —Power Cut Off.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 20. —(Canadian Press.)— Last reports from Foleyet, east of Port Arthur, on the Canadian National main line, sttaed the fires had reached alarming proportions and were working close in to the village. No reports have been received since 3 o'clock when communication with this point ceased, apparently because of the burning of poles carrying the wires. Hornepayne describes the situation as "distinctly bad."

Penhurst, twentyo-ne miles east of Hornepayne reports a bad fire close to the railway station, but under control, as far as the buildings are concerned.

Late yesterday afternoon Huronian reported the fire away from the tracks and everything safe for the time being.

Heavy rains were reported yesterday afternoon betwejen Rainy River and Emo on the Canadian National. Fires are being dampened.

YESTERDAY HOTTEST DAY OF THIS YEAR.

TORONTO, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Yesterday was the hottest day so far this year. The highest official temperature recorded during the day was 90, but weather records show higher temperatures at London, where it was 94 and 92 at Ottawa.

The weather man said last night that 90 was not a record for June; in fact, he said, it would probably be an unusual June if 90 was not recorded at some time.

The sudden jump from the cool spell weather of last week made the hot weather yesterday seem oppressive

At the Observatory last night the officials hesitated about saying when Toronto and the Province as a whole might expect cooler weather.

Here and there yesterday there were showers. Toronto was threatened with a downpour last evening, but the local storms passed around the city.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Technique of Nursing.

There is a right way to do everything, nursing included. One doesn't need to be miserable when nursing the baby, though there are mothers who wouldn't feel as if they were doing their whole duty if they were perfectly comfortable.

First of all, it is an excellent plan to lie down when nursing the baby. The strain and the attendent nausea are lessened and the baby can be made much more at ease. Put a small pillow under the arm on which the baby's head lies and then press the forefinger on the breast so that it stays clear of his nostrils. Let the baby rest on the pillow.

Take a drink of water before beginning nursing and keep a watch close at hand timing the baby's stay at the breast. It is a mistaken notion that a baby must eat steadily for twenty minutes. Six or eight minutes of nursing on each breast is sufficient for the average strong, healthy child. Mothers discover often that the baby is satisfied in much less time if he is a strong nurser and wastes no time gazing about the room.

Don't let him develop into a laggard. Keep him stirred up until he has finished. Some babies alternately sleep and eat until the poor mother has no idea how long they have been eating and is irritated accordingly.

Too rapid eating may cause the baby to be made uncomfortable. Put him over your shoulder occasionally and pat up some of the gas.

FOUND WONDERFUL RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION BY USING MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Constipation is one of the most prevalent troubles the human race is subject to, and is the greatest cause of many of our ailments, for if the bowels cease to perform their proper functions all the other organs will become deranged.

Keep your bowels working gently and naturally by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and thus do away with the constipation and all other troubles caused by it.

Mrs. A. R. Spence, Springhill, N.S., writes: "I have suffered for some time from constipation, and was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills After taking a vial of them I have found wonderful relief, and would advise all those who are constipated to give them a trial, for I feel sure they will also receive the same benefit I did."

BETTER HEALTH FOR WOMEN

Any woman who will stop and consider the result of a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., will in all fairness admit the value of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine, Ldyia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Fifty thousand replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 women stated that they had been benefited or restored to health by its use. This means better health for American women. It will surely pay any woman who suffers from any ailment or weakness peculiar to her sex to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compond a fair trail.

A WAY TO TERMINATE ALL LABOR TROUBLES

ST. LOUIS, June 19.—(Associated Press)—If employers would spend half as much time cultivating the friendship, respect and good will of labor as they do fighting labor organizations there would not be a labor problem, Sherman Rogers, of New York, today told the delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of Rotary International here.

"We waste too much time talking about the labor agitator," the speaker said. "He can only be recognized as the logical friend of the worker where the management has refused to extend its friendship.

"I was in the Seattle shipyards workings as a helper in 1917 when Charles M. Schwab made his tour of the American shipbulding institutions. We'd heard he was a labor hater.

"The first instant the great steel man looked us over it was apparent to every man in the bunch that Mr. Schwab really liked him. He stepped on that platform Charles M. Schwab, autocrat, millionaire magnate. He stepped off that platform, 30 minutes later friend Charles. In that short time he had destroyed the hatred that agitators had been building for 15 years.

"The world is built on ideals. Labor wants to be square. If labor follows the wrong leader it is not because they want to misunderstand but because the right leader has been asleep at the switch and hasn't given the men a chance to understand him.

"There are three sides to every question—your side, the other fellow's and the right side. I don't believe there was ever a question in either ancient history where either side to the disput was 100 percent right.

"Ninety-five percent of men, whether they wear broadcloth or overalls, want to play the game square. Lack of contact means lack of understanding.

"The employer has spent a lot of time selling his honesty, his fairness and personality to the banker, the wholesaler, the retailer and the public. How much has he spent trying to sell that same personality, honesty and fairness to his workmen? Solving a labor trouble is not a mysterious affair. It is simply a proposition of using common horse sense."

QUIZ CORNER

Q.—What are the provisions of the Ontario Government law regulating succession duties of estates?

A.—It is impossible to give within a limited space the various percentages that are charged upon the estates of a deceased person owing to the fact that the percentage depends upon the total value of the estate and the great variety of relationships that exists between the deceased and those entitled to share in his estate and the respective amounts received by each. The percentage varies in varying degrees all the way from 1 per cent. to 35 per cent. of the amount received from the estate of the deceased person. An estate, however, which does not exceed $5,000 in value is free of succession duties.

The total amount of succession duties collected last year from the various estates in the Province was $6,303,284.

Q.—What class of amusements in Ontario are taxed and the percentage collected?

A.—There are a great variety of amusements and the rates vary and space is limited to enumerate them all.

Places of amusement are taxed and a place of amusement includes theatre, motion picture hall, amusement hall, concert hall, music hall, circus, race grounds, baseball park, amusement park, skating rink or any other place where an exhibition or any other amusement is given or game played and on entrance fee is charged.

The Provincial Amusement Tax brought in a revenue last year of $1,505,580.

Other sources of amusement are also taxed, such as motor cars, that brought in a revenue to the Province of $3,477,430, and race tracks, including the 5 per cent. tax on bets in the race track grounds, brought in a revenue to the Province of $2,-982,130.

Spring-cleaning by Leviathan recently employed more than 1000 men for five weeks, and two miles of new carpets were laid.

FAIRY TALE COMES TRUE

NEW ORLEANS, June 20.—Good fairies like sweet little girls, and they especially love curly haired May Parker. May's 11 years old. And all her young life she's dreamed of the brownies and sprites and sandmen who were said to dwell in the pine trees far out in the country.

It's a good thing the fairies liked May, too, because what happened—

May's mother died. Her brother was killed by an auto. That left May and her daddy. But her father was sick and poor, and the best he could afford was a frail wooden house perilously near the poorest section of this city.

She grew lilies, because she knew good fairies liked them—and, well, the rent had to be paid.

Then the hardest blow of all. City authorities came along and told her dad he'd have to go to an institution to be cured of his ailment. And that left May alone.

Yes, she cried a bit. And the tears quickened the hearts of the gnomes who dwelled in the pines, and they came.

One of them whispered to her that if she'd ask the help of New Orleans newspapers, a Fairy Prince would come and all her troubles would be over and she would smile and laugh again.

That's what she did, and soon the giant presses of the city dailies were broadcasting the fairies' plea.

Clarence Bennett, wealthy young business man heard the call. And now—

"The Lord has been good to me in recent years," said Bennett. "I have plenty of this world's goods. But I have no one to make happy—that is, not until now. I haven't a relative in the world.

"Now I'm going on a long trip, and I'm going to turn over my country house to May and her daddy. The house is in the thick of a pine region and I'm sure the father will get well. I'll support them both the rest of their lives, and I'll give May the best education I can. This is my big opportunity in life. And I'M GOING TO MAKE GOOD!"

And so little May is in the beautiful house by the very pines in which dwell her wonderful fairies. She has an orchard and a garden. And an auto to carry her to the city when she wants to come.

And the wind is whistling happily through the pines and the fairies—ch, they're so joyous!

From royalties on phonograph records alone, Caruso, famous Italian tenor, received more than $2,-000,000.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray occupies the most expensive suite in the most exclusive hotel in Dallas. He makes friends with Gus Brinkow, who has struck oil and needs Allegheny, the daughter, and Ozark, the son. Bob Parker, daughter of Tom Parker, comes home from college and goes into the land business. She buys for Colonel Henry Nelson, son of Bell Nelson, banker. Gray is Henry Nelson's enemy and when Gus Brinkow tells of a trick that Henry Nelson works on him to beat him out of a land sale Gray takes a hand and beats Nelson in the deal.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Of the men engaged in this shearing business, none, perhaps, had gathered more wool in the same length of time than the two members of the firm of McWade & Stoner.

One morning McWade and his partner provided themselves with some dice and several hundred dollars in gold coin. With these they began shooting craps on the sidewalk in front of their office. Now gambling was taboo, hence the spectacle of two expensively dressed, eminently prosperous men squatting upon their heels with a stack of double eagles before them caused a sensation, and people halted to witness their impending arrest. Soon traffic was blocked.

Calvin Gray, but just arrived from Dallas, looked on at the game with some curiosity, not divining its purpose, until McWade pocketed the dice, then mounted a box at the curb and began, loudly:

"Now, gentlemen, that is one way of making money, but it is a foolish and a hazardous way. There is a much saner, safer method, and I'm going to tell you about it. Don't pass on until you hear me, for I have a most incredible story to relate, and you'll be sorry you missed it."

There was a ripple of appreciative laughter, but the crowd pressed closer as the orator continued:

"You've all heard about these 'doodle bugs' who go around locating oil with a divining rod, haven't you? And you don't believe in them. Of course you don't. Neither do I. Now then, for the plot of my story, and it will pay you to do a week of listening in the next five minutes. Awhile ago an eminent scientist, unknown to me or to my partner, Mr. Stoner, came into our office, which is at your backs, one flight up, second door to the right, and showed us an electrical device he has been working on for the last eight years. He claimed he had it perfected and that it would indicate the presence of oil on the same principle that one mineral attracts another. 'Oil is a mineral,' said he, 'and I think I've got its magnetic complement. I believe my invention will work.'

"I'll bet a thousand dollars it won't,' I told him. But what do you think that pilgrim did? He took me up. Then he bet Stoner another thousand that I'd made a bad bet." McWade grinned in sympathy with the general amusement. "We arranged a thorough test. We took him, blindfolded, through the field, and, believe me or not, he called the turn on forty-three wells straight and never missed it once."

McWade now introduced the miracle worker himself, and Gray rose on tiptoe to see him. A moment, then he smiled widely, for the eminent scientist was none other than Mr. Mallow—Mallow, a bit pallid and pasty, as if from confinement, and with eyes hidden behind dark goggles.

Gray looked on as the comedy was played out. It transpired that Professor Mallow had tested, among other properties, the newest McWade-Stoner lease, a company to drill which had just been formed under the title of "The Desert Scorpion," and he really judged from the behavior of his machine that a remarkable pool underlaid the tract.

Then McWade resumed his sway over the crowd, and soon shares in "The Desert Scorpion" were selling rapidly.

Shortly after lunch, Mallow and the two partners were seated in the office upstairs, their work done for the day. Another successful promotion had gone to the credit of McWade and Stoner; all three were in a triumphal mood.

There came a knock at the door, and in answer to an invitation to enter it opened. The next instant both McWade and Stoner sat erect in their chairs, with eyes alert and questioning, for at sight of the stranger Mallow had leaped to his feet with a smothered exclamation, and now stood with his back to the desk and with his head outthrust in a peculiar attitude of strained intensity.

CHAPTER X

Nelson Has a Caller

"WELL, well, Mallow!" The caller's face broke into an engaging smile as he crossed the threshold. "Still wearing dark glasses, eh? I'm afraid you didn't heed my instructions."

SHARES IN "THE DESERT SCORPION" WERE SELLING RAPIDLY.

Mallow spoke huskily, "What the hell you doing here?"

"Following the excitement, merely. I shall open an office and spend a good deal of my time in Wichita Falls. I hoped I'd find you here, for this morning I heard you describe your invention and—admiration overcame me. I felt constrained to congratulate you upon your scientific attainments."

"What do you want?" Mallow barked.

"Momentary agitation has robbed our Professor of his habitual politeness—a not unusual phenomenon of the preoccupied scientific mind." These words were directed at McWade and Stoner. "My name is Gray. Perhaps Doctor Mallow has made mention of me."

"So you're the lad that threw pepper in his eyes?" Erick Stoner stared at the newcomer with undisguised interest. He rose, as did McWade. "I'll say we've heard of you. Your name's getting as common as safety-razor blades. You've been cleaning up, haven't you?"

"Um-m, moderately." Calvin Gray shook hands with the promoters, then to the agitated Mallow, who still peered at him apprehensively, he said: "Come, come! Let down your hammer! Uncoil!"

"Listen, you!" the other burst forth. "I beat that thing out. I'm clean and I don't intend to go back. You're a strong guy and you got a bunch of kale, and you're a getter, but the taller they come the harder they fall. You can be had." The speaker was desperate; his face was flushed with anger, the tone of his voice was defiant and threatening.

Gray helped himself to a chair, crossed his legs, and lit a cigar. McWade and Stoner neither moved nor spoke.

"My dear Mallow, you wrong me." In the newcomer's voice there was no longer any mockery. "I gave you credit for more intelligence. We played our little farce and it is done—the episode is closed, so far as I am concerned. I supposed you understood that much. I helped you and I came here to enlist your help."

"You helped me?" Mallow showed his teeth in a snarl.

"Precisely. Think a moment. Was it not odd that I failed to appear against you? That the case was never pressed, the prosecution dropped?"

"I s'pose you were afraid to go through. Thought I'd get you."

Gray shook his head impatiently. "Afraid? Of you? Oh, Mallow! Had I feared your majestic wrath, do you think I would have arranged for that doctor to see you every day? And paid his bill? Who, pray, sent in those good things for you to eat?"

There was a pause.

"Did you?"

"I did."

Again there was silence.

"Why?"

"For one thing, I was sorry for you. I really was. I had caused you and Tony a great deal of suffering, and I cannot bring myself to inflict actual suffering upon anyone without doing my best to alleviate it. Then again, I had nothing against you personally. We merely clashed in the course of—business."

Mallow allowed himself to sink back upon the desk; he turned his dark goggles upon his friends in a blind stare of bewilderment.

"What's the odds why he done it?" Stoner inquired, sharply. "Any man that can squirt my eyes full of tobasco, and me with a six gun on him, is all right. And him with a bottle of milk duly made and provided!" The field member of the firm slapped his thigh and laughed loudly.

The object of this commendation was pleased. "Gratitude is rare," he murmured. "I thank you. Now then, I was thinking of making friend Mallow a business proposition, but—perhaps I can interest you, also, in doing something for me. I'll pay well."

"We're live ones," Stoner asserted.

"For one thing, I wish to hire the brightest oil scout in the district, but I don't want him, nor anyone else, for the time being, to suspect that he's working for me. I will double his salary to watch one operator. Perhaps he could appear to be in your employ? Furthermore, I intend to do considerable secret buying and selling, and I will need several dummies—moral character unimportant.

"You're after big game, I take it?" McWade inquired, mildly.

"The biggest in these woods."

"One man, did you say?"

"One man."

"We're a legitimate firm, you know—"

Gray's eyes twinkled as he exclaimed: "Exactly! If I have caused you to infer that I shall employ anything except legitimate means to effect my purpose, it is my error. Now then, how about you, Mallow? Would you care to work for me?"

The latter's pale face broke into a grin. "I am working for you," he declared. "I've been on your pay roll now for five minutes."

Gray lifted an admonitory hand. "Can I arrive at terms with you gentlemen?"

"Write your own ticket," McWade declared, and Mr. Stoner echoed this statement with enthusiasm.

"Very well! Details later. Now, I shall give myself the pleasure of calling upon my man and telling him exactly what I intend doing." The speaker rose and shook hands with the three precious scoundrels.

LEONARD READY TO DEFEND TITLE

Has Been Signed For a Bout on July 23 With Lew Tendler.

NEW YORK, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Benny Leonard, of New York, world's lightweight champion, will defend his title in a 15-round match with Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, at the Yankee Stadium on the night of 23rd July.

The boxers, together with their managers, late yesterday signed contracts for the bout with the newly organised Cromwell Athletic Club, which has obtained ring privileges at the American League Park.

Immediately after the announcement of the match, Tex Rickard notified Leonard that he would hold the champion to the terms of an agreement made last year for a title bout with Charley White, of Chicago, to be staged at Boyle's Thirty Acres, in Jersey City.

At the same time Rickard laid before the New Jersey Boxing Commission his claim to first call on Leonard's services.

Financial terms for the Tendler-Leonard contest, it was understood, called for the champion to receive 37 1-2 per cent. of the gross receipts and Tendler 12 1-2 per cent.

Barnes and Kirkwood Led in First Round.

GLEN EAGLES, Scotland, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Joe Kirkwood, with a 71, and Jim Barnes, with a 73, led the field yesterday at the end of the first half of a qualifying round in the Glasgow Herald's Thousand Guineas Golf Tournament.

Among others with good scores were A. G. Havers, who won the British open championship last week, George Duncan, S. F. Brews, and H. C. Jolly. Abe Mitchell and J. H. Taylor are not competing in the competiton.

Spain Defeated the British Tennis Team.

WITHINGTON, Lancashire, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Spain will contest the semi-finals against Holland in the lower half of the European Davis Cup draw, as a result of Count De Gomar's victory over Randolph Lycett here yesterday, giving Spain's lawn tennis representative three out of the first four matches played.

The Spanish noble won easily at 6-4, 6-1, 7-5.

The first two sets were without notable feature, except the count's steadiness, and he took the third, which had gone to deuce, when Lycett slipped while attempting to lob, and failed to return the ball.

In the other singles match, which had no effect on the result of the tie, J. B D. Wheatley defeated Eduardo Flaquer, 0-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-1, and 11-9.

BUT ONE RUN IN THIRTEEN INNINGS

Cincinnati Registered One Counter in Final Frame—Lugue Pitched His Ninth Victory in Ten Starts.

CINCINNATI, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Luque and Grimes engaged in a tense pitchers' battle here yesterday, Cincinnati winning out over Brooklyn 1 to 0, in the last half of the eleventh inning on hits by Roush and Pinelli, a wild throw by Johnston, and Hargrave's sacrifice fly. It was Luque's ninth victory out of ten starts this season, and he has not been scored on for the last 25 innings. Score:

Brooklyn	00000000000—0	5	2
Cincinnati	00000000001—1	7	1

Grimes and Taylor, Deberry; Luque and Hargrave.

New York 4, St. Louis 0.

ST. LOUIS, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Aided by good fielding, McQuillan held St. Louis to seven safeties, and New York won yesterday's contest 4 to 0. Frisch hit into the right field stands for a home run in the fifth inning. Score:

New York	02011000—4	8	0
St. Louis	00000000—0	7	2

McQuillan and Snyder; Pfeffer, North, Stuart, and Ainsmith.

Philadelphia 4, Chicago 3.

CHICAGO, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Fred Fussell weakened in the eighth inning, and Philadelphia pounded him for four hits, which with a wild throw by Statz, gave the Phillies a 4 to 3 victory over Chicago here yesterday. Ring pitched great ball with the exception of the seventh inning. Score:

Philadelphia	10000030—4	10	0
Chicago	00000300—3	11	2

TWO MANY STARS HUGGINS' TROUBLE

BY PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, June 20.—(United Press.)—It is very seldom recorded that a baseball club is hurt by having too many star pitchers. But that is what they are saying about Miller Huggins' New York Yankees.

Several of the stars on his staff are complaining that they can't keep in shape because they don't get enough work.

Huggins has six aces, and if he started them in the regular order they would get to pitch only one game a week. The six—Sam Jones, Herb Pennock, Bob Shawkey, Joe Bush, Waite Hoyt and Carl Mays—are all in the star class.

Mays contends that his poor showing this year is due to having to pitch too much in the bullpen. He is of the type that requires actual work on the mound to get into condition. He says several others of the staff need the same thing.

The Yankees, for the last three years, have been troubled with too many stars—if that can be called a serious trouble to a team making the showing the Yanks have. Their bench team would compare favorably with a good many other clubs in the league.

Incidentally, there are a good many managers who would like to be troubled with the same ailment. Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox, is worrying around with an inadequate pitching staff for a team that could win ball games if they only had some decent moundsmen. "Red" Faber, who, in pre-season discussions, was considered Gleason's ace in the hole, has been inconsistent.

BANTAM LEAGUE OPENS TOMORROW

The Kiwanis and Rotary Teams Meet at King Edward School Grounds

The Bantam League, Peterboro's latest addition to the ranks of O.B.A.A. baseball will get under way tomorrow evening at the King Edward School grounds when the Rotary and Kiwanis kids will tear into each other at 6.15 o'clock. The Bantam teams are composed of boys under sixteen years of age and the youngsters who were picked up by Alex Kay are playing fast ball. The four teams in the League will be called after the clubs which are sponsoring them, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Curlers and Belmonts. It is expected that members of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs will be out in force tomorrow evening to root for their teams and give the little fellows a good start.

GIRLS' GAMES.

Quakers and De Laval are scheduled to meet this evening at Central Park and one of the biggest games of the week will be played tomorrow when the Colonials and Woollens clash. The Colonials are now tied with the C.G.E. for first place, with the Woollens pressing hard for the next position. A victory for the Woollens will put both teams on even terms for second place, while a win for the Colonials will send them into the top position.

SATURDAY'S GAME WILL BE A BATTLE

Every Fixture in the Big Four Race is of Vital Importance.

The appearance of the Kingston team at Riverside Park on Saturday in a Big Four battle against the Petes is arousing much interest among the fans. The Ponies uader the guidance of Harry Batstone have hit their stride judging by their clean cut win over Belleville and from now on they will be watched in every game. They have three pitchers in Moore, Cherry and Gallagher and are well balanced in every department of the game. Both teams need Saturday's game, no matter how today's game at Kingston ends and there should not be any dull moments in the week-end fixture which will be called at 3 o'clock sharp. The Big Four race is so close that all four teams could be covered with a blanket and every game is liable to make a difference in the standing. Saturday's contest should be about the best of the season and a big crowd is expected.

BASEBALL STILL IN ITS INFANCY

Over Two Hundred Thousand Saw the Games in New York in 5 Days.

By BILLY EVANS.

"Baseball is in its infancy."

Not so many years ago Charley Ebbetts, owner of the Brooklyn club, uttered the magic words at a baseball banquet.

"Baseball is in its infancy."

That was the punch line of Mr. Ebbettes' speech. Perhaps no after-dinner utterance was more widely ridiculed. Baseball was believed to have reached its peak.

Developments of the past few years, the last few days in particular, make it seem as if Mr. Ebbetts knew something when he insisted baseball was in its swaddling clothes.

Recently I finished working one of the most remarkable series in the history of baseball from an attendance standpoint.

Opening the season at New York, I went out to look the park over the day before the barrier was sprung. The new Yankee stadium amazed me.

"Well they have finally built a park big enough. They never will have to turn them away with this plant," I said to myself. The very next day I saw such a thing happen.

Boston opened in New York to 75,000 people lacking a few hundred. The day following the opening a crowd of 10,000 looked like a mere handful. The third game drew 15,000 Boston closed its engagement on Saturday to 50,000.

Just think of it, in the opening series of the season, 150,000 people viewed the first four games. In the very first game played in the new Yankee stadium it was necessary to close all gates a half hour before game time.

Then Washington came into New York for a Sunday game that packed the park to capacity. So that in five consecutive days I worked before a total of 200,000 people. Some business.

Mr. Ebbetts knew something when he said baseball was in its infancy.

Joe Beckett Had an Operation on His Hand.

LONDON, June 20 (Canadian Press) — An operation was performed last evening on the injured hand of Joe Beckett, the English heavyweight, who is under contract to fight Georges Carpentier on 4th July.

After the operation the surgeon who performed it said Beckett's hand should be well in a few days. If it was not important for Beckett to fulfill his engagement for 4th July, he would advise only gentle exercise for the next few weeks, but Beckett would run no risk by beginning training shortly and fulfilling the engagement

Pancho Villa to Meet Frankie Genaro Soon.

NEW YORK, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Plans already are under way, according to Tom O'Rourke, Polo Grounds matchmaker, for another world's flyweight title bout, bringing together Pancho Villa, the new champion, who toppled Jimmy Wilde from the throne last night, and Frankie Genaro, of New York, who won the United States 112-pound crown from the Filipino last March.

Villa has signed a contract for the match, which O'Rourke plans to stage about 1st September.

Though still weak and bruised from the terrific punishment he absorbed in losing his title to Villa, Wilde was declared yesterday by physicians to be in no danger from his injuries.

Revised figures yesterday on the championship bout, announced by the promoters, placed the paid attendance at 23,000, and the receipts at $96,000, considerably below the totals of 40,000 for the crowd and $160,000 for the receipts, as estimated last night.

On the basis of the new figures, Wilde's share, 37 1-2 per cent., was about $36,000, and Villa's 12 1-2 per cent., amounted to $12,000.

THISTLES WON IN LAST FEW MINUTES

Woollens Went Down to the Scots in the Last Ten Minutes of Play.

The return League game between the Woollens and Thistles was played last evening at the Oval. In the first half the Woollens were more aggressive but missed great opportunities. With just ten minutes to go the Scots did all their scoring and won by three clear goals. The Thistles won the toss and the Woollens kicked off to hold the Scots to their own goal for a while. All the Woollens' forwards and a try to score in the early stages but were very erratic in their shooting. Both teams playing nice football. Nice combination between Richardson and Hutton culminated in the latter missing an open goal. Richardson tested Chambers and was followed by a beautiful save by Richards from Mitchell at other end. Both teams had excellent opportunities to open the scoring but were always wide of the mark. Offsides against Richardson gave relief to the Woollens' defence. Cridland returned to Shaw who made a desperate effort to score but McMillan blocked the ball in the nick of time. At the Woollens end Richardson was compelled to shoot from far out through the tactics of Cridland and Reid who were keeping the Scots forwards well out from the Chambers. Half time arrived with neither team scoring.

On resuming, the Thistles forwards opened up the play on the right wing. Willis beat Cridland on the run, and shot for the corner of goal. Chambers saved at the expense of a corner, and Monkman cleared from the corner kick. Midfield play followed, and a solo run by Hutton was cleared cleverly by Monkman. The Woollens centre-half was placing and distributing the play all night. He tried long shots all the time. Eventually he drove hard for the goal, Richards jumped into the air to put the ball over the bar, giving a fruitless corner. Quick as a flash Hardie went up the field with the ball. Burgess accepted the pass to place the ball to the foot of Williams who beat Chambers for the first score. Encouraged by their success the Scots came back through a combination play by Williams and Richardson, the latter lifted the ball over Chambers' head into empty goal for number two. A few minutes later in a scrimmage in goal, Williams added another. From this time until the finish both teams played clean and fast football.

Thistles 3, Woollens 0.

Goal-scorers: Williams (2) Richardson.

Woollens — Chambers, goal; J. Cridland and A. Reid, full backs; Warman, Monkman, and Sayers, half-backs; R. Leach, Gaskill, Mitchell, J Shaw, and Roberts, forwards.

GIVES TROPHY FOR BANTAMS

Rotary and Kiwanis Play Fast Game To-morrow Evening.

Competition for the John I. Allen trophy emblematic of the champion ship of the Bantam baseball series, will open at King Edward School grounds ot six o'clock tomorrow evening with a game between Rotary and Kiwanis teams. The series is one for baseball player under sixteen year of age. The team entered are: Rotary, Kiwanis, Belmonts and Curlers.

The trophy is a beautiful piece of silverware presented to the Peterborough A.A.A. by Mr. John I. Allen superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company for competition in the Bantam series. Mr. Allen is a strong supporter of the Athletic Association and it's work, and is alway eager to help in promoting athletic games for boys. Practically all the players who will take part in this league attend the city schools. Alex. Kay promoted the series and he will give his time to umpirial and other work of the league games.

A midget series has also been organized with four teams. The are Curlers Sacred Heart, Hillcrests and Maple Leafs. The age limit of seventeen years embraces a large number of young ball players who are not eligible for the Bantam series and have not the experience to fit them for the Juvenile division.

Schedules for the Bantams and Midgets will be completed this week and all teams will have plenty of games from now on. Playing fields are being laid out at the grounds of the city schools.

TRAP SHOOTING.

The Peterborough Gun Club will hold their weekly shoot Friday evening of this week at 6.15. The Lakefield gunners have signified their intention of being down for the shoot, and all the local trapshooters are urged to be on hand.

A special meeting of the executive of the above mentioned league is called for Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce to which all team players are invited. Special Business.

NORWOOD NEWS

NORWOOD, June 19.—Mrs. R. E. Birdsall who has been in Quebec attending the National convention of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire returned home on Monday. She has the honor of being one of the members of the National Council. The 40th Northumberland Chapter, I.O.D.E. are proud to have one of their members occupy that important position.

Mr. Earl Fry of Toronto spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fry. On Monday he went on a fishing trip to Belmont Lake intending to occupy his father's cottage. But on arriving at the lake he found only the smouldering remains of the dwelling, it having been burned down the night before.

The Late Mrs. Ferguson.

Mrs. Jas. Ferguson who has been a resident of Norwood for a great number of years, passed away at her home, Belmont street, Norwood on Sunday afternoon.

The funeral was held on Monday afternoon. Interment being made in the Norwood cemetery.

News Paragraphs Lakefield Village.

LAKEFIELD, June 20—The opening of the fishing season automatically opens the bait season, and the small boy with a tin can and lantern may be seen at night gathering the popular dew worm. This has become quite an industry, and each season there is a party of boys who meet the boats and trains and ply their trade with remarkable business ability.

Miss Ennis, of Peterborough, was a week-end visitor in the village, the guest of the Misses Ray.

Mrs. T. McBrien, of Peterboro, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Isaac Watson.

G. Evans Atwood, of Toronto, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Clinton Atwood, at "Ashelworth."

The A.Y.P.A. picnic, which was postponed from June 7, will be held on Thursday, June 21, weather permitting, at the grounds of the old Homestead.

is an old citizen who has lived here all his life, and who has had experience in inspecting the mixing and pouring of cement.

Ald. McIntyre: Well, I have nothing against Mr. Metheral, but I feel I should support Mr. Lytle when the City Engineer has recommended him. You are putting your judgment against the City Engineer's in this matter.

Ald. Holloway: I don't think it's good business to appoint a man Mr. Parsons doesn't recommend.

Ald. Fife's motion on its second trip out, having failed to pass on its first consideration was seconded by Ald. McIntyre approving of the appointment made by the City Engineer.

Ald Phelan moved seconded by Ald. Morrison, that J. R. Metheral get the position.

The motion carried on the support of Aldermen Stocker and Holloway while Mayor Taylor voted for the amendment.

Mr. Parsons had stated that any other appointment than the one he had made would remove from him the responsibility of the inspection of the paving work.

The attack was then swiched to the salary of $48.00 a week at which Mr. Lytle had been engaged.

Forty-eight dollars a week looked like a mountain to Mayor Taylor, Ald. Holloway, and Ald. Phelan.

"I think we're paying too much," said His Worship.

"I think it is too much money," remarked Ald. Holloway.

Ald. Phelan said he believed Mr. Metheral would take the job at $35.00 and give satisfaction. He moved, seconded by the Mayor, that the inspector be paid not more than $35.00 a week And the motion went through smoothly.

Ald. McIntyre protested that the Board was tying he hands of the City Engineer.

Ald. Maher moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that applications for such work in future be made to the City Engineer, and reported by him to the Council for the appointment.

Swore Affidavit on Hearsay Evidence.

MONTREAL, June 20.—(Canadian Press).—When Irenee Fierry, charged with perjury before the Court of Sessions here yesterday, swore to an affidavit compromising Sir William Stavert, one of the commissioners of the Quebec Liquor Commission, by stating that bootlegging was freely indulged in by the commission and mentioning Sir William in this connection he did so without understanding or realizing what he was doing. This is what he told Chief Judge Decarie here this afternoon under cross-examination by the Assistant Crown Prosecutor. In mentioning the name of Sir William Stavert, he stated that he did so on hearsay having been told so by another man.

Good Price Received For Manitoba Bonds.

WINNIPEG, June 20.—(Canadian Press). — The Provincial Government yesterday accepted the bid of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for $1,000,000 one-year five per cent. bonds. The price received was 99 9-10, the highest figure obtained for the securities of any Government issues in recent years. The money will be used for refunding a sterling issue which falls due July 1.

The Provincial Treasurer is considering bids on another issue of $2,500,000 five per cent. bonds.

MORE SUMMER CAMPERS AT CRAWFORD'S GROVE

NORTH MONAGHAN, June 20.—Mr. Ernest Houghton of Toronto spent the week-end visiting at his home on Orpington road, North Monaghan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Porter of Manchester, England, are visiting their son, Mr. Charles Porter, Orpington road.

The meeting of May's Home and School Association has been indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Norman Patterson has moved his portable cottage down to Crawford's Grove for the summer.

More tents are appearing in the Grove, and soon the colony will have reached its usual summer proportions.

MOUTH OF CRATER IS NOW ENLARGED

Etna's Lips Tumble Down Sides of Volcano With Tremendous Clatter.

CATANIA, June 20.—(Special).—Some of the latest reports from countryside stricken by Mount Etna's eruption, give rise to hope that fury of mountain may have pased its period of greatest intensity. However, the situation is generally regarded here as being practically unchanged with mighty streams of lava bearing slowly down but inevitably upon Linguaglossa.

During the night the mouth of the crater was enlarged by renewal of terrible convulsions and its lips, slipping into the seething interior were hurled to the skies, tumbling down the sides of the mountain with a tremendous clatter.

Lava has now submerged the station at Cerro and blocks the road between Castiglioni and Linguaglossa.

The quantity of ash emitted by the crater is now more abundant than ever. It resembles gray face powder, covering everything. The whole region has taken on a note of mourning and sadness, which, together with oppressive heat, gives the country the aspect of a dead land. One by one little towns that cling to the mountain's flanks have been evacuated and roads are strewn with fleeing villager and their possessions.

SHOULD HAVE HELPED.

ATHENS, June 20.—(Special.) — Giovanoviti, chief of the Agrarian party in Jugo-Slavia, declared to-day that when the Bulgarian revolution occurred, Serbia should have sent three divisions to the frontier and threatened invasion. This would have paralyzed the revolt, he declared, adding that the predominance of the Zankof party in Sofia makes consummation of a Balkan peace pact with Bulgaria including unattainable.

Special Committee For Pensions Bill.

OTTAWA, June 20. — (Canadian Press)—Senator Dandurand brought before the Senate the three bills which deal with the re-establishment and pensions of returned men. These are the Returned Soldiers' Act, the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Act and the Pension Act. Senator Calder urged that these bills be referred to a special committee, and after a brief discussion this suggestion was adopted.

ROYAL VICTORY IN ASCOT RACE

ASCOT, England, June 20.—(Special.)—A Royal victory, the first one in years, was scored in the feature event of the Ascot race meet today, when King George's Weathervane drove home winner of the prized Hunt Club Cup from a high-class field of 25. Sir F. Price's Rockfire was second and Charles Hawtree's Jarvie third. The large crowd sent up a thunder of cheers in hailing the King's win and the bookies were hard hit, for thousands backed Weathervane out of sentiment, hoping to see the Royal colors home in front.

Although Weathervane's victory was popular the horse paid 20 to 1. Rockfire's price was 10 to 1 and Jarvie 20 to 1.

TWO FIRES CAUSED BY LIGHTNING YESTERDAY

Two fires were caused by lightning yesterday afternoon, one of which resulted in $50 damage.

Lightning struck the flag pole over the Colonial Hide Company's premises and passed down it to the interior of the building, where a fire was started. The alarm system was out of commission for the time being, and the fire was extinguished by the use of chemicals kept on the premises.

A transformer at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart Streets demanded attention when struck by lightning.

Electrification to Start Next Year.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 20. — (Canadian Press).—A start on the actual work of electrifying sections of the Canadian Pacific Railway's main line through the Rockies may be made next year, according to the Winnipeg Tribune, quoting "those closely informed." D. C. Coleman, vice-president of Western lines, said yesterday that traffic demands and financial conditions would determine largely when a start would be made.

Mr. Coleman is quoted as saying that surveys of the water power available on the Columbia River in the vicinity of the main line are now being carried out by the company, and that surveys for the time being were confined to the Columbia.

CORNER LOT BASEBALL.

OMEMEE CORRESPONDENCE

OMEMEE, June 20.—The regular monthly meeting of the East Victoria Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Mills, on Thursday evening last, and a most profitable time was enjoyed by about thirteen ladies. Owing to lack of interest and the difficulty of securing officers the branch here was out of existence for several months, but now new officers have been elected to fill the vacancies and much effort is already displayed to try and revive the enthusiasm and interest which the Society formerly had, thereby taking advantage of some of the many opportunities which the Department of Agriculture offer to the Women's Institute. A discussion followed on the advisability of a sewing class and as it is necessary to have a class of fifteen before an instructor can be sent out, it was decided to leave the matter over for another month until more members are added to the roll. Delegates were appointed to attend the District Convention in Lindsay, on Tuesday. Miss Lila Parsons rendered a very pretty solo, "Lullaby Song," which was much appreciated.

A short extract on "Service" was given by Mrs. L. A. Mahood, also "Judge Not," a short poem, was read by Miss Hart.

Mrs. R. L. Snow gave the paper for the evening on "Tact" which was most appropriate.

Refreshments were served at the close by the hostess, Mrs. Mills. The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Cornwall in the form of a picnic.

Our town is being robbed of some of its beauty. The trees in front of Mr. C. L. Morcombe's residence and other places have been hewn down to make room for the curbing along the pavement.

On Sunday next the Masonic Brethren of Lorne Lodge, Omemee, will parade to the Presbyterian church in the evening. Rev. R. S. Scott, of Cannington, will be the pastor for the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Younie of Brysonville, Quebec, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Younie and baby of Howick, spent the week-end with the former's son, Dr. A. R. Younie.

Mr. L. Magahey of Lindsay, was a visitor in town on Friday.

Mr. Hillas Bryson of Toronto is visiting his grandfather, Mr. T. B. Laidley for the summer months.

Miss Preston of Lakefield, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. Moncrief over Sunday.

Miss Maude Laidley of Lindsay, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Laidley.

Master Ormond Weir is visiting his uncle, Mr. Comrie, of Keene.

Mr. Ira Gardiner was a visitor to Lindsay on Tuesday.

Among those who motored to Peterborough on circus day were Mr. and Mrs. A. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Mitchell and daughter, Mr. E. MacPherson, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Stephenson. Arthur Stephenson, Mrs. T. A. MacPherson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Parsons and family, Miss Gladys Fee, Mr. George Morton, Misses Ida and Edna Morton, Mr. H. G. McInnis and son, Harold Bradley and others.

The pupils of Miss Florence Scott of the Conservatory of Music, Peterborough, will give a recital at the home of Mrs. Dr. Earle on Friday evening, June 29th. The public are cordially invited.

Miss Vivian Parsons was in Lindsay on Thursday to write on the arithmetic paper of the Lower School examination.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Mahood and son Donald visited at the home of F. C. Nugent, of Lindsay, on Friday.

Miss Curry, of Edmonton, spent a few days with her aunts, Misses Edith and L. Curry, last week en route to her home in Brockville.

A number from here attended the Bethel Sunday School picnic on Tuesday afternoon last.

Mrs. Olive Pogue has returned home after visiting her uncle, Mr. Chas. Reeves of Lindsay.

MAHOOD—MOYNES

The marriage of Mr. Elmer Mahood, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Mahood, of Emily, to Miss Emma Moynes of Ops, took place on Tuesday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Moynes. The Rev. M. E. Wilson of St. Paul's Church, Cambray, officiated. The attendants were Mr. Roy Mahood, of Reaboro, and Miss Margaret Moynes, the bride's sister.

After a sumptuous wedding dinner the bride and groom left on a brief honeymoon to be spent in Toronto and Niagara Falls. They will reside upon their return on the groom's farm in Emily.

BOOTLEGGERS WAR ON BOOTLEGGERS

Rival Gangs Squeal on Each Other and Arrests Follow.

TORONTO, June 20—(Canadian Press). Bootlegging gangs on tht Niagara frontier are warring. It was made known last night by provincial Police officers engaged in suppression of the liquor traffic that rival gangs have taken to "peaching" on one another and license officers on both sides of the river are profitting from their "squealing". The number of arrests made recently in Niagara district, officials state, have come from rival gangs.

Officials do not know why traffickers have commenced "squealing"—unless it is because strong rivalry brought on by fueds among themselves has created a desire for revenge. Robbing of bootleggers by bootleggers is one reason, and raids by hardened criminals and bootleggers on caches of other traffickers at their distributing points on the frontier is given as another. Failure of officers to make arrests in these cases is caused by the fact that the victims, through fear of being identified as violaters of the law, do not report robberies. Instead they keep silent and "squeak" quietly.

RAILROAD MEN ENDORSE "WESTBOUND LIMITED"

Railroad organizations throughout the world have heartily endorsed "Westbound Limited," Emory John son's dynamic drama of the railroads, which is to be shown at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

There have been many railroad dramas filmed in motion pictures, but "Westbound Limited" is the first real effort to put forth a film narrative that paints the life and dangers of a railroad man as it is really lived.

"Westbound Limited' has been shown to organizations of railroad men in every part of the country and they have been highly enthusiastic over the superb and human manner in which Emory Johnson, the producer, has glorified their work.

Mr. Johnson, the producer and director has painted the railroad man as a human, sincere, selfsacrificing individual who is used to authority and knows what to do with it in an emergency.

Railroad men all over the world are heartily endorsing "Westbound Limited,' because it shows what big men they are.

Every known variety of British tree, it is claimed, grows in the park of Blackbadder, near Berwick-on-Tweed, England.

MR. W. H. BRADBURN VISITS ENNISMORE

Held a Good Meeting - Mr. McElderry Refers to Mr. Tooms.

(Contributed.)

Mr. Bradburn, the Liberal Conservative candidate, is finishing up the series of meetings in the townships, the last one behind held at Ennismore last evening.

There was a fine attendance, quite in advance in point of numbers of meetings held in campaigns now past. The chair was taken and well filled by John P. Galvin, and who commented on the large attendance and the general interest taken in the campaign and the issues before the people.

The speakers were Mr. Bradburn, the candidate, and Messrs. E. A. Peck and V. J. McElderry, who spoke in the order as indicated. Mr. Bradburn gave a stirring address, and defined his position in regard to the several major issues before the electors. He summarized what has been stated in his address and asked the electors to accept his assurance of good faith and intention. That he endorsed the Hydro, in its entirety, and hoped that presently, in a way of development, the benefits of the Hydro would be at the service of farmers all along the line. That service was coming, being only a matter of development. At the same time he would stand continually that all public opportunities for the use of our natural resources would be reserved for the benefit of the people, as they should be.

Economy was his watchword. That excessive expenditures should be cut down to a minimum, and handled for the benefit of the public in a reasonable way. In the matter of good roads he would see that where monies were expended that good value was received in the amount of work executed.

The Ontario Temperance Act should stand as it is until the people by a sufficient majority vote decided that a change was desirable, and that a rigorous enforcement would be maintained day after day, as the Act provided for. He instanced cases of more than reckless expenditure, of rank patronage, and direct abandonment of promises made by the Drury government and never carried out.

Mr. Peck took up the public accounts and drew from the printed entries much that was convincing as to the utter and lavish waste of money in a public way. The expenses of the several commissions, so recklessly provided by the government as safe and soft places for the friends of the Drury party to plunder the province, were all brought to light and commented on. Electors in the rural constituencies, especially, had little opportunity to criticize what had been done, for want of information, which was buried in the public accounts and used as a sort of smoke screen to befog the public. The expenditures on roads were instances of tremendous sums squandered and little accomplished. In the short time at disposal, Mr. Peck gave his audience an outline of the faults and frailties of the Drury administration that had never been realized by the electors of Ennismore. To stop this sort of waste was what Mr. Bradburn was pledged to do and would do if the electors would send him to Toronto.

Mr. McElderry, gave a close analysis of the pretensions set out by Mr. Tooms, the late member. At heart, and in effort, Mr. Tooms was working, not for the good of the province but to advance the ends of himself and those associated in the propaganda that would bring on a socialistic regime and upset the order of things as we have them. Nothing but the breaking down of the economic system as we have it would satisfy him and his fellows. All under the guise of being a public benefactor, when the one to be benefitted was Thomas Tooms. The farming community would do well to watch very carefully the claims put forward. There was nothing in common with the Independent Labor Party and the farmer. Mr. Tooms would have the farmer think otherwise. But the two would never mix, being absolutely at variance. Far better trust either of the old political parties than flirt with the creature as set up by Thomas Tooms. His propaganda gained its inspiration from abroad and was dictated by interests wholly inimical to good Canadian life and effort.

TO OBSERVE TREATY

SOFIA, June 20.— Premier Zankoff stated to correspondents last night that Bulgaria would observe the Treaty of Neuilly, both as regards payment of reparations and limitations of her army.

Mentioning reports that Serbia was planning intervention, he said the accusations in the press against Bulgaria were utterly unfounded and that there had been no mobilization and would be no mobilization or move to increase strength of the army.

SPECIAL BOARD

LONDON, June 20. — (Canadian Press).—The Morning Post's Melbourne correspondent cables that the Australian Federal Government has decided to carry out a recommendation of a special board of enquiry and deport Irish Republican envoys. Father O'Lannigan and Sean O'Kelly, who went to Australia several weesk ago to foster Irish Republican sentiment there.

WEDDING BELLS

A very pretty wedding took place at half-past two o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Macfarlane Donegal street, when their daughter Harriett Jean, was married to Dr. C. Harold Fulford, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fulford, Port Hope. Rev. Jas Rollins was the officiating clergyman.

The bride entered the drawing-room, which was decorated with ferns and daisies, on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. John H. Renwick. Her mediaeval style of dress was of ivory satin crepe and lace, and her simple veil was held by pearls and pendant clusters of orange blossoms. She wore the gift of the bride groom, a rope of pearls. Her bouquet of white roses and sweet peas was showered with lily of the valley and pale pink sweet peas.

The bride's sisters, as attendants, wore georgette frock over taffeta, with hats to match, trimmed with mauve lilacs and pansies, and carried ophelia roses. Miss Alice Macfarlane, as maid of honor, wore apricot and Miss Helen Macfarlane, as bridesmaid, wore pale orchid.

The bride's small cousin, Helen Macfarlane, as flower girl, was very sweet in pale green crepe, trimmed with lace ruffles carrying a basket of forget-me-nots and pansies.

Mr. Gordon Macfarlane was best man.

During the signing of the register, Mr. A. E. Fulford of Port Hope, the bridegroom's brother, sang "My World."

After a reception to immediate friends and relatives. Dr. and Mrs. Fulford left for a short motor trip East, the bride travelling in a sand sports costume. They will reside in Peterborough.

SPILLSBURY—FIFE.

A quiet wedding took place at half-past seven o'clock this morning at St. Paul's manse, when Hazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fife, Barnardo avenue, became the bride of Ormie Spillsbury, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spillsbury, Downie street. Rev. Robt Pogue performed the ceremony. The young people were unattended.

The bride wore a tricotine suit of cocoa shade, braided and embroidered in colors, with a blouse of white crepe de chine, brown shoes and stockings and small sand hat. Her corsage bouquet was of lilies of the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Spillsbury left on the eight o'clock train for Windsor, where they will reside.

SEAL—LOCKIE.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnised yesterday morning at half-past ten o'clock at St. Andrew's Manse, when Rev. James Rollins united in marriage Edyth R. Lockie and Arthur J. Seal, both of this city.

Miss Sadie Lockie, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Robert A. Lockie supported the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Seal left on the 12.04 C.N.R. train to spend their honeymoon in Rochester and Buffalo. On their return, they will reside at 87 Smith Street.

SHEPPARD—WATERMAN.

On 9th June, at Walkerville, Ontario, in the First Presbyterian Church, the marriage was solemnised of Helen Margery Ellis, daughter of E. J. Waterman, of Kingston, and Frederick Norman Sheppard, youngest son of Mrs. Annie Sheppard, of Peterborough.

Rev M Gordon Melvin performed the ceremony.

Mr and Mrs. Sheppard left later on a water trip to Cleveland, Ohio. They will reside in Detroit, Mich.

ABBOTT—NEWTON.

A quiet wedding took place at 11:30 this morning, when Adah Mary, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Newton, was united in marriage to S. H. Abbott. Rev. S. Cruikshanks performed the ceremony.

LAWRIE—HATTON.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. John's church at 1.30 to-day, when Norah, second daughter of Mr. G. W. Hatton and the late Mrs. Hatton, became the bride of Douglas Lawrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Lawrie, 556 Charlotte street. Rev. Dr. Blagrave performed the ceremony. The church was very prettily decorated with orange blossoms and gaillardia, a number of floral arches crossing the centre aisle and the chancel lavishly arranged with bowls of the white blossoms. Mr. R. J. Devey played the Lohengrin and Mendelssoan wedding marches, and the Greig wedding music. During the signing of the register Mr. R. A. Brown sang "Because."

The bride wore a beautiful gown of ivory satin, veiled with radium lace, with train of old lace and veil caught with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Marjorie Hatton, Rosamond Huycke, Robina Cumming and Dorothy Hill, were gowned in pale pink georgette, with fine pin tucking. They wore large hats of pink georgette, trimmed with cream lace and sprays of valley lilies, with lace scarfs passing beneath the chin. Their flowers were columbia roses.

The little flower girls, Beverley Rogers and Jacqueline Graham, were charming in pink georgette, with pink hats and baskets of pale pink cosmos.

Mr. Stanley Thompson of Toronto, acted as best man. Ushers for the occasion were Walford Hatton, of Quebec, Norman Hatton of Peterborough, Capt. George F. Hatton of Constantinople, and Eldred Cumberland of Toronto.

BOATHOUSE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC IN A FEW DAYS.

The level of the river has been dropping rapidly this week, and is now safe for boating. However the dock for small craft at Rye's Boat House has not yet been sufficiently repaired to accommodate the regular holiday crowds, but Mr. Rye expects to have it ready within a few days.

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, June 20.— Price movements in early dealings in the stock market to-day continued to reflect the recovery of speculative thought from the unreasoning fright which brought hurried selling into Monday's market. Tuesday's advance in the industrial average kept the November lows intact. Support met twice at that level within a month suggested the possibility of a rally and this indication was strengthened by the persistent decline in the industrial compilation over the last ten days which forced the liquidation of impaired accounts.

Steel Common was the leader at the opening to-day, advancing fractionally to 93 1-4. Stocks maintained a rallying tendency through the first hour with Atchison and New York Central leading the Rails and Corn Products, Studebaker and American Can in the van in the Industrials.

Opening prices: United States' Steel 93 1-4, up 3-8; Southern Railway 35 1-4; Sinclair, 23 3-4, up 1-8; Republic Iron and Steel, 47 3-4, up 1-8; Studebaker 106 5-8, up 1-4; New York Central 101 1-2; Consolidated Gas 60 1-4, up 3-8; Pan-American 68 1-4, up 5-8.

American Can 92 1-2; California Petroleum 22 1-4, up 3-8; Corn Products 131 1-4; Bethlehem B 50 3-8, off 1-8; Marland 37 1-4, up 3-4; American Locomotive 138 1-2.

Wall Street found it noteworthy to comment to-day on the fact that securities started to decline about a week before the initial cut in Crude Oil in late March. Since then Wall Street has not been free from rumors of either Crude Oil or Gasoline cuts and these rumors have all made good.

STORM AT OMEMEE

OMEMEE, June 20.—A rather wicked electrical storm passed over this village about 1.30 yesterday afternoon, and a heavy shower, which lasted only a short time, accompanied it. The lightning struck a Hydro pole in front of Mr. Lowery Brooks' barber shop in the centre of the village and cut the power off for a short time.

South of the village, a few miles distant, the stable belonging to Mr. Percy Magahey was struck and badly damaged. The bolt took a very remarkable course, having struck at the south-west corner of the building, which it set fire, and then ran along and started a blaze at the north-east corner, where it split the handle of a fork in two pieces. Several sheep and pigs were in the stable, but, fortunately all escaped but one pig, which was badly stunned and is not likely to recover.

Mrs. Magahey was alone on the farm at the time, but she hurriedly gave the alarm, and before long a crowd gathered, and by much effort the building, although badly disfigured, was saved from total destruction. A large elm tree in front of Mr. J. Kerr's house in South Emily was also struck and badly splintered.

ADMITTED TO FELLOWSHIP

LONDON, June 20. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. George J. Gillam, of Toronto, has been admitted to the Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons.

RECIPES

ORANGE AND RHUBARB MARMALADE.

Remove the skin from eight oranges and boil it in a small amount of water until tender. Then scrape out all the white part and cut the yellow part into very small pieces.

To the pulp of the oranges add five pounds of rhubarb which has been cut into inch pieces. Boil one-half hour. Add four pounds of sugar and boil slowly for two hours. Add the orange peel and turn the marmalade into glasses.

This is a very good marmalade and offers another way of using rhubarb while it is young and tender.

RICE CROQUETTES.

Pick over and wash one-half cup of rice. Cook in one-half cup of water with one-fourth teaspoon of salt for five minutes. Place the dish over water, add one and one-half cups milk and cook until the rice has absorbed the milk and is tender. Add one tablespoon butter and slightly beaten yolks of two eggs, and cook for five minutes. Spread in a pan to cool.

Have the whites of the two eggs slightly beaten and two tablespoons of milk or water added. Have dried, sifted bread crumbs ready.

Shape the rice mixture into balls, two and one-half inches in diameter, or into cylinder shapes two and one-half inches long. Roll these in the crumbs, dip in the egg, roll in crumbs and fry in deep fat until a golden brown.

Serve with sauce made as follows:

Beat until creamy one-half cup of butter, add one cup powdered sugar and one cup strawberries. Beat all until very light, then add a few drops of vanilla.

GERMANY SENT A PROTEST TO ALLIED FORCE

Objects To New Measures Of Repression By The French In Rhur Valley.

SEIZE INDUSTRY.

BERLIN, June 21.—(Special.) — Germany to-day sent a protest to the Allies against new severe measures of reprssion instituted by the French in the Ruhr Valley.

The German protest followed the announcement from Dusseidorf that General Degoutte and other French and Belgian authorities are working out a scheme whereby all industries of the occupied area turning out reparation materials will be confiscated and worked by forced labor.

Iron and steel plants, metal works mines, coke ovens and other private industries are to be seized under the scheme and Germans forced to work them or go to jail.

While several days will be required to work out the details of the new plan and German therefore has only had a fright, the government took the occasion to object to the Entente against conditions in the Ruhr, making a special protest against Degoutte's traffic restrictions which, it is claimed, endangers the food supply of the occupied areas. At present the travel and transportation facilities allowed the Germans in the Ruhr is limited.

A Food Shortage.

ESSEN, June 21.—(Canadian Press.)— Reserves of food supplies held by the various industrial cooperative organizations in the Ruhr Valley are rapidly being exhausted according to German sources. This is due to the collapse of the railroad transportation of foodstuffs from unoccupied territory because of the presence of allied troops in the railroad centres, causing strikes involving the complete abandonment of work by the German trainmen.

The Germans claim they are receiving less than half the normal food supply necessary to feed the workmen and the remaining civilion population of the Ruhr. The Essen municipal authorities say the city has been absolutely without milk for two days, while Dortmund reports failure to receive milk for five days.

On the other hand, the French authorities declare that 256 cars of foodstuffs crossed the frontiers of the occupied region yesterday and had more cars appeared at the border the French would have given all possible assistance to speed them on to their destinations.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday afternoon the thermometer reached 90 degrees in the shade, for the first time this summer. To-day is not quite so warm, and cooler weather is in sight with some thunderstorms likely. To-day is the longest day of the year. The day's length is now 15 hours and 26 minutes. It will now gradually shorten by ten minutes a week.—W.P.

Tardy Mother Love Finds There's a Price to Pay

DETROIT, June 21.—The love of a mother for her child is one of the strongest forces in nature. And because she could not resist it, Mrs. Carl Johnson, 18 years old, persuaded her husband, also 18, to take her to Grace Hospital, Windsor, to claim the baby they had abandoned on the steps of the Windsor City Hall a week ago. Johnson 's now under arrest on a charge of abandonment.

The Johnsons came to Windsor from Lucan, Ont., some time ago. They were married in Windsor. Carl is the son of a minister. The baby was born in Detroit, May 22. The responsibility of a child weighed heavily on the young couple and they decided to abandon it. Crossing the river, they carried out their intention, and the baby, left on the steps of the city hall, was taken to the hospital, where the nurses named it Grace June.

Ecstatic happiness lighted up the young mother's face when she cuddled her bay in her arms Monday and covered its tiny body with kisses, but her happiness was short-lived. She raised her eyes to see Detective-Sergt. Duncan McNab,of the Windsor police department, who had been summoned to the hospital, place a hand on her husband's shoulder, informing him he was under arrest.

Nor did the mother get her baby, which still remains at the hospital, unmindful of the predicament of its parents, and intent only on getting 6 ounces of milk every three hours.

And the girl-mother, frantic with grief, is hoping that the little family will soon be re-united, and the father released from jail and the baby from the hospital.

LASKER MAKES A GETAWAY ON A TRIAL TRIP

Ship Board's Chairman Takes No Chance Of Running Afoul Of Possible Injunction.

NAMES SECRET.

ON BOARD THE LEVIATHAN, June 21.—Albert D. Lasker, Chairman of the United States' Shipping Board, who boarded the Leviathan secretly yesterday, did not greet his 318 guests when they arrived to-day, but remained in his suite. It was believed he would not emerge until after the three-mile limit had been passed when all danger of being served with an injunction against the trial trip to Southern waters would be over. The impression persisted in Boston to-day that a last minute effort might be made to stop the trial trip by those who have criticized it as a "junket."

The hundred or more guests who came aboard yesterday were surprised last night when Mr. Lasker did not appear for dinner or at the concert in the lounge. A reporter who managed to get on the steamer was trailed by stewards, who warded him from the vicinity of the Lasker suite. When he finally revealed his identity and showed he was not a process server the watch was removed.

Steamship officials from other lines who were invited to take the cruise estimated that the expense to the government for the 318 guests would not exceed $5,000. They agreed that a trial trip was essential for the liner, pointing out that the trip from the Newport News Shipyard to the Boston Drydock was in no sense a try-out. The Leviathan ran at a low speed and under conditions such as would be experienced at sea.

The names of the voyagers were kept a secret as far as the press was concerned before the steamer sailed. After the three-mile limit had been passed the identities of the 318 guests would be announced, it was understood .

May Continue To Prohibit Export Of Gold From Canada

OTTAWA, June 21—(Canadian Press).—The Government proposes to continue in force the proclamation suspending the redemption of Dominion and Bank notes in gold for a further period of three years, unless an earlier date for the resumption of gold payments is set by order-in council.

This announcement is made in a resolution introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. W. S. Fielding. Minister of Finance.

The resolution also gives the government power to continue the prohiibtion of the export of gold and proposes to continue in force the authority for the issue of Dominion notes to the banks in return for securities.

CASHIER HELD FOR SHORTAGE

Declares After Arrest that He Secretly Lent Money on Unsecured Oil Notes

WICHITA, Kan., June 21—Philip A. Drummer, cashier of the American State Bank of Wichita, one of the largest State banks in Kansas, was released on bond of $15.000 soon after noon to-day following his arrest on a charge of misappropriating funds of the institution. A shortage of nearly $1,500,000, was found in his accounts last night and the bank closed its doors this morning.

A warrant for Drumms arrest was issued on complaint of the Kansas State Bank Commissioner, charging him with making a false statement to State bank examiner on No. 4. 1922

Drumm, who admits he is responsible for the shortage, surrendered to the marshal of the City Court this morning. He was arraigned at noon and bond for him was given by personal friends. His preliminary hearing was set for June 29.

The cashier was in conference until 2 o'clock this morning with bankers and lawyers who were endeavoring to disentangle the financial affairs of the institution. He declined to make a signed statement regarding his speculations.

W. A. Blake, County Attorney, said he probably would issue another warrant for Drumm at the end of an investigation begun to-day by the State Banking Department. There were 3,650 depositors in the bank. Richard Wilson and Ray Foley representative of the State Banking Department, arrived this morning and began an investigation.

"I have been in hell the last three years," Drumm declared to bank officials, admitting he had been guilty of selling municipal bonds, purchased for investment by the bank, and lending the money to individuals, companies and corporations without notifying the officers of the institution.

"It is a case of bad loans," Drumm said at the County Attorney's office Individuals companies and corporations had failed to meet their obligations at the bank.

"The notes involved were taken to or endorsed by the American State Bank," the cashier asserted. "None of the money was used by me individually. I am not an officer in any of the companies or corporations involved. I do not believe the depositors of the bank will lose a thing."

He declared that between 70 and 75 per cent of the funds would be paid.

He has turned over to bank officials about $600,000 in notes, which are said to be of doubtful value. Sums totaling $700,000 lent by the American State Bank to the Kansas Gas and Petroleum Company of Wichita and Frontier Refining Company of Hutchinson, said to be allied companies, are the principal items in the irregularities admitted by Drumm, according to Robert C. Foulston, attorney for the bank.

MISERY FINDS HOPE OF CURE IN FIGHT CLUB

Where Prize Fighters Pummelled Each Other, the Sick now Scramble to be Healed.

POWER OF PRAYER

NEW YORK, June 21 (United Press). — Despite the sweltering heat scores of men, women, and children, white, black, and yellow, crowded into the Commonwealth Sporting Club to-day to see Sister Mabel Harrell, a prosaic-looking white woman, conduct a "healing service."

Hours before the time set, people were scrambling for the seats nearest the ring where on ordinary occasions prize fighters pummel each other, but where now Sister Harrell presides.

Cripples were being helped in by their friends, the blind were being led down the sun-baked street toward "The Fight Club," a veritable procession of misery passed along, urged on by the hope of cure.

Looks Like Miracles.

Fir five days Sister Harrell has been performing what appear to be miracles. Twice a day, afternoon and evening, she receives her patients, number tickets are distributed to the sufferers by lot ,and they come forward one by one

Threw Away Crutches.

A deaf and dumb girl cried, "Praise the Lord," and claimed she could hear, after Sister Harrell's hands had been placed on her. A negress went leaping down the aisle screaming that she had been cured of tumour in the stomach.

Two negroes, one old and grey, the other a boy, threw away their crutches and walked out crying "Hallelujah!"

A woman giving the name of Sadie Wilson said she had been made to see, after being blind by cataracts for years.

Sister Harrell says she heals by the power of prayer.

A CHURCH PARADE FOR SUNDAY NEXT

Foresiers From The Entire District Will Be Present.

One of the biggest church parades to take place in Peterboro will be held on Sunday next to Murray street Baptist Church when the Ancient Order of Foresters from the entire district and many from hundreds of miles away will attend.

Members representative of the whole of District 5, including representatives of Campbellford, Port Hope, Belleville, Trenton, Oshawa, Bowmanville Cobourg. and Peterborough will be present as well as the Hamilton Conclave of Knights of Sherwood Forest from Hamilton; and the Executive Council from Toronto. A large number of members of the order is also expected to attend from Toronto.

The programme mapped out for Foresters is Church Parade at 11 a.m.; uptown parade at 2 p.m. when the Knights will give a drill in the open air; and a parade to the station at 3.50 to escort visiting members.

About 500 it is expected will take part, including juveniles and ladies and the local branch hopes that Peterborough will give the visitors a good welcome so that they may carry away a good impresion of the city.

SCOTS' PICNIC AT EXHIBITION PARK

Games and Folk Dances on the Green With Nearly Five Hundred Present.

The Caledonian band of pipers and drummers paraded to the Exhibition Park yesterday evening where the games and amusements of Scotch night brought out a crowd of between four and five hundreds. The band made a fine impression on parade, and their music on the march and for the folk dances at the Park was exceptionally pleasing especially in the absence of sharp tones. The Scotsmen and their wives and families thoroughly enjoyed the varied programme in which they took an active part themselves.

Success Crowned Untiring Efforts Of Fire Fighters

TORONTO, June 21-.—(Canadian Press).—The fire situation in the Porcupine distrcit is improved and normal conditions prevail once more.

A beneficial change in the wind took place early yestrday. It was accompanied by a slight shower, which was of no material use, but the coolness which followed crowned the efforts of fire fighters with success.

At Timmins everything is now in first class shape.

THOUSANDS TO LEAVE DANGER

Lava Stream Continues to Flow From Mount Etna.

CATINA, June 21.— (Special.) — One hundred hours after the first great blasts from Etna's cone started a panicky exodus of thousands of Sicilians from the path of the fiery flows that followed, the molten streams from the volcano still advanced on hapless towns and deserted hamlets to-day. One of the main streams of steaming, withering lava, moving with decreasing speed around Mount Etna's foothills, suddenly shot out a fiery branch, which is now advancing like a team roller or a tank upon the hamlet of Lavinaro, and the destruction of the little township seems imminent. Relief work continues with the presence of King Victor Emmanuel a powerful bracer for the thousands of peasants whose homes lie beneath the lava lakes that still spread as the eruption goes on with diminished intensity.

FIVE THOUSAND HEARD RANEY AND FERGUSON

One of the Largest Influxes of People Ever Seen in History of Fergus.

A WORDY BATTLE

FERGUS, June 21.—(Special.) — More than five thousand people heard Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney General ,and Hon. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader, defend attack of administration of Ontario Temperance Act here this afternoon. By noon the town was packed with autos which arrived from many points, some being from Owen Sound and London.

The meeting, which was featured by a debate between two political stalwarts on the administration of the Temperance Act, was held in the interests of Col. B. J. Craig, Conservative candidate, and opponent of Mr. Raney in East Wellington riding. It was held in the skating rink which, hours before the meeting opened, was jammed to suffocation.

The platform used by the speakers, was an improvised one, erected on trestles.

Electorate to Decide.

FERGUS, Ont., June 21.—The electorate of East Wellington are called upon this afternoon to decide whether the Attorney General of Ontario, Hon. W. E. Raney, or the leader of the Opposition, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, has the might of right, these two meeting in the Waterloo of the 1923 election campaign, and shouting their political quarrel, and the electorate are present in large numbers to listen to the debate and give their decision. Not only do the voters of Wellington constitute the audience, but from all over the province supporters of both sides have flocked into Fergus and they are accompanied by a host of newspapermen.

The eyes of Ontario are focused upon to-day's issue and no pains had been spared to see that all was in readiness for the wordy battle.

The Attorney General of the Drury Government is at home in his own constituency, whereas Mr. Ferguson is a visitor ,and as such he used the visitors' privilege and spoke first. The Conservative candidate in the riding is Colonel Craig and his chances of election will be strengthened or weakened, as the case may be, by the result of to-day's historic event. The Attorney-General will have a great deal to say about the O.T.A. and may ask Mr. Ferguson for a decisive answer as to his stand on the temperance question.

The debate started at three o'clock (standard time) and there is one of the largest influxes of people into Ferguson to-day that there has ever been in the history of the town.

Canadian Nurse Had Attempted to Suicide.

FOLKESTONE Eng., June 21.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Nurse Winifred Neal of Halifax, Nova Scotia was remanded yesterday on a charge of attempted suicide by jumping into the sea from a cross channel steamer on Monday.

The chief constable testified at the hearing today that Miss Neal left Halifax about a year ago with six thousand dollars with the object of seeing the world spending the money and then getting rid of herself she had no friends in England, said the officer and had spent all her money except eighteen shillings.

More than half a bushel of peanuts was consumed on an average by each man, woman and child in the United States last year.

MR. HAY'S OPINION OF MR. FERGUSON

Those who listened to Mr. Gordon's tirade against Mr. Ferguson, last night, may be interested in Mr. Hay's opinion of the Conservative Leader. Here it is, and Mr. Hay repeated it last night:

"From the knowledge I have of my honourable friend from Grenville, I am satisfied there was no personal interest in any of his transactions, and that whatever action he took he believed it to be in the best interest of the Province and of the Department over which he presides." 2d-147 (Advt.)

FEARS HE CANNOT GET A FAIR HEARING IN PETERBORO COUNTY

Such is Alleged to Be Ground on Which Chief Newhall Names Belleville for Place of Trial in Newhall vs. Pogue Slander Suit.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

TORONTO, June 21.—(Special). —Samuel J. Newhall, Chief Constable of Peterborough, who is suing Rev. Robert Pogue, minister of St. Paul's Church, and president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association, for $5,000 for alleged slander, has named Belleville as the place of trial, but Charles W. Kerr, for the defendant, moved before the Master at Osgoode Hall to-day that the venue be changed to Peterborough City.

Chief Newhall fears that he cannot obtain a fair trial in the county in which he lives, and in the city whose enforcement of law and order is in his hands. He has filed a list showing the arrests he has made and the convictions resulting, and his official activity is given as a reason why the trial of his action should take place elsewhere than Peterborough. While he prefers Belleville, his second choice, apparently, is Cobourg. According to affidavits, he desires neither Peterborough nor Victoria County.

Chief Newhall says he became a police constable in Peterborough in 1906, a detective in 1911, detective-sergeant in 1920, and chief constable in December of the same year. Between 1906 and 1923 the force has had 10,729 cases. The arrests made by himself between 1906 and 1920 numbered 1,652, with 1,399 convictions.

Justice in Peterborough.

On the other hand, Mr. Pogue's lawyers have filed opinions, rural and urban, that a fair trial could be had in Peterborough. They are as follows:

Harold Brooks Rye, Reeve of North Monaghan: "I am of the opinion that jurymen coming from North Monaghan would be able to do justice and give a fair trial to the plaintiff in this action."

J. A. Middleton, Reeve of Smith Township: "A fair trial of the issues in this action could be had before a jury of Smith Township."

M. P. Coughlin, Reeve of Douro Township: "The jurymen from Douro would be unprejudiced and would give a fair trial to plaintiff and defendant."

W. A. Anderson, Deputy-Reeve of Otonabee: "A fair trial could be had so far as the jurymen from here are concerned."

E. A. Peck, solicitor for Peterborough County: "The issues would be tried fairly here. There has been some discussion with reference to the question of placing the police force under an elected rather than an appointed commission, but the matter has not become in any way a political question."

Joseph Wearing, solicitor for Peterborough City: "The plaintiff would not be prejudiced by having the issues in this action tried at Peterborough before a jury, and I believe that a fair trial could be had at Peterborough."

Newhall's Claims.

Newhall, in his statement of claim, says, in part: "On the 5th day of March, 1923, the defendant falsely and maliciously spoke and published of the plaintiff in the way of his calling as Chief Constable of the City of Peterborough, to the Mayor and city while in open and public session: "Nine persons out of every ten did not believe one word the Chief said."

"These words were intended by the defendant, and understood by the persons named, to mean that the plaintiff was guilty of dishonest, untruthful and corrupt conduct in the discharge and performance of his duties as Chief Constable, and was unworthy of belief and wholly unfit to be employed as Chief Constable of Peterborough."

Newhall says that he was "greatly injured in his credit and reputation and calling.

Refers to Enquiry.

Rev. Pogue, in his statement of defence, refers to the enquiry held by General Victor Williams and

FIRST SESSION DELORME TRIAL

Mysterious Witnesses And Sensational Evidence Promised—A Bilingual Jury Empanneled.

MONTREAL, June 21(—Canadian Press).—Production of mysterious witnesses who possess sensational evidence in the Delorme case, was promised this morning by R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor when Father Adelard Delorme entered the prisoner's dock for the first actual session of his trial on the charge of murdering his half-brother on January 6, 1922. Calders announcement was the fulfilment of a widely circulated report that the present case would be featured by new and sensational evidence.

Another new witness to be called is a New York finger print expert named Osborne. The entire forenoon was occupied by Mr. Calders address to the jury, outlining the case and the proof he would make.

Throughout the expose Father Delorme wrote steadily upon a thick pad of paper supplied him by his chief counsel Alleyn Taschereau, K.C.

Bilingual Jury

When the trial of Father Adelard Delorme was resumed before Chief Justice Sir Frascois Lemieux here to-day the evidence was heard before a bilingual jury, that is to say, a jury comprised half of English speaking men and half French Canadians. This was demanded by Alleyn Taschereau, K.C., counsel for the defence yesterday. Not until seven o'clock last night was the panel finally selected, one hundred and eighty talesmen having been summoned and majority of them examined before final selection was made.

At the joint request of both the Crown and defence all witnesses in the case were excluded from the court, R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, then addressed the jury.

"There is no need to conceal the fact that your duty in this case is of grave and great importance and it is for that reason that I wish to stress your particular duties," he began. The prosecutor then referred to the deulge of newspaper articles, which he said, had contributed largely toward prejudicing public opinion in the case. He especially warned jurors to forget Delorme's clerical rank and not permit this condition to influence them into giving a verdict of not guilty if they really believed him guilty.

Step by step Mr. Calder outlined various phases of the case which he would develop in building up of his case.

In this process he reviewed various phases of Delorme's personal and family history and of the events which immediately preceded the death of Raoul De'orme Jan. 6-7, 1922.

PATTE AND WOLFF FOXES LIMITED

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that under the First Part of chapter 79 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1906, known as "The Companies Act," and amending Acts, letters patent have been issued under the Seal of the Secretary of State of Canada, bearing date the 1st day of June, 1923, incorporating Joseph Aloysius O'Brien, solicitor, Norman Campbell Hatton, insurance agent, Robena Hardwick, bookkeeper, Edith Savigny and Nora Shevlin, stenographers, all of the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario, for the following purposes, viz:—

(a) To buy, sell as wholesale, retail and commission merchants, and to breed, rear and otherwise howsoever deal in and deal with foxes and other wild and domestic animals, and their pelts, skins and products thereof;

(b) To carry on any other business (whether manufacturing or otherwise) which may seem to the company capable of being conveniently carried on in connection with its business or calculated directly or indirectly to enhance the value of or render profitable any of the company's property or rights;

(c) To acquire or undertake the whole or any part of the business, property and liabilities of any person or company carrying on any business which the company is authorized to carry on, or possessed of property suitable for the purposes of the company;

(d) To apply for, purchase or otherwise acquire, any patents, licenses, concessions and the like, conferring any exclusive or non-exclusive, or limited right to use, or any secret or other information as to any invention which may seem capable of being used for any of the purposes of the company, or the acquisition of which may seem calculated directly or indirectly to benefit the company, and to use, exercise, develop or grant licenses in respect of, or otherwise turn to account the property, rights or information so acquired;

(e) To enter into partnership or into any arrangement for sharing of profits, union of interests, co-operation, joint adventure, reciprocal concession or otherwise, with any person or company carrying on or engaged in or about to carry on or engage in any business or transaction which the company is authorized to carry on or engage in, or any business or transaction capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit the company, and to lend money to, guarantee the contracts of, or otherwise assist any such person or company, and to take or otherwise acquire shares and securities of any such company, and to sell, hold, re-issue, with or without guarantee, or otherwise deal with the same;

(f) To take, or otherwise acquire and hold shares in any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of the company or carrying on any business capable of being conducted so as directly or indirectly to benefit the company;

(g) To enter into any arrangements with any authorities municipal local or otherwise, that may seem conducive to the company's objects, or any of them, and to obtain from any such authority any rights, privileges and concessions which the company may think it desirable to obtain, and to carry out, exercise and comply with any such arrangements, rights, privileges and concessions;

(h) To establish and support or aid in the establishment and support of associations, institutions, funds, trusts and conveniences calculated to benefit employees or ex-employees of the company (or its predecessors in business) or the dependents or connections of such persons, and to grant pensions and allowances, and to make payments towards insurance, and to subscribe or guarantee money for charitable or benevolent objects, or for any exhibition or for any public, general or useful object;

(i) To promote any company or companies for the purpose of acquiring all or any of the property and liabilities of the company, or for any other purpose, which may seem directly or indirectly calculated to benefit the company;

(j) To purchase, take on lease or in exchange, hire or otherwise acquire, any personal property and any rights or privileges which the company may think necessary or convenient for the purposes of its business and in particular any machinery, plant, stock-in-trade;

(k) To construct, improve, maintain, work, manage, carry out or control any roads, ways, branches or sidings, bridges, reservoirs, watercourses, wharves, manufactories, warehouses, electric works, shops, stores and other works and conveniences which may seem calculated directly or indirectly to advance the company's interests, and to contribute to, subsidize or otherwise assist or take part in the construction, improvement, maintenance, working, management, carrying out or control thereof;

(l) To lend money to customers and others having dealings with the company and to guarantee the performance of contracts by any such persons;

(m) To draw, make, accept, endorse, execute and issue promissory notes, bills of exchange, bills of lading, warrants and other negotiable or transferable instruments;

(n) To sell or dispose of the undertaking of the company or any part thereof for such consideration as the company may think fit, and in particular for shares, debentures or securities or any other company having objects altogether or in part similar to those of the company;

(o) To apply for, secure, acquire, by assignment, transfer, purchase, or otherwise, and to exercise, carry out and enjoy any charter, license, power, authority, franchise, concession, rights or privileges, which any government or authority or any corporation or other public body may be empowered to grant and to pay for, aid in and contribute towards carrying the same into effect, and to appropriate any of the company's shares, bonds and assets to defray the necessary costs., charges and expenses thereof;

(p) To procure the company to be registered and recognized in any foreign country and to designate persons therein according to the laws of such foreign country to represent this company and to accept service for and on behalf of the company of any process or suit;

(q) To purchase, take on lease, or in exchange, or otherwise acquire any real property, and to hold the same for the company's purposes, and to sell and dispose of the same and to acquire any real estate rights or privileges which the company may think necessary or convenient for the purposes of its business;

(r) To raise and assist in raising money for, and to aid, by way of bonus, loan, promise, endorsement, guarantee of bonds, debentures or other securities or otherwise, any other company or corporation with which the company may have business relations, and to guarantee the performance of contracts by any such company, corporation, or by any such person or persons;

(s) To adopt such means of making known the products of the company as may seem expedient and in particular by advertising in the press, by circulars, by purchase and exhibition of works of art or interest, by publication of books and periodicals and by granting prizes, rewards and donations;

(t) To sell, improve, manage, develop, exchange, lease, dispose of, turn to account or otherwise deal with all or any part of the property and rights of the company;

(u) To do all or any of the above things as principals, agents, contractors or otherwise and either alone or in conjunction with others;

(v) To do all such other things as are incidental or conducive to the attainment of the above objects.

The operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere by the name of "Patte and Wolff Foxes Limited, with a capital stock of fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars, divided into 500 shares of one hundred ($100) dollars each, and the chief place of business of the said company to be at the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario.

ANOTHER LARGE BANKING HOUSE GOES BANKRUPT

Old and Well - Known Members of New York Stock Exchange Forced to the Wall.

WALL ST. SHAKEN.

NEW YORK, June 20 (Canadian Press). — Caught in the maelstrom of rumours with which Wall Street has seethed for the past few days, Zimmerman & Forshay, one of the oldest and best known members of the New York Stock Exchange was forced to the wall yesterday.

The crash, coming on the heels of an announcement by President Cromwell of the Exchange, on Tuesday, that an investigation had disclosed rumours of impending failures to be without foundation, caused a bad break in the market, more than 80 of the most popular shares tobogganing to new low records for the year, with losses of 2 to 5 points.

President Cromwell, in an interview yesterday afternoon declared he was ready to repeat his statement of Tuesday that Exchange officials knew of no member of the house that was in trouble. He admitted, however, that "any statement as to the condition of a brokerage firm is but the statement of a moment and is not a prophecy." He would not hazard a flat prediction that none of the eight or nine firms concerning which rumours have veen floated would not fail to-morrow.

No less than six times yesterday forenoon, he said, he had received reports that firm of Zimmerman & Forshay was on the verge of arranging a loan on the basis of its claims against the Alien Property Custodian for moneys impounded during the war. But the negotiations fell through and the firm closed its doors shortly after noon.

Filing of an involuntary petition in bankruptcy quickly followed, and Gordon Auchincloss was appointed receiver in $50,000 bond. The firm announced through its counsel that its liabilities were approximately $7,000,000, and that it had assets of $9,500,000. Inability to realise quickly on the assets, however, made it impossible for the firm to meet the run.

The firm had been subjected to a run since Monday, when rumours were circulated that it was about to follow the trail blazed last week by the now bankrupt house of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, which, like Zimmerman & Forshay, did a large banking business and trade in German exchange and letters of credit, in addition to its brokerage line.

Handicapped by the frozen condition of more than $2,000,000 in assets impounded by the Alien Property Custodian during the war, the firm tried to negotiate a loan on the basis of that claim, but failed.

The crsis came yesterday when the National Bank of Commerce, with which the firm kept its principal account, suspended certification of its cheques.

News of this action augmented the run on the firm, and shortly after noon the doors were closed.

Leopold Zimmerman, senior member of the firm, issued a long statement in which he declared the failure of the firm had been caused solely by the flotation of rumours concerning it, which caused an overwhelming run.

New Brunswick in Grip of Forest Fires.

FREDERICTON, N.B., June 21 —(Canadian Press). The urohibition of forest travel in New Brunswick, which was put into force in the eight northern counties by a proc lamation issued by Hon. C. W. Robinson Minister of Lands and Mines during the week-end was extended to entire Province by another proclamation here last evening.

Extension of the prohibition of forest travel to the whole Province also illustrates the growing seriousness of the fire hazard. The most intense heat wave in memory has thoroughly parched New Brunswick until the forests from one end of the Province to the other are as dry as tinder.

TOURISTS LOCATE APSLEY DISTRICT.

Good Fishing is Attraction—News Nuggets of Interest.

APSLEY, June 21.—The first pic nic of the season was held at Lasswade on Tuesday under the auspices of the Grace Methodist Church and was an unqualified success a big crowd and fine weather favouring the occasion. Nearly $150 was real ized. A large contingent came from Coe Hill and there were also present Major T. D. Johnston, Mr. Sexsmith T. J. Bullied and others from Peterborough.

Tourist Trade

This district is already getting its share of the tourist trade, fishing be ing the attraction. On Friday three cars came from the States on their way to Paudash Lake, but finding the roads urther north not practicable for motors returned to Loon Lake, where they are camping. An other car belonging to the party joined them on Saturday. A party from Ohio are at Jack's Lake where the fishing is reported good. One of the party received by telegraph the sad news of the death of his son in-law at Cleveland and through an auto accident and left at once for his home.

Toronto Club House

The Toronto Club House on Loon Lake, perhaps better known as Denike's seems to have fallen on bad days. A quantity of the appointments of the cottage was seized a short time ago and sold to meet the unpaid taxes.

News Briefs

On Sunday evening Miss Myrtle Windsor presided at the organ at St. Georges' Church in the absence of Mrs. J. Downing.

On Sunday next the Rev. J. L. Hughes of Young's Point, is exchang ing duties with Rev. C. A. G. Spence. There will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 a.m. at St. George's Church.

NEWS DELAY IS CAUSE OF DROP IN MARK PRICE

Financial News Was Ten Hours Late Reaching Berlin—Prices Rose and Then Fell Back Again.

Nerve-Wracking Day.

BERLIN, June 21 (Canadian Press). — The financial reports from New York were about ten hours late in reaching Berlin yesterday, and the delay contributed greatly to a nerve-racking day on the Bourse.

There was a mad rush to cover on stock tradings as the mark opened at 123,000 to the dollar, and rallied to 101,000, only to slip back late in the afternoon to 117,000.

While the brokers were feverishly trying to rgduce their losses down in the financial district, Chancellor Cuno sat in his Wilhelmstrass office surrounded by the best financial talent available, trying to find some means strong enough to stem the tide of the mark's depreciation.

It is reported that no final conclusions were reached and that the conference will continue to-day, but the fact that the Chancellor is consulting the bankers is credited with having lent a certain amount of strength to the German currency.

It is understood that the questions discussed included measures to gather further support for the mark, such as the Reichsbank has been affording lately; the advisability of the Reichsbank hereafter giving credits on a gold basis; an increase in the obligatory internal loan and the adjustment of taxes to meet the mark's depreciation.

The question is also said to have been raised of floating another loan in dollar treasury bills. The Socialists are reported to be behind the movement to have the Reichsbank credits placed on a gold foundation in order that interest payments might be required on the same basis, a guard thus being provided against the possibility of the credits being used in speculation.

A great deal of discussion is heard in financial circles regarding the probability of the adoption of measures prohibiting traffic in foreign currencies, outside of official hours on the stock exchange.

This, and the report that the Reichsbank had re-entered the money market for the sake of rescuing the mark is believed to have done much to bring it back once yesterday nearly to the status of a week ago when the 100,000 limit was touched for the first time. The financial experts are said to be agreed that the high rate of last week was entirely unjustified. Some quarters call attention to the currency circulation of about eleven trillion marks, but declare that the gold reserve behind this paper is so large that the rate should not legitimately have been more than 25,000 to the dollar.

Yesterday's halt in depreciation, accompanied by the mark's partial recovery, serves to allay somewhat the fears recently entertained that the working people might become unruly and initiate outlaw strikes.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Transmission Lines Have Been Repaired—Personal Mention.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21. — Manager R. W. Scott, of the local Utilities Commission, and his staff, assisted by some of the Hydro employees, who have been the busiest people in town since the damage done to the main transmission line by Tuesday's electrical and wind storm, were able to get the service restored about 9.15 last evening, and Campbellford assumed its usual well illuminated appearance, much to the convenience of its power and light users.

Teacher Gets Medal.

Friends of Miss Winnifred Armstrong, B.A., of town, who has been on the staff of the Collegiate Institute, Medicine Hat, Alberta, is spending a short holiday at the home of her sister, Mrs. G. A. Kingston, before going to Toronto for a summer course. Previous to Miss Armstrong's leaving Medicine Hat for the holidays, she was presented by the Board of Education with a bronze medal, denoting 100 per cent. efficiency, as 100 per cent. of her pupils were successful this year in their examinations. Miss Armstrong will resume her duties again at Medicine Hat in September.

The proceeds of the annual garden party held by St. Andrew's Church on Tuesday evening amounted to over $400. This amount exceeded the hopes of the most sanguine of those in charge and is most gratifying to the pastor and people.

Personals.

Miss Helen Wood, who has been attending the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, is spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Wood.

Mrs. Joseph Rosebush of Toronto, formerly of town, is renewing old acquaintances in town.

The Burnbrae School (S. S. No. 11) has been closed this week, due to the illness of the teacher, Mr. George Hamblin, in Norwood.

LIBERAL LEADER HERE ACCORDED AN OVATION CONFIDENT OF VICTORY

F. Wellington Hay Addressed Enthusiastic Audience at the Opera House in Interests of J. W. Meyers.

G. N. GORDON SPOKE.

F. Wellington Hay, the leader of the Liberal party in Ontario, made his first visit to Peterboro last night, speaking at the Grand Theatre in behalf of John W. Meyers, the Liberal candidate, his friend of nearly forty years since their boyhood days at school.

His appearance here marked the first stop in the last stage of his campaign, swinging out through the constituencies in the eastern end of the province. Unlike both Premier Drury and the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, both of whom are comparatively well known to local audiences, Mr. Hay came as a stranger except for the knowledge the public had gained of him through the press. His visit was in that respect awaited with all the more interest not only by the Liberals of Peterboro, but also by men and women of the other parties who seriously regard their franchise and try to inform themselves fully about the issues involved in the election of the men who advocate them.

Mr. Hay was enthusiastically welcomed at the C.P.R. station and accompanied up town by a long procession of motorists behind the 57th Rangers' band. The crowd at the theatre filled the ground floor seats with a fairly large overflow in the galletry. With the thermometer at its highest point of the year the atmosphere in the big auditorium was anything but comfortable, and the reception to Mr. Hay and also to Mr. Meyers was realistically warm.

J. J. Hartley, president of the West Peterboro Liberal Association, was chairman, and with him on the stage were Mr. Hay, Mr. Meyers, Arthur Slaght K.C. of Toronto, Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., and many of the rank and file of the Peterboro Liberals including a larger representation of women. In the front of the house the women comprised at least half the audience. The addresses were varied by several vocal solos by Mrs. George King, and were curtailed in view of the melting sultriness.

Neither Mr. Hay nor Mr. Meyers indulged in personalities. They laid emphasis on Ontario's need of a business administration and declared that the Liberal party should be the choice of the people. Both speakers stressed the Liberal party's claim to its fidelity to people of all classes, representing the electors as a whole, and not one particular group.

"Justice to all and special privilege to none" was Mr. Meyer's declaration, and in discussing the opportunities and advantages of a business administration Mr. Hay cited cases of the lack of business methods and the saving that would have been realized had sound methods been employed.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P.

Mr. Gordon reviewed the features of the Shevlin Clarke deal, and dwelt upon the purchase of the electrical properties in the Central Ontario system under the Hydro-Electric Commission's management which he intimated reflected adversely upon the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

The movement for public ownership of electrical power started in Peterboro in this district. Some twenty electrical companies were included in the group controlled by the holding company. The price paid was $8,350,000. It was first proposed that the four percent bonds should be issued for thirty years, and the Ontario cabinet was willing to make them for twenty years, but they were finally issued for only ten years, Mr. Gordon said, through the influence of Howard Ferguson. At the expiry of that term in 1926 the bonds will have to be refunded at a higher rate of interest which Mr. Gordon estimated at five or five and a half percent for twenty years, with a loss to the people who use the power of from $1,670,000 to $2,505,000. Mr. Ferguson thereby showed himself a friend of the big interest and not of the people. The facts had been brought out by the Gregory commission and were known to Sir Adam Beck who had stated them. Adam Beck fought a decent manly fight for the city of Peterboro, and deserved credit for it, Mr. Gordon said.

Ald. J. W. Meyers.

"I will consider it the greatest honor that could be conferred upon me if you entrust me with the responsibility of representing you in the provincial parliament during the the next four years" said Mr. Meyers at the outset of his address. "I do not intend to say that I can live up to the reputation Mr. Gordon and my other friends have given me, but I promise you that if I am elected I will do all in my power to further the intreest of our province of Ontario, and especially of the people of the riding of West Peterboro, rural and urban."

Mr. Meyers remarked that it was for the people to say by their votes on June 25th which of the three parties would administer the affairs of the province during the coming four years. The U.F.O.-Labor group was returned with the largest representation at the last elections. They were faced with difficulties in passing their legislation, and they had to depend on either the Liberals or Conservatives to help them.

"The Liberals proved themselves broad enough to say "we have a number of planks similar to those of the U.F.O., and we are willing to let the U.F.O. have a fair trial in governing the province. The plank of economy was probably the foremost that was identical with Liberal policies, and when wise, economical business-like legislation was introduced the Liberals supported it. I think you will agree with me that the Liberal members did right in supporting the U.F.O. in these matters. Looking back over the history of Liberalism you will find that Liberals always were inclined to assist good sound legislation. Therefore, it was greatly to the credit of the Liberal party the way they acted in the Legislature during the last four years.

The U.F.O. were elected on a platform of economy, and the people had every right to look to them for economical government. I believe they fully intended to carry out the pledges to the people and while Premier Drury was proof against the temptations of the treasury some of his followers were not quite as sound. They fell at the beginning to the extent of voting an additional salary of $600 each above their ordinary salary. It was only natural to think that as farmers, who have always to be economical, they would have brought their ideas of economy to the House. But as people do, they left their best qualities at home."

Mr. Meyers said that the Drury government couldn't have existed six months without the aid of the Liberals, and he couldn't understand why Mr. Drury was eager to get the reins of power in view of the prospect of going back with a smaller following than he has had. The lack of strength had been displayed by the Government's dependence on others.

"I'd like to see a stronger Government for Ontario these next four years, and I think that is the desire of the great mass of the people. I believe that the only party that will be able to carry on without fear will be the Liberal party. They have nominated progressive farmers, business men and professional men, and they should be able to form a Government that will carry on with strong, business-like legislation. Therein we can see the power of the Liberal party."

Mr. Meyers referred to Mr. Hay as a man whose character was above reproach. "I have known him for forty years. He has been a successful business man in his own riding. He is well thought of by the people of his constituency, and also by the people of Toronto where he has done business fort forty years.

I can truthfully say that Mr. Hay did not seek the office. It was a case of the office seeking the man. I met him shortly after he was tendered the leadership of the Liberal party. He said he would have to refuse it, that his business would suffer and he couldn't afford to take the position. After further thought he decided to accept it, and if Mr. Hay is elected as leader of the next Government of Ontario you will say that he has not disappointed you. He will bring order out of chaos."

Justice to All.

"I believe in the Liberal policy" Mr. Meyers declared; "justice to all and special privilege to none. I believe the Liberal party is the only one to bring order out of the chaos in Ontario. Personally I have had a varied experience as a farmer and as a business man. I have had a close connexion with farmers and as an employer of labour I believe I should be able to give questions affecting farmers and all other workers every consideration.

I would like to roll up a good majority on Monday, not so much for myself, but I would like to see the Liberal party in power so that liberal principles may prevail in this province."

Francis Wellington Hay.

Thanking Mr. Meyers for his flattering remarks regarding him, Mr. Hay said it was his aim as leader of the Liberal party to make the province of Ontario more comfortable for the people to live in.

"Politics means sacrifice", he said. "If we are to amount to anything in this world we have to consider others besides ourselves, our families and our communities. That is the reason I am appearing before you tonight."

Mr. Hay expressed his pleasure in the interest women are taking in politics indicating that they realize their responsibilty to the state. If a great nation or a great province is to be built, it must be by elevating the standard of home life. By raising the standard of rural and urban life the people will be working toward the good of all mankind.

Referring to Mr. Meyers as a friend of many years standing, the speaker said he is the type of candidate he would like to see represent many riding in Ontario.

"We think because of the traditions of the Liberal party that it will be able to carry on the affairs of the province in the best way," he said. "I believe the people of the province are awakening to the fact that we can not administer the affairs of the province by playing politics. It is a business proposition. On the leaders of the two parties, U.F.O. and Conservative, I will make

MOUNT ETNA IS STILL SENDING OUT DISASTER

Boiling Lava Sweeps Over All—King Victor Emmanuel Arrives at Scene of the Tragedy.

RELIEF WORK.

CATANIA, June 21.—(Associated Press.)— The smiling, fruitful and thickly populated slopes of Mount Etna and the surrounding country, as the correspondent of the Associated Press saw them in the past, have now become with ghastly suddenness, 'the land of dreadful night.'

Through the thick darkness which can almost be felt, glows the crimson of the lava fire flowing from the broken lips of the craters, extending for miles, and gradually growing darker as the molten mass cools and hardens, until cracks and crevices appear on the surface through which can be seen bubbling up the boiling lava from beneath.

The fields of Fiume Freddo, Diana and Calatabiano, once green and beautiful, now covered with heavy deposits of dust and cinders, tremble and quiver beneath the feet, while the roaring sounds accompanying the eruption mingle with the rumbling of lorries through the darkness carrying away the refugees and their possessions from the doomed villages.

Approaching the volcano, masses of fiery material thrown up from the smaller craters can be seen; they roll slowly down the mountain side, and above them are dense clouds of smoke and vapor. One by one the splendid homes and villas, where the families in the neighborhood were accustomed to spend the summer months, are overborne and destroyed. Orchards and gardens have been consumed in the intense heat long before the lava reaches them, throwing off myriads of sparks, and finally smoulder down into grim blackness.

At Castiglione, where the progress of the devouring lava stream is slow, but steady, the inhabitants linger in thier houses, collecting and packing their collections, though doubtless most of these must be abandoned along the road. The living room in almost every house has been transformed into a chapel, with statues of the Madonna and Saints, and with candles burning before them, while kneeling figures prostrate themselves in prayer for protection.

Visit of the King.

The visit of King Victor Emmanuel was the outstanding event of the day. It served to infuse new courage and spur the helpers and workers to do prodigies to relieve the sufferers. The King, wherever he appeared, was the object of intense enthusiasm, the women especially crowding around the royal motor, holding up their children and telling them to look on the royal deliverer, crying: "Long live the King; he will see that we have all we need."

Victor Emmanuel was deeply moved by the horrors of the situation and expressed tenderest sympathy for all his people. In one dismal procession of refugees a young man in a shabby old military uniform, staggered along with an aged man on his back, almost worn out by the burden he had carried through the suffocating atmosphere. The King noticed the youth, who, for a moment stood with streams of perspiration streaking his face, blackened by smoke and dust.

Worse Than the Trenches.

"This is worse than when we were in the trenches on the Carso front," exclaimed the youth.

The King applauded the young soldier's devotion to his "father." The young man, saluting, replied that the aged man was not his father, but that he himself was an orphan who had lost every member of his family in the great earthquake at Messina. He had been adopted and cared for by the old man, who was a soldier.

"He has been more than a father to me," said the youth, "and I could not do less than save him now."

The King asked the name of the soldier's foster-father and promised the youth employment, saying that such devotion deserved to be rewarded.

The news of Premier Mussolini's departure for the scene of the disaster soon spread yesterday, and thrilled the people, who were informed that the premier had thrown up all engagements in order to mingle with those so terribly stricken by misfortune and observe for himself conditions and what the people most need.

The women of the stricken countryside, hearing of the King's arrival, said wistfully:

"Is not our Queen coming to comfort us, as she did before?"

Queen Helena's loving sympathy, practical help and competence as a nurse during the Messina catastrophe, made an indelible impression on the hearts of Southern Italians.

PRELIMINARIES DELORME TRIAL OUT OF THE WAY

Jury Has Been Chosen and Actual Work of Hearing the Evidence Will Start To-Day.

MANY REJECTED.

MONTREAL, June 221.—(Canadian Press).—Eight hours of strenuous argument in a sweltering court room brought the preliminaries to the trial of Father Delorme indicted of fratricide, to a close yesterday and cleared the stage for the actual hearing of evidence to-day.

The morning session which was spread over three hours, was devoted exclusively to the argument by Gustave Monette representing the priest's curator, that fresh insanity proceedings be held before the murder trial should proceed. The plea was labelled by Chief Justice Sir Francois Lemieux, who is hearing the case, 'as plausible to any person not knowing the law." The trial was then ordered to proceed.

When court resumed in the afternoon the selection of the jury was begun, a process which required four hours to complete and featured by wholesale rejections of talesmen on the grounds of prejudice as a result of newspaper articles on the case.

The selection of the jurors at times developed considerable color. One talesman who was rejected, confessed his embarrassment at being thrown into the spotlight of jury selection he believed he would lose his stage-fright, however, as the case proceeded. Another frankly admitted that he was prejudiced. "No evidence could change my opinion," he asserted but when pressed sharply by R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, admitted that his vehemence was due to a large measure to the fact that he did not wish to serve on the jury.

"I wasn't at all prejudiced when I first came into court," W. Tunnick declared, but since hearing are argument of Mr. Monette, I have formed a very decided opini on."

Leslie S. Mitchell told of his "mind being saturated with what re had read." He was prejudiced against the prisoner.

Throughout the tedious day, beyond showing the effects of the torrid atmospherre, Father Delorme focused his entire attention upon the proceedings. He munched pink and white peppermints steadily and as Mr. Monette at one juncture emphasized his plea that Delorme be not committed as he was incurably insane. The priest cried aloud from the dock: "No, No." At other times he grinned mockingly at his former attorney who now represents the trustee.

THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1923.

A QUIET CAMPAIGN.

With election day only a few days away, and in spite of the fact that the leaders of the three chief parties have all appeared in Peterborough during the campaign, it must be confessed that there are few visible signs that this community is any more than mildly interested in the contest.

This condition, by no means peculiar to Peterborough, is difficult to diagnose or to explain.

With three candidates in the field, the usual routine of meetings, the work of party organizations being carried on and more than the usual newspaper space being devoted to the campaign, the fact remains that the election has not yet succeeded in taking first place in the public mind, and that unless the people vote more freely than they talk about the situation the total polled on Monday is not likely to be much more than half the eligible vote.

The fault cannot be laid at the doors of the newspapers, nor can it be charged to the political parties.

Everything that has been possible to do to arouse interest and to stimulate the electors to a sense of their responsibility has been done.

If these efforts fail, as it seems only too evident that they are bound to do, some other methods of dissipating the public apathy will have to be found.

No wonder there are many advocates of compulsory voting, in spite of the manifest defects of such a plan.

CURE WORSE THAN THE DISEASE.

The accident last week on the Kingston highway in which a motorcycle traffic policeman was badly hurt in a collision with an automobile while chasing another car going at the rate of 70 miles an hour has aroused considerable discussion as to whether or not the practice of pursuing speeders at express train speed is the best way of making the roads safe.

The Examiner cannot help feeling that the pursuit under such conditions is decidedly more dangerous to traffic than the original offence.

A high-powered car comes along the highway at a rate a few miles above the limit, but well in hand and not a very great menace to the safety of those on the road.

A motorcycle officer observes that the legal limit is being exceeded and he whirls off in pursuit of the offender.

If he is seen his action is regarded in many cases by the driver ahead as a challenge.

The big car leaps forward suddenly at a clip that jumps from the fairly safe thirty miles an hour to twice that speed, and there is a wild chase, in which the safety of every other vehicle on that stretch of road is threatened.

It is just a question whether or not the motorcycle officer would not be wiser to let the speeder go than to force him into a pace that is fraught with peril.

Attempting to catch offenders by the pursuit route, as is the usual custom in such cases, seem to aggravate the trouble rather than cure it, and other ways of detecting speeders that suggest themselves are much safer and promise equally as successful results.

IF YOU DIDN'T PASS.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

Some of you have been hoping to graduate, and for one reason or another cannot do so. Some of the rest of you have been expecting a promotion you are not going to get. Naturally you are not as happy as your classmates who are to receive diplomas or are being transferred in a new grade.

Maybe your failure is partly your own fault, or maybe it is only your misfortune. You may have been ill, or the work you have been taking may have been especially hard for you. You are not all made alike. What is hard for one is easy for another and what is easy for one is hard for another. So perhaps you have been "up against it this term." And maybe there will be easier sailings ahead when you get past the shallow bottom where your boat scrapes.

But however things are don't be discouraged. There is a very old and very wise Chinese saying that goes this way: "It is no disgrace to fail, but it is a disgrace to give up."

So if you have done your best and have failed, grit your teeth and hold your head and smile. Or if you have not done your best, be just sorry enough to make some good, lasting resolutions, remember that another chance is coming and determine not to be foolish again.

But don't any of you give up. Go to it once more. Maybe a few thoughtless people will laugh, and maybe you will be scolded a little if you have been at fault. But, remember, the disgrace comes in quitting, not in failing.

The greatest people fail sometime; all who are worth anything make mistakes. But they do not give up. They remember that "if at first you don't succeed," you must "try, try again." This rule, and the old Chinese saying, are wonderful back stiffeners if you will only use them. With them, you can turn any failure into a success.

THE BOOM OVER?

As the Examiner pointed out a few days ago, many Canadians who, lured by high wages, went to the United States are returning to their native land, realizing that Canada has still the most to offer them.

The industrial boom across the line shows signs of faltering, as it was inevitable that it should do, because it was not built on a firm and logical foundation.

Reports gleaned by the Examiner from United States newspapers indicate that while in nearly all industries the factories are working full time and a few even overtime business expansion is no longer feverish.

The New York State Industrial Commissioner, in fact, reports a decrease in unemployment.

In certain regions, such as Buffalo, the opinion is expressed that the peak of the demand for labour has been reached, and in the iron and steel industry throughout the country there is talk that the April production was as high as may be expected for the present.

This is confirmed by the fact that there has been a marked decline during the last six weeks in several branches of the iron and steel trade.

The textile industries also report a falling off and building operations have been checked by the insatiate demands of the workers in the building trades who do not seem to know when the limit has been reached.

As a matter of fact, the only real shortage of labour in the United States at present is on the farms, and Canadians who refuse to accept such work on this side of the line are not likely to be tempted to go elsewhere for similar employment.

WHEN PRESBYTERIANS FALL OUT.

The fateful decision taken by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at Port Arthur on June 11th will undoubtedly make possible extensive economies and promote greater efficiency in religious work, but it seems likely to create a considerable cleavage in the ranks of Presbyterians. There is now available in Canada all the material for the repetition of the conflict which convulsed Scotland in the opening years of the present century. In 1900 the Free Church of Scotland and the United Presbyterian Church were merged into the United Free Church, but a number of congregations of the former declined to participate in the union and maintained that it involved a departure from the principles of that church and a breach of the conditions under which certain properties were held. The "loyalists" were especially strong in the Highlands and were at an early stage dubbed the "Wee Frees," a nickname which has now been transferred to the Asquithian Liberals.

The "Wee Frees," brought a legal action to establish their right to the Free Church properties on the ground that they were the sole remaining repository of Free Church principles. All the leading counsel in Scotland were engaged in the case, Lord Haldane being the chief legal adviser of the unionists. The latter won in the earlier trials in the Scottish Courts, but on appeal the House of Lords reversed the decision and gave a verdict for the "Wee Frees." Great indignation was aroused in unionist circles by the fact that the judge who turned the scales against them was the venerable Tory Chancellor Lord Halsbury, a High Anglican who made no secret of his complete innocence of any acquaintance with the merits of the religious controversies of Scotland.

The result of the decision was that the insignificant body of "Wee Frees," chiefly small groups of people living in remote districts, found themselves in legal possession of property worth millions of pounds which they could not possibly make satisfactory use of. The situation was intolerable and was speedily cured by legislation in the British Parliament. The "Wee Frees" were given an ultra-generous share, but the main body of the property passed to the Unionists. If the "Wee Frees," whose numbers were in proportion much smaller than the strength of the dissentient Presbyterian in Canada today, were able to cause so much trouble for their opponents, the victorious Canadian unionists would do well to adopt a conciliatory and generous temper and not provoke a similar conflict, which might soon spread to the law courts and legislatures of Canada.

Col. John Buchan has immortalized the final stage of the Scottish struggle in a poem entitled "Midian's Evil Day." It purports to be a letter written by Alexander Cargill, elder of the Kirk of the Remnant in the Vale of Wae, to the Reverend Murdo Mucklethraw of the aforesaid kirk, touching the great appeal case in the House of Lords which the elder had attended as delegate observer. Mr. Cargill thus describes his start for London:

"Wi' dowie heart I left that morn
Reflectin' on the woefu' scorn
The kirk must thole, her courts forlorn
While Amalek exalts his horn
And fills his poke."

His previous impressions of the English had been poor:

"I thought they were a careless race
Decked out in cold Erastian claes
Who travelled a' in slippery ways
Whose thochts were vain."

He had hard words for Lord Haldane who

"a wise-like man, but ill-advised Led on the hosts of Anti-Christ"

but he found an unexpected and doubly welcome champion in Lord Halsbury whose praises he thus hymned:

"O, wi' what unction he restored
The auld commandments of the Lord
Confounded Bashan's kine that roared
And 'stablished hell;
Knox was nae sounder in the Word
Nor Calvin's sell!

Eventually when the verdict has been given Mr. Cargill returns home, and as proof of his gratitude proceeds to rechristen his favorite shorthorn bull "The Chancellor."—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

This fishing season seems to be normal. That is, it is the largest fish that always gets away.

June is a bad month for non-stop political orators to work in.

Hon. Mr. Ferguson and Hon. Mr. Raney are to meet at catch weights in Fergus today. Both gladiators have been training faithfully, and although the O.T.A. is the subject of the debate, there should be nothing dry about the argument.

Peterborough is not being neglected by any of the parties. Mr. F. Wellington Hay, the Liberal chieftain, who was here last night, is the third party leader to speak in Peterborough during the campaign.

June weddings absolutely refuse to give the right-of-way to a June election. Wedding peals mingle with appeals for votes these days.

Mr. Ferguson declared some time ago that the Conservatives would win 10 out of the 12 seats in New Ontario. Now Malcolm Lang predicts that the Liberals will capture 9 seats there. Somebody is a bad guesser, but the Examiner prefers to wait until next Monday night to name him.

CHICAGO WHEAT.

CHICAGO, June 21. Canadian Press. — After the announcement of an important failure on the New York Stock Exchange, heavy selling here tumbled September and December wheat prices yesterday to a new low for the season. July wheat was weaker than September and December but kept above the season's low record for the July delivery, $1.01¼, made last October 6th. Yesterday's close was nervous at 2 3-8 to 3c net decline, with July and September both at $1.03 7-8 to $1.04, and December $1.06¼ to $1.06 5-8. Corn lost ¼ to 3-4c, and oats 5-8 to 3-4 and 7-8. In provisions the outcome varied from unchanged figures to 27c down.

WINNIPEG CATTLE.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 21. Canadian Press. — Receipts yesterday were 680 cattle and calves, 1570 hogs and 220 sheep and lambs.

There was a good demand with prices ruling stronger on the cattle market to-day for the general run of killing classes and stockers and feeders of good quality. The remainder of the offerings moved out around steady prices.

The hog market was steady over Tuesday, thick smooths being quoted at $8.35 and select bacons at $9.18½.

A few good spring lambs changed hands around $13 and mutton sheep at $7.

CASH GRAIN

MONTREAL, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain in the domestic grain was reported quiet yesterday. There was no actual change in the flour situation. A fairly steady feeling prevailed in the millfeed market. Business in rolled oats is quiet. A fair amount of business continues in baled hay. The trade in potatoes was slow. There was no further change in the butter market. A feature of the cheese market was the improved demand for supplies of spot.

What were you paying, Madam, for DAIRY BUTTER?

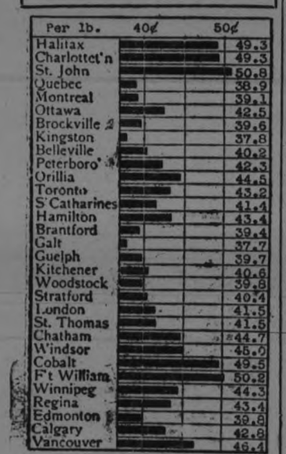
The Department of Labor at Ottawa says these were the average prices for May.



How do prices in your locality compare with other cities? Are you paying more or less than average? These prices are for average good quality "delivered" goods. Watch for the changes in this chart next month.

LIBERAL LEADER

no reflection. I think it is safe to say that I can not accuse Mr. Ferguson with having personally made any profit out of any transaction or irregularity in connection with his department; and in the person of the Prime Minister we have a man who ought to be worthy of every confidence. When it is necessary to come down to the discussion of personalities I will say nothing or I will step out of the politcal arena." (Applause).

The speaker told his audience that it is entertaining in the House at times during the session. "We open with prayer, but we don't often close that way." (Laughter).

Legislation Not Everything.

Legislation is passed in the house, the speaker continued, but that does not mean very much. It is a duty of the provincial parliament to make certain laws and regulations, but the legislation itself is not of great interest to the people of the province. Something of vital interest is the administration of the government departments. In the selection of a member it is not what happened in the house during the session or what the member said on one or two occasions, but it is the administration of the departments by the ministers that counts.

A man should not be selected to represent the riding because he promises to work for it alone. His mind must be broader than the district that sends him to parliament.

"We are probably over-governed" Mr. Hay said. "I think we should reduce the representation in the provincial house to about what it is in the Dominion house." This, the speaker said, would expedite business and save time in the legislature.

The Timber Transactions.

While he did not gain personally in the administration of the province in the department in which his authority lay, Mr. Hay said that Hon. G. H. Ferguson had lost vast sums of money to the province.

Reviewing briefly the history of the Shelvin Clarke deal, the speaker pointed out that after that lesson it would have been natural for the succeeding government to be very cautious in future transactions of a similar nature. "While I do not agree with all that Ferguson says about the Backus deal, I do say that the government did wrong in selling to Backus or anyone else the area that they did sell without giving it the proper advertisement and making careful investigations," Mr. Hay said.

Although Backus had sufficient timber areas already under his control to keep his mills running twenty years, the government made over to him a further block of 3,040 square miles of territory. "We think that Druruy should not have sold to Backus such extents of timber limits, and we promise you that no vast amounts of timber will be disposed of to any one buyer by the Liberal party, but we assure you that by splitting it up in small lots we will give the small man a chance. We believe that there ought to be a complete survey made of the great province of Ontario and the value of our standing timber arrived at. That is the best way, and the way the Liberal party will carry on."

Liberals Helped the U.F.O.

"We have no quarrel with the U.F.O." Mr. Hay continued. "We gave them our co-operation because we believed that it was the desire of the people to have a government and we did not wish to appeal to the country immediately after the 1919 election. The people viewed with great interest the formation of the Farmer-Labor party, and if by their co-operation for political purposes they could be brought together we thought it would be good for the country. We have no quarrel with them, but we do think that we have reached a time when people of the province believe that whatever the name of the party it must represent all the people of the province and not one particular occupational group. We do not believe that we can get the best form of government by having the control of the government in the hands of any one line of business."

Mr. Hay pointed out how interdependent the urban and rural sections of the community are. Increasing the spending power of the farmer is good for the urban communities.

The U.F.O. was a new form of government to which an opportunity was given because the people of the province believed in liberal thought. The U.F.O., instead of trying to drive the Liberal party out of the different ridings ought to say "because there is so little difference between our aims and aspirations and because of the co-operation you gave us, we will get behind you and return you to power." The U.F.O. will not do that, and the Liberay party must deal with them on their administrative record and on that alone, the speaker declared. Mr. Drury learned during the last four years that it is easier to govern from the outside than from within. He said he would have no caucus legislation could be introduced from any place in the House, but he found that was not responsible government. "We have fought for responsible government" Mr. Hay said, "and we stand for Liberal responsible government today. The government must take full responsibility for measures submitted to the house.

A Good Word For Drury.

"Mr. Drury is shrewd, and a likeable chap when you get to know him" sand Mr. Hay. "I don't think that Mr. Drury has any thought in his mind except to give legislation that is helpful, but it is hard to carry on a government without a party behind you than can give strong support. I hope a group will be returned that will have sufficient majority to carry on by itself."

The speaker thinks that if Mr. Drury had been quite honest he would have announced at the beginning of the session that a redistribution bill would be brought down, of it would have been announced in the speech from the Throne. As an example of the need for redistribution the speaker cited the riding of East and West Peterboro. In West Peterboro the population is given as 38,000 while in the East riding it is 14,000, so that a vote in the East is worth two in the West. The Liberal party offered to co-operate with Mr. Drury in his redistribution plans, but Mr. Drury expected Mr. Hay to sit up at night to work on the problem. If the Premier had been quite honest, the speaker thinks he should have said frankly "because of dissension in our ranks I will have to resign and dissolve the house and appeal to the country. I do not blame anyone. I should have given proper notice of the redistribution bill."

Business Men Needed.

The development of Northern Ontario and other problems which press upon the province at this time are problems to be met and solved by business men by business methods, Mr. Hay declared. Whatever government is in power must get away from the idea of the centralization of power. When a man becomes a minister of the crown he must not lock himself up in an office and see delegations only by appointment.

The Liberal Government, the speaker promised, would see that the ministers dealt with the matters direct with the people concerned. "If you have problems that require government attention," he said, "the minister should come to the city of Peterboro, not to be banquetted, but to sit down and talk over the problem with you and endeavor to give you satisfaction." (Applause).

Looking Ahead.

The Drury government followed the Conservative method of charging to capital account that which is not capital, Mr. Hay said. "The people of the province can absorb all the outstanding obligations, but for the critical period of the next five years we need a steadying adminstration. Prosperity will be brought to the country by the Liberal party. We will give fearless administration in all the departments of government."

The O.T.A.

In a ten minute address, A. G. Slaght, K.C. of Toronto made a strong attack on the Ferguson policy regarding the O.T.A. Mr. Ferguson, he said, has criticized the administration of the O.T.A. for the last four years, forgetting that as the right hand man of Hearst he was responsible with him for the administration of the act under the govenment.

It was the Hearts—Ferguson administration that, through their chosen license board, introduced the spotter system about which Mr. Ferguson quarrels so much now. The same government had liquor vendors who worked under its protection. When a seizure of liquor was made by the officers charged with enforcing the act, instead of pouring it into the sewer they sold it to the Government vendors who re-bottled it and sold it on doctors' prescriptions during the 'flu epidemic. "I do not believe, therefore, it lies in Mr. Ferguson to criticize the present O.T.A. administration."

EDUCATION MEANS MONEY.

CHICAGO, Ill.—(United Press)—If you finish high school you will add $20,000 to your life income and if you go through college you will add $68,000. This was the assertion of Prof. A. N. Farmer based on government statistics in an address here before a meeting of educators. "Uneducated laborers," said Farmer, "earn an average of $500 per year for forty years, or a total of $20,000 for their life. High school graduates earn an average of $1,000 per year for forty years, or $40,000. College graduates earn an average of $2,220 per year for forty years, or $88,000."

LIVED WEEK ON $2.50.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 21. —(United Press).—Just to prove that it could be done, Monroe Worthington reporter for the Huntington Herald-Dispatch, lived for a week on $2.50 and reported his experiences each day in his paper.

One of the rules was that he mustn't accept free meals.

So, when News Editor Wiatt Smith assigned Worthington to "cover" a banquet of the American Institute of Banking, other members of the staff called it cruel and inhuman treatment.

But worthington refused to sit on the sidelines and watch the others eat. Nor would he break the rules. Fortified with restaurant price lists, he conscientiously at exactly 75 cents worth, then donated the 75 cents to the Salvation Army, and had 72 cents left out of his $2.50 on which to eat the remaining two days of the week.

Gas From Food Presses on Heart

If food does not digest it turns into poisons which form gas. This often presses on heart and other organs causing a nervous, restless feeling. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Alderika, removes foul, decaying food-matter you never thought was in your system which caused gas and pressure on heart. Alderika expels poisons and gas from BOTH uper and lower bowel. EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis. McDermid & Jury, E. L. Payne, druggist.

GARAGES IN PALESTINE.

NAZARETH, Palestine, June 21. —(Associated Press)—The automobile in Palestine, made possible by the good roads, has brought with it the modern garage and repair shop, usually in charge of Arabs, Syrians or Jews who learned the trade in the United States.

Even in Nazareth, which in other respects is little different in its seclusion and repose from that day 20 centuries ago when the Saviour sent forth the message of brotherhood and equality which transformed the world, there are modern garages and machine shops. They make a striking contrast with the poor homes of the natives, and are within a short distance of the site of the abode which once was the carpenter shop of the Master of Men.

WEDDING BELLS

MOLONEY—SCOTT

At St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of a quiet and pretty wedding of local interest on Wednesday morning, June 20th when Miss Rosamonde Scott and Mr. Roderick A. Moloney of Douro were united in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The winsome bride was attended by her sister Mary Ellen, while the groom who for some years has been an active and efficient figure in municipal and civic interests, was ably supported by his cousin Roger Moloney.

The sumptuous wedding repast at the home of the bride's parents was the occasion of a happy gathering after which the newly married couple left for a honeymoon among the Thousand Islands. On their return they will occupy their beautiful farm home in West Douro.

MULLIGAN—RYLEY.

On Saturday, at 3 o'clock, the marriage took place at the Baptist Church, Lindsay, of Isobel Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ryley, and Dr. Clifford Victor Mulligan, son of the late Robert J. Mulligan, and Mrs. Mulligan, of Omemee.

The church was decorated with bridal wreaths, ferns and iris, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Gordon M. Holmes.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of oyster-white pleated georgette, with long satin train falling from the shoulders, where it was caught by pearl tassels. She wore a coronet of rose point lace and tulle veil and a brooch worn by her grandmother on her wedding day. Her bouquet was a shower of lily of the valley and maiden hair fern.

The bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Matthews, of Brantford. She wore a gown of clover shade georgette beaded in crystal, with silver shoes and a hat of clover georgette trimmed with uncurled ostrich. She carried clover and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. Mervin Sutcliffe was the groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. George Ryley, of Brantford, and Mr. W. Lloyd Wood, Jr., of Lindsay.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Peter Spratt sang, "All Joy Be Thine," and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Gilmore.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Ryley was becomingly gowned in brown crepe, hat of brown crepe and ostrich and corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Mulligan wore a black lace gown, with black hat and corsage of orchids. The house was decorated with honeysuckle, spirea and snowballs, and the bride's table was done with pink roses. The bride cut the wedding cake with her grandfather's sword.

Dr. and Mrs. Mulligan left for a motor trip, the bride wearing a gown of brown crepe and rust georgette, with hat to match, a wrap of brown marella and stone marten fur.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Port Mann, B.C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was tired and run-down. I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleepleasness. I tried many medicines, but nothing did me any real good. While I was living in Washington I was recommended by a stranger to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. GREAVES, Port Mann, B. C.

Most Urgent Wants

There's a world of interest in the Want Ads. They reflect the urgent desires of various businesses, households and individuals.

The Wants tell what is most needed. If the cook has left, if a worker is needed in the office or factory, if an article of value is lost or found, if there is urgent necessity to sell a piece of property, secure tenants, roomers or boarders—all such conditions are expressed and met in the Want Columns.

The Wants are close to the heart interests of hte people. It is interesting to watch them carefully.

REFORESTATION PROJECT TO RECLAIM WASTE LAND

Council of Northumberland and Durham Favors Doing Something For Posterity As Well As Beautifying Certain Localities.

COBOURG, June 21. — None of the committee was ready to report when the Counties' Council resumed on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock but an important question was discussed when Warden Smith brought up the matter of reforestation. The members appeared unanimously in favour of doing something for posterity, while at the same time improving the appearance and adding to the value of the waste land in Northumberland and Durham.

Warden Smith suggested that this question be referred to a standing or a special committee, and then invited Col. McNachtan, the clerk, to explain the reforestation scheme as planned by the Provincial Government.

The Colonel said that there is a strip of land, practically of no value for agricultural purposes, from which the timber was cut years ago. This strip extends from Trenton to Cartwright and Darlington Townships. Some of the people who settled on it and attempted to make a living farming had died paupers in the House of Refuge.

The Colonel went on to explain that if a municipality acquired a plot of this land the Government would set out the trees and care for them, free of cost, for ten years, at the end of which time the property would revert to the township. Premier Drury had explained to a delegation that the Government's reason for not paying for the land was that if the Province appeared as a purchaser the present owners would hold up the price.

Members in Favour.

Reeve Clarke, of Cramahe Township, told how a resident of that municipality, who had knolls of "blow" sand on his farm, had planted them to trees, which were doing well. The Township Council had taken steps to avail themselves of the Government's offer.

Reeve Fowlds Makes Motion.

Reeve Fowlds of Hastings was in favour of the purchase of these waste lands for reforestation. He would go slowly, however, acquiring a small section every year, and expressed the opinion that it would be found to be a paying investment. He referred to a plot of four or five acres in Peterborough County, near Norwood, upon which reforestation had been tried, and where the experiment had proved successful. He moved that Warden Smith appoint a special committee to look into the matter further, and the motion was supported by Reeve Courtice of Darlington.

Cavan to Take Action.

The point was raised that the Government insisted as a condition that all reforestation plots be situated near the public highway so that people could note the growth of the young trees.

Reeve McCamus of Cavan said that his township would take the matter up if this restriction was removed.

Some of the members stated that while it was desirable to have the plots situated near a public road, it was not essential in order to secure Government action.

Reeve Clarke of Cramahe stated that about the only man who ever passed the plot in his township in the course of a year was the rural mail carrier.

Committee Named.

Warden Smith then named the following special committee, to report at the December session: Reeves Fowlds of Hastings, Courtice of Darlington, Allin of Clarke, Honey of Alnwick, and Deputy-Reeve Haig of Haldimand.

The committee will, among other matters, consider whether the lands required for reforestation should be acquired by the townships interested or by the counties as a whole.

The reports of the commisioners of the various county bridges were received and referred to committee.

Reputy-Reeve Wilkinson recommended a coat of paint, to cost 50.00, for the bridge at Wilson Island, near Hoard's Station.

Council adjourned until 3 p.m.

HOW TO SLEEP 3-IN-A-BED

YES, it CAN be done—but not like this.

The trouble is, most people go to bed with "something" on the mind—or ON THE STOMACH!

The answer is, no matter what the day has brought forth to upset your mind and digestive organs, take Beecham's Pills when you retire.

Though in no sense a "sleeping potion," this 80-years-famous household medicine so harmonizes the system that you can sleep in quiet and perfect rest, even in two feet of bed space.

Beecham's Pills are as efficient and harmless for children as for adults—sweetening the stomach, invigorating digestion and stirring liver and bowels to natural activity.

U. F. O. PICNIC IN EAST PETERBORO YESTERDAY

A Large Crowd Turned Out in Spite of the Intense Heat — Political Issues Discussed.

INDIAN RIVER, June 21—The U. F. O. picnic at Indian River yesterday was well attended. Between eight and nine hundred people came from the surrounding countryside, to sit in the blazing sun and listen to orators, whose numbers included Mrs. M. Laws of Toronto, president of the United Farm Women of Ontario, J. L. Brown, M.P. of Lisgar Manitoba and E. N. McDonald U.F.O. candidate for East Peterboro. F. Easson, reeve of Keene, occupied the chair.

Mr. McDonald the first speaker, put somewhat of a damper on the oratory of his fellow-speakers by deciding that a picnic was not the proper place for a political discussion. He confined his remarks to a declaration of willingness to discuss matters with the electorate on a public platform at any time, and said that he had done nothing in the four years of his occupancy of a seat in the Provincial House of which he was ashamed.

Lady Speaker

Mrs. Laws, possessor of a confident platform manner and a penetrating voice, named the gathering as a "meeting of the dying U.F.O. and I was just thinking what a lively corpse we are." She characterized politics as "the science that touches for good or evil every interest of your home or mine," and spoke hopefully of the time when "party politics as we know them to-day, will be relegated where a great many other pagan interests are."

Speaking of an experience of her own when, as a small child, she was allowed to remain unnoticed during a grave conference of men just prior to an election, she said the result of an entire evening's deliberation of her father and hi friends all staunch Conservatives, was that "there are sixteen men that must be seen," and she had no doubt that the Liberals of that time, meeting in just such a secret session, had arrived at the same doughty conclusion.

The message to the voting public just now was, in her opinion, "you have a great responsibility. Accept it." The great danger in political life, as she saw it, was that of seeing in politics only the leader. "When you say politics to a Conservative, he sees, although he may not be proud of him, only Howard Ferguson. The Liberals see Wellington Hay, and we see Mr. Drury. Now Mr. Drury is a great man, but when you look at some of these great societies, like the Oddfellows or the Masons, you find out that they do not lay any stress on personalities, but dwell always on the priniciples which they unite to advance. We should take a leaf out of their book. To take our place as a representatives of a great, basic industry, we must organize. If we stick to individualism, we will get nowhere."

The Fate of Ananias.

J. L. Brown, M.P. of Lisgar, Manitoba, introduced by Mr. Eason as "the man who defeated Bob Rogers," said that in condemning politicians of the past, we should not forget, that in the main, they were fairly representative of the people. He spoke of his regret at not being allowed to make a political speech, which he promised to do, however, at the Lakefield meeting which was scheduled for last night.

Referring to what he termed the exploitation of the farmer in the past by every member of the community, he said that help could be had only by sticking together. "The great danger is this; of asking governments to do what we ought to do for ourselves. The vital spirit of the farmers' movement is the emphasis that should be laid on the fact that the forces of Government are the people's business.

In the past, politics have been a fair reflection of the mind of the people. Now we are emphasizing the responsibility of the individual in the governing of the sttae. The one prime duty of every man and woman here is to go to the polls on next Monday, without being coaxed or drawn there."

The speaker warned his hearers against half truths and misrepresentations of facts or situations in political life. "If you find men of any party telling things which are not true or deliberately intended to mislead by only a partial statement of the case, those men should be treated as Ananias was treated. The time has come when the electors of Ontario must say one of two things; either "You have been faithful in a few things. Go up higher," or "You have been faithless in the charge committed to you. You are discharged," and no consideration of party or otherwise should prevent us saying "you are discharged," if they have been faithless in the charge committed to them. In political life, the same principles should obtain as in private life .Morality, good religion and good politics are one and the same thing. The time has come when the public is going to let pass by, as if it were a matter of no account, actions which in private life would not for a moment be condoned."

"I want to impress upon you that the eyes of Canaad are on Ontario to-day, to see whether our movement has been simply a flash in the pan, a thing of mushroom growth, or whether it is a virile, strong plant."

Efficiency Necessary.

Mr. Brown spoke of the wonderful receptoin accorded Mr. Drury on a recent visit to the city of Winnipeg, where he was entertained by the Canadain Club, and leading citizens from all walks of life turned out to do him honor. Mr. Drury represents the very best type of Canadian citizenship. We want a Government of high ideals, but perhaps it is not sufficient to have men of good character. We need efficiency also. We have got that?"

Mr. Brown recounted the experience of the traveller who met during his wanderings the most efficient woman he had ever encountered. This was a lady of Switzerland, who, when the narrator saw her, was occupied in various ways. At one and the same time, she was knitting, reading a book propped up on a stand in front of her, churning with one foot, and rocking the cradle with another, "and, best of all," went on the orator, "she was pressing a Swiss cheese."

"No government has ever been as efficient as that. I think only a woman could be quite as efficient as that." The interest that women are taking in political questions, particularly farm women, was commended by Mr. Brown, who said: "If rural depopulation and the movement away from the farms is going to be checked, we will have to give a different type of life to women on the farms. The tendency is toward city life, and if this movement is not checked in time, we will see the Anglo-Saxon race die out, and some other race will occupy the land."

Cup to Debaters.

The presentation of the silver cup awarded by the U.F.O. Club of East Peterboro to the winning team in the series of debates held throughout the county during the winter months by the young people's clubs was made yesterday afternoon to the winners of this season, the Indian River club, and acknowledged by their president, Cecil Bolton.

G. A. Brethen, of Norwood, also presented the silver cup given by him for competition at the annual picnic in relay races, open to the municipalities of East Peterboro. Last year, the Havelock runners won this cup, and were again winners this year, giving them permanent possession of the trophy.

Baseball and football games, and a dance in the evening, completed the enjoyment of those who attended the Indian River picnic yesterday.

INCREASE IN EQUALIZATION TWO COUNTIES

Committee of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council Agree as to Per Centage.

SCHOOL REPORTS.

COBOURG, June 20. — The Committee of Equalization appointed at the opening session of the Counties' Council on Monday, and consisting of the reeves of the different municipalities, will report in favor of increasing the equalization of the towns and villages and in leaving the rating of the townships as it stands at present. The amount of the increase agreed upon in the first draft of a report was that 25 per cent. be added to the increase in the assessed value of each since the year 1912.

This would mean the addition of $133,732 to the equalization in Campbellford. If the county rate this year is the same as in 1922, approximately 10 mills, it would raise the town's contribution to the county treasury by $1337, an extra mill on the tax rate.

The Comittee's Organization.

When the committee met yesterday morning, Reeve Walter M. Foulds of Hastings, who for some time has advocated a change in the equalization, was unanimously elected chairman. A discussion that lasted for over an hour resulted in nothing and finally it was agreed to appoint a sub-committee of six, three from the urban and three from the rural municipalities, to draw up a plan. Those selected were Reeve Foulds, Reeve Anderson of Campbellford, Reeve Semple of Cobourg, Reeve Courtice of Darlington, Reeve Hartt of Murray and Reeve Allin of Clarke.

Twenty-Five Per Cent. Increase

When the sub-committee rose for the noon session they had agreed to report in favor of taking the increase on the assessment of the towns and villages since 1912, and to add to their present equalization 25 per cent. of this amount. This would mean an increase in the total equalization of the two counties, which at present is $29,169,334, of $770,000. The various municipalities to be affected by the change and the amount in each case would be as follows:

Campbellford, assessment in 1912, $991,812; present assessment, $1,526,730; increase $534,938. Twenty-five per cent. of this would add $133,732 to the equalization.

Cobourg — Assessment in 1912 $1,880,103; present assessment $2,763,496; increase $883,393; twenty-five per cent. of which would add $220,848 to the equalization.

Hastings — Assessment in 1912 $267,108; present assessment, $312,074 increase in equalization $11,266.

Millbrook, assessment in 1912, $247,292; present assessment, $272,630; increase in equalisation, $8,834.

The equalisation of Port Hope and Brighton Village would be increased in about the same proportion.

If the recommendation of the sub-committee is finally adopted by the Council, Campbellford will be called upon to pay $1,330 more in county taxes, Hastings $110, Millbrook $80, Cobourg $2,200, and Brighton $1,710.

Colborne Village is not interested as the present assessment of this municipality is lower than it was in 1912.

Reduction Suggested.

During the noon recess this question was the chief topic of discussion in the hotel lobbies. The Reeves from the townships appeared to be of the opinion that the proposed percentage of increase was too low, while those from the towns and villages were just as set in the view that it was too high. The sub-committee decided to hold another session last night, and the percentages most frequently mentioned were 15 and 20. Before the proposition gets through the Council there is almost certain to be a reduction from the figure first agreed upon in committee.

The School Reports.

This is the year when the Boards of the High and Continuation Schools in the counties sent in their triennial reports showing the percentage of attendance of pupils from outside the municipalities, reports upon which the counties' share of the cost of maintenance is computed. Ten of these reports were found by the Committee on Schools to be incorrect, the common error being in addition; eight were accepted, while the school at Lindsay, which has pupils from Northumberland and Durham, failed to report.

Guests of J. D. Hayden.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Council, as the guests of J. D Hayden, president of the Cobourg Horse Show, were taken in automobiles to visit the hospital, every department of which was inspected by the visitors, who were loud in their praise of the management of the institution and of the way in which the grounds are maintained. The guests were entertained at lunch by Mr. Hayden, who afterwards took them to visit some of the homes of American residents in the district.

Bad News From Home.

Deputy Reeve Nelson, of Seymour, received a telephone message yesterday afternoon from his home near Campbellford, informing him that three of his cows had been killed by lightning in an electric storm which had just swept over the district. The cows were valuable thoroughbred Holsteins. The bolt struck half-way between the house and the barn, and the cattle were standing near a wire fence. They were insured.

THE GRAND TRUNKS TRIMMED COBOURG

Hard Fought, Gruelling Contest, in Summer Heat Ended in 7-4 Score

BELLEVILLE, June 21 (Special to The Examiner). — Perseverance usually wins, and that is what won the ball game here for the Grand Trunks on Wednesday afternoon, when they trimmed Cobourg 7-4 in a hard fought, gruelling contest, fought in real hot summer weather.

Cobourg dug in early, scoring 3 in the first inning, but the Trunks got 2 in the second and 1 in the third, tying the score, which remained deadlocked until the seventh, when the visitors netted one and the locals two.

Two more for the railroaders in the eighth put them out ahead safely.

Both teams hit the ball hard, but both Williams for the locals and Jaren for the visitors pitched good ball, each having excellent control.

In the sixth, Bill Mills Belleville receivrer, sustained a broken finger when a foul tip hit his third phalange. He was forced to retire. Meagher went behind for the rest of the game. In the seventh Harry Mills injured his leg and was carried of the field, also retiring. A feature of the game then was the entry o Manager Walt Gerow into the game, who finished the session on first base, his bunt and Casey's lovely clout in the seventh being contributing factors to the victory.

Williams struck out 7, Jayren 4. Williams issued no complimentaries, Jayren 1. "Punch" Derry relieved Jayren in the 8th. Higginbotham hit the ball to the score board in the 7th for a home run.

Score by innings:

QUIZ CORNER

ROCKY MOUNTAINS.

Q—How were the Rocky Mountains so named?

A—The name Rocky Mountains appears to have been of Cree Indian origin. Long before the advent of the white man the Indians of the plains, gazing on the line of peaks, had called them the Shining mountains. Afterward the Crees called them "Assin-wati," literally stoney or rocky mountains.

YOUNG CANADIANS FOREST LEAGUE.

Q—What is the Young Canadians Forest League?

A—The Young Canadians Forest League, with 140,000 boy members, has been organized by the Canadian Forestry Association to help in preventing forest fires that are so costly.

CANADA'S MINERAL WEALTH

A—In the past 12 years the mines of Canada have yielded an appraised wealth of over two billion dollars, Ontario producing nearly half thereof ,and $210,000,000 have been paid in dividends during that period.

Best I Ever Found Says Thomas Heurter

Happy experience of Hamilton man with Dreco, the famous health builder. Found wonderful relief in two bottles.

Thomas Neurter, of 62 Clyde street, Hamilton, Ont., put in a mighty tough time of it until he discovered Dreco. This famous health builder went to the root of his troubles with amazing rapidity and put him on his feet again, a sound, healthy man. Let Mr. Heurter tell you his story.

"My trouble was mostly with my stomach and liver, cause, I think, by constipation, as I always had trouble in keeping my bowels in shape. I always had a good appetite but was afraid to eat anything, as the distress afterwards was terrible. Gas would form, causing me to bloat and belch and raising a sour, bitter taste in my mouth. I had pains around my heart. At times my joints pained and cracked when I walked. Had dizzy spells and spots floated before my eyes, caused from my liver, which was sluggish and many a night I could not sleep, but would roll and toss all night. I have only taken two bottles of Dreco, but it has made a big change in me. I can eat most anything now without being troubled afterwards. Have no more dizzy spells and I sleep fine and the rheumatism in my joints is gone. Dreco will always get a good word from men and I have recommended it to several of my friends. It's the best I ever found."

Dreco acts quickly and naturally on the organs of digestion, purges them of acids and gasses, and stimulates them into normal functioning. This is the secret of the wonderful benefit all sufferers receive from Dreco, for most every day ailments can be traced to a run down digestive system. Dreco is a splendid regulator and blood purifier, the ideal spring tonic. Let it help you as it has helped thousands of others.

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. It is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray Observe Their Silver Wedding — Personal Paragraphs.

MILLBROOK, June 21. — A very delightful gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, Main street, on Monday, June 18, when their silver wedding was celebrated. A few of the more intimate friends of the family, amongst whom were Mrs. S. Eakins, Sr., Mrs. James Handley, Miss Isabel Handley, Mrs. R. Irvine, with the relatives from New York State, Mr. and Mrs. J. Black, Mr. H. Gardiner, Miss Margaret and "Bobie" Deyell, were guests for the tea hour when a pleasant re-union was enjoyed, and appropriate speeches made. A number of gifts, including a handsome silver service, several pieces of flat iron, and electric plate, etc., were presented to the bride and groom of twenty five years, by members of the family and other relatives. A beautifully decorated wedding cake occupied the place of honor, on the teatable, the latter being most attractively arranged with flowers, dainty place cards with appropriate couplets printed upon them, and an abundance of good things to tempt the appetites of those who gathered around the festive board.

Later in the evening other guests arrived, about forty in number when dancing, cards, etc., were indulged in until long past the mid-night hour. A delicious and satisfying supper was served during the evening, Miss Gertrude and Mr. Frank Gray assisting their parents in receiving and looking after the wants of their numerous guests. To a certain extent the entire evening was planned as a complete surprise for Mr. and Mrs. Gray, their enjoyment of the occasion being all the greater because of the element of the unexpected in all the arrangements.

Attending Session.

Rev. S. T. Tucker, Rev. S. G. Rorke of Cavan, Rev. R. M. Paterson of Frazerville, Rev. Andrew McLaughlin of Keene are among the ministers from this vicinity who are attending the sessions of the Bay of Quinte conference at Whitby this week. On Wednesday Rev. Mr. Tucker will deliver the annual lecture before the Theological Union on the subject, "The Evolution of the Democratic Ideal of the Old Testament." This address, upon which the speaker has spent many hours of close study during the past months, has been published in pamphlet form with an appreciative foreword by Professor Alex. R. Gordon, D.D., of the Presbyterian Theological College, Montreal. Dr. Gordon says in part: "Mr. Tucker has a real enthusiam for his subject, and his treatment of it is worthy of his enthusiasm. It is marked by sound knowledge, accuracy of statement, balanced judgment and a right sense of perspective. No one can read the essay without being better able to understand and handle the word of life."

Successful Student.

Among the successful candidates who won their B.A. degree at the recent examinations at Toronto University was Miss Laura Clarke of Weyburn, Sask., eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Clarke and a former Millbrook girl. Miss Clarke is now one of the teachers on the staff of Weyburn Collegiate and has come East each year for the last four years to take the short course at Toronto for those preparing for their Bachelor of Arts degree.

Personals.

Miss Marjorie Smith, B.A., who has been teaching on the staff of Parry Sound Collegiate for the past year, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A .A. Smith, for the holidays, arriving on Tuesday.

Mr. P. Stinson is the lay delegate from the Methodist Church here who is attending the sessions of the conference at Whitby this week.

Miss Roma Roberts is spending the summer months near Montreal, leaving last week with Mrs. Nosworthy of Toronto.

Misses M. Money and G. Hood of the Continuation School staff here left for their respective homes at Stratford and Guelph last week, going by motor. There will be general regret felt that neither of these teachers are returning here next fall

Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton and Mrs. T. H. Bradley are in Toronto this week attending the Grand Lodge of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. Messrs. J. A. Vance and E. Morden expect to go to the city for the Grand Lodge of the I.O.O.F., which opens on Thursday.

Miss Pearl Burnham of Peterborough is the guest of her aunt in Millbrook this week.

Mrs. (Rev.) S. T. Tucker, Miss Gladys Tucker and Mrs. Jas. Dawson were visitors to Peterborough on Monday.

FOULARDS FASHIONABLE.

Fashionable foulards have very large, bold patterns and are combined with plain colored georgette or satin to make delightfully cool frocks for midsummer.

WEAK AND MISERABLE

Describes the Condition of People With Thin, Watery Blood.

Thin-blooded people experience a form of fatigue which robs them of strength to get about and deprives them of restful sleep. This fatigue is not to be confused with the healthy reaction which follows a day of work and is relieved by sound slumber.

The fatigue which accompanies an anemic or thin-blooded condition robs women of beauty, for it causes their color to fade and leaves the face haggard and drawn. In addition to a feeling of exhaustion there is generally nervousness, headache, a loss of appetite and dizziness. These symptoms indicate the need of a tonic, and the best tonic for enriching the blood is the one taken by Mrs. C. R Taylor, Bass River, N.S., who says: "I was so run down and miserable that I was completely discouraged. I was so short of breath that at the least exertion I would have to sit down and rest. I often had headaches, and my appetite was poor and sleep disturbed. A friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be grateful that I followed the advice. I continued using the pills until I had taken ten or twelve boxes, and I can truthfully say they have made me feel like a new woman and I know in my case they have done all that is claimed for them."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MANY KILLED IN FIRE.

CHICAGO, June 21. Canadian Press. — Ten negroes are known to have been killed and at least 25 were injured in a fire which swept a three-storey tenement house here to-day.

FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Hard, Large and Red. Cuticura Healed.

"My face broke out with pimples that were hard, large and red. They festered and scaled over, and itched and burned causing me to scratch them. I tried several different remedies but they did not help any. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using them about a month I was completely healed." From Patricia next door—

NO doubt when unexpected guests arrive in unexpected numbers, you, too, are obliged to borrow silverware—or to set your table with odd and unattractive pieces. But this annoyance is unnecessary!

The sensible thing is to have enough silverware of your own. And in 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate you can provide that enough quite reasonably. Six tea spoons in the beautiful new Anniversary Pattern cost only $3.75. Other pieces—table forks, table spoons, butter spreaders—are priced as moderately.

But, for all its inexpensiveness, 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate is both beautiful and durable. Its quality has been recognized through three-quarters of a century. Purchase to-day the pieces you need most. On a later occasion add to them in the chosen pattern. Dealers everywhere have the newer 1847 Rogers Bros. patterns in stock.

Annual Meeting of the Women's Institute — Officers Elected — Personal Mention.

WARSAW, June 21.—Miss Hazel Brown, Toronto, is spending her holidays with her mother, Mrs. Ellen Brown.

Melville Miller, Hiram Anderson, Mulford Payne, Ollie MacIlvena, Ernie Batten and Bert Thompson went to camp in Peterborough.

E. N. MacDonald will hold a meeting in the Town Hall on Saturday evening.

D. Johnston will hold a meeting in the Town Hall this Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Shields and the Misses Bullock, from near Detroit, are visiting Mrs. Thos. Cooper and other relatives. They motored here, arriving on Friday evening.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson arrived in the village on Saturday evening.

Quite a number of people attended the Oddfellows' service in Lakefield on Sunday afternoon.

Two barns, one at Robert Moore's and one at Rufus Payne's, are to be raised this week.

The Methodist Sunday School was well attended Sunday morning.

Good congregations greeted Mr. Atkinson at the Cotessloe Church on Sunday. There was no preaching in Warsaw Presbyterian Church.

There will be no Thursday evening Bible Class this week. Mr. Weir will be at conference

Women's Institute.

The regular monthly and annual meeting of the Warsaw Women's Institute was held in the institute rooms on Tuesday afternoon. Reports from the various officers were read. The Flower Committee showed good work. The new officers are: President, Mrs. Thos. Cooper; Vice-President, Mrs. R. Batten; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Cressa Crowe; Directors, Mesdames L. McCracken, J. Moore, D. Miller and Miss Batten; Auditors, Mesdames J. A. Crowe and Thos. Crowe; Librarian for one month, Miss Morgan.

The departmental delegate, Miss Jamieson of Renfrew, addressed the ladies on several topics. First, she demonstrated a little house dress, made very simply of dyed factory cotton, an inexpensive, pretty, neat and practical garment. In her address she spoke of outside work and did not approve of sending much money away. She advocated swings and other devices in the school playground; also a charcoal water tank and cups hung for each child, each cup and each hook numbered so they could use their own cups.

Young people, she said, long to get away, and when they do so the chances are they stay away. Many of the evils of the city are creeping into the country, and is the responsibility of the institute to, in a measure, repay those who stay at home. In an effort to offset town attractions, young people in some rural districts arranged for organized attractions twice a week. They had basketball and other games, a literary club, musical evenings, and even published a paper. Eventually no one thought of going to town for just entertainment.

She approved the plan of having one open meeting a year, to which the men could be invited.

In speaking of health, Miss Jamieson said infant mortality is 10 per cent.—a fearful extravagance of human life, to say nothing of pain and suffering and sorrow.

There are more deaths among children of school age in North America than in Europe. During one year of the war there were more deaths from tuberculosis than from the war, and tuberculosis is a preventable disease.

Miss Jamieson liked to talk of children better than of anything else, and she declared that the only real cure for present-day unrest lies not in legislation, but in bettering the condition of parents. She spoke of the need that both parents take an interest in their children, and cited a wealthy farmer who, while thoroughly conversant with the quality and age of his stock, could not tell an enquirer how old his own little girl was. Undernourishment of little ones, she went on to say, is frequently due, not to a lack of food, but to its unsuitably quality for nature's requirements.

HAY MADE BIG IMPRESSION

"BARREL-THUMPING" was conspicuously absent at the Meyers' meeting in the Opera House last night.

Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, and John W. Meyers are simply NOT that kind of men. They have neither the inclination nor the special talent for that sort of thing Barrel-thumping! Mud-slinging! Sound and Fury!

But there was constructiveness and sincerity! Wellington Hay declined to join the timber wolves' chorus. Instead, he presented a business man's plans for the administration of Ontario's timber resources.

Wellington Hay and John W. Meyers were not afraid to acknowledge the good qualities of their opponents. That may not be the usual thing, but after all the recriminations it sounded human, and friendly and pleasant.

Criticisms there were in both addresses, but it was for the most part constructive criticism. If mud-slinging wins elections then Wellington Hay and John W. Meyers prefer to stay out of it.

They are business men, with business training, willing to try to put the business of the people of Ontario on a business basis.

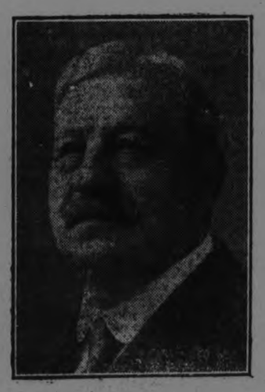
And when they spoke of the people of Ontario, Wellington Hay and John W. Meyers meant all the people. Not this class or the other, but all. Contentment for everybody, the Liberal leader declared to be his objective.

"I believe in the principles of Liberalism," said John W. Meyers. And they meant one and the same idea. Representation of all the people; bringing them together in goodwill and understanding without which this province cannot advance in her position of leadership in this Dominion.

"JUSTICE FOR ALL; SPECIAL PRIVILEGES FOR NONE."

In uttering this doctrine of Liberalism John W. Meyers implied this special appeal to the sane-minded men and women of West Peterborough. He needs their active support on Monday next.

John W. Meyers does expect the loyal support of men and women who realize this —that those who seek special privilege will busy themselves in support of some one else. The Liberal candidate cannot go beyond the bounds of the Liberal party. And while he cannot hold out any promise of special privileges, HE CAN PROMISE JUSTICE TO ALL.



John W. Meyers cannot expect and doesn't want the support of anyone who is a "Red," whether of the deep-dyed variety or just pink. Because the Liberal party has no place for "Reds."

But John W. Meyers does expect and appeal for the support of those who stand for the Canadian idea of progress, socially, politically and industrially. You must not fail him next Monday by indifference or carelessness or letting the other fellow vote, while you let your ballot become so much waste paper.

Letters from employees of John W. Meyers attest to his kindly treatment of returned men. Other employees, men who have been ill could similarly testify to his care for them in holding their positions for them, of taking the fatherly interest in them which those who know him would expect.

Don't wait until Monday. Make your decision now to

GENERAL PRAISED WORK OF DRAGOONS

Inspection of Cavalry This Morning —Breaking up Camp at Daybreak.

General Elmsley of Kingston, warmly congratulated the officers and men of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons this morning upon the progress they had made during their training in camp. For the short time allotted them they had acquired both the spirit and knowledge of their work. The Commanding Officer also commended the Dragoons upon the appearance of the camp and its internal economy.

With General Elmsley who came up from Kingston to-day for the inspection were Colonel Munro, Lieut. Colonel Hodgins and Major Garnet Greer. Troop and squadron drill and other details of the work were features of the examination.

This afternoon there will be kit inspection and it is likely that the canvas will be taken down so as to allow the Pontypool section start for home early to-morrow morning. Lieut. Colonel T. D. Johnston told the Examiner they might get away at four o'clock about day break in order that they could ride in the coolness of early morning. They have thirty miles before them and it is consideration for both horses and men that prompts the early get-away.

HIGH TEA AT THE Y. W. C. A.

The spirit of camaraderie and good feeling that prevails between the Board of Management, the superintendent, and the girls who make their home at the local Young Women's Christian Association, was well exemplified last evening at a very jolly high tea held in the Green Room and Library, commencing at six o'clock, under the auspices of the House Committee and Mrs. E. Morrison.

Over ninety guests were present, including the house girls, the ladies of the Board, and the husbands, who were for the first time guests of the Y at one of its many entertaining gatherings.

A very dainty repast was served at individual tables of eight, floral decorations of iris and roses, poenies, daisies, and orange blossoms making the big double rooms very attractive.

Rev. W. H. Young offered invocation, and a very much enjoyed musical programme was rendered, with vocal solos by Miss Ina Allen and Miss Mabel Hartley, and instrumental selections by Miss Agnes Logan, who also acted as toastmistress.

Miss Robina Carter proposed the first health to the Board of Management, which was responded to very appropriately by the president, Mrs. T. Cruikshank. "The prime requisite of an all-round education," declared Mrs Cruikshank, "is the art of being able to live happily together. Failure in life is often due to a poor personality. A strong personality is compounded of the elements of charm, force, sympathy, symmetry, optimism, and modesty."

The toast to Mrs. E. Morrison, the house superintendent, proposed by Miss Mary Houston, was acknowledged in fitting terms. Miss Houston spoke of the sterling qualities which endeared Mrs. Morrison to the girls in her charge, and of the sympathy and tact with which she dealt with the various phases of institutional life.

Mrs. V. Eastwood toasted the girls, speaking of the necessity of each individual doing her bit for the common good

Miss Letta Brownscombe replied.

The health of the girls who are leaving the Y at the end of this season was proposed by Miss Agnes Stout and acknowledged in their name by one of the Normal School students, Miss Eva McCullough, was replete with humour in its description of some of the everyday incidents of life in the boarding-home.

A presentation of a beautiful pair of silver candlesticks to Mrs. Morrison from the departing girls of this year was then made by Miss McCullough, and acknowledged by the superintendent, who recounted some of the difficulties experienced in awakening in the new girls who came each year a realisation of their part in maintaining order and quiet in the house, particularly at bedtime

Dr A. Moir spoke in complimentary terms of the spirit of service evidenced in the life of the girls at the Y, and Rev. Mr. Young followed with a humorous address, which also dwelt on the spirit of co-operative harmony manifested in such a gathering.

A very enjoyable evening broke up with the singing in concert of "Auld Lang Syne." Seated at the head table for the occasion were: Mesdames T. Cruikshank, V. Eastwood, Adam Hall, D. Walker, E. Morrison, Misses C. Dickson, Jean Smith, Eva McCullough, N. Truesdale, and Rev. W. H. Young.

SUMMER FOODS AND WINTER SICKNESS.

Summer food habits are largely responsible for health or sickness in the winter which follows. Science has demonstrated that all foods are either acid or alkaline. Human blood must be alkaline or the body is diseased and soon dies. "Excess Acid" foods cause acid blood and these leave the blood by the skin and linings of the nose throat, lungs, etc. In winter the skin is inactive and the linings of the air passages have to bear the brunt of acid elimination, becoming irritated; and the bodily vitality being lowered in the process, ideal conditions for disease germs to set up business in and disease the body—flu, pneumonia, etc., are the result.

White flour, refined cereals, fats, meats, sweets are "Excess Acid" foods, largely used by civilized races in summer, their acids added to by ice cream, iced drinks, etc., have to elimnate the acids in winter, resulting in 'flu, pneumonia, etc.

Uncivilized races, who do not have these acid foods, do not have our winter diseases. They live upon alkaline whole grains, milk, nuts, beans, eggs, greens and fruits, which keep the blood alkaline, "cooled," healthful.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal, 400 parts in each 1,00 "Excess Alkali." It keeps the blood alkaline, as nature intends, which vitalizes and energizes the body, soothes the linings of air passages, protects against winter diseases.

Roman Meal BROSE-O, CHOCOLO-O, JELLE-E are three icy-cold delights for sizzling days, served with milk, cream, whipped cream, honey, preserved or fresh fruits. At grocers.

NO ADVANCE POLLS FOR MILITIAMEN

OTTAWA, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. E. M. MacDonald, Acting Minister of National Defence last night made public his correspondence with the Ontario government in regard to holding advance polls for the Ontario election to allow members of Petewawa detachments to vote before entraining for camp.

The minister's proposal to this effect was made in a telegram from the deputy minister to Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of Ontario, on June 15th stating that Hon. G. H. Ferguson and Premier King approved.

In reply A. H. Dymond, chief election officer for Ontario said that there was "no authority whatever for action suggested by you." and Mr. Dymond suggested the postponement o the Petawawa camp as the date of polling had been announced a month ago.

The correspondence closes with a telegram from the deputy minister of national defence to Mr. Raney, dated June 18th., quoting Mr. Dymond's message and saying that arrangements for the camp had been made three months ago. The wire continues:

"Detachments from Ontario, Quebec and Maritime Province involved In view of heavy expense entailed and interference with private arrangements of members, non-permanent active militia, no alteration dates practicable.'

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To The Examiner:

The leaders of the different parties have come and gone and all of them have acquitted themselves like men. There has been about fifteen speeches from the public platform of the opera house and in only one instance has there been anything like mud slinging, and again the men have to take off their hats to the women. Now let every honest elector think the matter out for themselves what is the best interests of the province of Ontario as a whole and on Monday vote as if you were a loyal citizen of our fair province. What we want at the present ime is retrenchment, economy and stability. In conclusion I wish to congratulate the Examiner for the fair way it has conducted itself in this campaign. Thanking you, I remain,

Yours, etc.,

FOUND DREAMS TO COME TRUE

By Jack Jungmeyer .....

LOS ANGELES June 21.—"Visions," certified by fact, occur with remarkable frequency among those not professionally "psychic," according to a compilation of such experiences by Clarke Irvine.

Irvine independent investigator of occult phenomena and motion picture writer, recently founded a library of prophetic dreams to which already hundreds of authenticated instances have been contributed from all parts of the world.

"Almost every mail." said Irvine brings records of significant dreams come true—visions by whicr lives have been saved, loved ones recovered or protected, deaths and disaster foretold, conduct and precautions indicated in every walk of life

"In this repository the first of its kind, will be filed only those manifestations which have been attested or art susceptible to proof.

Invites Contributions

"My purpose is to gather a mass of evidence upon which further psychic research may be based—papers which will be open without charge to anyone genuinely interested in this profoundly beguiling subject. Such a compendium should prove invaluable to students seeking to piece occult fragments into patterns of spiritual law, or whatever lies behind them."

Irvine, inviting contributions to his library at 5341 Melrose avenue expects to issue bulletins from time to time, broadcasting a digest of matrial received. His interest, he asserts is wholly that of the scientific amateur. eager to stimulate research in this field of phenomena.

Here are a few of the records in the library of prophetic dreams:

FORETELLS FATHER'S MURDER—Hazel Bonner, 14, in Oxord, Ala., dreamed she saw her father slain by robbers in a Cleveland (O.) restaurant; told her mother details which checked with events detailed in telegram received next morning. Frequently has dreams coming true.

DREAM BRINGS FORTUNE—Harry Lesser gassed war veteran at Memphis, Tenn. dreamed his dead father told him to go to New Orlean. Established communication with former associates and got notice to claim an estate of $215,000.

Dreams of Wreck

VISIONS TRAIN WRECK — Miss Jane Cassidy, Shelbyville, Ky., while on train asleep visioned a wreck, dressed, woke her scoffing companions and walked to rear coach. Train derailed few minutes later; she uninjured.

CURES PATIENT BY DREAM —Dr. C., Uniontown, Pa. dreamed patient in a baffling case had eaten an apple years before, accidently swallowing needle which now responsible for trouble. Operated on woman on strength of vision and found needle just where indicated by dream.

SEES FLIER KILLED IN FALL — C. Irvine of Los Angeles, dreamed of air crash which almost cremated aviator. Next day newspapers chronicled death of Lieutenant Mauzey San Diego army flier, under identical circumstances Also "saw" first aerial head-on collision night before occurrence.

SYNCHRONIZED DREAMS — E. attended gathering at Mt Vernon O. to witness lunar eclipse. Years later on train awakend from dream of that event to find moon again in eclipse. Received letter from friend few days later, saying the latter had also dreamed of same event and had "seen" Mr. E. looking at eclipse from platform of moving car.

REPORTER SPENDS WEEK WITH JOHN ROCKEFELLER WHILE ON HIS VACATION

The little colored caddy who enjoys the distinction of carrying Rockefeller's golf clubs and teeing for him answers to the name of "Bunk." The chauffeur pays him at the end of the game, but he always gets a shining dime as a bonus.

* * *

The Rockefeller house sits back only a few yards from River Road, and there is shrubbery along the Beach Road side. Across River Road, down to the river, are his gardens. The house is small and so three other houses have been bought to accommodate the 20 chauffeurs, gardeners, workmen and servants.

John D. bought his winter home three years ago from a minister. There is no display in it—no wealth of tapestries, paintings, distinctive furniture.

When he took over the house he sent word to his son that he wanted an organ. A letter came asking height of ceilings, and statistics like that.

Rockefeller promptly wrote back that he didn't want a church organ, but a simple little affair on which one could grind out a tune occasionally. So such an organ was installed. It cost no more than a good piano.

* * *

The capable John Yordi has another function besides valet and masseur. He can play the organ; hymns are his specialty.

Home concerts are frequent. Sunday mornings, of course, Mr. Rockefeller attends the little Community Church in Ormond and joins in the service; but each Sunday evening he walks across to the Ormond Hotel lobby and listens to the orchestra. His favorite selection is the Barrcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman."

At the close of those Sunday evenin concerts everybody rises and joins in singing the Communion Doxology. I watched Mr. Rockefeller, and he was singing, too.

* * *

Hostess of the Rockefeller household is Mrs. Jennie Evans, a relative of the late Mrs. Rockefeller. A favorite guest is Betty White, daughter of John White of New York; she has been here with her mother, playing golf with her aged host and getting up musicales at home.

Another favorite partner is E. M. Johnson, steel manufacturer of New York. Mrs. A. B. Wallace generally walks home with Rockefeller from church. And Dr. John Richmond, pastor of the Community Church, has a standing invitation for a visit every Monday afternoon.

* * *

No guards, I said, surround this old man during his evening play-time of life as he courts Florida's sunny wintertime.

But there is this protection: So averse is Mr. Rockefeller to being quoted, even indirectly, on public questions that he does not discuss such subjects even with friends, and it is an unwritten rule that guests content themselves with anecdotes and small talk; best of all he likes talk of books. And after dinner they join with him in playing "Numerica," a mathematical game of which he is very fond.

50,000 WORDS A DAY SENT BY GERMAN RADIO

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By mail to United Press).—Seven out of every ten words sent by radio from Germany is destined for the United States of America.

Germany sends approximately 50,000 words a day by wireless telegraph and 35,000 of these are addressed to New York.

A significant point is that of 51,159 words recently sent on one day, 35,000 were for the receiving station at New York, much of it being press matter for the American newspapers and press associations and for relay to South America and the Orient.

Germany now sends radio telegrams direct from the great sending station Eilvese near Emden directly to the Egyptian radio station Abu-Zabal.

Canadian Stock Exchange And Mines — New York Stock Exchange And Curb Prices

To-Day's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEAR A RALLY.

NEW YORK, June 21. (United Press.) — Nothing but the panicky character of the selling in the last hour of Wednesday's market, and the sweeping declines which took place in the general list suggested that the stock market was near to a rally. But it was inevitable that technical considerations should eventually assert themselves and some trace of such a development was noticeable in the early dealings of the day. Though heavy selling of a necessitious nature unquestionably took place in the early dealings there was sufficient demand for the short element and from bargain hunters to lift the general level of prices well above the previous close. Utah copper regained 3 points in the initial transaction while recoveries of more than a point took place in Baldwin, American Can., and other speculative leaders.

Stocks continued to rally vigorously in the first hour Steel common spurted to 92¼, a net gain of 1 3-4; American Loco. sold at 134 3-4 against Wednesday's low of 132; Baldwin at 122⅞ was up 2 3-8; Studebaker up to 105 and American Can. reached 90¼ against 87 7-8; Steel and Iron preferred jumped 9 3-4 to 105 in response to the dissolution of the injunction restraining the absorption of the Company by the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. under the terms of the merger. The preferred is retirable at 110.

Opening prices Baldwin 121¼ up 1 3-8; Studebaker 104 up 5-8; Southern Railway 34½ up 5-8; N.Y.C., 100 5-8 up 3-8; American Tel 119 3-8 off 1; Cons Gas 59 5-8 off 1-8; Utah Copper 63 up 3; American Can 89¼ up 1 1-4; Baltimore and Ohio 46 1-4 up 3-4; Beth. Steel 48 5-8 up 1-8; U S Steel 91½ up 1; American Loco., 133 3-4 up 1 3-4; Corn Products 131 1-2 up 1 1-4.

STATEMENT ISSUED BY UNION BANK OF CANADA

MONTREAL, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—Union Bank of Canada issued statement to its shareholders today regarding its affairs. Statement refer to discovery of "certain unauthorized transactions in foreign exchange," with considerable loss but which had been provided for and to thorough examination of banks assets.

"Losses have developed in connection with certain loans made during period of inflation and in addition to taking care of these it is prudent to make provision in respect of loans," says statement.

to provide for losses, bank officials have deemed it advisable to "transfer from rest account to contingent reserve account the sum of four and quarter million dollars" leaving present position of bank with capital at eight million dollars and rest account at one million seven hundred thousand dollars. Dividends will be reduced to eight per cent and policy of "rigid economy" inaugurated. Belief is expressed in fundamental soundness of the Bank's position.

WILD DOG PACKS.

By MORGAN EASTERLING

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to the United Press).—Wild dogs, which range in packs over Southern Patagonia, living off of sheep herds and raiding poultry runs, are reported to have become so ferocious with the approach of winter as to venture upon attacking men, particularly the lonely caretakers of the sheep and the isolated farmers. The animals are being slaughtered in large numbers.

The dogs have become so cunning that they catch wild fowl and foxes and they have been known to attack the huge Fuegian wolf and drive him from his prey.

A starving pack of cross-bred wild dogs is more destructive than a wolf pack and more feared by the herders, who say the dogs surpass the wolf in cunning. The puma—the mountain lion of Southern Patagonia—gives the wolf dog a wide berth.

CANADIAN WOOLLENS LTD.

C.P.R. DID NOT BUY PROPERTY IN PARIS

Company Denies Rumor to the Effect That Property Had Been Purchased.

LONDON, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—Having seen a Paris despatch which states that the Canadian Pacific Railway, through Morgan's Bank, had purchased for a large sum the property at the corner of Rue Scribe and Boulevarde Madeleine, and also contemplated buying the building in which the company's Paris office is now located, President E. W. Beatty, K.C., of the C.P.R., yesterday asked the Canadian Press to say there was absolutely no foundation for either statement.

"The company has an office in Paris which is reasonably suitable for its requirements, and does not contemplate making any purchases," Mr. Beatty said it appeared to him that the report was circulated in order to justify other purchases in the same district by Canadian interests. "Under present conditions the Canadian Pacific does not consider larger capital investments in office buildings either necessary or desirable," concluded Mr. Beatty.

Note.—The story mentioned by Mr. Beatty was not circulated by the Canadian Press.

DUCHESS OF ROXBURGH DEAD.

LONDON, June 21.— (Canadian Press.)—The Duchess of Roxburgh, wife of the seventh Duke, is dead. She was the daughter of the seventh Duke of Marlborough, and was Queen Victoria's Lady of the Bedchamber and Mistress of the Robes, from 1895 to 1901. Her husband died in 1892.

Her son, the eighth Duke of Roxburgh, married May, daughter of the late Ogden Goelet, of Newport, in 1903.

BIG EXPORT OF CATTLE.

MONTREAL, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—It was estimated here yesterday by J. F. Ryan, manager of the Canadian National Bureau of Breeding, that between the present time and the close of navigation from Montreal next fall, about 50,000 head of fat and store cattle would be shipped from various parts of Canada through Montreal to the British market. This, with over 10,000 head already shipped, will make a pretty busy season for the port in the export of live cattle he considered.

VOTE TOMORROW ON TEMPERANCE LAW

Active Campaign Has Been Conducted to Have a Change in the Manitoba Temperance Act.

WINNIPEG, June 21.—(Canadian Press).—A campaign against the Manitoba Temperance Act, conducted with more or less activity for the past two years and with a good deal of vigor during recent months by the Moderation League, comes to a close to-night, and to-morrow 200,000 or so of the men and women of the Province are expected to vote to decide whether a system of Government sale of all liquors for beverage purposes shall be introduced.

Supporters and opponents of existing legislation claim to be confident of victory.

The campaign is closing in a blaze of advertising. Both sides publish lists of supporters among business and professional men, and from the women voters; arguments are made for and against the Moderation Bill. It is claimed on one hand that it would promote economic and social progress, and on the other hand that it would take huge sums of money out of the Province and would provide new temptations for a generation growing up without legal access to intoxicating liquors.

The record of present prohibition measure and its enforcement has come in for a good deal of attention; the question has been discussed at length by public speakers and by writers of letters to the papers of whether the Moderation Bill would eliminate or increase bootlegging, and the history of government control in British Columbia and Quebec has provided campaign material for both "wets" and "drys."

A mass meeting in support of the Moderation League Bill last night was addressed by Dr. Michael Clark of Red Deer, Alta.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Calvin Gray, enemy of Henry Nelson, employs several men to keep close watch of Nelson's activities in the oil fields. Gray is in love with Barbara Parker, who buys land for Nelson. Gus Briskow strikes oil in Ranger and sends Mr. Briskow and daughter, Allegheny, to Dallas. He asks Gray to assist them in the selection of proper wearing apparel. Ozark, better known as Bud Briskow, son of Gus, is a great admirer of Calvin Gray. Gray becomes popular in Dallas and informs his business associates that he is out to get Henry Nelson.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Henry Nelson's activities in the oil fields did not leave him much time in which to attend to his duties as vice president of his father's bank, for what success he and Old Bell Nelson had had since the boom started was the direct result of the younger man's personal attention to their joint operations.

But of late things had not been going well. The turn had come with the loss of the Evans lease, and that misfortune had been followed by others.

It was this generally unsatisfactory state of affairs that accounted for the junior Nelson's presence in Wichita Falls at this time. He and Bell had spent a stormy forenoon together; he was in an irritable mood when, early in the afternoon, a card was brought into his office.

Nelson could not restrain a start at sight of the name engraved thereon. He allowed himself a moment in which to collect his wits, then he opened slightly the desk drawer in which he kept his revolver and gave instructions to admit the caller.

Nelson revolved slowly in his chair; he stared curiously at the newcomer, and his voice was cold, unfriendly, as he said:

"This is quite a surprise, Gray."

"My dear Colonel, would you expect me to come to Wichita Falls without paying my respects to my ranking officer, my immediate superior?"

"That means, I infer, that you refuse to close the chapter?"

As if he had not heard this last remark, Gray continued easily: "It is a selfish motive that brings me here. I come to crow. It is my peculiar weakness that I demand an audience for what I do; I must share my triumphs with some one, else they taste flat, and since you are perhaps the one man in Texas who knows me best, or has the slightest interest in my doings, it is natural that I come to you."

This guileless confession evoked a positive scowl. "What have you done," the banker sneered, "except get your name in the papers?"

"I have made a large amount of money, for one thing, and I am having a glorious time. Now that Evans lease, for instance—"

"Oh! You've come to crow about that."

"Not loudly, but a little. I turned the greater part of that land for as much as five thousand dollars an acre. Odd that we should have come into competition with each other on my very first undertaking, isn't it? Fascinating business, this oil. All one needs, to succeed, is experience and capital."

Nelson burst forth in sudden irritation. "What are you getting at? You know I don't care a damn what you're doing, how much money you're making—"

"Strange! Inasmuch as practically every dollar I have made has come out of you, indirectly."

For a moment Nelson said nothing; then, "Just what do you mean by that?"

"Exactly what I said. I've cut under you wherever possible. When you wanted acreage, I bid against you and ran the price up until you paid more than it was worth. That which I secured I managed—"

"You! So—you're the one back of that!" Nelson's amazement destroyed the insecure hold he had thus far maintained upon himself. Furiously he cried: "You're out to get me! That's it, eh?"

"I am, indeed. And half my satisfaction in doing so will be in knowing that you know what I'm up to."

"Well, by God! I knew you had the gall of the devil, but— See here, Gray, don't you understand what I can do to you? I don't want any trouble with you, but one word from me and—"

"Of course you want no trouble with me; but, alas! my dear Colonel, you are going to have it. Oh, a great deal of trouble. More trouble than you ever had in all your life. Either you are going broke, or I am." Gray's tone changed abruptly. "For your own good remove your hand from the neighborhood of that drawer. I am too close to you for a gun-play. Good! Now about that one word from you. You won't speak it, for that would force me to utter nasty truths about you, and you would suffer more than I, this being your home town where you are respected. And the truth is nasty, isn't it?"

Colonel Nelson had grown very white during this long speech. He rose to his feet and laid one shaking hand upon his desk as if to steady himself.

"You think you can beat me—Want to make it a money fight, do you? Well, I'll give you a bellyful. Every dollar I've got will go to smash you—smash you!"

"Splendid!" Gray was on his feet now and he was smiling icily.

"Are you gentlemen going to talk forever?" The inquiry came in a woman's voice. Both Nelson and Gray turned to behold a smiling, animated face framed in a crack of the door.

"Miss Good!" Calvin Gray strode forward, took the girl's hand in his and drew her over the threshold. "My dear Miss Good, I have rummaged half the state, looking for you."

"I hope I'm not interrupting. I recognized you and—" The girl turned her eyes to Henry Nelson, but at sight of his face her smile vanished. "Oh, I'm sorry!" she cried. "Let me run out—"

Gray held her hands more firmly. "Never. Do you think I shall risk losing you again? Colonel Nelson and I had finished our chat and were merely exchanging pleasantries."

"Yes. Colonel Gray was just leaving," Nelson managed to say.

"Colonel? Are you a colonel, too?" the girl inquired, and Gray bowed. "We were commissioned at the same time and place, but Colonel Nelson received his a moment earlier than I received mine, therefore he outranked me. Now then, permit me to retire while you and he—"

"Oh, there's nothing confidential about what I have to say. It's good news for my partner, and I'm sure he'd love to share it." To Nelson she announced, "Pete has a showing of oil!"

The vice president of the bank murmured something which was lost in Gray's quick inquiry: "Partner? Are you a partner of Colonel Nelson's?"

"After a fashion. We own a twenty-acre lease west of 'Burk'—that is, I have a quarter interest and Henry is putting down a well. I drove out there, and his driller told me it is looking good."

Gray turned a keenly inquisitive gaze upon his enemy, and what he saw, or fancied he saw, gave him the thrill of a new discovery. It may have been no more than intuition on his part, but something convinced him that his acquaintance with Miss Good deeply displeased the man.

In his warmest tone he cried: "Congratulations, my dear Colonel. However badly you have fared in the Ranger district, fortune favors you here. But why only a quarter interest? You put too low a price upon your blessings. I'll better that arrangement. Why, I was ready to offer Miss Good a full half of all I have, when she played a heartless jest upon me. Ran away! Disappeared! I'll admit I was piqued. I was deeply resentful, but—"

Nelson interrupted this flow of extravagance. "'Miss Good'?" he said, curiously. "Why does he call you that, 'Bob'?"

"A secret! A little game of pretense," Gray declared, hastily. "For the sake of our friendship, Colonel, don't tell her my real name and rob me of the pleasure of hearing it from her own lips. Come, Miss Good! I am going to bear you away upon my arm, even at the risk of displeasing my superior officer. Ha! Lucky the war is over. Now then, your promise."

Henry Nelson stood motionless as he watched his two callers leave the bank together, then slowly he clenched his muscular hands, and from his lips there issued an oath better left unwritten.

CHAPTER XI
A New Partnership

IT was several moments after they had left the bank before "Bob" Parker could manage to slip a word in edgewise, so rapid, so eager was Gray's flow of conversation, so genuine was his pleasure at again seeing her. Finally, however, she inquired, curiously:

"Are you really good friends? I felt very queer, the instant after I had walked in. But—I was bursting with good news and I couldn't see Henry's face until too late. Then, it seemed to me—"

"Nelson and I are scarcely 'good' friends—we never were chummy—but we were thrown together in France and saw a lot of each other. He is a remarkably capable man and a determined fighter."

"You mustn't call me Miss Good any longer," the girl told him. "My name is Barbara Parker."

"Oh, I like it!"

"I'm more generally known as 'Bob.'"

"Even better! It sounds tomboyish."

"It's not. It is Tom Prakeriah. Father insisted on calling me that and—it stuck. He's a man's man and my being a girl was a total surprise to him. It completely upset his plans. So I did my best to remedy the mistake and learn to do and to take an interest in the things he was interested in."

"Those were—?"

Miss Parker looked up from beneath her trim velvet hat and her blue eyes were defiant. "All that people like you disapprove of; all that you probably consider undignified and unladylike, such as riding, roping, shooting—"

"Riding—unladylike? It's very smart. And why do you say people 'like me'? There are no people like me."

A Pest!
The European Corn Borer

Great damage to corn crops in certain sections of Ontario has been caused in recent years by the European Corn Borer. To check this pest, follow closely recommendations of the Department.

Its Life History

The moth appears about the middle of June and lasts until about the last week in July.

Egg Laying

In this period the female lays its eggs on the undersides of the corn leaves, preferably on the most advanced corn.

The Borer

The damage is done by the borer stage. The "worm" develops from the egg, eating into the stalks and ears. It winters in the stubble or stalks.

The Pupa

The worm changes to the pupa, which in turn develops into the moth about the second week of June or later.

Measles.

Measles seems to be one of the spring diseases. It is so easily communicated by the cold that preceded it that whole neighborhoods as well as every susceptible member of a family are infected.

The disease starts with a common cold, running nose and watery eyes. The rash may be seen inside of the mouth as stippled spots before it appears on the body. On the hair line and in the warm parts of the body the rash appears first.

There is always some slight fever; sometimes, in the case of young children, a very high one indeed. It begins to "go down" in the days after the rash appears.

The child is most uncomfortable during the rash stage and he may be made easier by sponging with soda water frequently or salving with some salve containing menthol which relieves the itching.

There are sometimes serious complications from measles and these should be watched for. Ear troubles frequently follow measles and bronchitis or pneumonia is an aftermath. The child who has had measles cannot as effectually fight a tubercular infection as can the child who has not Keeping the child in bed, free from the dangers of cold—in a darkened room so that the eyes will not be affected by bright lights, with a very much lessened diet and with the bowels kept active is all one can do. There is no vaccine treatment for measles. Just because measles (though commonly considered one of the childish diseases which every one must have) is such a treacherous disease one should be heedful of any cold and keep other children away from the little sufferer until one is sure that it is not more serious than a cold. A child may have all the different types of measles.

KNITTED FROCKS.

The knitted frock, so very popular already, is apt to become more so now that it is being embroidered with all-over patterns or very smart, conventional borders.

HOT weather makes a serious drain on the reserve energy of active children. The habit of seeking refreshment from icy beverages does not restore exhausted vitality and often creates serious digestive disturbance.

To maintain your children's health and at the same time satisfy their craving for a refreshing beverage, give them "Ovaltine" when they are thirsty.

"Ovaltine" is concentrated nourishment extracted from malt, milk and eggs, delicately flavored with cocoa. It is also abundantly rich in those wonderful vitamines which scientists affirm are essential for the health and protection of the body.

"SILENT" ED. REMEMBERS

Killed German Who Boasted of Sinking of U.S. Battleship 'Maine' at Havana.

By GEORGE BRITT

JOLIET, Ill., June 21—Remember the Maine?

Casually, of course. But not with the vividness of the man who is perhaps the senior war prisoner in the United States.

He has remembered it daily for 25 years from behind the walls of the Illinois State Penitentiary here. Only for a while as a fugitive.

They call him "Silent Ed." He does not like to talk much. He recalls too vividly that horrible day 25 years ago—before his hair turned gray.

He was black-haired Ed Smith on Feb. 16, 1898, when cables plunged the world into grief with news that the Maine had been sunk at Havana.

Life was pretty sweet then. Smith had just turned 25. There was a girl. And he rated an excellent seaman on a Great Lakes steamer with excellent chance for promotion.

"I was in a saloon that night and had had some drinks. Everyone was talking about the sinking of the Maine. Then the bartender started talking. He happened to be a German.

" 'It's a good thing,' he said. 'I'm glad they did it. They ought to blow up all those American battleships.'

"Well, I called him on that, and one word led to another. I guess I'd have done it anyhow even if I hadn't had those drinks. But a fight started. I picked up an iron pin from under the stove and hit him. He died, and they sent me here for life.

"I don't mind your having that picture now," he says. "Everybody has forgot about me by this time anyhow.

"The Maine went down a long time ago, you know.

"But I—I'll always remember."

Then came quiet.

Ed Smith had dropped back into the shadows of his realm again—into the land of silence.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE AUTHORSHIP OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

American history, supported by unimpeachable records, states that on June 10, 1776, the Lower House of Congress, then sitting in Philadelphia, entrusted the task of framing the historic document known as the Declaration of Independence to a committee composed of John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, Robert R. Livingston and Thomas Jefferson.

History that is less reliable, because it is founded principally upon the hearsay evidence of those not directly connected with the Congressional procedure, states that, of these, Franklin was first selected to draft the Declaration, but that the task was finally given over to Jefferson, who is usually credited with the authorship of the document. In fact, visitors to Philadelphia are shown a tablet which marks a building as the site of the house in which Jefferson wrote the original draft of the declaration of the independent rights of the Colonies.

But a number of students of history, after a close examination of the records of the time, have come to the conclusion that Jefferson did not frame this draft, and advance a number of reasons for their belief. In the first place, they call attention to the fact that the Declaration excoriated King George for having carried on the slave trade, while Jefferson himself was a slave-holder. Then, too, it rebuked the "Scotch and foreign mercenaries," whereas Jefferson is known to have been particularly fond of the Scotch, and it also contains a number of other points at variance with the views of the man who was to be the third President of the United States.

Instead of Jefferson, these historians claim, the honor of having written the Declaration of Independence should be placed upon the rightful shoulders of Thomas Paine, a protege of Franklin and a friend of Jefferson. The fact that the Declaration overlooked the matter of unjust taxation has also been put forward as a further argument in favor of Paine's authorship—for he regarded that issue as unimportant, while Jefferson had repeatedly fought it. Furthermore, it has been pointed out that the arguments set forth in the Declaration of Independence are strikingly similar to those expressed in Paine's pamphlet, "Common Sense," and that the explosive, terse style of the greatest document in American history is characteristic of Paine and totally dissimilar to the flowing, rounded sentences which Jefferson usually employed.

Paine also had the habit of writing anonymously and Jefferson, it is stated, never laid claim to the authorship of the declaration of Independence until after Paine's death. But, after all the evidence has been weighed, it must be admitted that the identity of the writer who expressed in such forceful words the feelings of an oppressed people remains still in doubt.

FRUIT SALAD.

Remove the pulp from three oranges and one grapefruit, having no white skin left on the fruit. Cut six slices of pineapple into small pieces, slice two bananas and cut eight marshmallows into quarters. Mix all together, with one cup of strawberrigs. Chill and moisten with dressing made as follows:

Heat one-half cup of the fruit juice with two tablespoons lemon juice. Thicken with one tablespoon flour mixed with one-fourth cup of sugar. Add slightly beaten yolks of two eggs, cook over water until thickened. Remove from fire, add the whites of the two eggs, beaten until stiff. Thoroughly mix and chill.

At time of serving combine with an equal quantity of mayonnaise.

A very rare gas in the air is neon, of which a room contains but a teaspoonful or two. It is used for filling bulbs required to give an orange-colored light.

Want Ad Tips
by John T. Bartlett

WANT ADS WRITTEN LIKE LETTERS.

Ten to one you have never thought of this way of writing a Want Ad. And it is often a good way, too. Write your message as though you were writing a letter to possible customers. Confine yourself to the number of words you feel you should use. Put your proposition just as you would express it, writing a letter to another. Then strike out the date-line, and hand your copy to the Want Ad department.

A woman who did lace curtains for others in her home laundry followed this procedure. This Want Ad resulted:

"DEAR LADY OF THE HOUSE:

"This is to tell you I do all kinds of lace curtains and draperies. All curtains washed by hand with care, 35c, three pair for $1. I hope, dear housewives, you will give me a chance to show you how nice I can do your curtains. Will call and deliver. Lillian Holt, 1204 Mariposa St. Phone Champa 5670W."

The salutation was run as a headline.

Now, that was a very easily written Want Ad, because the advertiser, like most of us, had written letters all her life. Of all forms of literary expression, letters are by far the most natural. One might almost term the letter an instinctive literary form. We write letters as we talk.

And there is another advantage of this method of ad-writing. Besides being easy to use, the method usually results in might good Want Ads. Want Ads which are very intimate, personal; which, like a good letter, "get under the skin of the reader.

This is what the lace curtains Want Ad did. It proved and exceptional puller, and the advertiser adopted it for permanent use, running it every week.

"MAKE ME AN OFFER"

The etiquette of trade gives to the seller the first overture—the setting of a price on the offered article or service. This suits sellers in most, but not all, situations. The best plan for the seller sometimes is to put in his Want Ad, instead of a price, the invitation, "Make me an offer." This will often make a sale.

"Make me an offer," was the solution, for example, of the owner of a stock of second-hand lumber. He was going out of business, and wished to sell the entire lot. Buying the material, he planned to sell in small lots to farmers and others, and he proceeded along this line for several months, when circumstances compelled him to close out the enterprise.

A very little investigation sufficed to show that he had something to sell which it was difficult to sell in a hurry. A 'special sale' through Want Ads, to retail customers, had reduced the stock, but left it still large. The retail market, he felt, temporarily was saturated. Other buyers of a stock of second-hand lumber he could not find—until he used a "Make me an offer" Want Ad.

In the language of trade, "Make me an offer," usually means that the seller is anxious to sell, perhaps must sell, and will take the best that he can get. Three Want Ad readers sized the situation up thus. One was a retired farmer, intrigued by the thought of a little side enterprise. Another was a blacksmith who believed he was situated to sell the material out. A third was an auctioneer.

The advertiser sold to the highest bidder of the three.

This general method is one to try after others have failed. You have something which is difficult to sell quickly. Attempts to find a buyer have failed. Then you use a Want Ad containing the request, "Make me an offer." You find buyers you did not suspect existed!

The fact that they are keen for a bargain will not seriously disturb you, since you face an emergency.

COBOURG AND DISTRICT

COBOURG, June 21.—St. John's Lodge A.M. & A.M. Cobourg with visiting Masonic brethren attended Divine Service at the Methodist church here on Sunday evening. Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B.A., B.D., pastor preached an able sermon taking for his subject the history and principles of Masonry. After the return to the lodge room a very cordial vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Wilson and to the officials of the church.

Orangemen at Coldsprings.

Loyal Orange Lodge No. 514, held their annual parade on Sunday evening to the Presbyterian church at Coldsprings, wheer they listened to an able sermon from Rev. F. J. Horwood, Mas. Bac. of Camborne. There was a large attendance. Mr. Horwood took for his subject what an orangeman should be, and his sermon was listened to with much interest.

On Quinte Committee.

Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B.A., B.D., chairman of the Cobourg Methodist District, and Rev C. C. Washington, B.A., Baltimore circuit, are the representativcs from Cobourg District on the Stationing Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference in session at Whitby this week. Both of these gentlemen expect to move from the district at end of present conference year, Mr. Wilson to Brighton and Mr. Washington to Courtice. They carry with them sincere good wishes from a very large circle of friends.

Returning to Cobourg.

Mr. Albert Odell, former Public School Inspector for Northumberland County, and a brother of Col. J. W. Odell, the present Inspector, in Inspectorate No. 2 is returning to Cobourg after spending the winter with his sisters at Redlands, California. Writing to friends in this locality he tells of meeting a number of former residents of the United Counties. One hundred and seventy-five miles north of Redlands he visited Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Honey, formerly of Orono. Mr. Honey was a member of Clarke township council for some years and assisted in a number of useful enterprises.

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McKeen also formerly of Durham county, are enjoying their work at Penticton, a spot noted for its abundance of fruit.

At Nelson another easterener, E. P. Doncaster, is Dominion Government engineer.

Alexander Gibbord, an honor graduate of Toronto University is chief librarian of the University of Moose Jaw. He received the rudiments of his education in the public school at Orono.

Journeying on homeward across the continent Mr. Odell was cordially entertained at the home of Mr. W. W. Southen, a former well-known Northumberland county teacher, whose birth place was at Lakeport. At the same place he met Col. W. J. Hamilton, formerly of Cobourg and Mrs. Hamilton and others.

Transferred to Millbrook.

Mr. R. A. Dook has been transferred from the Colborne branch of the Bank of Toronto to the position of accountant in the bank at Millbrook, his home town.

Moving to Toronto.

Mr. Alex Ednie, Colborne, is moving to Toronto and had a sale of his furniture and other effects at his residence, Colborne street in that village on Saturday last.

Lecture at Sharon.

An ice cream social was held in the church at Sharon, East Northumberland, last Friday. An enjoyable feature was the lecture given by Capt. Rev. W. G. Clarke, Trenton, on "Three years in the Great War."

Visited Colborne.

The Grand Superintendent of Ontario District No. 10, R.A.M. Rt. Ex. Camp I. A. Humphries of Campbellford paid an official visit to Excelsior Chapter, No. 45, Colborne, recently. Other brethren from the district were present and a very pleasan ttime was spent.

Death Former Percy Man.

Wm. Dainard, formerly of Percy township died recently at the home of his son, Case Dainard, Point Petre, at the age of 80 years. He moved with his wife and family some years ago to Prince Edward county, where his wife died at Milford ten years ago. Since that time he has made his home with his sons and daughters. He is survived by seven sons and five daughters. The interment took place at Cherry Valley.

A Good Suggestion.

A good suggestion comes from Napanee, where the council is offering prizes to residents of the municipality for the best design with suitable wording for signs to be erected at entrance to the town setting forth its attractive features.

Met With Injury.

Mr. John Durran of Percy township met with an injury one day last week, as he was endeavoring to close his barn doors which overhang a high stone wall. He was found lying unconscious it is stated with injuries to his head. His friends are pleased to know that he is recovering nicely.

Bringing in Coal.

The handling of hard coal through port of Belleville is stated to have developed into a industry of considerable importance at that port. The Schaster Company have brought in several large consignments by water, it is stated.

Meeting at Castleton.

A public meeting in the interests of Major J. F. Belford, Conservative candidate in East Northumberland has been arranged, to be held in Castleton tonight.

Flying Over Europe

By HENRY WOOD

GENEVA (By mail to United Press).—The extent to which commercial aviation is developing in Europe is indicated by the following complete list of lines now in operation, and which has just been submitted to the League of Nations.

The aerial lines operating in Europe at the middle of May were:

London—Paris, with extension soon to Basle.

London—Brusselles—Cologne.

Manchester—London—Rotterdam—Berlin.

Paris—Brusselles—Amsterdam.

Paris—Strasbourg—Prague—Warsaw.

Prague—Vienna—Budapest.

Bucarest—Constantinople.

Antibes—Ajaccio.

Toulouse—Barcelona—Alicante—Malaga—Rabat—Casablanca.

Hamburg—Copenhagen.

Berlin—Koenigsberg—Smplensk—Moscow.

Other lines for which negotiations are practically finished are:

Geneva—Zurich—Berlin.

Berlin—Prague.

Milan—Romp—Brindisi.

Ajaccio—Tunis

Besides regular pasenger and express service, the majority of these lines make regular postal connections.

The Milan-Rome-Brindisi line for example will connect up with northern Europe mail coming down by way of the Simplon and Gathard passes and will hook up at Brindisi with the steamer mails for the Orient.

Suffered From Pimples and Blotches For Fifteen Years

When the blood becomes impure it is only natural that pimples, blotches boils or some other blood trouble will manifest itself by breaking out of the system.

There is only one way to get rid of these obnoxious skin troubles and that is by giving the impure blood a thorough cleansing by the use of a good blood purifier, such as

Burdock Blood Bitters

This remarkable remedy has been on the market for over forty years; is the best obtainable, and will do all we claim for it as a blood cleanser.

Mr. Albert R. De Witte, Lake Valley, Sask., writes: "I have suffered very much from pimples and unsightly blotches for the past fifteen years, and was so bad that I hated to go out anywhere. I tried many different medicine, but none seemed to help. A friend told me to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I have used three and a half bottles, and now I have a clear, rosy complexion."

Wm. Barber of London, Declares Tanlac Is Without an Equal

William Barber, a well-known carpenter living at 237 Horton St., London, Ont., still another of the thousands who have found the Tanlac treatment a safe and sure road back to health, strength and working efficiency, says:

"Tanlac fixed me up in such fine shape a year ago that I haven't lost a day from work on account of sickness since. I gained nearly ten pounds in weight besides, and never felt better in my life than I do right now. I lost my appetite, got to where I often went all day without a bite of food, and lost a great deal of weight.

"Well, when I got Tanlac I hadn't been able to strike a lick of work for several days, was pale and thin, and my face was broken out with boils, but Tanlac put me on my feet in a little while and purified my blood so I haven't even a pimple on my face since I can't help taking about Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggist. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Germany to Reduce the Cost of Funerals.

BERLIN (By mail to United Press).—Flatter coffins, shallower graves, community funerals and smaller burying plots—these are some of the proposals of the Berlin council to reduce the cost of burial here.

The cost of getting oneself properly laid away has assumed such proportions in Germany that a man with an ordinary income simply can't afford a respectable funeral.

Prussians have always put a lot of stress on their final rites, utilizing coffins of extraordinary size and made of the heaviest and most expensive wood. They spend much money on pompous funeral services and pay out large sums to grave diggers to place the dead at a depth generally considered proper for decent burial.

But these things run into a lot of marks these days. Wherefore, the town council, after deliberating with the city undertakers, has decided upon the following innovations:

Caskets will be reduced in size from a yard in height to about a foot and a half and from hexagonal shape to the ordinary four-sided box shape familiar in America. Graves will be only 1.2 yards deep instead of two yards as heretofore. The plot will be smaller.

Instead of a lot of individual funerals which require a lot of sets of pallbearers and individual hearses, preachers and services the city will send around an enlarged automobile hearse upon which four or five caskets may be placed and deliver them at the burying grounds at one-fifth the previous cost. One set of pallbearers, one preacher and one service will be needed. Wood for coffins will be furnished from the state forests at reduced prices—the wood being pine.

How to Make Raspberry or Blackberry Jam

Crush well about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so that each berry is thoroughly mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) into large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in half bottle (scant ½ cup) Certo. From time jam is taken off fire, allow to stand not over 5 minutes, by the clock, before pouring. In the meantime, skim, and stir occasionally to cool slightly. Then pour quickly. If in open glasses, paraffin at once. If in jars, seal at once, and invert for 10 minutes to sterilize the tops.

THE EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE

Employers Are Not Parasites of Industry, and Vital Value of Management is Recognized.

Following is an abstract of the speech by Sydney W. Pascall of London, England, at the Rotary International Convention at St. Louis, Mo.:

The purpose of our discussion is how we are to translate our ideals into reality—to discover a new industry that will transform hot air into brass tacks!

What view shall we take of employers and employed?

He profits most who serves best, but if profit be the sole motive of your service, you are an unprofitable servant.

When virtue pays, to be virtuous is hardy a virtue. The virtue of a girl in the slums is greater than that of an earl's daughter.

The employer is not a parasite of industry, for today the vital value of management is more and more recognized. Frequently management spells the difference between success and failure. The profit of a business is a rough and ready test of efficiency.

Employers have a special responsibility in industry, because they claim the protection of the social order, first, to reap where they have sown; second, to elbow room in the management of their business; third, to freedom from undue state or labor interference; fourth, to the higher standard of living which their work more or less necessitates; and fifth, to industrial power.

What shall we say of the employed?

Proved His Worth.

The British workman of today is simply the soldier of five years ago—and he proved his worth.

He is like the rest of us. We feel of him as Kipling sang of the soldier:

We aren't no thin red' eroes,
Nor we aren't no blackguards too,
But single men in barracks,
Most remarkable like you;
An' if sometimes our konduct,
Isn't all your fancy paints,
Why, single men in barracks,
Don't grow into plaster saints.

The British workman returned from the war to find, in too many cases, no housese to live in and in almost as many cases no work to do. Employer were not directly reponsible, but after all, we hold the reins of industry and in the main belong to the governing class. It is not difficult to bring yourself to make a compromise with an opponent who is stronger than yourself. It is the line of least resistance to recognize the human claim of labor when the round table conference and the welfare method are the only ways to keep the wheels of industry turning. When labor was strong it was easy to be conciliatory. But when, as in England today, you can get you way quicker and more certainly by economic pressure, it is hard to take the difficult way to maintain your belief in cooperation in industry.

Co-operation Ideals.

Are we prepared to stand by the ideals of co-operation between capital and labor, to resist the subtle draw of the ebb, to row easily with the stream toward industrial reaction and disaster, and to take the more strenuous and worthy part—pulling against the stream towards understanding with labor, industrial harmony and a true fellowship between all classes in our nationa life?

If employers are to maintain their position in industry they must not be afraid to lead, remembering that we are all servants of our time and our fellowmen and that we must regard the injunction "If any man would be ruler among you, let him be servant to all."

The problem of unemployment and security of livelihood is crying aloud for settlement. Employers claim they take profit because they take the risk, but this can hardly be fully maintained until we have solved the unemployment problem.

We have also to settle for ourselves whether our ideal is to pay the highest wages our industry can stand or the lowest we can get on with. We shall aim at securing hours of work short enough for leisure to grow the sweeter fruits of character.

Co-operate With Labor.

Finally, we shall be prepared to co-operate with labor whenever we can, In our ideals philantropy must not take the place of justice, neither can justice assume the place of sympathy of comradeship. As employers and employed, we say with Bacon:

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession. That as he doth expect to receive countenance and profit therefrom so ought he to endeavor to be a help and ornament thereto."

Election News

TORONTO, June 21.—(Canadian Press.)—This afternoon is the time and the town of Ferguson the place, for what is expected to the "piece de resistance" of the oratorical campaigning for elections to the Legislature. Hon. Howard Ferguson, leader of the Conservative Opposition and Hon. W. E. Raney, Attorney General in the recent government, will then and there meet on the same platform to discuss issues of the present election, particularly in regard to enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act, under direction of the Attorney-General. Fergus is in the constituency of East Wellington, which Mr. Raney represented in the last Legislature, but the audience will be by no means confined to Attorney General's constituents. Large numbers of those particularly interested in the campaign travelled to Fergus by motor and train this morning from various cities of the province. Messrs. Ferguson and Raney are both lawyers. Their argument is expected to contribute to the profit of the parties as well as information to the general electorate.

THE BALDWIN CABINET NEEDS MORE GINGER

New Political Allignment in England Gives Lloyd George His Chance to Come Back.

By SIR CHARLES ROSS, Bart.
(By arrangement with "The Outlook," London.)

LONDON, June 21 (United Press).—The deplorably sudden breakdown of Mr. Bonar Law's health excited respectful and universal sympathy, even among opponents.

In some ways, undoubtedly, the Baldwin Government may be stronger than its predecessor. That is not to say much. The shadow of premature death was on the Bonar Law Administration from the hour of its birth.

The slogan of "tranquility" is not precisely the watchword of vigorous health; the strong man wants to do things, to assert himself, to leave his mark on the country. Unless the Baldwin Government proves more vigorous and more alert than its parent, it cannot hope to last its full term and put up a good fight against its Labor and Liberal opponents.

Top Heavy Lords

One weakness of the Bonar Law Government was that it had too much top-hamper in the House of Lords, and too little weight of metal in the Commons. Mr. Baldwin may probably think it unwise to reconstruct too much, for his colleagues, if not brilliant, are at least capable.

The reaction of the new administration on domestic politics will soon be visible. Conservatives will be more confident, simply because they have a leader who is physically in better trim than their late chief. Labor is left very much where it was—that is to say, putting its fingers to its nose and making unmannerly noises. It is the Liberals who will benefit most by the change; for the retirement of Mr. Bonar Law is the final break-up of the Coalition.

Resume Warfare

The Law-George partnership, although broken off two years ago, had left its marks on the present Parliament; men do not so easily forget their old associations and comradeship. But Mr. Baldwin owes nothing to Mr. Lloyd George, and most certainly Mr. George owes nothing to Mr. Baldwin; there is no reason in the world why party warfare should not be resumed.

That consideration itself should help forward Liberal reunion—if only the Siamese twins on the Liberal side would stop their wrangling. The first results of Liberal reunion would probably be that a few National Liberals would discover that they were Conservative at heart, and join the Baldwin banner. That would not really matter; for the world discovered it long ago.

Liberal prospects are brightening; they cannot hope for office in the immediate future, but if they will drop their absurd personal vendetta, they may at least expect to become the alternative Government when the time comes, soon or late, for Mr. Baldwin to revisit Worcestershire as a private citizen, read his books, and grow pigs.

Liberalism is now the true "Centre Party," and in due course will have to deliver the country from reactionary and stupid "Hard Faces," as well as from the chattering Banderlog of the Clyde.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid somach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretions or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia, at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin or artificial digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

King Tut-ankh-amen and Canadian Roofs

At first glance, the roofs that cover thousands of houses in the Dominion seem about as closely related to an ancient Pharaoh of Egypt as the proverbial "cabbages and kings." But let us suppose, for the moment, that the ghost of old Tut-ankh-amen, after having been so rudely routed out of the tomb where he had been snoozing the centuries away, decided to put as many miles as possible between himself and the shovels of the invaders. The homeless monarch surveyed the whole world and quite naturally came to the conclusion that Canada offered the best opportunities for an ambitious and enterprising ghost to make a new start in life. The result was that the aged ruler stowed himself away in the hold of an emigrant ship and boldly set sail for the Dominion.

When he finally arrived, the Canadian ghosts did their best to show their distinguished visitor a good time. They took the old Pharaoh on an exhausting round of sightseeing trips. The steady stream of new experiences and sensations kept him in a constant state of amazement. Electric lights, automobiles and radio bewildered him considerably, while, on the other hand, the modern skyscrappers were merely "old stuff"—he has seen the pyramids. The styles, also that the women were wearing on the streets, reminded him of home, and he was deeply gratified to learn that this Egyptian revival was due to his own discovery. But there was one continual source of annoyance to King Tut-ankh-amen—that was the supercilious attitude of the modern ghosts towards him. While they treated him with the respect due to royalty, these up-to-date spirits seemed to consider him some sort of crude, ignorant and uncivilized barbarian. He was, therefore, always on the watch for a chance to demonstrate that his own times were not half so primitive as they imagined. At last his opportunity came.

The antediluvian monarch was being conducted through the new residential district of one of our largest cities. His escort was the ghost of a prominent building contractor. Naturally, King Tut, being an observing old fellow, did not fail to notice the attractive, colorful roofs of mineral-faced, shingles that were the distinguishing feature of so many of the houses.

"Look at those roofs," bragged his guide proudly, "I built a lot of them myself when I was alive. They're typical of the way we moderns are constantly improving things until we get them as near perfection as it's possible to get. Those shingles there have all the fire-proof and weather-resisting qualities of slate or tile and in my opinion they're much mort beautiful in appearance. They last forever and yet they're so inexpensive that even the most moderate-priced home can afford them. You see the manufacturers make three shingles on a strip to cut down the expense of laying. And when you want to re-roof an old house, you can lay these strip shingles right over the old wooden shingles."

"Are they absolutely waterproof?" queried Tut-ankh-amen.

"I should say so," shouted the ex-contractor. "The mineral surface is welded onto a foundation of heavy felt. And this felt is saturated with the finest waterproofing material in the world—asphalt. You probably never heard of that in your day, and if you had you wouldn't have known how to use it. Another name for it is pitch."

"By the sacred cow of Isis,' snorted Tut-ankh-amen angrily. "You have the impudence to tell me this to my face. Don't you realize that we Egyptians were the greatest builders of history. You build to last fifty years, we built to endure fifty centuries. Of course we knew the value of pitch or asphalt or whatever you call it. Wasn't my own mummy wrapped in cloth and then coated with asphalt? Wasn't my own tomb made waterproof by means of asphalt? Why, all the crevices in the pyramids were sealed against the centuries by asphalt! And then you have the presumption to inform me that I never heard of this priceless waterproofing material. By Isis and Osiris, it's too much!"

And it was some moments before the worthy ghost was able to calm himself.

Fanciful as this dialogue may seem, the facts behind it are, nevertheless, literally true. Asphalt, that deadly enemy of dampness and decay, which has preserved the tomb of lordly Tut-ankh-amen from all the rainfall of thousands of years, is today, thanks to the inventive genius of a great firm of roofing manufacturers, helping to provide roofs, which are permanent, waterproof and beautiful, for thousands of Canadian homes.

The Court of Last Appeal

YOU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

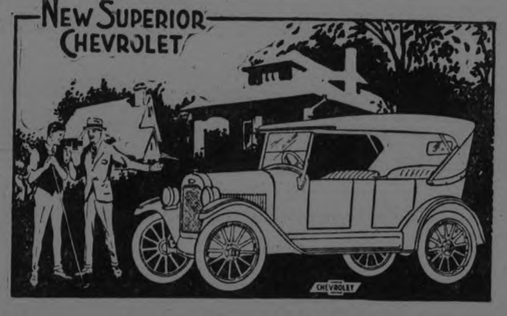
The manufacturer who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparision. He directs to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not so sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his buisness career. It would be biusness suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertisihg that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Base your judgement on advertisements.



Chevrolet—the World's Most Economical Car to Operate

CHEVROLET is not only the world's lowest-priced, fully-equipped automobile, but it also costs less to operate than any other car built. It delivers the most economical transportation available in motoring.

In actual figures Chevrolet costs less per mile in consumption of gasoline, oil, tires, and in general upkeep and maintenance.

Only great engineering, research, manufacturing and financing capacities made available by the greatest automotive enterprise in the world—the General Motors Corporation—could make possible so fine, complete and advanced an automobile as Chevrolet at so low a price.

See the New Chevrolet before you buy a car at any price. 67 distinct improvements have made it even better than the car that startled the world in 1922.

CROP REPORTS

The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat is heading in several districts, but the straw is said to be lacking in length. In some of the leading fall wheat counties the crop is more or less uneven, although in other sections some promising fields are reported. Huron reports some injury from the Hessian fly.

Spring grains look well where not affected by the wire-worm which has appeared to several counties.

Huron states that the cut-worm has been doing some damage to the bean crop.

Fruit prospects are on the whole favorable. Early apples and Japanese plums are somewhat lighter in yield than usual, but the general set of orchard trees has been good. Strawberries are about ten days later than usual, but are promising generous yields. The early varieties will be moving nicely this week. Raspberries are likely to be shortened in yield by winter topping.

Kent: The peach leaf curl is very bad this year, and where thorough preventive measures have not been taken in the form of spraying, there will be considerable loss in the peach crop. Early tomatoes are out in blossom in the Blenheim district. The first strawberries have been picked during the past week.
